

There will be a social dance at J. N. Wozner's Friday evening Dec. 12th. The managers extend a cordial invitation to all and assure them of a good time. The celebrated Modoo band will furnish the music and jolly Jim Miller will run the floor.

A cruel and heartless outrage was committed on one of our citizens last week which came very near resulting fatally, but by tender nursing and medical skill he may yet be saved from an untimely grave. The particulars, as near as we can procure them are as follows. Some time ago lottery tickets were sent to Wadena to be sold. The tickets were represented as drawing anything from the Paddy House in Wisconsin valued at $125,000 down to small money prizes of $1 and upwards. These tickets were placed on sale at the Hotel de Wadena, and the citizen referred to was induced to purchase one. On the evening preceding the occurrence which we are here to describe, in conversation with some friends he told the number of his ticket. The day following the awful fellows announced among themselves that a telegram had come to Verndale declaring, such a number as the drawer of the hotel taking care to do so in the presence of said citizen. He, feeling sure that this was his number drew out his ticket and proclaimed himself as the fortunate possessor of the lucky number. Visions of untold wealth floated dreamily before him. He was offered a check of $500 for his ticket but indignantly refused. A gold watch was offered but in vain; he would take $10,000 and no less. He would no longer brook familiarity but demand the respectable epithet of "Mr." The night came but with it no sleep to the man with the lottery ticket. His heart throbbed against his breast like a bass drum run by steam; he tossed back and forth on his bed like a candidate for office the day before election. Morning broke at last and the rich man dressed in a flurry of excitement. Breakfast over he bought a 10 cent cigar and began to realize the pleasure of being rich. He was busy making plans for the future. He had enough now to buy a seat in congress. He would go to Washington for the winter, and then to Saratoga for the summer. No more would he wield the hammer and saw. But alas for human credulity. The telegram was a hoax and he had squandered 10 cents on the strength of it. From poor he became rich and from rich he became poorer than ever; woe was his. At last accounts the outlaws were at large.

Thirty-five pounds flour for a bushel of No. 1 wheat, and every pound of flour warranted satisfactory, is what we propose to give at the Wadena Mill. All wheat inspected at the mill. We will also give 4 pounds of shorts and 8 pounds of bran. We mean to do satisfactory business both to our customers and ourselves.
