F. A. Greer Drowned

While Bathing in the Mississippi River Below the B. & N. Railroad Bridge.

Last Friday, just after the noon hour, the report flew over town that a man had gone to the bottom of the river at the railroad bridge. Before many had arrived on the scene to offer their assistance, Ed. Kelly had succeeded in taking the body of Frank A. Greer from the water.

Greer had waded into the water and had started to swim to the pier of the bridge, a distance of less than 75 feet, but before he reached it he was possibly taken with cramps and immediately went to the bottom. Ed. Kelly was near by and at once went to the rescue. Within two minutes, as Kelly claims, he landed the body on the shore, and with the assistance of others tried to resuscitate the man, but their efforts were unsuccessful. Within a very few minutes Dr. Morrison arrived, and after an examination pronounced life extinct.

The supposition is that Greer, being very warm from a hard forenoon's labor, concluded to enter the water for the purpose of cooling off before the noonday meal. He was evidently taken with cramps, as he was known to be an expert swimmer.

He left a wife and two children in very straitened circumstances.

The remains were interred in Greenwood cemetery Saturday afternoon.

The family has the sympathy of the entire community.

Japan's Creator.

Count Ito Hirodumi has been called the creator of modern Japan. Forty years ago Japan had the same systems, customs and laws that had been handed down for thousands of years. Today it has the best quarantine service in the world, one of the best modern armies, a system of schools nearly as good as our own, and shows correspondingly great improvements in other departments. For these achievements Japan is indebted to Ito more than to all other men combined. Ito, like Diaz and Cecil Rhodes, is a man who has risen through his own nerve. He has absolute confidence in himself and fears no obstacles. Such confidence and nerve come with good health. Good health comes after drinking "Golden Grain Belt" beer, for it is brewed from the purest barley malt and hops. It is an ideal family drink. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Fred. S.
