THE NUMBER SEVEN IN HISTORY.

Has Had Deep Significance in Ancient and Modern Times.

It was frequently used as a mystical or symbolical number in the Bible, as well as among the principal nations of antiquity.

There were seven days in a week, and the seventh was kept sacred.

There were seven deadly sins—pride, covetousness, lust, anger, gluttony, envy and sloth.

There were seven virtues—faith, hope, charity, prudence, temperance, chastity and fortitude.

There were seven champions of Christendom—St. George for England, St. Andrew for Scotland, St. Patrick for Ireland, St. David for Wales, St. Denis for France, St. James for Spain, St. Anthony for Italy.

There were seven wise men of Greece.

There were seven ages of man.

Rome was built on seven hills.

There were seven ancient wanderers, and the seven sleepers were heroes of a celebrated legend.

HE USED A TACK.

How Undertaker Made Sure the Wig Would Stick.

As the story goes, an Irish undertaker was laying out the deceased husband of a weeping Hibernian widow. The corpse wore a wig, and it was very difficult to induce it to stay on straight, as wigs ought always to do, even if they don't. The bereaved widow was called in to assist. "Go an' git me a pot of glue, Mrs. McGovern," said the undertaker, "so that I may keep his wig where it belongs."

Mrs. McGovern set out after the sticking material, and after a time she returned. "Here is the glue for ye," she said with a sigh.

"Mrs. McGovern, you kin take back the mullage," said the undertaker; "the difficulty is fixed. I used a tack." —Buffalo Times.

New Idea in Physiology.

It is possible that the school child may be quite as readily fatigued by inspiring the waste products of his fellows as by his own, and that the business man is more liable than the agricultural laborer to become run down, not so much because he works harder or more monotonously and therefore personally manufactures more waste products, but because his tissues are more liable to become saturated with the waste products of himself and others derived from the confined atmosphere in which he works. Excessive fatigue from a railway journey is likely to be noticed if the cars are crowded or ill ventilated.

FRAUDS IN POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT MAKE WORK FOR THE COURTS.

GRAND JURY INDICTS SIX MEN

NAMES ARE WITHHELD UNTIL PARTIES INDICTED ARE ARRESTED.

BEAVERS GIVES HIMSELF UP

STERN, THE MISSING BALTIMORE CONTRACTOR, LOCATED IN CANADA.

Washington, Sept. 10.—After deliberating for several weeks over a mass of documents submitted by the post-office inspectors the federal grand jury in this city yesterday returned seven indictments in postal cases, involving six different persons.

All the postal indictments were kept off the public records and both the officials of the district attorney's office and of the postoffice department refused to discuss names and details of the indictments until the parties indicted are arrested. The indicted individuals' identity thus was left a matter of conjecture. It is expected arrests will occur to-day, and that the postoffice department will have some

Announcement to Make

during the forenoon. The grand jury's action probably marks the beginning of the end of the investigations that have been in progress since the middle of last March. Voluminous evidence has been laid before the grand jury as the result of the inquiry, and while the present report of the jury disposes of most of the cases, there yet remains several cases to be passed upon. When the latter are disposed of, according to postmaster General Payne, the investigation, so far as the work at Washington is concerned, will be at an end. Several of the persons indicted yesterday live outside of Washington. They will be arrested as soon as bench warrants can be served.

Postmaster General Payne and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow received word of the shortly after that body reported, and subsequently they had a long conference on the subject. Both officials refused to divulge details pending official notification of arrests. Two other important events occurred yesterday in the postoffice inquiry.

Leopold Stern, a Baltimore contractor who disappeared from Baltimore before he could be arrested on an indictment returned July 31 last, was located at Toronto, and the long delayed surrender of George W. Beavers, the former head of the salary and allowance division to the New York authorities took place.

PREFERS DROWNING.

Man Lost in the Swamps Plans Suicide to Escape Mosquitoes.

New York, Sept. 10.—A man was seen floundering about in the swamps at the foot of the Palisades in Hoken early yesterday morning by Patrolman Young, who got him out and took him to police headquarters. There the man said he was John McGraw, a truck driver out of employment. McGraw said he had wandered into the swamps while in the dark, and had been trying for more than two hours to get out. He was attacked by a swarm of mosquitoes, he said, and was so tortured by them that he was on the point of attempting to drown himself when Young came along and rescued him. McGraw's face was swollen from the bites. After he told his story he began to talk wildly and said that in addition to the mosquitoes he had been attacked by swamp rats. He pointed to holes in his shoes which he said the rats had made. McGraw was removed in an ambulance to St. Mary's hospital. It was said there that he was demented and that the story he told about his suffering in the swamps was probably exaggerated.

ARMY OFFICER DISMISSED.

Guilty of Insulting Wife of Fellow Officer.

New York, Sept. 10.—Accused of having been guilty of conduct "unbecoming an officer and a gentleman," in having insulted the wife of a fellow officer, Lieut. Hamilton, son of Dr. Hamilton of this city, has been tried by court-martial in the Philippines, found guilty and sentenced to dishonorable dismissal from the service. The verdict may be reversed by the judge advocate general at Washington, to whom the papers have been forwarded.

Worked for Daniel Webster.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 10.—Henry C. Delano of Marshfield, Mass., died of paresis here yesterday while he was visiting his granddaughter, Mrs. M. W. Keeley. For thirty years he was employed by Daniel Webster and was the last to look on the great statesman's face, closing the lid of the coffin.
