The Fidelity Mutual Life Association,

of Philadelphia, Pa., L. G. Fouse, Pres., is a purely mutual, flexible premium, expense limited company, working under the "FOUSE SYSTEM" of life insurance, affording absolute security at the least possible cost, and without the possibility of failure.

Not an old life company nor an assessment company, in the usual sense of the term. It embraces the strong points of both, without either of their weaknesses. It avoids the dangerous legal reserve technical liability and does not only save 50 per cent of the premium, but also makes larger provisions for death losses than any old life company. No unnecessary accumulations; no uncertain premiums. The leading flexible premium insurance company in the world, safely and economically managed, with actual resources equal to any demands, and contingent resources to meet any unforeseen emergency.

A record of seventeen years' magnificent business, open to the world; a ratio of assets to liabilities showing the greatest margin of safety in any life insurance company, with one of the greatest actuarial fees in America at its head. Pays policies in ten, fifteen and twenty annual installments at a reduced premium; and insures insurance. For a definite statement of cost and advantages, send address and age to Vulcan Steam Shovel.

Having recently made many very important improvements in our "Giant Excavator" we claim decided advantages over all others. The improvements consist in:

First—A pair of duplex reversible engines on the crane to force and hold the digger into the bank. Second—An all-steel crane of a design very lately patented. Third—A car and hoist frame of greatly increased strength. Fourth—A pair of independent duplex engines for swinging the crane. Fifth—Greatly increased power of friction hoisting gear. Sixth—An improved water for mud boiler. Seventh—A new device for propelling the car, very lately patented. Eighth—An expansion joint connecting the boiler, and thereby allowing the steam hose, which was always giving out and a constant source of annoyance and expense. This expansion joint has been lately patented. Ninth—A steel dipper arm with steel tracking, dippers and shaft. Tenth—Steel jacks with ratchet attached and device for carrying the blocking when moving up, all of which improvements have been carefully studied out and thoroughly tested. The entire machinery being mounted upon an outfit which can be moved by any team. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MURDER OR SUICIDE.

Issac Lewis, a Finn employed at the Vega, started for Virginia at about four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, having with him two or three dollars and a revolver. A six o'clock he arrived in Eveleth, with a bullet which had entered under his jaw, lodged in his temple. He claims to have been robbed, but does not remember of being attacked, although he avers that two men followed him on the D. & I. R. track. One chamber of his revolver was empty and blood was found on the weapon. From the fact of the bullet entering where it did coupled with the marked case of contemplated suicide. He may recover, although very doubtful.
