LIBRARY SITE SELECTED.

Board Decides on Site at West End of Chestnut street, Monday Evening.

At the meeting of the Virginia Public Library Board on Monday evening that body formally decided by ballot upon the site for the new Carnegie Library, the selection as made being at the west end of Chestnut street, the idea being to vacate a small portion of the Boulvard, purchasing two lots in block 21 for road purposes, that the building may be erected facing the center of Chestnut street.

It is understood that more or less opposition to the selection as made is in evidence, and the statement is made that the vacation of the portion of the street necessary to the fulfillment of the present plan may be held up, thus either delaying the plans or rendering the selection of another site imperative.

A Promised Treat.

The Rev. H. E. Neff, new pastor of the Cleveland Avenue Presbyterian Church, who was a delegate to the fourth World's Sunday School Convention a year ago on their trip through the Holy Land, will deliver a course of lectures at the Church on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, March 22 and 23, and on Wednesday and Thursday evenings March 29 and 30, on his trip. Rev.
 Neff's addresses will be in connection with beautiful stereopticon views taken by himself in his travels, and is highly spoken of by the press of Indiana and Ohio, where he has previously delivered his lectures.

In speaking of these lectures the Middleton, Ohio, Journal of October 10th, 1904, says: "Rev. Henry E.
 Neff, of Winona Lake, Ind., a graduate of Miami University and who attended the late World's Sunday School Convention at Jerusalem last March, gave three of his famous lectures here last week at the Presbyterian Churches to large and delighted audiences. The beautiful stereopticon views gathered by Prof. Neff in Rome, Egypt, Jerusalem, Constantinople and other interesting scenes were the best ever seen in the city, while the lectures that accompanied them by the learned and eloquent gentleman were gems in oratory. The closing performance, "The Holy City," will never be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to see it."

Vail Hotel Burned, One Life Lost.

The Vail Hotel at Ely was totally destroyed by fire on Tuesday, George Byrnes, porter, losing his life in the flames. The fire caught at about 5:30 a. m., supposedly from a defective heating plant, and spread so rapidly that many guests in the house barely escaped with their lives, a number of them being caught on the upper floor of the four story building where they were rescued through the efforts of the firemen.

Byrnes, who lost his life in the flames, was in the basement of the building at the time, getting trapped before being able to get out.

The hotel was owned by P. R. Vail, who was absent in the south at the time, but was run under lease by John Glode. It was a popular house, and had a full quota of guests for its hundred rooms at the time of the fire.
