LITTLE GIRL CALLED HOME.

The Angel of Death Claims Ruby Eleonora Ostrom.

Ruby Eleonora Ostrom, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ostrom, in this city, died at 7:30 o'clock on Saturday evening, February 22nd, of spinal meningitis, aged 6 years, 11 months and 3 days.

Ruby was a very bright and promising little girl, who by her pleasant and winsome ways had nestled herself deep in the hearts of her parents and her three brothers, and also greatly endeared herself to her playmates, schoolmates and friends. She stood high in her studies at school and held the place of honor in her room. That such a lovely and promising child thus early in the morning of life should be removed from her happy home where she was the center of love and affection, is one of those inscrutable decrees of Providence that we cannot fully understand. But one thing is certain that through her life on earth was brief, it has not been in vain, and in the eyes of God she may have accomplished more than many who live their four score years and ten. The sweetness, gentleness and purity of her life cannot fail to have an influence for good upon the lives of all with whom she came in contact, and to the sorrowing parents and brothers, she becomes a link that binds them to heaven.

The funeral was held at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon from the Swedish Lutheran church, the first funeral held in the new edifice, and was conducted by Rev. A. Mattson. As if to join in the general sorrow nature herself shed copious tears this afternoon. It is indeed very unusual with us to have rain at this time of the year. The beautiful casket profusely bedecked with flowers was carried from the home to the church by four little girls dressed in white, their names being Emma Olson, Hilma Johnson, Martha Mortenson and Anna Wickstrom, and six little girls, also dressed in white, carried flowers, their names being: Frances Lindberg, Ebba Lundgren, Ida Johnson, Edith Mattson, Ella Lundgren and Lilly Mattson. At the church, which was appropriately decorated with flowers and twigs of evergreen, was held a short and impressive service of song and a funeral discourse by Rev. Mattson. In concluding the service Rev. Mattson read an original poem in Swedish dedicated to the memory of little Ruby, and the tender lines will also serve as words of comfort to the sorrowing family. It is as follows:

VID RUBY OSTROMS BÅR.

Nu får med fröjd jag fara
Till himlens bröllopsal,
Och lemna jordens strider,
Dess tårar, synd och kval.
Vi möttes ofta, kära,
Och skildes åt också,
Än få en gång vi mötas:
Godnatt, godnatt tills då!

Jag led rätt ofta sjukdom
På törnmågårdad stig;
Nu är det slut, nu kallar
Mig Jesus hem till sig.
O föräldrar, syskon dyra,
Hvarför gråta så?
Vi mötas ju i himlen;
Godnatt, godnatt tills då!

Jag går att helt förenas
Med Jesus och med dem,
Som före mig gått stigen
Till fadrens ljusa hem.
Re'n änglar stå i väntan
Att hem mig bära få;
O kära, kommen efter!
Godnatt, godnatt tills då!

Jag hörer någon ropa,
Det är min Frälsare.
Ja, Jesus, jag vill komma
Din härlighet att se.—
Blott några korta stunder,
Blott några år, också,
Är hela släkten samlad;
Godnatt, godnatt tills då!

A large funeral procession followed the mortal remains to Greenwood cemetery, where they were placed in a little flower-entwined grave, but the spirit, the immortal spirit, had taken wings—beyond the shadowy river to the realms of eternal light.

THOSE ELECTRIC LIGHTS, ETC.

More Arguments in Favor of City Improvements.

We learn that some well meaning citizens are opposing to bond the city for electric lights and water works on the ground that it would fasten the license system upon the city permanently. In this we are convinced that they are mistaken. The questions of electric lights and license are entirely separate, and should not be confounded. Whatever the future policy of this city relative to the liquor traffic may be, we nevertheless ought to have electric lights. And we are one among those who believe that we can better afford to have them without the saloons than with the saloons. Saloons and darkness are more closely linked together. We do not believe it is wise, therefore, that any friend of temperance should oppose a movement calculated to give the city better light and good water. Nor do we believe that any citizen should oppose this proposition on account of cost. As the SHEAF pointed out last week, no one's taxes will be materially increased thereby. Those who use the light and water will have to pay for the privilege, which will be furnished at cost with a small addition for a sinking fund to pay for the plant. In this way also we can escape the monopoly of the Standard Oil Company, the quality of whose oil, furnished Warren consumers the past winter, has been very unsatisfactory, and we have all wished to get something better. But whatever our views upon this or that question may be, it is very necessary in a project of this sort, that we sink all differences and all pull together for the good of the town—and for the good of ourselves.

Powell, Wood & Co.

A new firm bearing the name of Powell, Wood & Co., has started in business in our city, superseding the old and well known firm of W. F. Powell & Co., with which we have been familiar for years. The guiding genius in the new firm, as he was in the old, will be Mr. W. F. Powell, whose business ability and experience is recognized everywhere throughout the valley. Incorporated with the business of the new firm will be the real estate, insurance, loan and collection business of the firm of Flanders & Wood, the individual members of said firm, Mr. H. L. Wood and Mr. F. W. Flanders, becoming interested in the new firm. H. L. Wood has been with Mr. Powell during the past ten years, and knows all the ins and outs in the farm machinery business to perfection. He is a business man of push and energy, and the fact that he has been taken into the firm as a partner, is a recognition of the value of his services in the past—a well deserved promotion. Mr. Flanders will handle the firm's real estate, loan and insurance business at the First National bank, and he is a gentleman whose business ability and integrity is well known in the entire northern part of the state. The new capital and new energy added will make the new firm of Powell, Wood & Co. a powerful concern, that will be strong enough to handle a large and continually increasing business.

Helen Keller's Own Story of Her Life.

Helen Keller, the remarkable deaf, dumb and blind girl, who has not only learned to talk, but enjoys every privilege of those who hear and see, has just finished writing with her own hands the story of her remarkable life for The Ladies' Home Journal. In this she describes her first awakening to the realization of life and the world, and all that both contain; her first impressions and feelings and emotions, and the first rays of understanding that came to her. From that point she tells of the unfolding of her mental and physical powers, how she learned to think and act, how she received instruction, and finally become capable of acquiring an education which place her among the best educated women of her age in the world today. It is a wonderful story, wonderfully told. It will begin in the April number of the Journal.

Mrs. Seign is Dead.

Mrs. Mary Seign, the beloved wife of Mr. Frank Seign, died at her home in this city on Sunday morning after an illness of not quite two weeks, aged 31 years, 8 months and 28 days.

Deceased, whose maiden name was Mary Keppler, was born at Kings Coulee, Wabasha county, Minnesota, May 25, 1870. She was married to her husband at Ada, Minn., on Dec. 13, 1887. Four children are by her untimely death bereft of a mother's tender and affectionate care, their names being Walter, Ida, Nellie and Hazel. A large number of other relatives and friends also deeply mourn her departure, among them being the aged father of deceased, Mr. Fred Keppler of Ada, and several brothers and sisters, of which some were here to comfort her during her last sickness and others came to attend her funeral. Mrs. Seign was a good, kind and affectionate wife and mother, industrious and energetic almost beyond her strength. All who were acquainted with her could not help honor and respect her for her gentle, amiable and womanly character. Her loss to the home, now bereft of her love and guidance, is irreparable.

The funeral was held at one o'clock p. m. on Tuesday from the M. E. church and was largely attended. The handsome casket was richly adorned with beautiful flowers. An impressive funeral discourse was preached by Rev. A. H. McKee. Among the relatives and friends present at the funeral from out of the city were: Fred Keppler, of Ada, Minn., father of deceased; F. E. Keppler, Frank Keppler, Miss Rose Keppler, Charles Gatke, Mr. and Mrs. C. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lamb, all of Ada, Minn.; Mrs. Mary Ann Seign, mother of Mr. Seign, and Mrs. Anna Tritchler, of Fargo, N. D.; Dr. Henry Seign, of Stephen, Minn.; Mrs. Mary Zillgitt, of Fairmont, Minn.; and Mrs. Amanda Seign, of West Superior, Wis.

How Longfellow Pronounced "Hiawatha."

"Such a confusing variance in the pronunciation of 'Hiawatha' exists both in dictionaries and in the speech of educated men and women," writes Elizabeth A. Withey, in the March Ladies' Home Journal, "that I have asked Miss Longfellow how the word is pronounced by the poet's family. She says the pronunciation which she always heard from the poet himself, is Hi'-a-wa'-tha, the 'i' pronounced as it is in 'machine' or 'pique,' the second 'a' pronounced as it is in 'far' or in father."

He Must Confess.

Dear sir:—I used the White Wine of Tar Syrup you sent me, and must confess I derived more benefit to my lungs from it than from any remedy I have ever tried, and cheerfully recommended it to everyone having any kind of lungs trouble.

Truly yours,

The Slayton Jubilee Singers.

The Slayton Jubilee Singers appeared at the Columbia Theatre last night and fairly took the large audience by storm. The audience was composed of Frankfort's representative people and one that disposed to be coldly critical, yet the applause was at times hearty and at times amounted to almost ovations. We wish we had sufficient space to comment on each number of the program, for each was so artistically rendered, as to fully explain why the Slayton Jubilee Singers are so warmly praised by the metropolitan press.—Frankfort (Ind.) Times. At the Warren opera house March 3d.

Slayton's Jubilee company entertained in a royal manner. Every member of this company is a musician and like almost all members of their race are chock-full melody. If the remaining five numbers on the lists of entertainments to be given by the Men's League give as good satisfaction as did the entertainment Monday night, the League can rest assured that nobody will criticize them.—Sterling, (Ill.) Daily Standard. At the Warren opera house March 3d.

Card of Thanks.

On behalf of myself and children, I wish to thank very heartily all friends for their kindly assistance during the sickness and at funeral of my dear wife.
