The city council is considering the matter of building a new city hall and jail. The old city hall is in a very dilapidated condition, one of the walls being almost ready to tumble, and must be repaired. As the county has refused absolutely to let the city use the county jail as a lockup, it is necessary for the city to provide a place where prisoners may be kept. Combining the city hall and jail in one building is believed to be the most economical plan to pursue.
