Poor Old "Pa-pah"

Dear old Dad. You all know him. His heart is big and tender, or he wouldn't work his head off as he does to support his loved ones. And then the children must be educated so they will not have to slave as he has slaved. Dear, deluded old dad. His earnings ALL gone, week in and week out, year in and year out, a stoop to his shoulders, a shuffle to his step, a dimness of the eye—yet he toils. We hope he is appreciated at his true worth.

He made money but there was so little left after the bills were paid that it wasn't enough to pay for saving. You are 20 years old, my son. Do you realize that if dad had quietly dropped a dollar in the bank every Saturday night since you were born—only a single dollar—with no interest added, that he would now have $1,040.00? Add 4 per cent. interest to that for 20 years. Then sit up and take notice. Compound the interest and then sit up some more.
