GOPHER NEWS NOTES.

Minnesota Events of the Week in Condensed Form.

Lakefield.—The Globe flour mills, that were recently destroyed by fire are to be rebuilt at once.

Hibbing.—Mrs. Rose Apich, held on suspicion of causing the death of her husband at Chisholm by poison, was bound over.

Royalton.—The Farmers' and Merchants' State bank officers are: President, A. R. Davidson; vice president, J. K. Martin, and cashier, A. A. Fitch.

Paynesville.—Paynesville presents a decidedly busy appearance. In addition to the $40,000 school building five residences are in process of erection.

Grass Valley, California.—H. R. Titus, a prominent lumberman of Duluth, died at Downsville, following an attack of pneumonia. He had been ill but two days.

Fairmont.—There is a very good prospect that Fairmont will have a first-class hospital in operation before long under the management of the Catholic Sisters.

Albert.—A fine parochial school house, costing in the neighborhood of $30,000, is just being completed here. It is a thoroughly modern building and has four large rooms.

Hastings.—Charles McDermott, grandson of A. F. Hotinger, who lost his life of asphyxiation, also died, being overcome by gas fumes of a coal stove. He was 18 years old.

Midway.—While thawing out dynamite here today for the purpose of blowing up stumps, a homesteader and his hired man were instantly killed, being blown almost to pieces by the explosive.

Pipestone.—The business men of Pipestone have petitioned the railway and warehouse commission to compel the Milwaukee road to continue its present night passenger train through Pipestone.

Minneapolis.—Charles A. Bovey, one of the wealthiest and best known lumbermen in the United States, died here aged 79. Bovey was born at Bath, Me., and came to Minneapolis fifty years ago.

Duluth.—Ore shipments for October from the head of the lakes show a decrease for the period of 157,397 tons over October, 1910. The season to date is 6,958,666 tons behind last year's figures.

Hibbing.—Mrs. Rose Apich, held on suspicion of causing the death of her husband at Chisholm by poison, waived examination in district court before Judge Hughes and was bound over to the grand jury. She was taken to Duluth.

St. Paul.—Sixty wild ducks, mostly teal and blue bills, have reached the office of the state game and fish commission in the capitol, creating excitement among the officials. They were seized by a game warden from a hunter at Forest Lake. He had more than the law allows and his whole bag was confiscated.

Luverne.—The annual corn contest was held here Saturday with Professor C. P. Bull, of the state agricultural school, acting as judge. There were many entries for the prizes and much enthusiasm. Nine prizes were awarded for the best corn raised in Rock county. Ray Hinds received first prize. W. J. Johnson second and J. H. Wulf third.

Pipestone.—Vernie Voss, age 10, was wrestling with a companion on a farm near here and was accidentally thrown under the wheels of a threshing machine just as it started to move to a new location. The wheels of the four-ton machine passed over his body near the waist. He was picked up for dead but an examination showed he had not been seriously injured and he soon joined his companions in play.

Duluth.—The vessel rate for grain shipments experienced another slump. Tonnage was offered at one cent, a cut of one-quarter cent of the rate which prevailed last week. One vessel was chartered today at the one cent rate. Practically all the grain moved in the last week went from the Canadian head of the lakes and is for export. Lumber carriers are in demand and coal shipments are heavy. It is the opinion that the coal shipments for the season will surpass last season's figures by several thousand tons.

LOWRY BUSINESS HOUSES BURN

Four Stores and Residence Destroyed—Loss Estimated at $35,000.

Lowry, Minnesota.—Four business houses and one residence were destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at about $35,000. The fire originated in the Lowry Mercantile company's store and spread to the buildings occupied by the John Hagstrom Implement company, Lowry Drug company and Smith & Celander Harness company. A residence in the rear of the drug store also was destroyed.

GOVERNOR ASKS STATE TO PAY

Mr. Eberhart Files Expense Account for His County Fair Visits.

Governor Eberhart's recent visits to a number of county fairs in Minnesota cost the state $164. This does not include mileage. In a bill filed by the governor with the state auditor he notes the claim as expenses incidental to attending a number of county fairs, where he discussed problems of agriculture and school consolidation.

Producers and Consumers Getting Together.

The whole country is interested in some recent movements in Eastern Pennsylvania and New York; by which, it is claimed, ten thousand heads of families in New York, five hundred retail dealers in fifty lines, and the farmers organized in the Pennsylvania State Grange, are brot into such relations as to insure better prices to the farmers for their produce, lower rates to the consuming families; and the select body of retailers, in consideration of their selling to consumers at a great reduction, are allowed a better percentage of profit than heretofore on the business handled.

Such co-operation as this is what thousands of farmers in every state have longed for, and what many a burdened city householder has dreamed of as affording relief from the oppressions of a false system of distribution, which has compelled consumers to support an army of middlemen, and to pay unreasonable tribute to transportation companies and to warehouse men. It has been urged by writers on Political Economy,—from Adam Smith and John Stuart Mill, down to those of the present day—as the only method of securing to the producer his just reward; to the consumer, a scale of prices based on cost of production, rather than on the needs of the middlemen. But it has, apparently, taken the extreme pressure of the "cost of living" in cities this year, to awaken city dwellers to the necessity of co-operating directly with the farmers, if anything satisfactory was to be accomplished in the way of a reduction of prices. And, in a manner, this movement reinforces the old lesson that the best way to serve one's own interests is to help along one's neighbors. The moment the New Yorker set about helping the Pennsylvania farmer, and the farmer set about helping the New Yorker, all difficulties in the way of securing for each what he wanted would seem to have disappeared. There is no prosperity-maker like mutual helpfulness among men.

Supposing the new movement should meet the success anticipated by its leaders, co-operation like that inaugurated between the New Yorkers and the farmers of near-by regions should be equally practicable between the residents of the Twin Cities, Chicago and other centers of population, and the farmers of Minnesota, Illinois and other states. And since it is founded on the justest of economic principles, there would seem to be no ground for fear as to the final outcome.—C. R. Barnes, Ext. Div., Minn. College of Agr.
