Published Every Wednesday. Entered in the Post Office at Warren as Second Class Mail Matter.

ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

A WORD TO OUR READER

We will leave the work on the Sheaf on Friday this week for a few months, while we are taking a needed vacation. During our absence the interests of the paper will be looked after by our son, Alvin E. Mattson, who will be editor-in-chief and business manager. Prof. Harry B. Johnson will serve as editor upon his return from a visit in North Dakota, and Adolph W. Mattson will act as reporter. Miss Lilly Mattson will serve as assistant editor upon her return from Minot, N. D., where she is teaching in the city schools. A. L. Berkland, linotype operator, O. A. Forde, ad and job man and Edgar Mattson will together have charge of the mechanical department. Leaving this competent force in charge of the destinies of the Sheaf, assisted also by our able staff of country correspondents, we will not worry about the paper during our absence. We may also do a little editing at long range, especially in the way of letters describing our trip. With these few words, we bid our readers adieu until we meet again.

—John P. Mattson.

With such splendid crop prospects as we have now, the Red River Valley looks forward to a banner year.

Now that Willing E. Leeminator has said his worst about our state and our governor, will someone please tell us what wrong the governor has done?—The Northern News.

Halvor Steenerson, of Crookston, the great commoner of Minnesota and leader in national politics, will surely succeed himself as congressman from the ninth district. Be sure to place an X mark opposite Mr. Steenerson's name on June 16th.

When a candidate for office makes charges against his opponents, he ought to be able to back them up by definite proofs. William E. Lee is very sweeping in his charges against Governor Eberhart, and he always expresses them in general terms, he never ventures any proofs or details. —Fergus Falls Press.

The Sheaf desires to say a word in favor of Lyndon A. Smith, the present attorney general of the state. He has proved to be an excellent man in that position, and the state can not better itself by electing a new man for that office. He is a clean, able and upright man and a good lawyer. His sympathies are with the common people and their rights and interests and the honor of the state he will ever do his utmost to uphold.

The expected stampede to the Lee banner does not seem to materialize. The personal tactics and abuse engaged in by that office seeking factions is acting to their detriment but as that is their only hope of success they must needs do their best. The dissatisfaction of the big cities in not getting the legislation they wanted is perhaps the chief reason for the movement. Until the city can formulate an acceptable charter for adoption they blame the governor when their selfish plans fail in the legislature. Our present governor has been an active force in the interests of Minnesota development and although he has not satisfied some factions who think they could have done better (for themselves) due credit should be given our chief state executive.—Hallock News.

The present county attorney, A. N. Eckstrom, is, in the opinion of a large majority of the voters, we are sure, entitled to a re-election. He has not held the office long and his record is such as entitles him to the kindly consideration of the voters. His knowledge of law and ability to interpret it make him a valuable adviser for the county board and the board has found that it can rely on his opinions on all legal matters referred to him. Often matters of very grave importance are submitted to him before the board proceeds to act and the wrong kind of advice might at times prove costly to the county. He is an able and fearless prosecutor of all law breakers, as quite a few violators of the liquor laws, as well as other laws for the protection of society, can testify to. Mr. Eckstrom's record ought to entitle him to another term as county attorney.

BEING MORE THAN A CLERK
There are things a governor can do for his state and for large numbers of its population in particular, if he will. But to do these things he must know the state, all of its varied interests, its people, their lives and their problems. He must be on the outlook for chances to help and resourceful in way of doing this.

Governor Eberhart has many such accomplishments to his credit and evidently some of them are appreciated. Norway has a centennial exposition this year, and last week the Norwegians of the Northwest held a centennial celebration in the Twin Cities.

At a dinner given by the Norwegian counsel, E. H. Hobe, of St. Paul, at the close of the celebration Mr. Hobe said: "If it had not been for Governor Eberhart, Minnesota would not have been represented at the exposition at Christiania this summer. It was really he who by his tender of aid, his powerful influence and good will, made this possible."

On this same subject the Duluth Skandinavian says: "If it had not been for Governor Eberhart, our state would not have participated in the exposition in Norway this year. As we remember, the Minnesota legislature refused to appropriate money so that the state could participate in Norway's one hundredth anniversary celebration."

"Then it was that the Governor called together the foremost Norwegians in the state at the capitol and that's the reason why Minnesota, together with a few of the other states, will be represented there." This is not only a great satisfaction to those citizens who are of Norwegian birth or parentage, but it is of much value to the state.

It is a recognition of the part the sons and daughters of Norway have had in building this state and it is world wide advertising of the most beneficial character. It is but a sample of the governor's activities. It is of a kind which is arousing interest among the bankers in farm credits, with his bringing together city and country in closer relation, his promotion of rural social life, of agricultural education, of good roads and of all those fundamentals which are essentials of permanent prosperity and contentment.—The Star Gazette, Moose Lake, Minn.

NORTH STAR COLLEGE NOTES

On Thursday, June 4, work in the music department will be continued at the college. We should desire to see a good sized class. The work will be in charge of Miss Mabel Lundgren, one of the graduates from the music department who has shown herself a very capable teacher. During the summer months the tuition will be less and especially for new beginners. Make arrangements at once, and you will get two extra lessons free. Until further notice lessons will be given only on Thursdays.

If a class of some five or six would want to take up work in the same class for six weeks, summer school work would be offered. The work could begin June 15. Those who would like to take Algebra, Geometry, History, English or any other subject required for a teacher's certificate, should at the earliest notify President Abrahamson, stating just what subjects they would want to review. Then if enough answer, we will go ahead and make arrangements; otherwise the matter will be dropped until another year.

Professor Johnson delivered a commencement address at the Foldahl school house on the evening of May 30; and Professor Sjostrand gave the commencement address at Alvarado on May 27, when Mabel Lundgren and Florence Berg were present to render several musical selections.

Notice has been received from the State University that graduates from the Academic department may enter any college at the University for which our courses prepare, without the necessity of taking any entrance examinations. This means that the work done at North Star is officially recognized by the University, as it has been by the State department hitherto.

The North Star College Corporation meeting will be held at the College on Thursday evening at seven o'clock.

Miss Florence Abrahamson will teach six weeks of Swedish parochial school at Warren, beginning June 8.

Professor H. B. Johnson has gone for a short visit to relatives living at Rosebud, Montana. He will return to do work in Warren during the summer.

Miss Wennerberg has gone to her home in Stillwater, and Miss Gibson to her home in Red Wing.

North Star talent was well represented on the programs at the Luther League convention in Grand Forks last week.

ALVARADO COMMENCEMENT

The church was beautifully decorated in green leaves and flowers and lavender and white streamers. The altar was banked with beautiful potted plants, ferns and cut flowers. Prof. Sjostrand of North Star College, Warren, delivered the commencement address, and Rev. Knudsen read the invocation. County Supt. Johnson made a few remarks and upon request of the board of education expressed gratitude to the teachers, Misses Mortenson and Wahlund for the splendid work done during the past two school years. Presentation of diplomas was made by Miss Rankin, Assistant Supt. The school received credit for having the highest graded pupils in the county. All fourth class postmasters at offices where the annual compensation is $180 or more, are required to take this examination by virtue of an executive order placing these offices under civil service regulations. Alvarado, Oslo, Viking, Newfolden, Holt and Rollis are among the Marshall county post offices to be filled by such examination.

Among those who leave from here next Friday, June 5, with the editor of this paper on a visit to Sweden and Norway and other European countries, are the following: Peter A.
