Pocket Gophers Pests.

Pocket gophers, the farmers say are getting to be a fearful pest in this country, digging up hay meadows and root caches, doing inestimable damage. On one farm a cache of turnips and parsnips containing several bushels of each vegetable was broken into and all eaten but a few. The only way to combat the pest is to use the extermination method, steady hammering, following them from field to field and concerted action by all the farmers wherever holes are found either in cultivated or abandoned fields. Up and at them.

A Savings Account Gives Cause for Thanksgiving.

The man who learned the benefits a bank account brings has plenty to be thankful for.

He has a home for his loved ones and can provide the best of food and raiment for them. His savings account helps him to care for them for it goes on earning interest day and night, year after year.

It gives him ready cash when opportunities present themselves, and he gets richer every day because he has the foresight to save part of every week's pay.

You had better start an account here today—you will then have more to be thankful for next Thanksgiving Day.
