

GLAD SHE TOOK BROTHER'S ADVICE

St. Paul Woman Is Restored To Health
After Taking Tanlac.

"I feel so grateful to Tanlac for restoring my health I want to tell everybody about it," said Mrs. Frank Landreville, who lives at 562 Charles St., St. Paul, Minn. "It has changed me from a weak, nervous woman into a strong, healthy one," she continued. "I was so weak and run down a few weeks ago that my condition was simply terrible. I was so nervous I would roll and toss all night long without closing my eyes and if I did happen to doze off the slightest noise would wake me and I could not go back to sleep no matter what time it was. I suffered terribly from indigestion, too. Everything I ate seemed to sour on my stomach and the gas pressed up around my heart so that it would beat so fast and hard I would be alarmed. At times I was so dizzy and weak I thought I would faint clear away. All I dared eat was a little milk toast or cereals and even these caused me to suffer almost as much as if I had eaten a hearty meal. My back and kidneys hurt me so I could hardly endure the pain, and if I stooped over I could hardly straighten up again. I had to send for the doctor several times to give me opiates to relieve the pain and nervousness. Of course this gave me only temporary relief and he advised me to get a good tonic.

"My brother had been taking Tanlac and it had done him so much good he insisted that I take it, too. The very first bottle helped me so much that I bought another one. I have now taken six bottles and feel perfectly splendid. It makes no difference how many times I am awakened at night for I go right back to sleep and I get up feeling so much better and stronger every morning that I can attend to my baby and do the housework with perfect ease. My appetite is fine and I digest everything I eat without any bad after effects. The gas, palpitation of the heart, faint spells and pains in the back are entirely gone.

"As I said before I feel so grateful I want everybody to know what Tanlac has done for me and if they are not convinced I want them to call to see me and I can tell them about it. I have nothing but good to say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Grygla by A. W. Clay, in Alvarado by Arthur W. Neujahr, in Middle River by Middle River Drug Co., in Argyle by Robertson's Pharmacy, and in Oslo by Marie W. Ponthan.

GREEN VALLEY SCHOOL NOTES. Dist. 127.

The attendance in school has been good so far. Last week nineteen of the pupils had a perfect attendance which is a pretty good standing considering the fact that Mr. Flu is again with us. But as yet no cases have been reported right around here.

There was no school last Thursday on account of Lincoln's birthday.

The second, third and fourth grades have just finished some booklets about Lincoln.

Last Friday afternoon the valentine box was opened and valentines distributed.

Only eight pupils present on Friday on account of the stormy weather.

The eighth grade is busy reviewing for the examinations which comes next month. Everyone must pass. That's what Miss Melne says.

Pocket maps of Minnesota and North Dakota, showing marked auto roads, for sale at Sheaf office. Price 25 cents.

MARSH GROVE

The flu is now with us again but no cases have been reported yet.

Mrs. J. Floberg and son Oscar, and granddaughter Lillian Lull, Nels Boe and Myrtle Ramstad, were present at Adam Sahlberg's Sunday evening.

Agre brothers are busy bailing hay for some neighbors.

Louis Sands was a brief business caller on Adam Sahlberg Wednesday.

Mrs. Adam Sahlberg took the Soo to Warren to see the doctor; also to visit her daughter, Carrie, who is employed at C. A. Nelson's.

Nels and Stephen Boe were callers on Charley Knitter Thursday.

Adam Sahlberg was a caller in Radium one day last week.

Mrs. Brekkestrand took the passenger to Warren to see her daughter, Agnes, who works at Hotel Warren.

Miss Agda Sahlberg was a Sunday caller at Edward Hanson's place.

Henry Boe is busy sawing wood for the neighbors.

Oscar Sahlberg visited with Harry Knitter Sunday afternoon.

Christ Vixie took Eliza Hagstrom to her home in Foldahl Saturday, where she has been helping Vixie's for some time.

Nels Boe was a caller at Lars Akre's one day last week.

Bethania Church of Marsh Grove.

Ladies' Aid will meet at Iver Nelson's place in township of Viking. The confirmation class will also read.

WEST VALLEY

Very few from the schools in our town took part in the spelling contest held at Strandquist last Saturday.

Dr. Johnson, of Newfolden, was called to our town Wednesday last by the town officers to examine quite a few families who were suspected of having the flu.

Rev. O. Hanson, of Mosbank, Canada, after a week's visit amongst relatives, left on Monday evening via Minot, N. D., for his home.

Sam Dahl is reported quite sick with pneumonia.

Oscar and Henry Ramstad are reported somewhat better, but sister Ida continues very weak.

Mrs. Iver Lokken and children left for Newfolden Saturday evening.

We understand that one of our young men will locate at Strandquist. We are sorry to lose the family out of our town but our best wishes go with them.

Rev. Ordahl while here last Wednesday, postponed the meeting which was to be held Feb. 15, for one month, owing to the flu epidemic. Notice will be given later.

Oscar Wang shot a big wolf last week.

Mr. I. Rokke has now finished up his work as census enumerator and as soon as he can get ready will enter North Star College at Warren, where his sister, Nellie, is taking up shorthand and typewriting.

Miss Christine Norman arrived on Sunday morning from Roosevelt, Minn. John Hegstrom is reported sick.

Mr. Lindstrom, of Apple, visited Sunday at J. Hegstrom, Sr.

Pup Likes Strawberries.

I told you a little while ago about the fruitarian pup, which ate apples and bananas and pineapple, and whose owner was only waiting for the strawberry season. I hear now that the pup's passion for strawberries is almost incredible, except to those who have seen him quivering with anticipation when the fruit comes on the table.

When offered a piece of meat and a strawberry, he takes the latter without any hesitation; and he does not ask for cream or sugar. Indeed, his fondness for the fruit has proved his undoing; and at present he is not only in disgrace for clambering on the table and stealing strawberries from a bowl, but he is also a little unwell.

Perhaps this worthy custom is original with the Dominican, and perhaps some learned bandit got the idea from Italian history. In the Sicilian Vespers, the demand put to the luckless Frenchmen on that famous Christmas eve was, "Dica 'ciceri'." When he pronounced it "seesser," he died, just as the Porto Rican today dies when he gulps an "R." The native Sicilian pronounced it "checheri."

The meaning of "ciceri" is known—it merely is the Chic pea that is grown in Mexico and a staple food in Sicily known in America as the "garbanzo" and sometimes encountered in the soup of an Italian table d'hôte in New York.

FARMER SUCKED 72 EGGS

Even Declared He Quit the Job Hungry When Supply Gave Out.

When George W. Berlin, who lives in a suburb of Chicago, made his name locally imperishable by eating half a dozen big pies at one sitting, the news filtered through to Duquoin, a nearby hamlet, where lives Roy Webb, a husky farmer lad, noted for his eating ability.

Webb decided he could do better than his neighbor. To prove his claim he sucked 72 raw eggs, and probably would have cleaned up a score more had not the supply failed.

Two Months' Fire Cost $1,000,000.

A mine fire, which had burned in the famous Homestake mine, near Lead, S. D., since Sept. 25, has finally been extinguished by flooding the mine with water. It is estimated the fire loss is nearly $1,000,000.

TAIL OF RAMON'S DOG BLOODY SIGN

Feud With Porto Ricans Deadly
In San Domingo.

LETTER "R" THEIR SHIBBOLETH

Porto Ricans Are Distinguished From Dominicans by Test Sentence Which Means Instant Death If They Swallow Their "R's" Instead of Rolling Them—An American Marine Now and Then Falls Victim to Dominican Bullets.

San Jose, Porto Rico.—In the last few weeks upward of a dozen Porto Ricans, resident or transients in eastern Santo Domingo, have been murdered by frenzied Santo Dominicans after a fashion that by its method and barbaric romance parallels the famed "Sicilian Vespers" that were the terror of Frenchmen in times gone. Travelers arriving here tell of the method being pursued by the Santo Dominicans, who, in spite of the efforts of American marines, continue their assassinations.

For, be it known, the latest addition to the Latin-American "gayety of nations" is a vendetta between the Santo Dominicans and the Porto Ricans. This seems to have as its basis a Dominican hatred of Americans. The Porto Ricans in their support of the American administration and in their activity in the war in raising troops and helping float the Liberty loans have gained the admiration of the Yankees but lost the respect of the Dominicans, who hate the American occupation with as much fire, it seems, as did the Filipinos in the days of Aguinaldo.

Marines Are Victims.

An American marine, now and then, falls a victim to Dominican bullets or machetes, if the marine be alone and beset by a dozen enemies. But the many Porto Ricans who have visited the Dominican end of the island are easier prey and are suffering for their loyalty to the United States.

Naturally, since the Dominican and the Porto Rican are of Spanish speech, a seemingly possible evasion presents itself. Why cannot the Porto Rican, if captured by Dominican banditti, pose as a native? He does, and that is where the Dominican Vespers come in.

There is even more difference between the dialects of the races in the West Indies than there is on the continent—sometimes as much as between a Georgian and a native of Maine. So, when the suspected Porto Rican is captured he is commanded to declaim a sentence, always the same, and on his pronunciation depends his fate. The sentence is thus:

"El perro de Ramon no tiene rabo, porque Rafael se lo ha robado."

If it has any local or political significance, the Porto Ricans have not discovered it—but they have discovered it has much importance. It means—almost a nursery text—"Ramon's dog has no tail because Rafael has stolen it."

All in the "R."

It is all in the "R"—just as the chief difference between southern and northern dialect in the United States is in the pronunciation of that letter. The Dominican rolls the "R" a little and the double "R" a great deal with almost Castilian perfection, but the Porto Rican swallows his "R's," not as the American southerner does by mere omission, but with a guttural swallow. Even if the captive Porto Rican knows the meaning of the text, he may roll an "R" or two to begin with, but there are so many in the sentence he is sure to swallow a few. If he does, down come the machetes. He is quartered as deftly as a master butcher cuts a spring lamb.

Perhaps this worthy custom is original with the Dominican, and perhaps some learned bandit got the idea from Italian history. In the Sicilian Vespers, the demand put to the luckless Frenchmen on that famous Christmas eve was, "Dica 'ciceri'." When he pronounced it "seesser," he died, just as the Porto Rican today dies when he gulps an "R." The native Sicilian pronounced it "checheri."

Birds' Island Refuge.
On the west coast of Newfoundland stands an island, with perpendicular rocky sides, rising nearly 400 feet out of the sea. It is about three acres in area at the top. It seems to have been cleft from the mainland and is safely beyond reach of duck shot. Late in April the gulls gather in the sea around this island in hundreds of thousands; and some fine morning, when the snow has disappeared from the top, they rise in a compact body flying fully a thousand feet in the air, then lowering and circling for half an hour around and around the top of the island, darkening the ground with the shadow of their wings, then settling on the top and turning the white, lime-stained surface a shining black. Once settled they will not leave the island in a body till the last of June, unless a snowstorm comes. Then they take to the sea again until the snow has melted from their nesting place.
