

Market Days, October 28 and 29

If prices will mean anything business will hum both of these days

Remember that we are offering brand new merchandise, bought for this fall's use, and at prices that are the lowest since before the war. ¶ Stupendous bargains are in wait for you. It will pay you big to come a hundred miles to this sale. You can burn your own gasoline and still be ahead.

We are taking terrific losses on our goods, but must turn them over to cash so that we can pay our bills. Take advantage of our distress. You too have been taking big losses, so we are all in the same boat. TERMS ARE STRICTLY CASH. If you are owing us on account or notes, please make payment for same. Remember that credit was given you in good faith, that you would pay as soon as you possibly could. We are merchants and not bankers, and must get the money for the goods that we have sold.

Take advantage of these Two Big Days of Bargains.
