

SOCIAL WORLD.

"Who shall be queen of the May?" This old May business has pretty nearly played out, and any girl who would presume to be "queen of the May" now-a-days may expect to suffer the same fate as the stylish girl who died from pneumonia and a light lawn dress.

The vestibule of the Windsor hotel is radiant with its splendid new frescos. The fifth assembly given by the St. Paul German club held at Seibert's hall last Friday evening was the most elegant of the season. The favors were exquisitely rich and were supplied by the ladies of the club. There were flowers and pretty prizes. The flower prizes were distributed by raffie, the ladies being represented by Miss Perrin and the gentlemen by James Elmer. They were presented by Miss Finch. The figures were entirely new and novel and the design for drawing prizes consisting of baskets of flowers was something quite interesting. Mr. Frank Newell and Miss Jessie Gilman were the winners. The broom brigade figure was new and elegant. Refreshments were elegant and were furnished by the ladies.

On Friday evening about three hundred and fifty friends of the little Misses and Masters who have been under the care of the popular dancing teacher Prof. J. N. Beggs during the past season gathered at Turner hall to witness their exhibition dance, sixty of the afternoon class were present and to say that every one was more than pleased is saying very little.

Miss Katie Heard and Master Cyrus De Custer, both under five years old acquitted themselves admirably in the fancy polka, and several other dances and all were immensely amused by seeing such very small children dance so perfectly. Little Misses Annie Heard, Lillian DeCuster, Virginia Borup and Helen Warner danced the sword dance to perfection. Master Thomas Warner gave an exhibition clog dance which was greatly enjoyed by all. If some of the older young men who pride themselves on their fancy steps do not look out they will be left completely behind by this young man who has learned well, and knows how to bring in all the fancy steps. The children's programme was composed of twenty-one dances, many of which originated with Prof. Beggs and are only danced by him. After the children's dance their friends, to the number of 118 couples, indulged in fifteen dances, and all present said it was the most successful party of the season. Prof. Beggs and all his class received a great many compliments for his well known ability as a teacher and the children for their proficiency. Over 300 children's names have already been added to his list to the children's class for next season.

A GENUINE OLD AESTHETIC.

St. Paul Business Pioneers—The King of Them All.

It is interesting to look about St. Paul and see how few of the old pioneer business men are still actively engaged. Some have succumbed to adversity, some have died and some have retired with incompetencies. It is not an easy nor a pleasant work to build up a commercial city such as is St. Paul, and a man has to be possessed of rare courage, energy and perseverance to hang on through the struggling, discouraging times such as frontier towns are liable to encounter.

Among all the men now in active business Mr. 1861 he John Mathies is truly noble. Since 1861 he has been engaged in the carpet and upholstery line, and he has probably done more to educate the public taste than any other man.

When he commenced business, twenty-three years since, it was among a comparatively few people, indeed among a circle of friends, and of course he was popular, being, as he is to-day, a pleasant, affable, accommodating man. He was skilled in his line, and he kept pace not only with the styles, but with the people he had to serve. St. Paul grew, and new people came from the centers of fashion in the east. Mr. Mathies was never behind. He kept well informed on the markets of the world, and nothing escaped his notice. What was fashionable in London or Paris was known to him as soon as to New York dealers, and even in early days St. Paul ranked well up in elegance of interior decorations. As population increased, Mr. Mathies extended his business, and it is safe to affirm that nowhere in the land can be found better nor handsomely furnished than those he has supplied. He has been termed the prince of good taste and there is scarcely a residence of any pretension in this city or state but what bears some evidence of his exquisite and discriminating eye. In carpets, in curtains, in papering, in wall and ceiling decorations and in general effect his artistic and trained is evident and no other parties have yet approached him in his specialties. It is a matter for congratulation that John Mathies is still with us and is better prepared than ever to cater to the public taste. He is entitled to the splendid recognition he receives.

We owe a debt of gratitude to the German women and physicians who have developed the great medicinal qualities of Red Clover blossoms. Best results are obtained when combined with other medicinal roots and herbs, as in Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which is the best remedy for all blood diseases, stomach and liver troubles, pimples, costiveness, bad breath, piles, ague and malaria disease, indigestion, loss of appetite, low spirits, headache and all diseases of the kidneys. Price 50 cents, P. J. Dreis, corner Ninth and St. Peter streets, St. Paul.

A Model Refrigerator. Among the new departures constantly claiming attention, we have noticed nothing for months which has more successfully engaged our interest than the exceedingly wonderful refrigerator which Mr. H. S. Temple has placed in his institution at 145 East Seventh street. This clever, yet simple affair is certainly a model of perfection in this branch of every summer necessity, and is produced by the Wooster (Ohio) Refrigerator company, the patent of Joseph Rumbaugh.

It is a beautiful piece of hard wood furniture, quite the opposite in this respect from the common steeptype style of box and contains nine apartments, each one thoroughly convenient and supplied with the perfect refrigerating qualities embraced in one of a single compartment. The patent has met with phenomenal success, and is the east and an examination of its construction and qualities is at once convincing as to its merits. It is most excellently adapted to a saloon and hotel use and will suggest itself to such persons immediately as an economy in point of ice saving and general worthiness.

We are pleased to learn that the Wooster company are seriously contemplating, and we might say, have decided to start a branch in St. Paul for the sale of this refrigerator. We are sure they will meet at once with the success which their patent deserves and in a short time many of our saloon and hotel men will enjoy the comforts which one of these boxes can present. The electric and gas refrigerators for private families will be a feature also for the sale of this class is extensive beyond precedent. It will pay any of our readers to visit Mr. Temple's place at 145 East Seventh street and see this interesting piece of furniture.

The Cooling Choral Society Concert. To the Editor of the Globe: In the several communications which have recently appeared in your journal relating to the St. Paul Choral society, special emphasis has been directed to its present encouraging condition and intended performance of Handel's grand oratorio of the "Messiah," as an exponent of the adaptability for popular use of reverence, devotion, sympathy and exultation, all of which I cheerfully endorse.

I have been a listener to its sublime teaching at home and abroad under varying conditions, times almost numberless, and in earlier days was a participant in its performance. I make no pretense that I am a more than ordinary musician, but a much better man, but do aver that its influence in the line of refinement and civilization as a director of thought and conduct, has been a most potent element in the development of true man and manhood, and the enjoyment of social and domestic life.

In my wandering over a comparatively broad surface of the world, a simple melody has carried me back to my "ain fireside" and the enchanting scenes of early life and associations with a drooping tear, which for the time have been merged in the abyss of time by surrounding novelties, and if I was made no better by the admission, it is at least a more happy in the thought of home and the enjoyment awaiting my return to it.

In this communication I am more intent upon drawing the attention of our people to the importance of surrounding the rising generation with a halo which will in after time reflect out of a commendable interest in its development of character, but contribute a moralizing influence to its socializing enjoyment and general character, rather than for extolling the merits of the Choral society, and therefore, I appeal in its behalf for the co-operative aid in the construction of a most important factor in the civilization of our people, and for distinguishing our delightful city as a center of refinement and the patron of an elevating agency for the highest order of civilizing attainment. It is a matter which concerns the religious element which has so profusely adorned our municipality with architectural monuments, as evidence of security in fulfillment of obligations conferred by consecration, and of religious opportunity for estimating the value of musical expression in the utterance of religious instruction. It is a matter which concerns the professor of religion—the devotee to scientific enjoyment and the community at large—the first, in aid of the service to which it is consecrated; the second, a tribute of respect to social enjoyment; and the last, as a regrettable agency for harmonizing the conflicts which pervade a life of toil, and let it not be "told in vain," that St. Paul is a city of religious organizations that are floating on every breeze, which is wafted in the line of progress in this day and generation, by permitting the Choral society to languish in its work of commanding promises.

The Ice Cream Days Have Come. A Model Factory in St. Paul. The extensive restaurant and refreshment rooms of Pietro Ramacciotti, No. 243 Wabashaw street, have received during the past week an important acquisition, consisting of the addition of a ladies ice cream parlor, adjoining the American house side of the establishment and entirely independent of the restaurant. Mr. Ramacciotti has gone to great expense in the construction of the new addition to his already extensive establishment, and in a few days he will invite his patrons and the public at large to an inspection of the new quarters, which will be fitted in the most elegant and sumptuous manner.

The rooms will be exclusively for ladies and their escorts, and the department will be conducted in a strictly first-class and high-toned manner. Mr. Ramacciotti is perhaps the most expert ice cream maker in the state, and he has just completed the construction of an ice cream factory, situated in the rear of the building. His facilities for making good and pure ice cream are the best in Minnesota, and he is now prepared to supply the trade, both wholesale and retail. Having removed all of his machinery from the old stand on Market street, he intends to make a specialty of family, party and wedding trade, and all who desire pure ice cream, at the lowest rates should give him a call.

LABOR RIOTS FEARED.

The Buffalo Labor Union Not Disposed to Allow Any Others to Work. They Attack the Italians and Greeks, but are Dispersed by the Police.

BUFFALO, May 3.—The labor troubles between the Italians and longshore men are assuming serious proportions. The managers of boat lines positively refuse in any way to recognize the 'Longshoremen' union, while none of the men will accept work from the boat lines except by order of the union, and in consequence many families are suffering for want of food, and the men are beginning to get desperate. This morning a gang of roughs assaulted an inoffensive Italian walking on Lloyd street with leaves of bread tied up in a red bandana. They knocked him down and kicked him. The officers quickly cleared the street. A large crowd gathered at the Italian headquarters, and began stoning the buildings. The crowd was ordered to move on and the command was not obeyed, and a portion of the reserve police force was summoned.

Meantime another mob made an attack on a building on State street, in which were a number of Greeks, supposed by the mob to be Italians. The mob threw bricks and stones at the buildings, breaking the windows and injuring a number of Greeks, who fled at the mob, but no one was injured. The police dispersed the crowd, but made no arrests. The docks were crowded with peo- ple, the Western Transit company's dock being the special object of attraction. The Italians began work loading the propeller Dean Richmond, which at 1:15 p. m. moved up creek to the Erie freight house, with freight handlers on board.

The mayor, sheriff and police authorities were in consultation to-day on the situation. Probably 100 or more special policemen will be enrolled in view of a possible emergency. The regular force has now for three days effectively prevented an outbreak, but it has required the concentration of every available man at head quarters. The entire city must be patrolled day and night. The Transportation companies served notice on the authorities, that the city and county will be held liable in case of any damage to their property. Manager Bullard of the Union Transportation company, stated, that there will be no compromise with the longshore men, and that every effort will be made by the Transportation companies from now to the close of navigation, to emancipate themselves from trouble with labor unions.

How the Real Vote Stood. Dayton Journal (Rep.) The real vote of the Cleveland convention as ascertained by inquiry in each county delegation was 335 for Sherman, 355 for Blaine and Arthur. The friends of the latter voted with the former, and gave them practical control of the convention. Present preferences had to do with the voting on West and Beatty, which some erroneously considered a test vote. Some Sherman men voted for West because they could not be persuaded that General Beatty was not a Blaine man, because he had so sharply antagonized Sherman in 1880. There was also a deal of sympathy that could not be overcome for the "blind man, eloquent."
