AMUSEMENTS. Monte Cristo, and a Round of Legitimate for Next Week. Two performances of "Monte Cristo" were given at the Grand by Stetson's company yesterday, the reception at the matinee and evening presentations being cordial and flattering. The audience was fair for a Wednesday matinee, but last night the gathering was quite large. Of the drama per se and the manner of its enactment, the same may be said as of the previous performances. It is a beautiful and realistic drama with superb settings, and finely acted. The performance will be repeated to-night.

Thomas W. Keene. The ever welcome and popular St. Paul favorite, Mr. Thomas W. Keene, will appear at the Grand Opera house next Monday evening. The engagement will continue throughout the week, when we will most assuredly have a grand treat awaiting us. A change of bill will be the order of the engagement, except on one occasion.

The repertoire selected for the occasion will be as follows: Monday and Saturday evenings, "Richard III" will be given. Tuesday, "Richard III," Wednesday, "Hamlet," Thursday, "Julius Caesar," with Mr. Keene as "Cassius." Being his first appearance in the character in St. Paul, Friday he will present his really grand personation of "Macbeth." While for the Saturday matinee, "The Lady of Lyons," another character not yet presented in this city by this favorite actor. Since we last had the pleasure of witnessing the grand portrayal of the several characters by this popular artist, he has appeared in New York City where he was enthusiastically greeted, and was the recipient of such "honors" that is seldom bestowed on any artist.

The Spanish Students. The celebrated musicians known as the Spanish Students, open an engagement of three nights at Market hall this evening, and judging from the flattering ovations accorded them all over the country a rare treat is in store for all who may attend. The performance is unique in its way and the music has about it the quaint charm that only comes from the soft melody of southern climes.

The entertainments will be artistic as well as popular and they should be well attended by all lovers of good music. Two Still Alarms. A still alarm was sent in to Chemical No. 2 at eleven o'clock yesterday morning, caused by the burning of a haystack between the house and stable of George Dell, 364 Fremont street.
