To Advertisers.

Stock advertisements will hereafter be inserted in the Monday issue of the GLOBE immediately following the reading matter of the horse department. In no other way can stock be so cheaply or prominently advertised as by aking advantage of this opportunity. Figures will be furnished on application, and advertisements can also occupy a corresponding position in the weekly issue, if desired.

Rataplan.

Commodore Kittson's well known three-year-old colt, Rataplan, which won the Traverse stakes at Saratoga on Saturday, has demonstrated on two occasions that he is a very superior animal. On the 19th of June, at Sheepshead Bay, he won the great Emporium stakes, and thereby placed nearly $7,000 to his credit. In just one month after he comes to the front again winning another great race, one of the most important and noted in this country, beating some of the best horses of the east. Commodore Kittson was present at the race, and undoubtedly received the congratulations of all except the losers.

The Mankato Races.

The Southern Minnesota Live Stock and Fair association of Mankato, is in the field, and advertises liberal purses for trotting and pacing. This is its maugural meeting and the money hung up amounts to $3,700. The projectors of this association have taken great care in the preparation of the track and selected material for it that cannot be excelled in the northwest. In two hours after the heaviest storm, races can be trotted on it, as it will be neither slippery or sandy. The stretches are 600 feet long, the first turn 65 feet in width, the other turns being 60 feet and thrown up one inch to the foot. The grounds are located within the city limits and possess more natural advantages than any track in the country. A natural amphitheatre, capable of accommodating 20,000 people, shelters the track and stables from high winds. The stables are 12x14, well lighted and ventilated, shingled roofs and splendidly shaded and sufficient in number to accommodate all comers, and there will be no charge for stables, hay or straw. The entrance fee will be ten per cent. of the purse, five per cent. of which must accompany the nomination, the balance at the time of closing the entries. The following are the races and purses:

First Day—3:00 class, purse, $400, $200, $100, $60, $40; 2:30 pace, purse, $400, $200, $100, $60, $40; 2:28 class, purse, $500, $250, $125, $75, $50.

Second Day—2:38 class, purse, $400, $200, $100, $60, $40; special purse for three year old trotters, $300, $150, $75, $45, $30; free for all pacing, purse $500, $250, $125, $75, $50.

Third Day—2:48 class, purse, $400, $200, $100, $60, $40; special purse for four year old trotters, $300, $150, $75, $45, $30; free for all, $500, $250, $125, $75, $50.

All entries close 11 o'clock p. m., August 20. A horse distancing the field shall have only first and third moneys.

The Chicago Races.

Mr. Hamilton Busby, one of the proprietors of the Turf, Field and Farm, attended the great racing meeting at Chicago, from which he wrote some very interesting letters to his paper. The following notes of interest are extracted from the same:

The trotting meeting at the Chicago Driving park has not been as well patronized as on former occasions. The purses brought out good fields, but the weather and the convention told upon the attendance. The political cauldron was boiling so fiercely that thousands of admirers of the horse could not be persuaded to turn their backs even for an afternoon upon the spot where statesmen schemed or let loose a flood of eloquence. The greater attraction dwarfed the smaller one. The meeting at Washington park was also in progress at the same time, and it divided the patronage not absorbed by the convention. Chicago is a pushing, sport loving city, but it is not big enough to support two first-class race meetings the same week. I have said this before, and after the experience of the past ten days few are rash enough to dispute it. Mr. Hall has worked like a Trojan, but some things are impossible, even to great workers. The driving park has lost money.

The report of the races has been sent to you by another hand, and I will only take up enough space to notice a few of the prominent features. Westmont, hooked with running mate, paced a mile in 2:01¾. The runner, of course, took the weight, and the legs of the pacer played in harmony with his well balanced brain. The first quarter was traversed in 30¼ seconds and the second quarter in 29¾ seconds. The mile was finished with a break. At this way of going, it is merely a question of how fast a thoroughbred can run in harness and pull another horse. A good many are of opinion that Westmont cannot pace a mile in single harness in better than 2:12.

The atmosphere was melting on Friday, the 11th, thus slightly handicapping a supreme effort, but there was no wind to retard the action. The track was hard and very trying to a horse that is a little sensitive in the feet, still the impression prevailed that Jay Eye See would equal if not lower the record. He had been given two trials on Wednesday which caused the critics to open their eyes. Each mile had been done in 2:15 or better, and one of the quarters was timed in 51 seconds. This was the sharp preparatory work, and Bither explained that he let the little horse have his head part of the journey simply because he was feeling well and wanted to go. On Friday the warming up mile was in 2:19¼. After being rubbed down the son of Dictator and Midnight appeared in front of the judges' stand, scored twice and then got the word. John Splan kept him company with a running horse hooked to a sulky, and the clatter of the galloper's feet seemed to excite the young trotter. Around the turn Jay Eye See rushed with the fury of the hurricane, and his nose was even with the quarter pole in 31½ seconds. On he went with tremendous energy, and when the hands of the watches recorded 1:03½ at the half mile pole I said to Mr. Case that the pace was too fast to last. He agreed with me and was not surprised at the result. The third quarter was trotted in 33½ seconds, and from there to the wire there was a marked falling off in the rate of speed. The mile was finished in 2:11¼. Bither admitted after the heat that he had gone to the half too fast, but he explained that Jay Eye See did his work with so much ease as to deceive him. His intention was to go to the half mile pole in 1:05, and to come home at a corresponding rate of speed. He made a mistake, but thinks he will be better able to regulate the pace next time. With good day and track, Jay Eye See is almost certain to beat the record of Maud S. I am gratified to learn that the chestnut mare is doing so well at Cleveland, and I live in the hope of seeing her trot exhibition heats against the gelding. The Providence track is fast, and Jay Eye See will soon beat a lively tattoo upon it.

Only four of the thirty-five three-year olds nominated for the Ashland responded to the call of the bell, and of these, the black gelding Reference, wearing the white of Major McDowell, was a strong favorite, and he won quite handily from Gambetta, by George Wilkes; Superior, by Egbert, and Aloise, by Sultan. The time was 2:32½, 2:33¼, 2:33. Reference is a good actor, and quite speedy. He was got by Referee, out of Modjeska, by Enfield. His sire, a son of Administrator, is now owned by Mr. L. G. Delano, of Ohio, who was an eye-witness of the race.

The Chicago stakes, for four-year-olds, had been regarded as a gift to Hinda Rose until Gov. Stanford cancelled her engagement, and then Don Carlos was quoted the favorite. Fugue, Wildmont and Ruby started against him. Maj. McDowell thought that Fugue would compel Don Carlos to lower his colors, but the young mare was not driven with the best of judgment; besides she ran up against a racehorse in the son of Cuyler Clay. Ruby was nervous and off her gait, and Hickok was unable to get better than third money with her. She has a rakish form, but was out of tune on Friday. Wildmont acted rank, and he wants work to steady him. He will make a good horse. Don Carlos won in straight heats like an old soldier, and his time was 2:32¼, 2:25, 2:23½. Fugue could outbrush him, but she could not rate with him.

Saturday morning, Richball, who was timed to sulky in 2:10¾, was hooked double with a runner, but he did not fancy the rig, and the attempt was given up to go with him against the 2:01¼ of Westmont. Johnston was advertised to beat his own record of 2:10, but Mr. Woodmansee tells me that he had very little hopes of accomplishing the task. The horse lacked preparations for a supreme effort. The best mile paced was 2:11¼. Peter Johnston, who has Westmount in his stable and who gave the horse named after him his present record, says that Johnston is without doubt the fastest pacer in the world. He is confident that Splan will drive him a mile when everything is just right in 2:08 or 2:09.

Phallas is rounding into shape, and showing such speed that the promise of a great performance by him may be realized a little later in the season. I shall be on my way to the Rocky Mountains before the open-to-all is decided in which is entered against Fanny Witherspoon, Catchfly and Clemmie G. Messrs. Chas. Raymond and R. Compton, of New York, are here to look their trotters over.

Clingstone was worked here on the 8th, and those who saw him move felt confident that he would be entered for the $4,000 purse at Cleveland. Mr. Case saw that he could not get on any other kind of a match with "the demon" and he handed Mr. Thomas Axworthy a check for $1,000 and took the following receipt;

CHICAGO, July 8, 1884.

Received this day from J. I. Case, $1,000 as forfeit in a race to be trotted between the horses Clingstone and Jay Eye See, over our track at Cleveland, on Thursday, July 31, 1884, for a purse of $4,000, as conditions offered by us and understood by all parties concerned, we agreeing that the race shall be called the first race that day, should there be a postponed race, or the second race if no postponed race, so the race can be positively finished that day, weather permitting. It also being understood that the track shall be put in A No. 1 conditon for said race, thoroughly wet the night previous, harrowed well so as to make it well cushioned with loose surface, &c.

CLEVELAND DRIVING PARK CO.
By THOS. AXWORTHY, Director.

After Mr. Case had put up his forfeit, news came from Cleveland that Clingstone would not enter because he was lame at Chicago. Mr. Gordon is a prudent man in some respects.

Before I leave Clingstone I wish to make a correction. President Wm. Edwards writes me that twenty gentlemen chipped in an equal amount and purchased the Cleveland Driving park. Mr. Gordon was one of these, and he has no more voice in the management than any other stockholder. The $4,000 purse was given at the suggestion of Mr. Edwards, and that gentlemen regrets very much that it did not bring Clingstone and Jay Eye See together on the track. The energy of Mr. Edwards has contributed largely to the success of the club. Phil Thompson looks five hundred per cent. better than he did last year, and I think he will yet make a sensation. Maud Messenger is going well and she will probably start in the $10,000 race at Hartford. St. Julien is still out of shape. The Kittson stable will go from here to Cleveland. H. B.

Parole Retired.

It is reported that Parole broke down at Monmouth park on Friday, the 11th, in a gallop with Herbert. Parole is a brown gelding, foaled 1873 by imp. Leamington, dam Maiden, by Lexington, out of Kitty Clark, by imp. Glencoe, and the property of Mr. P. Lorillard, Rancocas Stud, N. J. He is one of the most remarkable horses this country has ever produced, and was one of the idols of the racing public, almost always the favorite when a starter in a race, and an appreciative assemblage always greeted the old veteran with the heartiest applause when the "two inseparables," Feakes and Parole, made an appearance for an exercising canter, and many times have the grand stands at Sheepshead Bay, Monmouth and Jerome been almost unroofed with the shout, "Parole wins!" In October, 1878, Parole was shipped to England in company with Uncas, Cherokee, Boreas, Friar, Geraldine, Pappoose, his full sister, and Nereid, and made a grand record for America on the English turf for the season of 1879. In closing a long and exhaustive account of this great horse, the Turf, Field and Farm gives his record as follows:

The record of Parole, as shown by the annexed table, is one of the most phenomenal in turf annals. He was nine consecutive years on the turf, crossing the Atlantic twice, and started in 120 races, of which he won 59, was second in 22, third ie 14, and unplaced in 28, winning $32,283 for his enterprising owner. He has run at all distances and in the best company, and has the honor of having beaten the great English Isonomy in the Newmarket handicap.

The following table will be of interest as showing his entire record, and for each year separately:

Age.	Starts.	1st.	2d.	3d.	Won.
1875—(2)	6	4	1	..	$8,550

Miscellaneous.

The road-house located at Fargo Fair Grounds is for sale or rent. Address J. M. Morrison or George Marelius, Fargo, D. T.

Maud S. trotted an exercising mile at Cleveland, O., on July 10, in 2:12¼.

It is reported that Jewett, by Allie West, son of Almont, record 2:22½, has gone to pacing and that he recently showed a mile at that gait in 2:18¾.

Ottawa Chief has just finished a season in the stud, and recently, at the first time of being harnessed to a sulky this year, he showed a half in 1:10.

The directors of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association have decided upon October 13 to 16 inclusive as the time for holding their fall trotting meeting.

Of the winning owners at the recent meeting of the Washington Park club, Chicago, Mr. E. Corrigan heads the list with over $24,000 to his credit; E. J. Baldwin, over $9,000, is the second, and then follows E. J. McElmeel, with more than $6,000, the bulk of which was won by Gen. Monroe in the Washington park cup.

W. J. Neely, Ottawa, Ill., has sold to Edward Phillips, Ogden, Ia., the chestnut two-year-old stallion Cleveland Chief, by Byron, dam Neely's Maid, by Neely's Henry Clay; second dam Kate O'Brien, by imp. Scythian. Price $1,000.

Wallace McClelland has sold the bay colt Hannibal (3) bo Harkaway, dam Lizzie Vic, by Uncle Vic, out of Mags, by imp. Knight of St. George, to L. C. Behman, of Brooklyn. Mr. Behman assumes all engagements and pays all forfeits due on the horse. Price paid, $2,000.

The noted gelding Ballast (6), by imp. Bonnie Scotland, dam Planchette, by Brown Dick, out of Odd Trick, by Lexington, was so badly injured in the race for the Kings county cup on Wednesday last at Brighton Beach that it was necessary to shoot him to put him out of his misery.

Ex-Mayor M. N. Nolan, of Albany, N. Y., has purchased of W. C. Daly the noted steeplechase horse Jim McGowan (5), by War Dance, dam by Solferino, out of a mare by Boston. The price paid was $4,700. The horse has never been owned by any one except W. C. Daly, notwithstanding the notorious Baron von Selditz assured the public that he had bought him.

The chestnut brood mare Ombra, foaled 1872, by Asteroid, dam Ducatoon, by Wagner, out of Picayune, by Medoc, the property of E. T. Halsey, Louisville, Ky., died a short time since in foal to Longbow. Ombra was a comparatively young mare and highly bred, but has had only three foals, Mirabeau, Pendragon and Bowsprit, all by Longbow.

Commodore Kittson has recently sold to Mr. M. F. Katz, the brown colt Retrench, (4), by Reform, dam Kate O'Neil, by Master Lightfoot, out of Mary Dunn, by Ruric, and to Charles Ochs the chestnut horse Highflyer (5), by Hiawatha, dam Sue Wynne, by Vandal, out of Florence Nightengale, by O'Mera. Retrench was sold for $130, and Highflyer for $190.

Mr. P. S. Donovan sold recently at Chicago the bay colt Chili (4), by Chillicothe, dam Siren, by Oliver, out of Nebraska, by imp. Sovereign for $1,500. Chili has won this season mile heats in 1:45, 1:46; heats of three-quarters in 1:16¼, 1:17, 1:19, finishing third in the first heat, and one mile and a quarter in 2:14, beating Ada Glenn, Gus. Matthews and others. He is a well bred colt and ought to prove a good investment for his present owners.

The bay brood mare Nannie Butler, foaled 1861, by Lexington, dam Tokay, by imp. Yorkshire, out of Miss Martin, by Garrison's Zinganee, the property of Mr. D. Swigert, Elmendorf Stud, Ky., died on June 26 from old age. Nannie Butler was the dam of Girl of the Period, by Virgil, who was dam of Gerald, by imp. Saxon (now in England), Iiderim, Nannie Black and others. The Lexington matrons are now gradually passing away, and the question with breeders is, what is to supply their places in the breeding ranks?

It is reported that Iroquois will be retired from the turf, and hereafter do stud duty at the Rancocas Stud, N. J., the property of Mr. P. Lorillard. Iroquois is a brown horse, foaled 1878, by imp. Leamington, dam Maggie B. B., by imp. Australian, out of Madeline, by Boston. He is the only American bred horse that ever won the English Derby and also the St. Leger, and being a son of Leamington, out of Maggie B. B., the dam of Harold and Panique, will make him a popular sire, and his progeny should race successfully.

Turf, Field And Farm: A dispatch from Mr. H. B. Winship, dated at Providence R. I., July 16, informs us that the Narragansett Driving association has arranged with W. H. Crawford, Mr. Case's manager, to trot Jay Eye See and Phalas to beat their records on Wednesday, July 30. The Narragansett track is certainly one of the fastest in the country, and if the two are in good condition on the day of the trial, we can reasonably look for the record to be beaten. It was on this course that Jay Eye See made his five-year-old record of 2:10¾.

The Chicago Times of the 13th says: Last night at about 10:30, J. M. Hill, the theatrical manager who acelevea some fame by bringing out Margaret Mather, the tragedienne, met Mr. B. J. Johnson, owner of the great pacer Westmont, at the Sherman House, and in twenty minutes had bought the chestnut gelding, paying $20,000 for him. In a conversation with the Times reporter Mr. Hill said: "I saw Westmont travel one-half mile with his mate, Monday, in one minute, and I said I must have the horse. I bought him to-night, and will send him in exhibition heats with his mate, and I shall probably purchase the runner that went with him yesterday. I think that he is good for a mile in less than two minutes, and I shall also drive him on the road. Within ten minutes after the purchase I was offered $25,000 for him. I have made arrangements to speed him with his mate just one mile for $2,500 at Pittsburgh next week."

Messrs. Dwyer Bros. have recently reduced their stable by the sale of the following horses: To T. Stewart the bay colt Col. Clay (2) by imp. Billet, dam Lucillo Western, by Lexington, out of Kate, by Count Zaldivar, for $525. To G. B. Bryson the chestnut filly Ripplette (2) by Lisbon, dam Maggie Hunter, by imp. Australian, out of Heads-I Say, by imp. Glencoe, full sister of Ripple, for $480. To T. Barrett the chestnut colt Bolter (2), by Bramble, dam Quartet, by Jack Malone, out of Duet, by Highlander, for $140. To W. J. Roche the chestnut filly Sea Foam (2), by Lisbon, dam Blandina, by Lexington, out of My Lady, by imp. Glencoe. To E. Purcell the brown gelding Electric Light (2), by Enquirer, dam Vesperlight, by Childe Harold, out of Budelight, by imp. Glencoe, for $300, and to James Rowe the chestnut gelding Joe Blackburn (4), by imp. Bonnie Scotland, dam Nevada, by Lexington, out of Lightsome, by imp. Glencoe, for $500. The above animals were bought by the Messrs. Dwyer at the following prices: At the Belle Meade sale, Electric Light at $3,500 and Bolter $575; at the Woodburn sale, Ripplette at $600 and Sea Foam $575; at the Runnymede sale, Col. Clay for $500. Joe Blackburn was purchased at the Belle Meade sale for $7,500, the highest price ever paid for a yearling in America.

CLEAR LAKE, WIS.

[Special Correspondence of the Globe.]

CLEAR LAKE, July 18.—If the Republican party had instituted a thorough canvass of the United States for a candidate to run for the presidency, and wanted a man to their liking, they could not have filled the bill better than in the selection of Jas. G. Blaine. His past record stands on file to-day as a deep, designing demagogue; a man devoid of principle, and one that will stoop to any little act of infamy to accomplish his purpose. Self aggrandizement is his god, to whom he will fall down and worship at all times and under all circumstances. For the last thirty years he has been playing a hand for office, always keeping the White house in view. In the great Know-nothing rage of '56 he was the grand mogul of his county, pledging his sacred honor as an American to oppose the foreign element, and forever use his utmost endeavor to keep them from obtaining an office higher than poundmaster. Reader, this is the man who now asks for the Irish vote to lift him into the presidential chair. Irishmen, I apeal to you as men of integrity and common sense to read up this man's past political record, and you will find him every time a deep, designing, crafty office seeker, one who would betray the Irish nation for a paltry sum, and pollute his know nothing obligation to accomplish his purposes. His lackeys are already in the field going among the laboring classes; telling them that if Blaine is elected, Ireland will be free within his (Blaine's) administration. This is a new dodge, never before resorted to bythe Republican party, they have always looked upon them as unapproachable; and not to be influenced by electioneering manufactured false statements. James G. Blaine, if elected, would not recognize the foreigners, but would advance the Blaine family nearer and nearer to the public pap at Washington. He has already secured twenty-three of his relatives a position where they can draw their sustenance from Uncle Sam's strong box four times a year. If he was to be elected, it would be a repetition of the royal Grant family, who made a tour of the world at the expense of the United States and the taxes taken from the working classes. We have seen enough of that royalty business. We want no more Fred's elevated in the army over a one armed soldier. We want no more present-taking, bull pup worshiping presidents. We want a man in the White House that will curtail the national expenses, reduce the number of office holders and instigate honesty, purity and fidelity among the office holders. Such a man is Grover Cleveland who carried N. Y. state by 200,000 majority; such a majority was never given to a man in any one state in the Union. Workmen do not be hoodwinked or bulldozed by any party using false insinuations to secure your vote.

This is written by a farmer who appeals to you as men to stend by Cleveland. J. L. W.

John S. Pillsbury.

Editor St. Paul Globe.

The St. Paul Dispatch of yesterday, July 17, in its department headed, "Current Comment," publishes without a word of dissent, the following paragraph:

"Ignatius Donnelly's speech at Ortonville, Minn.: Twenty-five years ago John S. Pillsbury, when I first knew him, was selling nails and hinges across the counter of a second rate hardware store—you have better in your city. Now every year he builds five or six elevators and a new mill. Where does it come from? Stealage, stealage, my friends. [Applause."]

I hope that the above paragraph misrepresents any remarks made by Mr. Donnelly in his Ortonville speech, and that in justice to himself he will be able to so declare without delay.

Irrespective of party distinctions, I have supposed and believed that the people of Minnesota—all that know anything about him—have, without exception, esteemed and regarded John S. Pillsbury as a strictly honest man in all the relations of his life, private and public.

I have known him well for many years, and have never before heard the charge of "stealage" imputed against him—not a suspicion have I ever heard to encourage the insinuation of such a charge.

While always adverse to his political affiliations I have long regarded John S. Pillsbury as absolutely incapable of private, corporate or official "stealage," or bribe taking, or of dishonorable conduct under any plea or pretence whatever. If Mr. Donnelly did say what the "current comment" of the Dispatch asserts, (which I hope is a misrepresentation) and unless the "stealage" allegations can be justified by direct or circumstantial evidence, it was indeed, and in every sense, a most indefensible and wicked calumny. Such, I must say, is the suggestion of my more youthful leducation as a Jeffersonian and Jacksonian Democrat, and as a Cleveland Democrat now.

For surely, not only now, but in all political campaigns, since the beginning of American party politics, no honest politician could or would utter a charge of official "stealage" against an opponent, unless justified in doing so by direct or circumstantial evidence, which in this last mentioned emergency, and then only, the exposure of official "stealage" becomes an imperative public duty. Respectfully,

D. A. ROBERTSON.

WINONA ENTHUSIASTIC.

A Wide Awake Cleveland and Hendricks Club Organized.

[Special Correspondence of the Globe.]

WINONA, July 19.—The enthusiasm created by the nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks took form in a meeting called to organize a club for the campaign, on Thursday evening. The meeting was large, and very enthusiastic, the court house being filled with Democrats and reformed Republicans.

Mr. W. J. Whipple, called the meeting to order and on motion of Mr. C. H. Lamberton, Mr. H. L. Buck was elected temporary chairman.

On taking the chair Mr. Buck said that the citizens of Winona had been summoned here in the name of reform to organize a club whose power would be felt in every town in the county.

The leaders of the party were men who combined all the fire of youthful manhood with the mature wisdom of the Sage of Indiana. Let us go about the matter soberly and lay deep and strong the foundations from which will spring the bonds of our political fellowship. Let us imitate, as far as our feeble minds can imitate, that noble old man, who, with one foot already beyond the mysterious river, is still the very paragon of patriotic wisdom. Let us know no sect, or creed, or race, but be simply American citizens bent on reviving American institutions.

Mr. L. M. Rand was then chosen temporary secretary and a committee of five appointed by the chair to report a permanent organization.

A constitution was then read and after debate was adopted.

Mr. W. J. Whipple was then called for and in responding said that he had attended the largest convention ever held; that Cleveland and Hendricks had been nominated by a majority that was irresistible, and that there could be no doubt but their election would be by an equally overwhelming majority.

Calls were then made for the mayor, Mr. Ludwig. Amid cheers, which frequently interrupted him, he made a stirring speech. He said the time had come when the great American boss must follow the path of all the lesser bosses. During the exciting campaign which resulted in Windom's ignominious defeat, his (Windom's) friends had come to him and said Windom's defeat would kill Winona. On the contrary, he said, Winona had experienced an unparalleled boom ever since Windom had been cleaned out. And if we can clean out Blaine and his band of leeches America will see such a boom as she never has seen before. [Great cheering.] The Republicans were the essence of deceit. They were renewing their old cry that they were the ones who had produced such prosperous times.

He doubted very much that the last few years had been prosperous to the laboring man, but if they had been it was owing to a bountiful Providence and that Providence was not the Republican party. (Applause.)

Mr. W. S. Drew here advanced to the front bearing a large portrait of one whom he said was to be our next president.

This was greeted with uproarious applause, and when Mr. Drew, in a few choice words, presented the picture to the club the enthusiasm increased.

The chairman, in the name of those present, accepted the gift and thanked Mr. Drew for his appropriate and generous gift.

Mr. W. A. Scott was next called for, and in substance said when Mr. Cleveland was first nominated it was thought we had made a mistake. I am pleased to see that it proves to be different, and assured that he (Cleveland) would carry New York, and after speaking about Cleveland's ability the speaker closed by saying: We need a careful hand to administer the government at this time, in view of the financial troubles throughout the country. He believed the thinking people would unite their efforts and elect a Democratic president. E. D. Hurlbert was called for, and after a few remarks called on L. M. Rand, who proceeded in paying high tribute to the Democratic National convention for placing in nomination as president a man whose character and integrity was unimpeachable. Whose ability and political sagacity are recognized by even his own enemies to be second to none, and after reviewing his biography and noble deeds, the speaker paid equally high tribute to Hendricks, and assured the audience that whoever nourished the soul of freedom and patriotism would help that noble man to vindicate the fraud perpetrated upon him in 1876. Alluding quite lengthy to the platform he closed by saying the platform alone ought to induce every man in these western states to vote for the Democratic ticket regardless of party links.

Judge Turner declined to speak on account of bad cold.

Ex-Mayor Hodgins liked the nomination and assured them of his earnest support.

Mr. Alvin Braley was called for, and said he was not generally recognized as a speech maker, but that he had concluded to join the Democratic party because it was the people's party. Four years ago he had been a Republican, but they were verging into an aristocracy and he thought it time they were routed. He should do all in his power to elect Cleveland and Hendricks. [Cheers.]

Judge Story said he was glad the young men had taken hold of this matter. The campaign was to be a young men's campaign, and just as certain as youth and purity could defeat aged corruption, Cleveland and Hendricks would defeat Blaine and Logan. [Applause.]

The committee on permanent organization then reported as follows:

For President—E. D. Hurlburt.
For Treasurer—Chas. Auding.
For Corresponding Secretary—H. L. Buck.
For Recording Secretary—L. M. Rand.

The vice presidents and executive committee to be named at the next meeting.

On motion the next meeting was left subject to call by the president. WINONA.

REDFIELD, D. T.

[Special Correspondence of the Globe.]

REDFIELD, July 18.—Harvesting commenced—Barley all cut and is a splendid crop. The past two weeks of cool weather, with slight showers, will increase the average of wheat in this county to not less than twenty bushels per acre. The enterprising proprietors of the Redfield City Mills are erecting a large elevator in which to store some of Spink county No. 1 hard.

We understand that Minneapolis wheat buyers will erect large elevators in this place at the St. Paul depot. A. W. Greenman is getting stone on the ground preparatory to building a two-story solid brick.

M. C. Bennett has commenced the erection of a second block. Mr. Bennett is a gentleman from old New York state, and shows his confidence in Redfield by erecting substantial buildings. He has also invested largely in farm property.

The combined agencies of the different self-binders will dispose of over 500 machines for the season in this place. Manufacturers of farm machinery make this a distributing point.

County seat matters are waxing warm, with Redfield first choice, Old Ashton second, and Bald Mountain a good third.

The officers of the Spink county Agricultural society are doing a large amount of good work, with intentions of making this the best fair held in the territory. H. P. Packard, the indefatigable president of the society, goes to St. Paul to make arrangements for some features of the fair.

The stockholders of the Redfield, Bismarck & Northern railroad held an important meeting in this city. This road will give direct communication between the capital of Bismarck and the future capital of southern Dakota, at Redfield.

F. A. Davis, cashier, Spink County bank, and A. B. Thomas, of Hunt, Howard & Thomas, have returned from their trip to St. Paul, guests of the St. Paul Jobbers'. The boys report a good time.

R. B. Hassel has returned from a trip to Iowa.

The GLOBE is adding new friends to its list in this city and has now the largest circulation of any of the dailies.

We missed Friend Hall on the second visit of the Jobbers, but easily found the GLOBE headquarters on the train with Friend Barrett in charge. Barrett is what they call in this country "a four horse team."

A fellow claiming residence in the town of Clark, got on too much "Turtle creek" water, and was up before his honor, Judge Edwards. His $10 fine will help improve the city walks. Our special policeman, K. L. Hound is the right man in for the place, and when the high kickers from other towns come in "to paint the city red" they generally leave looking a little blue.

Perry Carson Ahead Again--Civil Service Law Avoided--Dan Manning for Chairman.

Manning for Democratic Committee Chairman.

[Special Telegram to the Globe.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—It is generally believed by leading Democrats that Daniel Manning, the chairman of the New York state Democratic committee, will be selected as chairman of the national Democratic committee. The Democratic convention gave the national committee the right to go outside of its membership for a chairman. The prime purpose of those who worked for this was to dispose of Mr. Barnum, who, for some reason, is not liked by southern Democrats, more especially so by southern Democratic senators.

Civil Service Interpretations.

[Special Telegram to the Globe.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Mr. Pendleton's civil service law, which, as Ben Butler said at the Chicago convention, would have kept George Washington out of office in the city named for him, has been given a liberal construction by the gentle dudes called the civil service commission. The civil service rules do not apply to appointments to place paying only $720 a year or under that sum. Any one passing a civil service examination is eligible to appointment to a $1,200 clerkship. In many cases the wait between the successful passing of the examination and the appointment to a $1,200 place is very long. A number of people who passed successful examinations accepted $720 places. They are eligible to promotion in the regular order without undergoing another examination. In this way they have reached the grade of $1,200 long before their turn would have come for such an appointment, and in the meantime they have been in the government employ, too.

Vandervoort to Stump for Blaine.

[Special Telegram to the Globe.]

CHICAGO, July 19.—Paul Vandervoort, of Omaha, who was removed from the postoffice department by Gen. Gresham shortly after the latter succeeded Timothy O. Howe, passed through Chicago, on his way to Minneapolis, this morning to attend the G. A. R. encampment. The alleged cause of his removal was the devotion of too much of his time to the G. A. R., of which he was commander. He was asked whether he intended to support Blaine and Logan:

"Support them," he replied, "and work for them. I did not deliver more than two campaign speeches when I was commander of the Grand Army, because in that organization politics was tabooed. I am now only a member, and I shall go into active stumping."

"Do you believe the Republican ticket can be elected?"

"It will carry Nebraska, I am sure, and I don't think there is the slightest doubt of its success."

Perry Carson's Banner.

[Special Telegram to the Globe.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Col. Perry Carson is a descendent of Ham. He bobbed up serenely in the Chicago national convention as a delegate from the District of Columbia, and leaped into fame by downing his colleague, Washington's postmaster, likewise the son of Senator Conger. Perry keeps a gin mill here where the Blaine straight whisky is sold to emancipated freemen at ten cents a "hist." Perry is for Blaine. To surely advertise the fact he strings a flag from his "Banshee" across Pennsylvania avenue, having for its opposite hold the chimney of an undertaker. It was a kind of a black flag arrangement. The district commissioners ordered Perry's arrest, claiming he had violated a law in floating it. The case was tried before a police judge to-day who decided that a Blaine flag was not an obstruction, no matter if held up by a gin mill, a corpse making establishment, and an undertaker's ranch, a corpse disposing one. It may be well for the commissioners in their defeat to know that the police judge received his appointment fifteen years ago at the request of James G. Blaine and Hannibal Hamlin.

The Labor Unions Not in Politics.

[Special Telegram to the Globe.]

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Gabriel Edmonston, the carpenter of the house of representatives, ex-president of the carpenters' union of this district, said to a Star reporter that the resolutions condemnatory of Cleveland adopted by the federation of labor recently emanated from a few laborers employed by the government, and that it was against the rules of the unions to meddle with politics at all. He says there was but one dissenting voice to the resolutions passed by the carpenter's union Wednesday night, repudiating the action of the federation of labor.

"I believe," he said, "that a large majority of the workingmen will vote for Ben Butler, if he runs, in preference to either Cleveland or Blaine, though I would not. If he runs he will draw off a labor vote, but not as large as it would have been if he had not gone to the Democratic convention. Since he went there many laboring men will contend that he must stand by the party, for they detest a bolter above all things."

"That's so," said a carpenter standing by. "I am a Butler man, but I will not vote for him now. He must stand by the party. I shan't vote for a bolter."

Mr. Edmonston said that Butler was not authorized to speak for organized labor at Chicago. The only men with authority to do that were P. H. McLogon and Richard Powers.

The published report that the president contemplated withdrawing the commission of John J. Jarret as the chief of the new bureau of labor created by congress is not true. It is not in the power of the president to thus dispose of Mr. Jarrett. His nomination to the office and the consent of the senate thereto gave him the office, and the president's commission operates only as a record thereof. The president can remove him forthwith under the tenure of office law, but cannot defeat the act of the senate, the "consenting" power, by reposing a commission. No doubt the president feels a little sore toward Jarrett because of a speech he made to a body of laboring men in Pittsburg, wherein the laudation Mr. Arthur got was not such as to inspire him to have it framed and hung up for a real chromo.

Blaine's Campaign Indicator.

[Special Telegram to the Globe.]

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Graphic, in regard to Blaine's letter, says Blaine is a bold leader. He believes in protection, he thinks the Republican party believes in it and he proposes to make it the main issue of this campaign. Happily for the Democratic party the tariff question is not to be sprung on them in the last hours of the campaign, as was the case, to their unbounded astonishment, in 1880. They might have made their position impregnable if the Democratic house had acted with half the courage that characterizes Blaine, but they can yet do so during the months that must elapse before the election. Thousands of people will look upon Blaine's roseate picture of public prosperity with astonishment almost equal to
