IT IS A GRAND ARMY.

Forming Here of Survivors of the Great Armies of the Union.

Thousands Came Yesterday and Last Night and Thousands More Coming To-day.

State Headquarters, City Decorations, Location of Delegates at Camp Beach, etc.

First Regiment Reunion, Visit of Willis A. Persons, etc.

Yesterday inaugurated the most noted week in the history of the state of Minnesota. The sun rose bright and clear and gave promise of one of the most lovely days—the most agreeable gift of nature. Until evening the promise of the morning in this particular was fulfilled. Then the clouds rolled up dark and ominous, and the wind rose, yet it did not seem to discourage any one.

All dawn people were astir, and soon after all was life and activity on the streets. The local veterans were out in full uniform to greet and escort comrades from other places to their headquarters. The drum corps filled the air with martial music. The various committees were at five and unfurling in their efforts to have every little detail consummated, and their success was almost a marvel. The decorations had not been completed the previous day despite the indefatigable efforts of the grand army people and public spirited citizens, and labor was renewed with vigor and by noon the city was

A BLAZE OF GLORY. Flags and banners floated in the soft July breeze in every locality. They were not confined to the beloved stars and stripes, but every civilized nation was represented. The grand triumphal arches were magnificent. The business blocks, public buildings and principal hotels were literally covered with bright colored banners, streamers, bunting evergreen, and tri-colored festoons. It would be difficult indeed to conceive anything more gay, and to-day the decorations on the whole "beggared description" (borrowing the old stockpots and theatrical expressions) and can only be realized by those who actually see them. The double arch at the junction of Washington and Nicollet avenues is preeminently the handsomest and embraced by far the most labor and skill. The arch across Hennepin avenue, near the West hotel, is tasty and attractive, as are many of the others. The whole presents a gorgeous spectacle.

The first to arrive in the morning were the Videttes and other trains soon followed with parts from the various points in the state and from places within an hundred miles or so of the city. The first train brought more spectators than veterans. About 100 members of the Frank P. Blair post No. 1, from St. Louis arrived over the St. Louis road and were escorted to quarters at eight o'clock. The Omaha road brought in over 800 people at noon, coming from Omaha, Sioux City, Kansas and other points. Other trains continued to arrive over this route throughout the day. In fact every road centering in Minneapolis added its full quota to the arrivals. A large delegation arrived over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road direct from New England.

Warriors continued to arrive and they were accompanied by families and friends, and trains steamed into each depot up to a late hour heavily loaded. To-day they are expected to swell and augment the number by several thousands, and it is now thought that the most sanguine anticipations respecting the number of Grand Army people throughout the day. In fact every road up to entertain, will be more than realized.

THE HOSPITALITY of the citizens of Minneapolis is proverbial, and in entertaining their guests during the present week they are certainly fully sustaining their reputation won on former occasions.

A telegram from Milwaukee says: The special train carrying Commander Beath and a large delegation of veterans to the Minneapolis encampment made the run from Chicago to Milwaukee in two hours—the fastest time ever made between the two places. The Wisconsin delegation left at 3 this afternoon for the encampment.

THE ELGIN BAND. The arrival of the famous Elgin Military band at noon yesterday was announced to the citizens within hearing by loud cheering. The Gen. M. Morgan drum corps and escort conducted the band direct to Clarke's cafe, where a sumptuous dinner was served. After despatching the repast the band went to the fair grounds and took up permanent quarters in the camp for the week.

Six trains from Kansas arrived last evening. Besides the veterans and their friends and families these trains included, among their passengers the Flambeau club of Topeka.

At Camp Beach. Yesterday at Camp Beach was a very busy day. The delegates commenced arriving early in the morning and came pouring into Minneapolis by all routes. Every train brought a number to swell the grand total, and the streets leading to the fair grounds, as well as the street cars, were filled with a miscellaneous crowd of good natured people.

Around the entrance of the ground are numerous booths and peanut stands, and the first word the veteran hears on approaching Camp Beach is an invitation to try a glass of lemonade, or to buy some fresh roasted peanuts. The first thing which greets his eye is the fortification which is made of painted muslin and its frowning cannon of wood. Passing beneath the arch he finds himself still surrounded by stands. Some member of the G. A. R. then acts as his guide and pilots him around the amphitheater and into the camp proper.

Six hundred tents have been prepared for the homes of the veterans. They will camp here in the style of soldiers, and fresh clean straw has been placed in the tents for their accommodation. A number of the soldiers will also occupy bunks in the hospital building. In addition to the tents pitched by the managers of the ground, a number of posts have brought their own tents. Several of the Wisconsin posts came thus equipped, as well as the Elgin band. While the camp preparations were not entirely completed, the work of the day was well done. The various delegations were met at the depots by a detachment from the local post, and escorted to their quarters. At the adjutant's office the day was a very busy one, and everything was done that could be done for the accommodation of the visiting veterans.

One of the first posts to arrive was the delegation from Alexander Wilkin Post, of Mankato. The delegation from the P. M. Cook Post No. 98, of Vinton, Iowa, arrived at about the same time. Wisconsin had more delegations on the ground yesterday than any other state. Frank Blair Post, of Missouri, also sent part of its delegation yesterday. As near as could be ascertained the following are all the posts that had arrived up to late hours last night.

Charles G. Bacha Post No. 48, Nellville, Wisconsin; J. W. Tallford, captain Company G. Twenty-third Wisconsin infantry, commanding, forty men, occupying eight tents.

F. M. Cooper Post No. 98, Vinton, Iowa, H. H. Eddy, commanding, twenty-four men, occupying two tents, 18x24 feet.

G. W. Lynn Post No. 30, Sparta, Wisconsin, A. E. Bleekman, commanding, fifteen men as advance guard for the seventy-five or 100 occupied, ten tents secured.

Robert S. McCook Post No. 38, Glencoe, Minnesota, R. S. Miles, commander, A. H. Reed, quartermaster, forty-nine men, occupying ten tents on Colorado avenue. This delegation is accompanied by J. C. Edson, colonel Fourth Minnesota.

Steedman Post No. 69, Hector, Minnesota, W. P. Dimpfords, lieutenant Company C, Third Minnesota infantry, commanding, twenty-three men occupying five tents on Colorado avenue.

Eagle Post No. 52, Eau Claire, Wisconsin, M. Griffin, commanding, sixty-six men occupying ten tents on Wisconsin avenue. Among the veterans composing this post are the following: Captain Sloggy, Forty-sixth Wisconsin; E. W. Allen, lieutenant Company H, Sixteenth Wisconsin; E. M. Bartlett, lieutenant colonel Thirtieth Wisconsin; B. F. Cowan, lieutenant Company C, Eighth Wisconsin; L. P. Hotchkiss, lieutenant Company B, 180th New York; D. B. Merriam, lieutenant Fifth New York cavalry. This post is also accompanied by a band.

Willam Evans, post No. 58, Menominee, Wisconsin; J. W. Bailey, commander; fifty men, occupying eight tents.

A. S. Bennett post No. 84, Tiffany, Wisconsin; J. W. Granger, commander; twenty men, occupying three tents.

Charles Gilbert Post No. 82, Durand, Wisconsin; Gilbert Dowd, commander; sixty men, occupying five tents.

Comerford Post No. 68, Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin; William R. Hoyt, commander; thirty-five men, occupying eight tents.

John Ball post No. 43, Winona Minnesota; D. E. Vance, commander; fifty men, occupying four tents on Colorado avenue.

Stoddard Post No. 84, Worthington, Minnesota, L. M. Lange, commanding; eighty-five men occupying twelve tents on Headquarters avenue.

Alex. Wilkins Post No. 19, Mankato, Minnesota, Wm. Thomas, commander, and advance guard of twelve men to secure tents and make preparations necessary for the reception of their comrades. One hundred men are expected from this post, and will occupy twelve tents on Nebraska avenue.

A part of company F of Fort Snelling, under command of Lieut. Stewart. There are two officers, twenty-five men, two guns, two caissons and twenty-one horses on the ground. For these three tents near the headquarters have been prepared. The remainder of this battery will be on the ground to-morrow.

Encampment Gibelets.

The Globe building is near the gate, on the grounds, and all friends are invited to call.

If there was ever any time when sprinkling is necessary it is just now, during the week of the encampment. Yet we notice that many of the streets over which the spray has heretofore been spread with precision and care, are now almost as dry as the usual deluge of dapples. Keep the streets wet, gentlemen contractors. On such occasions dampness, damnable damp in fact, is preferable to dismal, disgusting and dirty dust.

No meeting last night at Indiana headquarters, but the rooms were filled with visitors from the Hoosier state and resident Indiana friends of the grand army, and acquaintances, and among cultivating the "ties that bind." Among those already registered are Gen. Mansion, Crawfordville; J. E. Whitist, Madison; Will C. Paine, Evansville; James B. Mulky, Bloomington, and many others. Large delegations are anticipated, and by to-night it is expected the register will present an array of names such as will go credit to the association and the city of their adoption.

Altogether the thing will be about equalized; in this—that we will have General Logan, candidate for vice president on the National Republican, and General M. D. Mansion, candidate for lieutenant-governor, on the Indiana Democratic state ticket with us during the week of the encampment. Both were good soldiers.

The rooms of the Indiana association, rooms 4 and 4 1/2, Syndicate block, are handsomely decorated and will prove a welcome haven of rest for the Indiana visitors. The Hoosier state was a rattler during the war, it is a rattler in politics and it is a rattler socially. Over the door is inscribed "welcome," inside is hearty and wholesome recognition.

What a godsend it would be if lumber, stone and wood wagons could be sent on other avenues to their destinations than by Nicollet, Hennepin and Washington. They are always in the way on these thoroughfares now more so than ever.

The Globe building on the ground is elaborately decorated.

The Elgin military band inspires all the old veterans with their old war music.

The Elgin band makes an admirable escort, and is detailed for that duty.

The Sons of Veterans, Geo. N. Morgan post camp, under command of Capt. Knowlton, is located at the west end of the camp, near the hospital building. The sons are to be aided by the daughters. They have one of the most commodious tents on the field.

Gen. Webb, commander Sons of Veterans, will arrive to-day from Kansas City, and will take quarters at the Minnesota headquarters.

It has been announced that the Veteran association would guard the battle flag of Camp Heath. This is not correct. That honor has been tendered Capt. Knowlton and his command Sons of Veterans.

Geo. A. Barry, managing editor of the daily Leader, at Eau Claire, Wis., was the first newspaper man to register at the Press club headquarters.

All newspaper men are requested to call at the Press club headquarters and receive badges, as well as to register, as soon after arrival as convenient.

M. E. Ingalls and family, from Cincinnati, were the first to register at the new West hotel.

All the rooms at the West hotel—400—have been taken by the Grand Army people. The Elgin band numbers 89 strong.

The press club has the most attractive tent at the camp.

The dust on the grounds is an abomination, and should be got rid of by thorough sprinkling.

The light drink and peanut vendors did a thrifty business yesterday.

Decorating the buildings was continued throughout the day.

Shortly before 6 o'clock a detachment from Company F, stationed at Fort Snelling arrived at the camp with the ordinance, comprising four twelve-pound rifle guns.

New Jersey headquarters were yesterday established at No. 213 Nicollet avenue. The New Jersey veterans will arrive via the Minneapolis & St. Louis route at 7:05 this morning.

The residents of the city who hail from New York state have been remarkably impatient. Yesterday morning thirteen carloads of old "vets" from that state arrived only to find that no headquarters had been arranged for them. They were taken care of however.

From necessity, the old veterans will be temperance men at the camp. It is outside the "active patrol" district, and spirituous, vious and malt liquors cannot be sold in that vicinity.

Strangers arriving in the city who had not previously arranged for quarters, will be in luck if they secure even a cot in a hall way to sleep on this week.

Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire are represented by 250 G. A. R. people.

The press club badges are neat and tasty. All members of the second Minnesota battery are requested to report at the Bureau of Information in Harrison hall.

Gen. Mansion, of Crawfordville, will speak at the campfire this evening.

The Kansas City delegation which arrived yesterday is over 200 strong. More are on route.

The Delaware delegation filled twelve coaches, and twice as many more are expected.

Dr. Beaumont has been appointed oculist for Camp Beach.

The Michigan delegation will go into camp to-day.

The Montana delegation is in camp.

Gen. Harris and Judge Harris are the guests of G. F. Warner.

The speakers for the camp fire on the encampment grounds to-morrow evening are Gen. John A. Logan, of Illinois; C. H. Grosvenor, of Athens, O.; Gen. Barnum, of New York, and other.

The fine business meeting of the encampment will be held at Coliseum at noon Wednesday.

Commander Benjamin Williams and C. A. Coombs, of the national council, Maine, arrived at Minneapolis yesterday.

Paul Vanderwort, of the National Tribune, last year's commander of the G. A. R. encampment, arrived in Minneapolis yesterday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Kate L. Sherwood and daughter, and Capt. Lemon, of Washington.

A. H. Monroe, adjutant general of Massachusetts, accompanied by a few of the delegates from that state, arrived yesterday.

The camp fires to-night will be held at the camp ground.

Garfield Post, of St. Paul, will take the train this evening at 6 o'clock for the encampment.

Some of the veterans of the old Minnesota First cut loose last evening, and enjoyed themselves hugely. They made the welkin ring.

The headquarters of the Illinoisans at Nos. 29 and 31 South Fifth street excels all other headquarters by great odds. The large room is profusely decorated from one end to the other. It was kept open last night and hundreds dropped in in the course of the evening. The programme was enjoyable and diversified, consisting of songs and recitations. It was so exceptionally informal that when a GLOBE reporter called at ten o'clock, he found a most happy meeting had transpired. It was learned, however, that Miss Phoebe Satterlee, one of Minneapolis' most pleasing contralto vocalists and accomplished elocutionists had given a few delightful numbers. She sang "Barbara Fritchie," "The Magnificent Hotel," and to a spontaneous encore she gave her delightful auditors "You Put No Flowers on My Father's Grave." Seth Abbott gave a few songs, and an impromptu chorus sung old war songs until the bewitching hour of midnight. The headquarters will be kept open throughout the encampment.

The Michigan headquarters at 312 Nicollet are tastefully decorated and are quite pretty rooms. Nothing special was done last evening, owing to the fact that not many of the delegation from that state had arrived.

Division commanders are requested to report at their posts promptly, or they "will get left."

The Ohio delegation arrived at 1 o'clock this morning.

The patriotic ladies who are natives of the Buckeye state are requested to meet at the Ohio headquarters, No. 414 Nicollet avenue, this evening.

Quite a large number from Ohio registered last evening—over a hundred.

By mutual agreement all the banks will remain closed to-morrow.

A delegation of 140 will arrive from Illinois this night.

The New York headquarters was established at 414 Nicollet avenue last evening, but nothing in particular was done.

At Plummer Post last evening thirteen new members were initiated.

Geo. F. Johnson, the injured veteran, was taken to the college hospital, and everything is being done for his comfort.

Col. Colville, who commanded the First Minnesota regiment at the battle of Gettysburg, with his wife, is a guest of Col. Gordon, of this city.

Senator Bloom, of Iowa, and family, are in the city.

The Brainerd post, with a band and thirty-five ladies of the Brown brigade, will arrive this morning, and will be escorted to the army by Maj. T. Chambers, commanding.

The West Hotel, which opened yesterday, is beautifully decorated, the bunting and decorations being so arranged as to almost entirely conceal the unfinished portions of the walls. Over the desk is a tent with a life-sized soldier on guard at Camp West. The magnificent hotel was visited by hundreds of citizens as well as strangers and was universally pronounced "superb," "complete," with other exclamations of surprise and wonder.

Ransom Bartlett comes all the way from Washington territory to attend the First regiment reunion.

Mr. Dr. King, of Lincoln, Neb., "advance guard" of the relief corps of the capital city, is a guest of Mrs. L. W. Robue, Twenty-seventh street and Twenty-seventh avenue southwest.

The committee on reception at the depots would add greatly to the general information if they would keep track of the posts that arrive and report the same to the committee on information.

Decorating the Coliseum. The work of decorating was still continued at the coliseum yesterday. The business meetings of the encampment will be held in this hall, and the committee are preparing to have it properly decorated. The stage is being covered with evergreens and decorated with flags, bunting, etc. On the rear of the stage is the picture "Peace and War." The Goddess of Peace is looking down upon the hand embracing his wife on his return from the war, and a Union and confederate soldier are grasping each other's hands. In front of the balcony are ranged a large number of flags, and below the flags, on the balcony, are the different corps badges. At the back of the circle are the coat of arms of the various states. The whole building is being handsomely decorated with evergreens and bunting. The parquette will be devoted to the use of department and delegates only. Each department has a number of tables, according to the size of its delegation, and these are plainly marked so there can be no mistake. The departments will be distinguished by silk banners, bearing the names of the departments and delegates only. Benefit Concert. For several weeks Prof. Birdsall has been actively engaged in drilling a chorus of two hundred school children for a grand benefit concert which will be given in Market hall on Thursday evening, for the benefit of the fund. The chorus of pretty, sweet-faced children will be assisted by a number of the leading vocalists, as will be seen by the following:

The pyramid which stands on Bridge square will be taken to the hall at the conclusion of the parade on Wednesday.

A Sad Accident. At the very outset of the G. A. R. festivities it is sad indeed that a veteran who had survived the battles of war should, on coming to join his old comrades receive an injury which will main him for life, and perhaps kill him. Yesterday afternoon Geo. Johnson, of Redfield, D. T., who was on a Washington avenue car on his way to Camp Beach, saw, when near the corner of Fifth avenue south, an old fellow, who was leaning over the side of a short distance behind. He immediately jumped off the car he was on, and the next car struck him, knocking him down so that he fell under the wheels, which passed over his left leg above the ankle, entirely severing the foot. The injured man was carried to the office of Drs. Ames & Moore, where amputation was performed just below the knee joint. Mr. Johnson is a man fifty years old, and has a family. He owns and runs a hardware store at Redfield.

Is He the Man? Sunday morning Detective Gleason arrived from Appleton having in charge a man who gives his name as John Raymond, who was arrested on suspicion of being the murderer of young Coe. Raymond was very much agitated and exhibited a great deal of uneasiness. He admits he was in the city on the night of the murder, but says he left that night and went to Wasasca. He also claims he can prove an alibi. He seems to think his position a dangerous one, and when told he was to be confronted by Miss Virginia Johnson, the young lady who was with Mr. Coe, he immediately began to tremble, and said "I am innocent, but if the young lady points me out as the man I may be hung."

In the afternoon Miss Mason was shown into the office of chief of police where three men were sitting. Without hesitation she said "I am positive it was neither of these two, but (pointing at Raymond) I am almost certain that this is the man."

At this Raymond broke down and wept, at the same time protesting his innocence emphatically. The police do not feel certain that he is the man, but at the same time consider the circumstances sufficient to warrant his being held until the case can be worked out. Certainly Miss Mason's identification is a strong circumstance, as there is nothing noticeably striking in Raymond's appearance, and the other two men were dressed in nearly the same garb.
