The prospect of an electric sweat band for men is declared that "it stimulates the circulation, relieves the memory, and greatly augments the working power of the brain."

COL. EBENEZER SIBLEY.

The not unexpected but still sad announcement is made of the death of Col. Ebenezer Sibley, the eldest brother of Gen. H. H. Sibley.

Col. Sibley was born at Marietta, Ohio, on June 6, in 1805, and was consequently in his eightieth year at the time of his death.

His father was Solomon Sibley, who visited Michigan in 1798, being the first American who went to what is now that state.

His active military service was in the Florida war, the Black Hawk war, the Mexican war, and the war of the rebellion.

He was literally a pioneer in the military service, having built a military road from Detroit to Chicago, established Fort Union, in New Mexico, and performed other pioneer service.

His service in the army was continuous from 1827 to 1864, when ill health compelled his resignation, since which time he has passed seven years in Europe and the greater portion of the remaining years have been passed in Detroit.

Last year Gen. Sibley paid a long promised visit to his birthplace at Detroit, and these two remarkable men lived their lives over again for a brief period.

Col. Sibley was worthy to be the brother of our beloved citizen, Gen. H. H. Sibley, we bestow upon him only the praise he deserves, while at the same time we give this community, where he was a comparative stranger, an idea of the pure and noble qualities which he possessed.

It must be that, in 1807, the Republican newspapers of to-day were prefigured in the press of that period.

Nothing can now be believed which is seen in a newspaper. Truth itself becomes suspicious by being put in that polluted vehicle.

The real extent of this state of misfeeling is known only to those who are in a situation to confront facts within their knowledge.

In a letter from a Massachusetts friend received this week, I find the following passage: "Our poor, old perplexed state is rather going back on her record as a straight Republican."

The late Thurlow Weed is said to have a costly monumental shaft 34 feet high of Western granite over his grave in the Albany burial cemetery.

Matthew Arnold has found a new commercial combination of sweetness and light in drawing a government pension as an impetuous literary man in connection with a good salary as an inspector of public schools.

A telegram from Miles City to yesterday's Globe stated that the First National bank of Livingston was in "serious trouble."

The facts in the case, said Mr. Fogarty, that Stephens, Mund & Co. are negotiating to buy the controlling interest in the First National bank of Livingston for the purpose of consolidating it with the Bank of Livingston which they already own.

The country will agree that, in all essential respects, the present campaign is one of the most unmanly, and disgusting in the history of the country, and this, it is to be noted, applies solely to the Republican methods.

PHIL ARMOUR is a genuine ham-fam man but the fellows he squeezed his $2,000,000 out of have a streak of lean they don't enjoy.

The Canadian wheat crop is reported as unusually promising, but whatever it may be, it cannot exceed the Dakota fields of No. 1 Hard.

BEN BUTLER has got one of his partners on deck. The anti-Monopolist executive committee have had a secret meeting and named a Mr. West for vice president.

The P. P., orders General Hazen dismissed the signal service. He will be trotted out after Cleveland is inaugurated next March, but he will stick until then.

It seems to be pretty well settled that no more Arctic expeditions will be sent at present. The country is in no mood to tolerate any further cannibal parties toward the north pole.

JACK LOGAN appears to have been having a little circus parade in a few New York townships, where the boys always turn out when the hand plays and the clown prances around.

One Republican congressman has been heard from with a confession to stand a re-nomination this year. This brave creature is J. C. Burrows, and he lives in the Fourth Michigan district.

LIETZ GRIEHL declares that he had no knowledge whatever of any of his party resorting to cannibalism, and adds that each of the surviving men says he is ready to swear there was no man eating.

MOODY and Sankey are to begin work in Cincinnati in the coming October. After their long experience in London these experienced revivalists ought to be able to grapple with the sinners of the "Paris of America."

H. H. HADLEY denies the charge of John T. Devoy that he wrote the Mory letter, and promises to publish the result of his inquiries into the origin of the letter, with

MULDON'S REMNANTS.

Men marry widows for other attractions than mere love. It might also be added that widows marry again for more than a simple affection.

Charley Foster, of Ohio—"Calico Charley"—is idling away the summer months at the club house at Middlebas Island, near Toledo.

Joey McDonald, of Indiana, as a presidential candidate would have furnished the scandal epilogue of the day with charming tid-bits of gossip.

At the table Senator Thurman is something of an epicure, arranging with his own hand palatable salads and other dishes to tickle his judicial palate with.

The fact that Thurman at the close of the war sheltered and aided some southern friends from Kentucky, would undoubtedly have been used against him, in case he had been the Democracy's nominee.

The superintendent of a large manufacturing establishment in New York, and a staunch Republican, sent a letter to his father in Minnesota the other day.
