

Daily Globe logo and publication information: Official paper of the City and County. PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY THE ST. PAUL GLOBE PRINTING COMPANY, No. 14 West Fourth Street, St. Paul.

NEW TERMS OF THE GLOBE. SEVEN ISSUES PER WEEK—BY CARRIER. One Year, payable in advance, $8.00. Three Months, 2.50. Six Months, 5.00. Per Month, .75.

SUNDAY GLOBE. By Carrier—per year, $2.00. By Mail—postage paid, $1.50. WEEKLY GLOBE. By Mail—postage paid, per year, $1.00.

OFFICE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER, WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14, 9:26 p. m. Observations taken at the same moment of time at stations named. UPPER MISSISSIPPI VALLEY. Bar. Ther. Wind. Weather.

THE GLOBE AT NEW ORLEANS. To accommodate the throng from the North-west who desire to read their favorite home paper while attending the "World's Exposition" the Globe has been placed on sale in New Orleans at Geo. F. Wharton & Bro's., Carondelet street between Common and Canal.

THE GLOBE OFFICE REMOVED. The Globe counting room has been removed from Wabasha street to the new Globe building on Fourth street, first door above Wabasha. Hereafter the entire business of the office will be conducted in the new quarters.

VENTREDA'S MARKETS. The St. Paul markets were steady and quiet. At Chicago January wheat advanced 1c, and other futures 1/2c. January corn was 1/2c higher, and May advanced 1/2c. Pork advanced 17 1/2c for January and 12c for May. The stock market was dull and quiet, with trading confined principally to Northwestern, St. Paul, Delaware and Western Union.

SENATOR DUN CAMERON'S legislature elected him a senator of the United States for the ensuing six years. This is in the nature of an antidote to Pennsylvania's eighty thousand for Blaine. It is the exception that always happens where the Cameron rule.

THE senatorial fight in New York waxes hot. The fellows outside of politics favor Kuyper, and the chaps inside, the machine politicians, favor Morton the millionaire. His income is $400,000 a year. This makes it hard for Evans and the people, remarks the Brooklyn Eagle, "because the legislature is the property of the politicians."

THE Detroit Free Press appears to be of the opinion that the wily Wolterine Senator Palmer has a just cause for an action at libel against the New York World on account of the "atrocious wood-cut" to which it ascribed his name. The World being Democratic is also as truthful in its woodcuts as in all other features of the paper. And Senator Palmer is such a handsome man.

SPEAKER GIBBS showed excellent judgment in drawing largely upon the Ramsey county delegation for his committees. If the other members of his committees shall prove as well qualified for their positions as the members from Ramsey county are known to be for the places for which they have been named, the speaker will have secured a really remarkable victory in this, the most delicate and trying duty connected with his position.

GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA says he is not here on a mercenary errand but on a mission of mercy, charity and benevolence. This would be quite charming had he not been preceded by Mr. Arnold who declared his only object was to dispense sweetness and light, but who pocketed all the big round American dollars he could get, and went home sighing that there were not more of them.

hibition party for a money consideration. They do not assume that they were too virtuous to buy him off but openly and shamelessly criminate themselves in describing the negotiations. The Republicans develop the fact that they made the effort to buy off St. John, but he would not assent, and the negotiations failed. That is what they are mad about and not any principle in the matter.

The New York Christian Advocate takes a grand, gloomy and peculiar view of the popular pastime of roller skating. It argues a machine of length and with fearful unction that the "crazes" is a direct antagonist of all religious efforts, a foe to all genuine social life and literary pursuits. In support of this sweeping declaration it instances one congregation in which twelve young ladies lost all interest in religion and formed associations that their friends deemed imprudent and improper. The Advocate warns all young people who mean to be Christians to keep off from roller skates, or to "go very little."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

NEVADA. The "rotten borough" State of Nevada is as insignificant as it is audacious. It swells into the pompous proportions of a sovereign State on an exceedingly small capital as far as population is concerned. Nevada was admitted as a state by the Republicans in 1864, because they wanted to increase their strength in the Senate. There was then an exaggerated return of population, in order to meet the requirements for admission. The population, such as it was, was composed of floating miners, adventurers seeking fortunes, living in tents and mining ranches "here to-day, and away to-morrow."

THE YEAR'S WORK

Of the Society for the Relief of the Poor of St. Paul. The annual meeting of the Society for the Relief of the Poor was held in the hall at 141 East Ninth street, Tuesday, the 13th inst., at 2 p. m., Vice President Gen. H. H. Sibley in the chair. Written reports were presented by the secretary and treasurer, and by Mrs. H. C. Burbank, superintendent of the industrial school. In default of a written report from the superintendent of the ladies' auxiliary, Mrs. T. C. Jones made an interesting verbal report concerning the Christmas treat given by the ladies to the children of the poor, the visiting of the poor in their homes, the employment given to needy women in the making of garments, and the bestowal of the same when made upon those more needy, and estimating their aggregate disbursements for the year at $500.

The official sagacity which he has exhibited in the management of the affairs of a great commonwealth will not forsake him now. On the proper selection of the members of his official family will largely depend the success of his administration. He will gather into his Cabinet councils, there is every reason to believe, men of integrity, ability and ripe statesmanship, men who will look beyond mere party interests, to the interests and welfare of the whole country. Like Mr. Lincoln, it may well be supposed he will be actuated by no feeling of rivalry, or by a jealous spirit in the selection of his cabinet. Like Mr. Lincoln he is comparatively a new man, having no special experience in the affairs of national administration though he has the advantage which Mr. Lincoln had not, of the discharge of executive duties in an empire state. Like Mr. Lincoln, he has never had, any personal antagonism in regard to the individuals who were his competitors for nomination to the office to which he has been elected. Mr. Lincoln called into his cabinet all his principal competitors for the nomination for President. May not Mr. Cleveland do the same?

Mr. Lincoln summoned to his cabinet statesmen of his party to Springfield during the winter of 1861, to consult upon the formation of his Cabinet, and upon the interests of national affairs generally. Among those he called to his aid for consultation, William H. Seward, Salmon P. Chase, Simon Cameron and Edward Bates, all of whom were his competitors for the Presidential nomination in the Chicago convention which nominated him, and all of whom he called to his cabinet. Mr. Cleveland, in like manner, may write to Albany for consultation upon national affairs and Cabinet appointments, the eminent and experienced statesmen of the Democratic party, including among such the distinguished gentlemen who were his chief competitors at Chicago for the Presidential nomination. These were Thomas F. Bayard, Alexander Sumner, Samuel J. Randall, John P. McDonald, with scattering roles for some others. These men may, or may not become members of the new Cabinet following the precedent established by Mr. Lincoln. But whether any or all of them should become members of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet, will be valuable and safe advisers prior to his inauguration.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

THE YEAR'S WORK

Of the Society for the Relief of the Poor of St. Paul. The annual meeting of the Society for the Relief of the Poor was held in the hall at 141 East Ninth street, Tuesday, the 13th inst., at 2 p. m., Vice President Gen. H. H. Sibley in the chair. Written reports were presented by the secretary and treasurer, and by Mrs. H. C. Burbank, superintendent of the industrial school. In default of a written report from the superintendent of the ladies' auxiliary, Mrs. T. C. Jones made an interesting verbal report concerning the Christmas treat given by the ladies to the children of the poor, the visiting of the poor in their homes, the employment given to needy women in the making of garments, and the bestowal of the same when made upon those more needy, and estimating their aggregate disbursements for the year at $500.

The official sagacity which he has exhibited in the management of the affairs of a great commonwealth will not forsake him now. On the proper selection of the members of his official family will largely depend the success of his administration. He will gather into his Cabinet councils, there is every reason to believe, men of integrity, ability and ripe statesmanship, men who will look beyond mere party interests, to the interests and welfare of the whole country. Like Mr. Lincoln, it may well be supposed he will be actuated by no feeling of rivalry, or by a jealous spirit in the selection of his cabinet. Like Mr. Lincoln he is comparatively a new man, having no special experience in the affairs of national administration though he has the advantage which Mr. Lincoln had not, of the discharge of executive duties in an empire state. Like Mr. Lincoln, he has never had, any personal antagonism in regard to the individuals who were his competitors for nomination to the office to which he has been elected. Mr. Lincoln called into his cabinet all his principal competitors for the nomination for President. May not Mr. Cleveland do the same?

Mr. Lincoln summoned to his cabinet statesmen of his party to Springfield during the winter of 1861, to consult upon the formation of his Cabinet, and upon the interests of national affairs generally. Among those he called to his aid for consultation, William H. Seward, Salmon P. Chase, Simon Cameron and Edward Bates, all of whom were his competitors for the Presidential nomination in the Chicago convention which nominated him, and all of whom he called to his cabinet. Mr. Cleveland, in like manner, may write to Albany for consultation upon national affairs and Cabinet appointments, the eminent and experienced statesmen of the Democratic party, including among such the distinguished gentlemen who were his chief competitors at Chicago for the Presidential nomination. These were Thomas F. Bayard, Alexander Sumner, Samuel J. Randall, John P. McDonald, with scattering roles for some others. These men may, or may not become members of the new Cabinet following the precedent established by Mr. Lincoln. But whether any or all of them should become members of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet, will be valuable and safe advisers prior to his inauguration.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

Mr. Bayard has already visited Albany on invitation, and went first to the executive mansion, instead of becoming the guest of any hotel in the city. Whether this fact has any significance, as regards a cabinet appointment, time will tell. Be this as it may, Mr. Cleveland, in his career as Governor of New York has given evidence of the possession of a sagacity, a solid judgment and an intelligent discrimination of character, that will enable him to choose wisely, and surround himself with able assistants. He is a man of tried and true emergency which may well arise in the discharge of the duties of his great office. Honest, inflexible and fearless for the right, he will call to his aid men of like characteristics. With such elements within himself and around him, in his advisory council, there is no question but that he will conduct his administration to assured success, and reflect honor upon the government, secure the highest good to all the people, and be numbered among the best, most useful and popular of the already long list of Presidential incumbents.

RAILWAY STATISTICS.

The Tonnage of Nine Minnesota Lines of Railway for 1884. The following is an interesting table of the tonnage of the nine railroad systems of the state of crops and material produced therein for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1884, as compiled from the statistics given in the biennial report of the Commissioner James H. Baker by Assistant Secretary of State A. F. Nordin:

Table with columns: NAME OF COMPANY, GRAIN, PRODUCE, MEAT, MANUFACTURES, OTHER. Lists tonnage for various companies like Chicago & North Western, Great Northern, etc.

AN AIRING OF OPINIONS.

The Auditors of Twenty-Six Counties Represented in a Gathering at the State House Yesterday. The county auditors of Minnesota have been dropping into the city lately for a few days past, and their number became sizeable enough on Tuesday to hold an informal gathering at the Merchants hotel on that evening, which culminated in their holding two formal sessions in what is called the "banquet room."

The meeting was organized by the choice of J. N. Stacy, auditor of Wright county, for president, and C. A. Whited, of Olmsted county, for secretary, and the following were present and took part in the proceedings: STATE AUDITOR, Wm. W. Braden.

John Renner, Benton. J. E. Wilson, Carleton. C. C. Webster, Goodhue. John Olson, Grant. Olaf Olson, Kandiyohi. B. M. Van Alstyne, Mille Lacs. H. W. Blum, Lincoln. Leonard Albrecht, Murray. E. S. Pettigohn, Nicollet. A. H. Halbert, Rock. J. V. Glassford, Sherburne. Barney Vosburg, Stearns. H. W. Fiske, Wabasha. H. W. Seiwert, Sibley. Thos. E. Heenan, Stevens. John Shely, Norman. Deputy G. J. Dressel, Le Sueur. C. J. Harrison, Dodge. Deputy E. B. Shanks, Martin. M. M. Green, McLeod. T. Scattergood, Blue Earth. J. P. Nord, Chicago. Henry Champlin, Wilkin. Treasurer O. H. Lacken, Polk.

The object of the convention was to recommend to the legislature changes in the present tax law of the state, to facilitate the collection of the taxes, and to make the duties of county auditor less onerous. The recommendations decided on yesterday were that the end of the fiscal year should be made December 31 of each year; that the offices of county auditor and county treasurer be made elective for the term of four years instead of two, and that these elections go alternate that one or the other of these officers have two years to serve after a new man comes into office; that the county tax list be placed in the hands of the county treasurer the first Monday in January of each year instead of December 1.

A large number of recommendations for change of present law and new enrollments were voted down and most of the day was spent in their discussion. JANUARY TERM MATTERS. Defaulter Swain Pleads Guilty—Defaulter Lattimer Surrendered by His Sureties—The Grand Jury Retire to Deliberate.

W. C. Lattimer, held to the present grand jury for larceny from Perkins, Lyons & Co., the Robert street wholesale liquor dealers, was delivered up to the court by his sureties yesterday and placed in jail to await the action of that body. If an indictment is found against him he is hopeful of some settlement of his case. David E. Swan was brought before Judge Simons yesterday morning to answer to the two indictments found against him at a former term of the district court by a grand jury for larceny from the Northern Pacific railway company and pleaded guilty to both findings, and was remanded to jail. The grand jury for the January term of the district court were sworn yesterday morning and charged by Judge Simons, who appointed David Remaley their foreman and they commenced their hearings at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Grand Lodge of Masons. The Grand Lodge of Masons of the state of Minnesota was in session yesterday from 9 a. m. to 12 p. m. The morning was taken up with the explication of the Third degree, the afternoon with the election of officers, and the evening with their installation, by the Past Grand Master G. W. Prescott. The officers elected are: G. W. Lamson, St. Paul, grand orator. Edward Ashley, Brown's Valley, grand chaplain. Levi Folsom, Taylors Falls, grand senior deacon. A. Barto, Sank Center, grand junior deacon. C. M. Fode, Minneapolis, grand marshal. A. K. Doe, Stillwater, grand sword bearer. F. A. Noble, Northfield, grand standard bearer. E. E. Corliss, Fergus Falls, grand senior steward. W. T. Brock, Duluth, grand junior steward. E. Rossman, G. P.

OLD WORLD NEWS.

A More Manly Feeling Said to Exist Among the Crofters in Scotland. The French Have Decided on the Immediate Occupation of Tonquin to Settle the Row. Reported that France and Germany Have Come to an Understanding on the Chinese Question.

THE UNITED KINGDOM. LONDON, Jan. 14.—Henry George, in an interview, to-day, said, during his last visit to Scotland he was struck with the growth of manly feeling among the crofters, who, he says, are rapidly throwing off their slavishness engendered by long oppression. At a meeting held during his former visit he found only two persons in favor of land reformation, while at a meeting this time the vote was unanimous in favor of the measure. Mr. George advocates the suspension of the operation of game laws. The crofters he believed, should have preference in the distribution of charities until better measures of relief have been adopted. He is convinced the extension of the franchise is forcing the land question more prominently into "practical politics."

The police have ascertained that Captain Thomas Phelan lived in Sheffield in 1883 and openly avowed himself the agent of O'Donovan Rossa. He always dressed well, wearing a different suit of clothes every day, and seemed to be abundantly supplied with money. He had a large quantity of luggage, including a dressing case containing silver and ivory requisites. He denounced the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke saying it was a bad plan. But when James Phelan turned informer against the assassins Phelan cursed the informer and uttered vague threats of vengeance. Phelan's acquaintances in Sheffield remembered this fact when Carey was slain by O'Donovan, and they believe Phelan something to do with planning Carey's taking off.

FRANCE AND CHINA. PARIS, Jan. 14.—Terry in reply to Rualo's question in the chamber of deputies, said acting in accordance with the vote of the chamber of November 27, the government had decided on the immediate and complete occupation of Tonquin as the only means to settle the difficulty with China. Gen. Camponen until recently minister of war, although he disapproved of sending further reinforcements to the far east, never expressed uneasiness at the military situation in that quarter. General Lewat, the new minister of war, in speaking on the military situation, declared he was a soldier, and had no desire to interfere in politics. He expressed Gen. Camponen's devotion to France, and said he would strive to imitate it. He denied the present operations at Tonquin would endanger mobilization of the army in France should an occasion therefore arise. This he said would never be the case, as long as the should remain minister of war.

GERMANY. BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The report that France and Germany had come to an understanding on the Egyptian, Chinese and Congo questions is credited in official circles here, though it is not stated that a definite agreement has been concluded. It is said, however, that Prince Bismarck is awaiting the result of the French elections before giving his decision, and Premier Ferry maintains the present compact. A majority in the chambers has proposed the alliance be cemented. A shocking crime occurred at Frankfurt-on-the-Main last night. A police commissioner named Rumpf, who had been active in the prosecution of socialists, was found dead in front of his own house, stabbed in two places. The assassin is unknown. The North German Gazette says many retired army officers have gone to China to instruct the Chinese army in European tactics. The government is powerless to prevent this. It, however, prohibits officers of the army going.

SPAIN. MADRID, Jan. 14.—Earthquake tremblings were felt yesterday at Torrox, Canillas, Almonacár and Garobó. The storm in the southern provinces still continues. The rivers are greatly swollen, and the suffering of the people who have been rendered homeless by the earthquakes are intense. According to the official returns, the number of persons killed by earthquakes in Grenada was 695, and the number injured 1,489.

HONORING THE DEAD. The Remains of Schuyler Colfax Escorted from Depot to Depot in Chicago by Veterans. The funeral will be held at South Bend, Ind., on Saturday Afternoon. Chicago, Jan. 14.—The remains of Schuyler Colfax arrived in Chicago at 7:15 this evening in a special car attached to the regular train of the Northwestern road. The car was appropriately draped, and on each side was the inscription, "The nation mourns." In the waiting room at the depot were twenty-five of the most prominent residents of South Bend, including six distinguished Odd Fellows, who with the delegation from the lodge at Mankato, form an escort to the ex-vice president's late home. Two hundred Chicago members of the National Veteran club and Union Veteran society, with 150 citizens, including representatives of the various local lodges of Odd Fellows made a line from the train to the house. The distance to the lake shore depot was traversed in a heavy snow storm. The train departed at 8:15, and shortly afterwards the procession reformed and marched to the business portion, where the remains were broken. It is stated here to-night that Gen. Grant is expected to attend the final obsequies at South Bend, and that a special train has been placed at his disposal for that purpose.

AT HOME. SOUTH BEND, IND., Jan. 14.—The funeral of Schuyler Colfax will be held in this city, at the Reform church, Saturday at 1 p. m. The body, escorted by a deputation of Odd Fellows from Mankato and Odd Fellows and other citizens of South Bend, will arrive here from Chicago at 11 to-night. The Order of Odd Fellows have charge of the funeral. Confessed Murder. WAUKESHA, Wis., Jan. 14.—On October 7, 1873, Banker Mead, a bachelor sixty years of age, was assassinated in his rooms in the rear of his bank, and the place was robbed by unknown parties. The murderer shot through a rear window, the bullet piercing Mead's head. He was found at noon the next day lying in a pool of clotted