A JOSEPH FROM LA CROSSE.

A Negro Escapes from the Blandishments of a Norwegian Woman and is Arrested for Seduction.

William Dowdy, a colored man born in Brazil, was arrested last night as he alighted from the "Flying Dutchman," on a telegram from La Crosse, by Detectives O'Connor and Ahern. When asked by a reporter what he thought occasioned his arrest, William talked very freely. He said he had been working as a hostler in La Crosse, and boarding with the family of a German named Beck, which consists of a head man, a woman, a man 50 years, his wife, and 25, a negro, with a birth and an illegitimate child. They were poor, Mrs. B. taking in washing and Beck being a seissors grinder and somewhat temperate.

The old man and the woman have not lived happily together, he being jealous of Dowdy. A big quarrel ensued and Beck ordered Dowdy to quit another place to board, but the woman insisted he should not leave. The colored man intended some time ago to leave for this city, but it seems that the woman objected to his departure, and William in the depth of his platonic affection concluded to tarry. Yesterday morning Beck told the star gazer that he was going, but he did not blame him at all, as it was not unlikely that under like circumstances he (Beck) would do as Dowdy had, and that he could take the woman with him. To the woman, however, he sang a different song, the burden of his remark being that she was being deceived by a heavy bawler. He and Dowdy packed the latter's trunk to the station, and drank a parting cup or two of beer at the brewery. The whole family saw him off, one at least expecting a partial promise from him to return soon. William stepped from the train at St. Paul and was greeted by a man, who, he said, "How are you, William? Just come in from La Crosse? Come this way, Mr. Dowdy, if you please." To these remarks unhesitatingly he responded urbanely, to find himself a prisoner. He says that he is a member of the church of La Crosse, that he had been over there many times, and he has been very careful to avoid any occasion for such a feeling, and now rather respects that he has played the role of a Joseph. This is William's story, and meanwhile developments are awaited from La Crosse.

Death of Mrs. Kenney.

A wide circle of her friends will learn with emotions of regret and sorrow of the death of Mrs. Terrence Kenney, which occurred at the family residence, No. 437 East Sixth street, yesterday morning, of typhoid pneumonia. Mrs. Kenney was admired and beloved by all who knew her, and her untimely death will be a sad loss to her family. She was gifted intellectually, and she had the adornments of a polished mind she added many lovely qualities as a wife, mother and friend. In addition to her immediate family she leaves two sisters, the Misses Haggerty, both well known and highly respected in the city. The funeral will be held Friday morning from St. Mary's church.

CHARGED WITH A SERIOUS CRIME

A Dance House Fiddler Arrested on the Charge of Seducing a Girl of 16. Francis Hoffman, a dark complexioned, low-browed man with black hair and beard and past the meridian of life, was arrested by Roundsman Dennis Murphy last night, on the charge of seducing Mamie Pauquette, a young French girl of sixteen summers and respectably connected in this city. The facts of the case are substantially as follows: Last Saturday evening the victim to the outrage and her sister visited the opera house, and after the performance they were invited to supper by a couple of male acquaintances. They subsequently became separated, and the older girl started to go home her sister, who is half-demented, could not be found. No trace of the missing girl was had until yesterday afternoon, when she was seen passing down Seventh street in company with Hoffman. A friend of the girls endeavored to take her away, when a scuffle ensued and she was rescued from her captor. She was brought to police headquarters, and upon being subjected to the pumping process, stated that she had been enticed to the room of Hoffman and had remained with him since Saturday night. On being locked up Hoffman was interviewed by a GLOBE reporter, and replying to inquiries, he said that his attention had been called to the girl at a late hour Saturday night; that she was wandering around the street and that she stated that she had been with a man named William who also that she had been driven from home by her father, and that she had no place to stop. The prisoner states that he afforded her shelter as an act of charity, and that as she had scarcely any clothes he purchased her a sixteen-dollar dress. Hoffman is an itinerant fiddler, and he has been playing at the dance hall at the corner of Seventh and Rosabel streets. He will be arraigned to-day.

BEFO' DE COU'T.

Two Wife Beaters, an Amateur Fighter and Some Vags. There was a young man in St. Paul Who was so deucedly tall, That he presumed on his height to kick up a fight And exhibit most terrible gall.

The young person in question is tall and handsome and built like an athlete, but his head got away with his judgment the other day and he made a very bad break. His name is Brooks, and he was before the court yesterday on the charge of threatening to knock out George LeClair, a barber, who appeared that the latter would bring a bill, and when Brooks asked for a settlement the other day he refused to consent to time, whereupon the athlete said he would have to wipe the floor with him. LeClair objected to the idea of being used as a mop, and in the dispute that followed Brooks unbuttoned his coat and made him hand his watch over as security for the debt. The case was partially heard yesterday and continued.

Hank Grubbel is one of the brutes who deserve about one hundred lashes and then a good dose of brim to make the punishment stick. He was charged yesterday with whipping his wife and it was shown that he had maltreated her so shamefully that the poor woman was unable to leave the house. He was sent to a dungeon cell for sixty days.

H. Hyneman, another fragrant specimen of the same ilk, was also charged with beating his wife. He was charged with appearing when the case was called and it was continued until to-day.

John Hayes was charged with stealing some butter and a turkey, but as the property had disappeared, the natural way of good food no doubt, and as there was no evidence of guilt his sentence was suspended.

Edward Cox, a gem man of color and evidently a bad man, was charged with disorderly conduct. He visited the residence of Mr. Donegan, the plumber, kicked in the doors and made himself otherwise obnoxious. He will be kept in jail for sixty days. Ellen Gilmore was up again on the same old charge of too much elegant lish. Her diet will consist of workhouse lard pudding for the next ninety days.

AMUSEMENTS.

"A Social Wreck" at the Grand—Madame Ristori—The Exposition Kirk.

The new opera, "A Social Wreck," was repeated at the Grand last night to a fair-sized and duly-appreciative audience, the rendition being much smoother and somewhat less exasperating than on the opening night. The prisoner states that he afforded her shelter as an act of charity, and that as she had scarcely any clothes he purchased her a sixteen-dollar dress. Hoffman is an itinerant fiddler, and he has been playing at the dance hall at the corner of Seventh and Rosabel streets. He will be arraigned to-day.

John Gordon, poisoned the night before last, was yesterday afternoon and sought the city physician's advice upon his domestic affairs. The healing art is wonderful and will bring a couple from the verge of death, but its influence can hardly be extended to the patching up of such marital fractures as those of the Gortons.

Dan McGowan, a hackman, was a sight to see last night. He claimed he had been knocked down and kicked by two Swedes, and his face and coat looked as if he had been run through a hay cutter.
