IT WILL BE MERRIAM.

The Republican Primaries Elect Delegates in His Interest.

The Republican primaries were held yesterday evening between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock and there was music all over the deck. If there is one thing more than another dear to the Republican soul, it consists in the average consuming ambition of the average striker to have a vote in nominating convention. To be a delegate to a convention is the supreme ambition of every member of the party, and to succeed in this the aspiring patriot will sacrifice time, effort, and if called upon, muscle and money.

A more forcible example of the above remark was given in the case of the Merriam men, who were present in the scenes at the primaries last night. It was a desperate scramble for the dubious honor of participating in a convention.

THE VOTING PLACES were crowded, and in some instances presented scenes of the wildest confusion during the early part of the day the campaign workers, and particularly the Merriam men, exhibited intense anxiety as it was intimated that the Murphy adherents were preparing for a coup, and that the apparent lethargy of the Merriam advocates of their guard.

During the morning Dr. Murphy called a meeting of his friends and announced to them that he couldn't think of running, and asked all his adherents to stay away from the primaries and not to be in any way connected with the party, and that he would have no part in the nomination of any man who would have the honor of representing the Merriam men, and that he would have no part in the nomination of any man who would have the honor of representing the Merriam men, and that he would have no part in the nomination of any man who would have the honor of representing the Merriam men.

THE HOUSE OF CONTENTION consisted in the lively contest over the aldermanic nominations and the nominations for school inspectors. Aside from this many of the precincts had several sets of delegates in the field, and it seemed as if every man wanted to go to the convention.

In the second ward, at the sheriff's office, considerable fun was occasioned by the manner in which the caucus was conducted. The machine was in the hands of the colored brothers, and when the polls were thrown open to the white party, the colored persuasion took up his stand in front of the window and had the temerity to flash a number of tickets bearing the names of Murphy delegates. The Merriam men were on the alert, however, and he soon pocketed the tickets and went away disgusted, as his wares were at a discount.

THE HIGH LICENSE ELEMENT showed their strength faintly in a few of the districts, but the movement scarcely amounted to more than a sham and with one or two exceptions the liquor question was not figured prominently in the triumph in this direction was the little victory won by the selection of Mr. Elwell for alderman in the First ward. His opponent, A. A. Simpson, made a strenuous effort to secure the nomination, but he was defeated by a vote of 75 to 50.

By all odds the biggest crowd of the day took place in the Fifth ward. The fight was over the aldermanic nominations. The excitement ran high and the beer flowed freely. A half dozen tickets were sold for the first time in the ward with the chances good for pretty nearly everybody. In fact it isn't settled yet. In the Third ward as in the low license candidate for alderman, and won by a margin of 100 to 50.

BY A MERIT TRIUMPH of a couple of hundred delegates aspirants from this ward had a pitched battle, and the war was very animated. A bitter feeling of opposition was developed throughout this ward, the scramble for school board honors also being very spirited.

The delegates will enter the convention on Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The fight for the office of comptroller has not been very animated, the only candidates being Col. A. R. Kiefer and J. J. McCarty, the latter being about a neck ahead with fair prospects of passing the string first.

As stated the greatest contention took place in the Fifth ward and it is more than probable that the row over the aldermanic nominations will be carried into the convention. The following are the delegates:

The citizens of Hamline and Merriam park held a meeting Thursday evening and determined to postpone the nomination of an aldermanic school inspector for that ward till Tuesday evening next, the 21st, at a caucus to be held at the school house on Snelling avenue near Hamline.

POLITICAL NOTES. One theory of Dr. Murphy's plan of operations, mentioned on the streets last night, was that he knew he would be elected, and that he would withdraw before the primaries were held. But it would be a pity not to have the benefit of so much money as was waiting to be spent on the other side, and so the doctor threw out his candidate as a sword of Damocles over his opponent's head until the day of the primaries. Then when the money was all in hand where it would do the most good, the doctor gently and peacefully withdrew.

THE PRIZE CONTEST AT THE JACKSON STREET METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH. The fifth annual contest of the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical association was held last evening in the Jackson street M. E. church.

THE FIRST ORATORY upon the program was delivered by G. E. Russell of the state university, and was entitled The Class Laborer. The speaker said that the laborer as he is known to-day came into existence with the advent of machinery. But now he had assumed an importance in our political and social affairs which called for immediate attention. The tendency of our present industrial system was to separate wider and wider the two classes of capitalist and laborer, and by the characters of these classes rendered the gulf between them deeper and deeper.

THE SECOND ORATORY was delivered by W. J. Bennett of the state university, and was entitled The Sad Story of a Woman Who Once Began as a Belle--Police Court Doings.
