AMUSEMENTS.

"Divorced" Presented to a Distinguished Audience—The "Black Flag" Company—"Fedora."

The engagement of Almee came to a close at the Grand last night, Sardou's famous comedy of "Divorced" being presented to a large and fashionable audience.

The character of Cypriene in this play is far better adapted to display the bright comedy powers of Almee than the one in which she made her first appearance in St. Paul, albeit the plot is exceedingly Frenchy and as suggested by the title the flavor is a trifle broad and strong.

It possesses the vim and sparkle of true comedy, however, and, as said, the charming little actress makes the best of her opportunities and the impression left by her histrionic powers is far more favorable. The support was excellent and the performance greatly enjoyed.

"THE BLACK FLAG." "The Black Flag" company will commence an engagement at the Grand opera house this evening. The title of this play may mislead the public to think it a piratical one of the blood and thunder order. This is not the case. "The Black Flag" is a domestic melodrama and derives its title from the fact that from a convict escapes from Portland in England, they hoist a black flag. This is all that is pertaining to the black flag. The plot is very dramatic in character and the play is described as possessing deep interest. It will be presented by Edwin Thorne and a strong company.

"FEDORA" MATINEE. As two performances a day are too much strain on the nervous system of Miss Davenport the Wednesday evening performance next week will be dispensed with and a matinee given in its stead. This will give the ladies, who are unable to visit the
