Honoring the Dead.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Decorations day being a legal holiday all banks, exchanges and down-town offices were closed and thus carried out the appearance of a holiday. The Seventh regiment while marching from their armory to the position they occupied in the procession, paraded past Gen. Grant's house. The general stood at the window and reviewed the column of his right hand and saluted with his cane. Mrs. Grant, Col. Fred Grant and other members of the family stood at other windows. When Col. Voss was abreast of the house he saluted the general and the general lifted his right hand and saluted. When Reno and Gilso passed the house their band was playing "Atlanta to the Sea." The general was visibly affected. He saluted in response to the lifted hats of the men. A group of forty gray-haired men were fought in the wilderness, stood on the steps of the house opposite the general's residence, and on the general's appearance lifted their hats. On noticing his men and acquainted appearance they were very much affected.

FLAGS FLUTTERED from many public and private buildings. The streets, especially along the route taken by the procession, were filled with people, and large crowds were gathered in the public squares. All the monuments in the squares were decorated with flowers and bunting. The procession of the G. A. R. and citizens started at about 11 o'clock and marched down to the grand stand.

President Cleveland had breakfasted at Secretary Whitney's home, and shortly afterwards Gen. McMassie arrived on horseback. The general and his family entered the carriage, and Secretaries Endicot and Whitney the other, and drove to the Windsor hotel. They were met by a delegation from the G. A. R. and escorted to the grand stand, where President Cleveland, Gen. H. H. Shaler, and the head of the First division of the national guard. Behind him was his staff, then came the Twenty-second, Ninth and Eleventh regiments, Second battery of the Seventh regiment, and the Sixty-ninth. The Twenty-first and Twenty-second regiments, the president and he doffed his hat. Then followed the different posts of the Grand Army of the Republic and their invited guests in carriages. Among the prominent veterans present were Gen. G. A. R. Henry Davies, Henry A. Barnum, John Cochrane, Charles P. Stone, Daniel Syckles and Edward Jardines. The fire department was also represented in the procession. Noah L. Farnham Post, 458, went to New Haven, Conn., to decorate the grave of Col. Farnham. The general was accompanied by Secretaries Whitney and Endicot, and Postmaster General Vilas, Gen. Hancock, Mayor Grace and Gen. Doubleday.

AT BROOKLYN. The parade in Brooklyn was a great success. Flags flew from the great buildings, and many patriotic addresses. The courts and public offices were closed and all the monuments in the city were adorned with flowers and flags. The military and the various posts of the G. A. R. paraded and were reviewed by Gov. Hill and his staff.

AT WASHINGTON. WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.—The president having gone to New York to observe Decoration day, no great attention is being paid to the ceremonies here. Numerous excursions are advertised, and the day bids fair to be one of recreation rather than of patriotic observance. The fishing is good on the upper Potomac, and hundreds of patriotic government clerks find they can while the day away more pleasantly trying to catch fish than in any other way. Decoration day fishing parties generally carry a number of rods full of bait. The movement for a joint decoration of the Confederate as well as the Union graves seems to have died out and nothing has been heard of it for some time. The proposition was bitterly opposed when first made last year, and it is believed that it will never be agreed to. Since then nothing has been heard of it. There is now a little interest taken in the decoration of the rebel graves at Arlington as there is in those of the federal soldiers.

AT MANKATO. Special to the Globe. MANKATO, Minn., May 30.—Saturday dawned without a cloud, and the earliest morning found loving hands busily engaged in floral decoration of the graves. The day departed. The air was filled with the fragrance of these symbols of joy or grief. The stand at Normal park was beautifully draped on the lower part and the upper was completely covered with flowers and garlands. The abundance of the wild and cultivated plants made the whole appear as a mass of nature's product. The calla, fuchsia and geranium joined with the wild honeysuckle, the ladies' slipper and the yellow buttercup, to witness the quartet to the day. At 10 o'clock, the procession formed on Cherry street. Maj. G. W. Mead acted as chief marshal. The first division, under B. Bangarter, was composed of the Second Regiment band, F. Company, M. N. G., Hook and Ladder No. 2, Hook and Ladder No. 2, base ball clubs, visiting posts of G. A. R. The second division, under W. P. McConnell, formed on Jackson street. Germania band, Excelsior Hose Company No. 1, Superior Hose Company No. 2, G. A. R. drum corps, Alex Walker post, G. A. R., old soldiers not members of G. A. R., and citizens. The third division, under Prof. Denfield: Good Thunder band, public schools. The fourth division, under Capt. Burgess: Mayor and common council in carriages and citizens in carriages. Music by the bands: Invocation by Rev. G. C. Pollock; speech by Mayor Barr; quartet; speech by Rev. Mr. Liscomb; quartet; recitation, Prof. Denfield; Declaration by Mattie Barr. During the singing of the quartet the platform broke down, but fortunately no one was hurt. A special feature of this year's celebration was that the school children, about 800 in number, were in procession under the direction of Prof. Denfield, with droppings of the different schools and flags marked with black. They made a very attractive appearance as they marched up the hill on Jackson street. Taken all together the day was one of the most pleasant and well-observed which the city has ever seen, and it is estimated that 2,000 strangers were in town. The cadet band of Good Thunder made its appearance, and in conjunction with our regiment and Germania bands the vast audience was well furnished with music.

AT RED WING. Special to the Globe. RED WING, May 30.—Early this morning a great number of people began to come in from the surrounding country to help celebrate Memorial day. At 9 o'clock the post began to form for the visit to the cemetery. Here the services were held at 10 o'clock, after which the people dispersed for the forenoon. At 1:30 p. m. the line of march was formed on Broadway, in the following order: Chief Marshal P. A. Park, Assistant Marshals P. Nelson and M. S. Chandler, platoon of police, Mayor T. B. Howe and city government, president of the day, Gov. L. F. Hubbard, orator, Ron. C. H. Benton, chaplain, the clergy in carriages, boys' choir, Red Wing cornet band, Hubbard guards, Red Wing fire department, Ancient Order of United Workmen, Athletic cornet band, L'Etolle du Notre Lodge No. 23, L. O. C. O. F., Red Wing Lodge No. 57, L. O. C. F., Patriarchal Circle, L. O. F. O., Scandinavian Sisk Pipers Foreman society, Harmonian society, employees of different corporations, drum corps, disabled veterans in carriages, A. E. Welsh Post No. 75, G. A. R., Zumbrota Post G. A. R., school children and citizens in carriages. After a march through the principal streets of the city the procession proceeded to the park. Here the following program was observed: Music, Red Wing Cornet band; singing, "Nearer My God to Thee"; prayer; singing, "America"; address by Hon. C. H. Benton; music, Red Wing Cornet band; singing, "Star Spangled Banner"; music, Red Wing Cornet band; singing, "John Brown." This was by far the best Decoration day celebration Red Wing ever had. In the evening the post presented the play, "The Blue and the Gray," at the Casino.

Special to the Globe. ROCHESTER, Minn., May 30.—Decorations day dawned bright and beautiful, and was ushered in by firing a salute from the top of College hill. By noon the streets were thronged by crowds of people who came to do homage to the heroic dead. At 1:30 p. m. the procession formed at the central school building, on Zumbro street, as follows: Platoon of police and marshal of the day; Rochester fire company and band; roster post G. A. R.; school children and teachers and citizens in carriages. The procession marched east to Main street, thence south to College street, east to Broadway, north to Fifth street and thence to the cemetery. Rev. A. H. Young presiding over the services, which was followed by a dirge by the Independent band. Dr. J. A. Leonard delivered a few appropriate remarks. As Rev. Mr. Payson, the orator of the day, took the stand a heavy wind and dust storm arose, which dispersed a large portion of the audience. All the soldiers' graves were decorated and a large floral cross was erected to the memory of those who found graves in the far South. The ceremonies were very impressive throughout and were participated in by a vast crowd of people ever assembled in Rochester on such an occasion.

AT BRAINERD. Special to the Globe. BRAINERD, Minn., May 30.—The veterans of Pap Thomas Post No. 40, G. A. R., made elaborate preparations for the observance of Memorial day, as they always do. The demonstration, while not so large as that of last year, was perhaps the most imposing of the kind ever seen in the city. At 1:45 p. m. the different organizations began to form, and shortly after 2 o'clock the line moved toward the city park, where the services were to be held. The procession was composed of members of the G. A. R., White Cross Lodge, K. of P., the city fire department, police, members of the council, city officials, etc. At the park the memorial exercises consisted of music by the Braierd post, G. A. R., by Rev. Henry Davies, Rev. W. H. Johnson and an address of welcome by the past commander and oration by Col. C. B. Sleeper. There was a large crowd in the park and the greatest interest was taken in the ceremonies. At the conclusion of the services the column of marchers moved to the cemetery, where the usual military ceremonies took place. There was a general suspension of business during the afternoon, the citizens generally closing their places of business and participating in the exercises of the day. Never before has there been more generally observed in Brainerd.

Special to the Globe. ALBERT LEA, May 30.—The Albert Lea procession formed at 11 a. m. near the court house under orders of the officer of the day—H. D. Brown, assisted by the city marshal. The program was as follows: Albert Lea band and drum corps; Robson Post No. 5 of Post No. 98 of Aldin, 20 members; Randall Post No. 142 of Northwood, 25 members; Robson Post No. 5 of Post No. 98 of Aldin, 20 members; long Albert Lea Temperance cadets, fire department, city officers, county officers, orator and chaplain, lady committees, in carriages and on foot. They proceeded to the cemetery, 145 carriages being in the procession and about 4,000 people in the ranks. The program at the cemetery was: Decoration of graves by Robson post, music, prayer by Rev. Mr. Gowdy, singing by the club and an oration by Rev. Mr. Stanley of Austin, a member of the G. A. R.—he was particularly eloquent when referring to the fallen heroes. After referring to the First regiment—music by the band and benediction by Dr. Irwin. The weather was beautiful and the procession was fine.

Minnesota Offices.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. WASHINGTON, May 30.—The supervising architect to-day received a telegram from Mr. Bassford saying that he would set vigorously to work on the Minneapolis building. This puts an end to all efforts to persuade Secretary Manning to recall the architect. It has been urged upon him that Bassford was so oppressed with business that he would be unable to give proper attention to the Minneapolis building. This claim had been given a color of truth by the fact that Bassford had sent a letter to the supervising architect inquiring how much time he would be expected to give to the duty, and saying his business was such that he could not devote his entire time to it. In answer to this he was given an answer which seems to have been satisfactory, as he telegraphed this afternoon that he would set actively to work at once. This is very encouraging to Minneapolis men who are trying to get a man from their own town appointed.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. BASSFORD will advertise at once for bids for excavations and work will begin immediately thereafter. Rev. Dr. Dana of St. Paul, Judge Young of Minneapolis, Gen. Berry of Winona, Mr. Bell and Secretary Hart of the state board of corrections and charities are to be here in a few days to attend a meeting of the national board of corrections and charities.

Donnelly is evidently pretty well convinced he has no show for the surveyor generalship. He announced yesterday that in case of failure to get that he would try to get a position as member of the Mississippi river board. Those here who are familiar with his record say he will not be likely to get any recognition at the hands of the administration.

"He has never been a Democrat in any sense," said Mr. W. M. Campbell of Minnesota talking with the Globe correspondent this evening, and it does not seem probable that he will receive any very great attention from the Democratic administration when there are well-known and competent Democrats asking for the places. "In his race for congress against Republicanism he has not run a Democrat. He has been a Democrat in name only, but never as a Democrat. I do not understand that he ever claimed to be a Democrat."

FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL. It is understood that Col. Crooks is still in the lead. His endorsements are very strong and the fact that he is a political engineer is very much in his favor. He would probably go to get the place, would probably go to get the place, would probably go to get the place.

HENDRICKS TALKATIVE.

We Fought for a Change and Will Have It. Special to the Globe. CHICAGO, May 30.—Vice President Hendricks arrived in the city yesterday and was a guest at the Palmer house. Mr. Hendricks is looking unusually well and had gained flesh. In speaking with a Globe reporter he referred to the contest in Indiana as the most trying event in his life.

"But," says he, "was ambitious. The vice presidency was a position I did not expect and having obtained it, I determined to carry my own state at least. I did an awful amount of work during that campaign, frequently making seven or eight speeches a day. The result of the election showed that the state was evenly contested by both sides. We polled 93 per cent of the entire voting population, which was the largest vote ever polled by any state. I can truly say that I never worked so hard in all my life." When questioned as to how the duties of agreed with him, he said: "Well, it is certainly a great change to a man who has been in active political life. I look upon the position as one of dignified laziness." "What are your ideas on civil service?" "Well, there are so many different phases in the civil service that that question might be difficult to answer. I believe in a civil service, but there are different ways of interpreting it. That system that is considered by some as indispensable in the management of the government and permits outsiders to dictate who shall remain and who shall go, would not be tolerated for a moment by a railroad corporation or large manufacturing establishment. I do not see why it should be tolerated by the government, and I believe the president has as much right to manage the government as the head of a corporation has to manage his, and so doing I can see no violation of civil service rules. I do not believe in a civil service that keeps incompetents in office and allows the affairs of the country to suffer. Of course we want the civil service, and we must have reform. But it is all nonsense to suppose that the Republicans are going to remain in the offices. We fought for a change, and we are going to have it. The numerous articles in the papers stating that he had but little influence with the president in regard to appointments, "Both sides of that question have been published," said the ex-governor, good-naturedly. "The statement that I have no influence in the distribution of

is on a par with the one that I endorse the application of every man that comes to me. Neither statement is correct, but what I do say is that I will spare no zeal in urging the appointment of any man to a position if I consider him the proper person to fill it." When questioned about the alleged charges of Republican senators held last March at which it was said resolutions were passed refusing to confirm Cleveland's appointments which were renewed had been made for offensive partisanship, he said he did not believe such a caucus had ever been held. "If the Republican senators had held such a meeting," said he, "I would have heard of it. I do not think there is any disposition on the part of senators to antagonize the administration. I do not believe party lines will be drawn very close."

Referring to the course taken by Senator East, Mr. Hendricks said he had heard nothing of him since he had written his letter. It was to be expected that a great many Democrats would be disappointed, as every man could not get his candidate appointed.

Designated Democrats. RALEIGH, N. C., May 30.—The Democrats of this city and of this collection district, were surprised when it was made known to-day that the president had re-appointed Isaac J. Young collector of internal revenue. Young was first appointed by President Grant in 1869 and has held the office ever since. It is claimed that he is and has been an "offensive partisan" in every sense of the term. They say he has used his office to reward his friends and to punish his enemies. A man who claims to know where he speaks, said to-day: "Young has manipulated every Republican state convention since 1872. He has stumped the state in every campaign, and gave literally by the day and night to his subordinates to do the same. He is one of the famous '303' who voted for Grant at Chicago in 1868. He is a scoundrel at 'civil service reform' and believes that in politics the end justifies the means and that to the victors belong the spoils. What influence could have procured his re-appointment by a reform Democratic administration is a riddle to the men of this state who voted for Cleveland."

SETTLING DOWN AGAIN.

Claims Made in England That Peace is Insecure, as Russia Will Make no Pledges.

But Gladstone's Assurances That the Trouble is Settled Believed by the People.

Trade Picking Up, New Ventures Being Started and a Better Tone Prevails.

Better Times.

LONDON, May 30.—All the statements whose actions generally furnish the political news, except Mr. Gladstone, are away enjoying their Whitsuntide holidays, and the premier is resting even from talking. The Liberals seem to be satisfied with the Anglo-Russian situation. The Conservatives, however, appear to be craving work to do. It is generally believed among the politicians that Russia has agreed to allow Afghanistan's claim to both Zulikar and Mowlaik. It does not appear, however, that the czar has agreed, even provisionally, to any treaty binding him to refrain from further advances. Many efforts have been made to secure from him such an agreement, and their failure tends to strengthen the conviction that Russia has simply dickered in order to gain time and that she is determined to continue her progress southward. The Conservative friends in this state of affairs are subject.

FOR DENUNCIATION of Mr. Gladstone's management of the dispute, The Tory papers declare that unless Russia gives England a guarantee against further advances southward, coupled with a pledge to respect the independence of Afghanistan, they cannot feel bound to support the peace. The general public, on the other hand, seem to place the most implicit confidence in Mr. Gladstone's statements that peace is assured. Under the prospect held out by this assurance a general and unqualified improvement is going on in the industries of the country. All the building and transportation trades are busy. Farm laborers are in demand, both at home and in the colonies. The emigration returns even for the month of May are very large. The Duke of Devonshire, a Radical member of Mr. Gladstone's cabinet and the head and front of the rebellion against the renewal of the crimes act, has not, it appears, been converted by Earl Spencer, the Irish viceroy. The lord lieutenant has insisted on the renewal of his act, and it is generally thought was the main influence which induced Mr. Gladstone to commit the government to the renewal policy. When Sir Charles Dilke rebelled against the renewal and succeeded in splitting the cabinet on the question, the premier managed to hold it together by inviting to Dublin to attend the meetings of the commission for housing the poor Irish, as a ministerial visitor to the Irish capital. Sir Charles, as a matter of course, became the guest of the viceroy, at Dublin castle, and the result was that he has been occasionally pocketed a balance of $700 a year.

THE MINISTER TO CHINA. WASHINGTON, May 30.—Gen. Charles Denby of Indiana, who was yesterday appointed minister to China, to succeed John Russell Young, who made the famous trip around the world with Gen. Grant, got to be a good deal of a standing joke. He was an applicant first for the Russian mission and so announced himself from his Evansville residence that he had been appointed to the position. He was willing to go as minister to any country so that he could be a diplomat. For a week or more he has labored with the Indiana delegation for the place to which he is assigned. McDonald quietly dropped into the city early this morning and reached here last night. He is asked that Denby be sent to the Celestials as an American ambassador, and the president, in deference to the request, made the appointment without consulting his secretary of state.

Mrs. Parnell Penitents. Special to the Globe. NEW YORK, May 30.—The entire personal property of Mrs. Delia E. Stewart Parnell, mother of the Irish land leaguer, has been seized at the suit of Joshua J. Turner and others, and is advertised for sale at Ironsides, June 15. The old and infirm Mrs. Parnell, who lives in the Delaware river four miles above Bordentown, N. J., and there formerly dwelt Admiral Stewart, Mrs. Parnell's daughter. Mr. Parnell endeavored in vain for two years to make the place pay as a summer boarding house, but it was not to be. The house was sold and if it should be sold she will be left almost penniless. Her son, John, invested heavily in Delaware peach farms, and year after year has lost his crops, until Mrs. Parnell, who was backing the enterprise, has sunk about $15,000. This year she was to go to Ireland, but she went to Ireland. Then Mrs. Parnell started her summer boarding house and failed. She gave freely to the Land league cause, and bore all the expenses of her famous trip throughout this country, organizing the League of Maynooth college and the Nationalist, will be appointed by the Vatican to succeed the late Cardinal McCabe as Irish

BISHOP OF DUBLIN. The telegram says that the appointment will not be announced immediately, and that the pope has received the Irish bishops with marked cordiality. The Catholic circles in Dublin are also confident that Dr. Walsh will be appointed. The committee of the Dublin corporation, which has the matter referred, has decided to continue the national and civic emblem in a city flag, which henceforth will bear a harp on a green ground, and which will display in one quarter three white castles on a blue ground. The Irish people, who are anxious to see the end of the alleged attempt to discredit the National league in America, by political attacks in the United States on Patrick Egan, treasurer of the old land league, United Ireland, Mr. Parnell's organ, appear to be disappointed at the result, which seems to display more good will and energy, the exercise of which qualities, it says, made the Irish in America so potent a factor in the struggle between England and Ireland.

A FEW YEARS AGO. It is expected that several members of the royal family will honor Ireland by a visit this summer, in the shape of a yachting cruise along the southwest coast. The date of the cruise will be some time in August and the party will make an extended excursion to Killarney. The proposed visit of the queen to Ireland has, it is said, been abandoned, for the reason that the royal physicians fear that her majesty's health is not robust enough to bear the strain of such a journey.

IT IS rumored, an impatient Reuter by British newspapers against the Reuter Telegram company, which furnishes the press with a large portion of its continental and foreign news service. Vanity Fair, which is the authority for the rumor, says that the London morning papers have for a long time considered the present Reuter charge of $10,000 per annum to each paper for the service rendered. The paper estimates that the Reuter company collects in London for morning papers alone, a revenue of $600,000 a year, besides the large sum collected from the metropolitan evening papers and from the papers published elsewhere in Great Britain. The London Times, Vanity Fair states, recently initiated an organized hostility to the Reuter company and started a series of meetings of newspaper representatives to combat the company. Gentlemen from the Times, the News, the Telegraph, the Post, the Chronicle and the Advertiser, attended their meetings and the result, according to Vanity Fair, has been a decision on the part of the papers named to abandon the Reuter service and to form an association among themselves, on the plan of the Associated Press of the United States, for the collection of foreign news and the sharing of it among those who belong to the association. The Standard, however, Vanity Fair says, declines to join this FLOODS SUBSIDING. WACO, Tex., May 30.—The Brazos river at 9 o'clock last night had fallen seven feet from the highest point it reached yesterday, and business hours were submerged. Every available workman has been engaged in clearing the buildings and streets. The estimated damage to city property (not including railroad property) will reach $100,000. Three hundred yards of levee was sustained by East Waco. Seventeen bridges in McClellan county are known to have been washed away. No further loss of life has been reported. Reports from country districts indicate that the total loss in grain crops will not exceed 25 per cent. in this section.

Sudden Death. Special to the Globe. WARETOWN, Dak., May 30.—George Cody, a prominent Mason and member of the Grand Lodge, died at 11 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for several days. He was buried and was escorted to the train by the Masonic fraternity, G. A. R. and Women's Relief corps.

MONTZ ARMY, Md., May 30.—This afternoon Townsend Cook, a negro, knocked down and brutally outraged Mrs. J. Knott Apsce was organized and the rascal was captured and placed in confinement. The entire neighborhood is in a great state of excitement. It is feared that Cook will be lynched before morning.

The paper estimates that the Reuter company collects in London for morning papers alone, a revenue of $600,000 a year, besides the large sum collected from the metropolitan evening papers and from the papers published elsewhere in Great Britain. The London Times, Vanity Fair states, recently initiated an organized hostility to the Reuter company and started a series of meetings of newspaper representatives to combat the company. Gentlemen from the Times, the News, the Telegraph, the Post, the Chronicle and the Advertiser, attended their meetings and the result, according to Vanity Fair, has been a decision on the part of the papers named to abandon the Reuter service and to form an association among themselves, on the plan of the Associated Press of the United States, for the collection of foreign news and the sharing of it among those who belong to the association. The Standard, however, Vanity Fair says, declines to join this

Three hundred yards of levee was sustained by East Waco. Seventeen bridges in McClellan county are known to have been washed away. No further loss of life has been reported. Reports from country districts indicate that the total loss in grain crops will not exceed 25 per cent. in this section.

LONDON, May 30.—All the statements whose actions generally furnish the political news, except Mr. Gladstone, are away enjoying their Whitsuntide holidays, and the premier is resting even from talking. The Liberals seem to be satisfied with the Anglo-Russian situation. The Conservatives, however, appear to be craving work to do. It is generally believed among the politicians that Russia has agreed to allow Afghanistan's claim to both Zulikar and Mowlaik. It does not appear, however, that the czar has agreed, even provisionally, to any treaty binding him to refrain from further advances. Many efforts have been made to secure from him such an agreement, and their failure tends to strengthen the conviction that Russia has simply dickered in order to gain time and that she is determined to continue her progress southward. The Conservative friends in this state of affairs are subject.

FOR DENUNCIATION of Mr. Gladstone's management of the dispute, The Tory papers declare that unless Russia gives England a guarantee against further advances southward, coupled with a pledge to respect the independence of Afghanistan, they cannot feel bound to support the peace. The general public, on the other hand, seem to place the most implicit confidence in Mr. Gladstone's statements that peace is assured. Under the prospect held out by this assurance a general and unqualified improvement is going on in the industries of the country. All the building and transportation trades are busy. Farm laborers are in demand, both at home and in the colonies. The emigration returns even for the month of May are very large. The Duke of Devonshire, a Radical member of Mr. Gladstone's cabinet and the head and front of the rebellion against the renewal of the crimes act, has not, it appears, been converted by Earl Spencer, the Irish viceroy. The lord lieutenant has insisted on the renewal of his act, and it is generally thought was the main influence which induced Mr. Gladstone to commit the government to the renewal policy. When Sir Charles Dilke rebelled against the renewal and succeeded in splitting the cabinet on the question, the premier managed to hold it together by inviting to Dublin to attend the meetings of the commission for housing the poor Irish, as a ministerial visitor to the Irish capital. Sir Charles, as a matter of course, became the guest of the viceroy, at Dublin castle, and the result was that he has been occasionally pocketed a balance of $700 a year.

THE MINISTER TO CHINA. WASHINGTON, May 30.—Gen. Charles Denby of Indiana, who was yesterday appointed minister to China, to succeed John Russell Young, who made the famous trip around the world with Gen. Grant, got to be a good deal of a standing joke. He was an applicant first for the Russian mission and so announced himself from his Evansville residence that he had been appointed to the position. He was willing to go as minister to any country so that he could be a diplomat. For a week or more he has labored with the Indiana delegation for the place to which he is assigned. McDonald quietly dropped into the city early this morning and reached here last night. He is asked that Denby be sent to the Celestials as an American ambassador, and the president, in deference to the request, made the appointment without consulting his secretary of state.

Mrs. Parnell Penitents. Special to the Globe. NEW YORK, May 30.—The entire personal property of Mrs. Delia E. Stewart Parnell, mother of the Irish land leaguer, has been seized at the suit of Joshua J. Turner and others, and is advertised for sale at Ironsides, June 15. The old and infirm Mrs. Parnell, who lives in the Delaware river four miles above Bordentown, N. J., and there formerly dwelt Admiral Stewart, Mrs. Parnell's daughter. Mr. Parnell endeavored in vain for two years to make the place pay as a summer boarding house, but it was not to be. The house was sold and if it should be sold she will be left almost penniless. Her son, John, invested heavily in Delaware peach farms, and year after year has lost his crops, until Mrs. Parnell, who was backing the enterprise, has sunk about $15,000. This year she was to go to Ireland, but she went to Ireland. Then Mrs. Parnell started her summer boarding house and failed. She gave freely to the Land league cause, and bore all the expenses of her famous trip throughout this country, organizing the League of Maynooth college and the Nationalist, will be appointed by the Vatican to succeed the late Cardinal McCabe as Irish

BISHOP OF DUBLIN. The telegram says that the appointment will not be announced immediately, and that the pope has received the Irish bishops with marked cordiality. The Catholic circles in Dublin are also confident that Dr. Walsh will be appointed. The committee of the Dublin corporation, which has the matter referred, has decided to continue the national and civic emblem in a city flag, which henceforth will bear a harp on a green ground, and which will display in one quarter three white castles on a blue ground. The Irish people, who are anxious to see the end of the alleged attempt to discredit the National league in America, by political attacks in the United States on Patrick Egan, treasurer of the old land league, United Ireland, Mr. Parnell's organ, appear to be disappointed at the result, which seems to display more good
