The Chicago Storm.

CHICAGO, June 3.—During the height of the storm last night, switchmen working near the Illinois Central roundhouse, at the foot of Sixteenth street, heard some men shouting for help. The switchmen went down to the breakwater and hallooed. They were answered by a chorus of shouts which seemed to come from a number of men out in the lake. The railway men continued to call and the answers gradually grew fainter. Shortly afterwards a watchman heard cries and rushed down to the breakwater and called again, and was answered by the voices of several men. The watchman thought the men were drifting south. He attempted to call the police through the patrol box, but the lightning which leaped from the sheets of lightning which leaped from the clouds, struck the box, and the police finally learned of the men being out in the lake a patrol wagon was sent to the foot of Sixteenth street. The officers, however, did not see the men until they were within a few hundred yards of the lake. When they first came the officers heard the cries, but the voices were very faint and seemed a long way out. It is thought a vessel may have been struck by lightning and that the crew had been forced to take to a boat.

During the storm Henry Carmody, bridge tender at the Halsted street bridge, was the hero of a performance that probably saved the lives of a number of people. In the midst of the blinding wind and rain he had closed the bridge through which a vessel had passed and on the north side of the bridge, and as it neared the center of the structure Carmody glanced out of the window and was terrified to see the bridge slowly swinging open. The driver had his head stuck down to ward the water, and was apparently unaware of the fearful consequences of the danger ahead. Carmody took in the situation at a glance, dashed out of the bridge house and ran at the top of his speed across the bridge toward the car. Reaching the advancing car he grabbed the horses by the bits and sang out to the driver to put on the brake. The car was stopped about ten feet from the end of the rails and over the muddy waters of the river. The driver, in his haste to get across, allowed the team to travel at a rapid gait, and a horrible catastrophe and loss of life was only prevented by Carmody's nerve and prompt action.

At 5:40 o'clock, as the electric lamp in front of Thomas Conidine's saloon, 69 Randolph street, was struck by lightning and shattered into fragments, a portion of the walls attached to the roof and the ceiling fell, and the structure was set on fire. The current was on and the dynamo engine on Washington street was in full operation. The electricity kept coming and throwing out its sparks and kept one of Conidine's employes busy for nearly five hours mending the wires on the sign and wood-work. Word was finally sent to the operator on Washington street and the trouble was ended. The steeple of the Polish Catholic church on Thirty-third street was struck and completely wrecked. An unknown quantity of lightning struck the steeple, and the steeple was set on fire and burned. She was carried off in a wagon but was not seriously hurt. From investigations made by the life-saving service it is thought the ruin or loss of life on the lake of this port in the storm last night is unknown. It is now thought the sounds came from a "bum boat" which lies anchored off the government pier.

This afternoon a boat was washed ashore, which has been identified as the one in which John and Charles Olson and Charles Larson were thrown into the water on the night before the storm yesterday. The young men have not since been seen and are believed to have been drowned.

Flooded the Country. LONGMONT, June 3.—At noon to-day Beaver Park reservoir, in South St. Vrain canyon, burst, causing great damage in the surrounding country. A torrent, estimated to be 120 feet high, rushed down the canyon, carrying along a great deal of lumber, and flooding the adjacent country. So far as learned no lives are lost, but the damage to crops and meadows along the low lands is great. The reservoir, an immense affair covering many acres, supplied water for the highland country which traversed the section of the country adjacent to the mountains.

Capized and Drowned. MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 3.—A Kenosha, this state, this morning, a two-year-old daughter of John Surges, while picking up drift wood in a boat in Pine creek, was capized and drowned. Her mother rushed into the water to attempt to rescue her and was carried off by the current and drowned.

Died From Exposure. GALENA, Ill., June 2.—An inquest was held last night on the dead body of a woman which was found buried to the waist in the sand on the bank of the Apple river, three miles below Hanover, in this county. The deceased proved to be Mrs. Julia Wallace, widow of Patrick Wallace, for many years a miner of this city. She disappeared mysteriously from her home in Galena Sunday last, while she was engaged in a search about in the woods, dying from starvation and exposure.

Boiler Explosion. CHARLESTON, S. C., June 3.—The boiler in Linstead's phosphatic works at John's Island here exploded yesterday, killing two negroes, dangerously wounding a third and wrecking the works. The supposed cause was unequal exhaustion of steam in the boiler.

What Vessel Was It? QUEBEC, June 3.—Capt. Sorenson of the bark Finn, from St. Servan, France, reports having met large quantities of wreckage of the banks of Newfoundland, composed of doors, cabins, masts, etc., which appeared to belong to a ship of large dimensions.

Stopping Gambling. CHICAGO OFFICERS INSTRUCTED TO ENFORCE THE CITY LAWS.

Satisfied With Cleveland.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The Hon. E. W. Durant of Stillwater, Minn., a well-known and active Minnesota Democrat, is at the Tremont house. In conversation with a Globe representative Mr. Durant stated that the Democrats of his state, without respect to connections, are well satisfied and pleased with the administration of President Cleveland up to date. Mr. Durant was offered a consulate, which he declined on account of business interests, which demanded all of his attention and time. Speaking of Hon. P. H. Kelly of St. Paul, the so-called Democratic boss of Minnesota, Mr. Durant thought Mr. Kelly was justified in a great many of his misconstrued motives, and, as was natural for a leading and representative business man who took an interest in politics, he was purposely misrepresented by would-be rivals. Mr. Durant thought the president was doing a great many things for his friends in the distribution of the Minnesota patronage.

LABOR'S GREAT FIGHT.

The Iron Trade Completely Paralyzed by the Extensive Strike of Iron and Steel Workers.

One Hundred Iron Mills and Thirty-four Nail Mills Cease Operation in Consequence.

About One Hundred Thousand of the Toolers Idly Waiting, Bidding Their Time.

All the Western Glass Factories to Close Down Shortly for the Summer.

Everything Stagnant.

Special to the Globe. NEW YORK, June 3.—The all-absorbing topic of conversation among the Trades unionists, working classes and iron and steel merchants in this city is the great strike of the 100,000 men employed in the iron mills in Pittsburgh. The largest iron organizations are prepared to back the strikers and are expecting a call from the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers for substantial support, if the prospects of a long lock-out warrants it. James & Laughlin, of Pittsburgh, the largest iron manufacturers in the country, wrote to a prominent iron merchant in this city, to-day, that they did not have a large stock on hand and they could not therefore accept his order at prices stipulated. The Vulcan Forge and Iron works of Young & Co. also wrote: "We regret we cannot accept your order as our mill is shut down." All the manufacturers and merchants claim there is no money in iron at present figures. J. O. Carpenter, a leading iron and steel merchant of this city, in an interview on the subject of the strike and its effect on laborers and the trade, said to-day: "Prices are so low that it is not possible to get labor lower. If the strikers hold out the mills will have to yield and the price of iron will have to advance. The present prices at Pittsburgh for refined iron are from $1.60 to $1.75 per 100 pounds, free on board there, and in this city, for the same product, the figures are from $1.90 to $2.10 per 100 pounds. Common iron is from $1.65 to $1.75, and steel 24 cents upward per pound."

Indifferent Strikers. PITTSBURGH, June 3.—There is but little change in the aspect of the iron-workers' strike to-day. The strikers appear indifferent and calmly await results, and the manufacturers are taking advantage of the shut-down of their mills, for the sake of the week-end. At 1 o'clock this afternoon Secretary Weeks reported that no more manufacturers had signed the scale. The strikers say that they do not at present expect any signatures to their scale, as the manufacturers agreed on a two-months' shut-down at their last meeting, the closing of the mills has therefore no significance.

Glass Factories Shut Down. PITTSBURGH, June 3.—Within the next two weeks every window-glass factory west of the Allegheny mountains will close down for the summer, in accordance with a resolution of the Western Window Glass Manufacturing association. The usual summer shut-down occurred last year in June, but in view of the fact that the trade was dull, the manufacturers decided to suspend operations two weeks earlier. A reduction in wages of 25 per cent, it is said, will be insisted upon by the manufacturers when the factories resume in the fall.

Many Men Affected. PITTSBURGH, Penn., June 3.—The New Albany Iron company at New Albany, Ind., has signed the Amalgamated scale. This is the first time since the strike that a sign and the workmen say they expect more in a few days. The number of workmen affected by the strike in the different states is as follows: Western Pennsylvania, 20,542; Ohio, 13,053; Indiana, 6,254; Illinois, 14,544; Michigan, 4,545; Wisconsin, 4,232; Michigan, 1,000; Tennessee, 140; Kentucky, 151. One hundred iron mills and three nail mill factories have closed down.

Stopping Traffic. CINCINNATI, June 3.—The strike on the Kentucky Central railway assumed the appearance of violence this morning. A freight train was made up in Covington and was starting out when a force of strikers appeared, cut the engine loose and ordered the train to stop. The engine entered the round house. The order was obeyed and the train did not start. The engineers are not yet in the strike as they are awaiting the report of a committee sent to Richmond, Va.
