ADDING THE MERCHANT MARINE

The Resolution to That Effect Before the Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce yesterday morning was a short one and not very important.

A communication was read from C. M. Mills, captain Fifth artillery, acting chief signal officer at Washington, in regard to the resolution of the chamber of commerce on the removal of the St. Paul signal office, in which the writer says the signal office is always ready and willing to act when the interests of the public can be better served.

The communication was ordered filed. Mr. Noyes made a report in regard to the memorial of Major Rice of New York, in favor of aiding the merchant marine by granting a subsidy. Mr. Gilman opposed this, and though he could not well discuss the matter without talking politics, which he did not wish to do, yet he would like to see the subsidies as all wrong.

Up to the time of the late rebellion, under the tariff for revenue only, our shipping was increasing and we stood next to Great Britain. During the rebellion the high tariff was adopted and had the effect of driving Nelson and his company away from the coast.

The result is that our merchant marine is swept from the coast. He declared himself opposed to subsidies. Capt. Blakeley said Mr. Gilman protested that he did not want to make a political speech, and then went on to say that the subsidy was a political matter.

A special venire of thirty petty jurors was issued yesterday, returnable at 10 o'clock to-day. Following is the list: John G. Elmaquist, Charles G. Foe, Danat Unether, H. A. Blang, George Blockmore, Edward Ayl, John Bader, L. E. Albin, Albert Chad, F. C. Foster, C. Bower, H. N. Elmer, A. C. Elmsitt, J. N. Atkins, B. B. Eaton, Carl Ekman, H. W. Eddy, C. E. Carey, A. J. Blodgett, George E. Bell, H. G. Chislett, William J. Bohan, G. W. Carrington, William A. Cobb, Charles Fitt, E. A. Fitz, S. E. Egan, A. W. Fisher, B. Beaton, James Carr.
