INTERESTING CEREMONY.

Laying the Corner Stone of the Home for Children and Aged Women.

The corner stone of the new home for children and aged women was laid yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The new building will occupy the southwest corner of Stevens avenue and Thirty-second street, the location being one of the best that could have been selected.

The ceremony of laying the corner stone occurred at 3 o'clock. The foundation is completed, and upon the northeast corner was placed the block of Kasota stone destined to contain the Latin motto.

Thomas Allen, indicted for stealing a watch, valued at $10, from the dwelling of Mrs. Knowles, 300 Fourth street south, plead guilty, and was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

ANTER DAMAGES.

The Various Suits Against the City in the District Court.

The following are the various actions commenced to secure damages in which the city of Minneapolis is made a defendant at the September term of court:

The Minneapolis Gaslight company seeks to recover $2,423.05 on a contract for lighting certain streets in 1884.

Charles H. Prongua sues the city and James Gullen, property owner, for $7,225 for injuries received from falling into an excavation on Fifth street, June 15.

William Lee, who fell and broke his leg on Eighth avenue north, near Washington avenue, March 1, because of a defective sidewalk sues the city and Alfred J. Dean for $10,000.

Mathias Femk seeks to recover $58 on an account which was attached by the city. George A. Camp sues to recover $1,100 damages for injury to shade trees and removal of earth by the laying of a sidewalk in front of property owned by him.

H. E. Fletcher, who fell into a hole in front of the engine house on Third avenue north and injured his shoulder, seeks to recover $500 damages.

Mary Lawless, a young lady who fell into an excavation in South Minneapolis, sues the city and J. T. Tobin, contractor, for $5,000 damages.

Sophronia La France, who claims that a defective sidewalk on Third avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets is responsible for a severe fall and resulting injuries, asks for damages amounting to $2,180.

John Hopf sues the city and W. H. Baer, property owner, for the injuries which his son Wently, 14 years old, received by a fall on Twenty-sixth avenue south, April 26. The boy broke an arm, and $1,500 damages are asked.

John Mangunson, who was injured by the falling in of a sewer excavation, June 25, asks for damages amounting to $8,450. George Quickender slipped and fell Feb. 20, 1884, on a sidewalk on Third street north, near First avenue. He holds the city responsible and asks $10,000 damages.

ALMOST EN MASSE

Is the Way Minneapolis Will Attend the Fair on Her Day.

Thousands of Minneapolisians looked skyward yesterday morning and greeted the pure blue and bright sun with glad smiles. Everywhere over the city were heard words of gratulation, and very common was the saying: "Minneapolis day at the fair will be beautiful."

The interest taken in the fair was general, but people were not selfishly happy and were rejoiced that fair weather and fair prospects were identical. Should the weather of yesterday be duplicated to-day—and the prospects are favorable—it is estimated that 25,000 people from this city alone will attend the fair.

Every arrangement has been made in this city to that end, and every inducement is offered at the fair grounds. Not only will the regular races be held, but the postponed events of Tuesday will be given in addition.

The exhibition will be at its height and there could be no better day on which to attend. A hurry of opening and all signs of preparation are over, and there will yet be no trace of removing articles and stock on exhibition. Mayor Pillsbury yesterday promulgated the following:

To the People of Minneapolis--The state fair authorities, for and exhibitors, request that I issue a proclamation directing that stores, manufactories and places of business generally, be closed to-morrow, the day having been set aside as Minneapolis day. This I do not feel authorized to do, but in lieu thereof suggest that during the afternoon, at least, our people lay aside their business and be engaged in making "Minneapolis day" the day of the fair, to which end I request that all city offices, as far as practicable, be closed at 12 m. Respectfully, George A. Pillsbury, Mayor.

Minneapolis, Sept. 9. Wesley Nell, president of the Grocers' association, has issued a formal request to all grocers to close their stores at noon to allow all employees to attend the fair.

Every bank will close at noon, and nearly every place of business will follow suit. The chamber of commerce will not adjourn, as there will be an abundance of time after "change hour. The mills are all closed, and many factories will stop their wheels for the day.

In short, the regular business will be suspended, and Minneapolis will attend the fair almost en masse.

THE BIGGEST NIGHT DONE UP IN SHORT NOTES.

Last night, as predicted, drew the largest crowd of the week thus far. Even the gallery was filled. Chief West leads Chief Stetson about three to one.

Timothy Corbett is away ahead in the race for the temperance badge. Something should be acted off, if only to display Jim Smith's rich and melodious brogue.

The reporters have few friends, apparently, who are willing to squander money in their behalf. Jim Tamm is a big favorite for the overcoat. He is from the Phoenix mill, not the Union as reported.

STILLWATER NEWS.

Arrest of a Former Stillwater Man For Murder.

Heavy Attendance at the Public Schools--Notes.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER.

Will Parmelee, formerly of Stillwater, is in trouble. He was arrested at Taylor's Falls on Tuesday charged with murdering and robbing a saloon-keeper in Iowa about one year ago.

The murder was committed some time during the summer of 1884. For months it was a mystery.

Several parties were suspected, but it appeared that no definite clue could be found notwithstanding the vigorous efforts made on the part of the authorities and able detectives to ferret out the perpetrator or perpetrators.

Parmelee, or a man answering his description, it is alleged, was seen in Stillwater the night the murder was committed the night before and never afterwards, but until some weeks ago no suspicion rested on him.

It appears that valuable evidence was obtained, sufficient to warrant his arrest. After the case had been worked up, it was learned that he was in Minnesota.

Circulars giving a description were sent to different points throughout the state. At Taylor's Falls. For several weeks he was watched, and finally the authorities had him locked up.

The man arrested is Parmelee, whom they think is the man they have been looking for. Yesterday the attorney for Polk county visited Stillwater to learn if the man they had arrested was Parmelee and all he could about him.

He went to Chief Shortall and with him visited several parties, among whom was Mr. Dan McSweeney, proprietor of the O. K. barber shop, for whom Parmelee worked some years ago.

The attorney returned fully satisfied that the man arrested was Parmelee and just the man they wanted. Parmelee learned the trade with McSweeney about seven years ago.

Left him and returned to Stillwater, working about a year the second time. He then left and was never heard of until a year or two afterward, when it was reported that he was married and running a barber shop in Iowa.

He is about 24 years old, about five feet eight, with dark brown eyes, light complexion, and thin nose. He made many friends and was well liked.

He is a son of Mr. C. E. Parmelee, proprietor of the Stillwater rink, is an excellent skater and polo player. Besides, he is an expert player on the harmonica.

Notes About Town. The question as to who will lose the $200 that William O'Brien drew fraudulently out of the First National bank is being discussed by a good many persons.

Some think that it will be bank, some the Stillwater saloon company and others Mr. Barrett, the gentleman who identified him.

The Stillwater Lumber company made a mistake in addressing the letter to Stillwater. The address of Mr. O'Brien that ought to have had the letter is Taylor's Falls and this is where the letter should have been sent.

In this account it looks as if this company will lose it. O'Brien who got the money is certainly guilty of forgery, yet there are many who think nothing can be done with him.

Some of our people think that coal is too high here and are looking elsewhere for their winter supplies.

Recently Mr. Hersey bought eight tons of coal at Milwaukee for $67.75 delivered on the track in Stillwater.

Yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock Judge Ewing and wife were out driving. In turning the corner of Chestnut and Second street the horse became frightened and upset the carriage.

Just 1,200 scholars are enrolled in all the public schools. This is 100 greater than ever before.

Dr. Charles McComb, formerly of Stillwater and now of Duluth, was in town yesterday among his numerous friends.

He was on his way to Minneapolis to attend the wedding of his son, Miss Minnie Cummins, to a prominent physician.

To-night Hon. Richard Griffith of Chicago, worthy foreman of the Knights of Labor, will address the people of Stillwater at the hall on the objects of the order the reforms it proposes to bring about.

Dick Wilson, the colored cook in the Brunswick cafe, who threatened to kill Christina

Sontor, the pastry cook employed in the same cafe, was released yesterday, no one appearing against him.

Mr. W. C. Whiting, the insurance man, has consolidated with Mr. George F. Sabin and moved in with him. The Globe office is still in the room Mr. Whiting has been occupying.

Mr. William Sateford, who is traveling for a New York house, is here among his many old friends. He thinks of making Stillwater his home. Mr. Sateford was married recently.

Judge Nethaway, Al Barclay and George B. Weston of St. Paul have returned from a ten days' expedition up the Bruile river. They shot two deer and killed 700 trout.

Yesterday Messrs. Matt Clark, Samuel Register, W. S. Masterman and Capt. Dougherty left on the Jennie Hayes to spend a day or two hunting deer on the lake.

Yesterday Senator D. M. Sabin left on a business trip to the East. Before his return he will likely purchase another house in Washington city.

Yesterday electric light was placed on the corner of Third and Chestnut streets. This was probably needed here more than any other place in town.

Last night Mr. Rudolph Lehnicke returned to his castle near Miles city. He will not return before next fall.

M. W. A. Stein, wife and son, and Mr. Harry King returned on Tuesday night from a pleasant visit to Duluth.

Mrs. Julius Hass, who has been quite sick for the past three months, is improving slowly.

Mr. N. Dudson of St. Paul took dinner with his friend, Mr. J. F. McDermott, yesterday.

Mr. J. S. O'Brien sold 500,000 feet of log to Brook Bros. of Minnesota on Tuesday.

Mr. J. J. Robertson recently counted 603 different marks on logs scaled in the lake.

Miss Laura B. Dexter has returned from a pleasant visit to Minneapolis.

Mr. L. L. Lowry is getting along as well as could be expected.

Miss L. M. Jordan of Maine is the guest of Mrs. Samuel Mathews left yesterday for Red Wing on business.

J. Barker, Esq., of Davenport is in the city on business.
