66 Nanon," the Reigning Attraction of the Casino--Business Manager Aronson.

"Evangeline" to Be Reproduced With New Music and On a Magnificent Scale.

Dorrespondence of the Globe. NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—This has been a dull week as regards new productions, and the important theatrical events were an in-teresting performance of "Dombey and Bon," a dramatization of Charles Dickens' novel by the late John Brougham, at Daly's theater, and an Irish drama, "Shane Na" "Dombey and Son" may not have any great degree of interest for older theater-goers, but it has at least an attraction for the younger generation in witnessing on the stage a per-formance of the story of a novel they have probably many times laughed and cried over. It is years since the late William E. Burton played the part of Capt. Cuttle, in the old Chambers Street theater, and an occasional revival of the play since then by Mr. W. J. Florence has always drawn many admirers of the old-time and legitimate school of comedy acting. The Capt. Cuttle of Mr. Florence is a realization of the part as Dickens wrote it in the book. He is the same rollicking, honest, whole-souled, generous, humorous and pathetic old marine of England, as lives at home at ease, that has afforded so much pleasure to the admiring readers of "Dombey and Son." The comedy is not one which will draw that large class of theater-goers which is so fond of the boisterous antics of actors called times, would have been classed as clowns, and the action of the play is also much too slow to please this same class of patrons of farcical comedies. Mr. Florence's performance was a treat, inasmuch as it presented to us a feature of oldtime acting that is now seldom seen upon Next week will close Mr. Florence's season of four weeks at this theater, when he will present "The Mighty Dollar," which has been for many seasons a successful piece in his repertoire. Mr. Florence is assisted in the production of his plays by a very excellent company, including Mr. Henry Holland, Mr. Cyril Searle, Miss Ethel Greybrooke, Mrs. Louisa Eldridge and Miss Minnie Radcliffe. His season has been altogether a successful one.

Mr. W. J. Scanlan, the popular Irish comedian, has found in "Shane Na' Lawn" a drama which is well suited to his purposes. He has amused the audiences at the People's theater, which is now one of the principal combination theaters in New York, with his songs and dances.

The portrait presented above is of Mr. Rudolph Aronson, the manager of the Casino, to whose conception, energy and perseverance and excellent business qualifications is due the erection of this handsome building and its establishment upon a successful footing. "Nanon" is at present the reigning attraction, and on Thursday evening next it will have reached 100 representations at this theater. This opera has been the most successful and has enjoyed the longest run of any comic opera yet produced at the Casino. It is now in the height of its success. To commemorate the 100th performance, the interior of the theater will e decorated with flowers, and souvenirs will be distributed among the audience, which are considered by Mr. Aronson to be the handsomest evergiven away at his theater. Tuesday evening will be the last night of the concerts which have been held on the roof garden of the building, after every performance, since last spring. I give an illustration this week of a scene from the second act of "Nanon," with Mr. Carleton, Miss Pauline Hall, and Miss Sadie Martinot in the foreground. Mr. Carleton leaves the company at the close of next week to go to San Francisco, at the head of his own opera company, where he will give the "Mikado." After it has run there for some time he will Arter it has full there for some time he will play "Nanon," singing the part of the Marquis D'Aubigne, which he has sung since the production of the opera at the Casino. Signor Perugini, who arrived from Europe last week, will take his place in the Casino company. On a doleful occasion two or three seasons ago I heard Powering sing the three seasons ago I heard Perugini sing the part of Faust with the Mapleson Opera company, at the Academy of Music, when the gallant colonel of Her Majesty's Opera actor, but he possesses a tenor voice that is ten to take the place of some of the old ones; the musical part of the production is under the direction of Mr. John Braham. Mr. E. E. Rice is spending a great deal of money on this revival, and with Miles and money on this revival, and with Miles and Barton of the Bijou, anticipates for it a long run. Mr. John Mackey, the comedian, has been engaged at the enormous salary of $300 a week to play the principal part of Le Blanc. In the cast will be Miss Fay Templeton, Miss Irene Verona, Mr. George F. Schiller, Miss Mollie Fuller, Mr. James F. Maffit and forty others. There will also be a great deal of new scenery, which is now. a great deal of new scenery, which is now in the hands of the scenic artists, Mr. Somer V. Emmons, who was formerly with the Madison Square theatre, and Mr. Harley Merry, who has already done a great deal of excellent work in this direction for most of the New York theaters. It is, however, a question if a revival of "Evangeline" will prove as successful as the management anticipate. The piece has not been resented in New York for several and at the time it was played at sevyears and at the time it was played at several theatres to a very large business; but there appears to be a very good reason for believing that the New York public wiil not show as great an interest in it now as it did then, in consequence of the burlesque being yet fresh in their minds. It is the intention of Mr.

take place on Oct. 1, that the night will b NEW YORK THEATERS.

> The American exposition which will be held in London next year bids fair to be-come a very important event. No less than nine new operettas by Vienna composers are under way for next season: Strauss' "Gipsy Baron," Millocker's "Vice Admiral," Czibulka's, "Hunting Page," "The Somnambulist," by Louis Roth, "Bellmann," by Suppe, an operatta by Baier, and a comic opera, each by Adolph Muller, Jr., Joseph Helmesberger, Jr. and Kremser.

The Theaters.

Dan Sully's not very good show, "The Corner Grocery," occupied the Grand opera house the first three nights of last week, since which time the house has been closed. This week it will open for two new attractions, neither of which has ever been seen here before, but both of them come well recommended and we may expect good hings of them.

The Olympic has done so well with Lida Gardner's Mastodons that they will stay another week. Several new artists will be added and the program will be changed. It was good before, but Manager Hilton threatens to improve it.

The Family museum has had a tip top week, with big crowds of paying people every day. This week will be added a number of new features, including a bird performer, a giantess, a fire-eater and a sword-swallower. The menagerie up stairs will be enlarged, and very materially so within a week or ten days. In the auditorium the Tourists' Comedy company of five members will do musical funny business. LOCAL NOTES.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says that "it was noticed that at the end of the second act of 'Jack o' Diamonds' last evening the entire orchestra was in tears." Manager Scott has invested in four new mops which will be used in the orchestra the first three nights of this work. nights of this week.

It is hoped that Mr. Fred Bryton will take warning by a previous Minnesota experience of his, confine himself in his hotel room when not on the stage and ride to and from the theater in a close carriage.

Negotiations are in progress for the appearance here of Catherine Lewis, in "Gladys," before long. Manager Gore says he's going to have a fat woman here this week that will be a

The scheme of "The Private Secretary is that of mistaken and transferred identities, so often and ingenuiously employed by German and French writers of farcial plays. The persons who are regarded each as being the other are a giddy young Lon-doner and a sedate clerical secretary and tutor, and the fun comes principally from the unfitness of both for the assumed characters. The brisk fellow voluntarily takes the role of the secretary partly to gratify his love of deviltry, and partly to gain the favor of a rich old uncle, who holds to the theory that the youth who does not sow wild oats deserves no good harvest. The place of the young man's foolery is the country house of a chum's family, where there are two girls for them to encounter, flirt with, and finally marry, and where various conditions are favorable to an excessive amount of comical misunder-tanding and complication. The allow see standing and complication. The slow secretary is brought into this rapid succession of absurd events, where his mild goodness makes laughable incongruity and where his adventures take a wide range, from being dragged over tables to being hidden under them. It is said to be much funnier than "The Professor," which will be remembered by many. The New York press seem to be universal in their praise of the piece, and the comedy is doing a phenomenally large business both in London and New York at present. Mr. W. H. Gillette, who created this part in the United States, will appear with his New York company.

"There is also 'The Maid of Honor,' an adaptation by Mr. Weil of Halevy's 'Mousquetaires de la Reine,' which has, ever since its original production at the Opera Comique in 1840, been regarded as the masterpiece of its composer, and is known to the musical world as one of the most exquisitely melodious operas of the entire repertoire. It has, however, in common with several of Halevy's finest works, the peculiarity of being written for two leading tenors,—Phillipe de Beauchamp, a lyric part, originally sung by Rogers, and Hector de Biron, the light comedy tenor of the true French opera comique mould,—and has become well nigh

Dramatic Notes.

A London letter to the Dramatic Times "We are all howling with laughter at John Rogers. The result of all his telling about his profits, Minnie's diamonds and the rest of it has to bring down the incomtax commissioners on them both. They have been served with literally big bundles of documents marked 'On H. M. S.!' John has been hauled up beside, and he swore that he hadn't and never had a dollar whereupon they confronted him with his own interviews. The commissioners claim all the arrears for three years past, and the amount involved is nearly $10,000. Miss Palmer declares that she will her during this engagement. Her supporting company will be a very excellent one. Mr. Grau is making every effort that this season shall be a memorable one in the history  of French opera in New York. As a general thing French artists come to America with all the fame of a successful career in their own country, but they are often disappointing to us in their yocal accomplish. with Rogers forever if he submits to this exaction. Here, then, is John Rogers with all top of it all, even if the amount is reduced, both of them will have to swear as to whether they are married or single."

Mme. Bernhardt has written an interesting letter in defense of the sincerity of actors and actresses, seeking to prove that many of them really enter into the spirit of their parts. She declares that Croizette, after the famous poisoning scene in Le Sphinx, used to remain for some minutes pale and with chattering teeth; that Beaulevet always wept real tears when performing King Lear and that Mounet-Sully had veritable hallucinations when acting the madness of Orestes. Sarah herself seems to outdo all these celebrated examples. She says: "I have never played Phedre without fainting or spitting blood, and after the fourth tableau of 'Theodora,' in which I kill Marcellus, I am in such a nervous state that I return to my dressing room sobbing. If I do not weep I have a hysterical fit, which is much more disagreeable to those around me and more dangerous for the vases and other things near at hand."

Blanche Curtisse, the Vassar girl star, with "Only a Farmer's Daughter," received, with "Only a Farmer's Daughter," received, it is said, while playing in Helena, Mont., three offers of marriage. One was from the owner of an opera house, part owner of several mines, and reported to be a two-millionaire. In addition to this, he is only about 30, and said to be the handsomest man in the territory. Miss Curtisse concluded that she would not forsake a position which has already made, her consider. tion which has already made her considerable reputation, a calling which she loves, and a prospect of future prominence which seems reasonably certain.

One of the curious features of what has turned out to be the great success of Mme. York, is the effect it has had upon the gallery of that house. That all the seats on the ground floor should be taken was nothing extraordinary, but that the gallery should be nightly filled is almost unknown in the history of the house. It is suggested that the rush to this part of the house is due to the number of thrifty Teutons who wish to see their countrywoman, and do not approve of reckless extravagance.

The marriage is announced in New York of Mr. Frank B. Richards, well-known in St. Paul as the traveling correspondent of several Chicago papers and now with the Turf, Field and Farm, and Miss Leila Morris, a member last season of Augustin Daly's Theatrical company. The sad event occurred in New York city and a jollification engaged

A young Boston reporter became en-amored of the charms of Miss Rosa Cook, and requested to know something of her stage career in order to write her up. Her answer was: "Young man, examine the files of the New York Tribune of twenty years ago and you will find something."

During the presentation of the "Cloth of Gold" by the Excelsior Folly company in Philadelphia last week, during the "sneezing song," one of the ladies of the cast sneezed out an upper set of false teeth, which killed her mashing for that evening. "Hello, Murray! How did you come to fall out with your manager? You were so suited with him; he seemed to take so much interest—" "Exactly." said the angel. first took my interest, and then he

Mme. Modjeska, who has returned to this country, will go at once to Stamford, Conn., where a little cottage at "Echo Lawn" has the rehearsals of her company at that place until her season begins on Oct. 5.

Ellen Terry is fully determined to recross the Atlantic with a company of her own. Having vainly urged Irving to make another tour, she is thought to be vexed with his obstinacy, and is inclined to punish him

THE ANNUAL UPHEAVAL.

Minnesota Methodists' Yearly Conference This Week.

Speculations on Changes to Be Made in Metropolitan Pulpits.

The Minnesota Methodist conference will hold its annual meeting in Rochester, beginning on Thursday of this week, and the business which will most interest the public will be the changes in the several pastorates of the church within the borders of this conference. Of late years it has happened that prior to this annual refitting of pegs into holes the arrangements have been made be-fore hand in a great measure, at least as to the most important changes. Nevertheless, the bishop presiding at the conference has the deciding vote in each case, and bishops are but human, and hence sometimes conare but human, and hence sometimes con-trary. So a church may think it has things all fixed up for a Saul of Tarsus, re-christened Paul, to break to it the bread of life, and then find the bishop has imposed upon it a timid Timothy, just out of the theological seminary. But then the church just as often finds that it is better pleased with its Timothy than it would have been with Paul, and will ask for his return at the next conference.

Some guesses can be made as to the probable disposition of the St. Paul and Minneapolis pulpits, which may not be uninterest-

Rev. Mr. Holman of the Bates Avenue church, who has been here for three years, will be changed, but it is not known where he will be located, or who will be sent here to fill his place. The GLOBE proposes to give him a farewell send-off by printing his picture to-morrow. Rev. F. I. Fisher, who has been here temporarily for the purpose of supplying the First M. E. church, will be changed to some other part of the vineyard. Some question has been raised as to some of the ideas or doctrines he has inculcated while he has been here, and it is possible that the dignitaries of the church have an idea that a little sequestration in the country will prove of service to him by way of mild discipline. It is not known where he will be

Rev. S. G. Smith, D. D., will be sent here to fill his place. Mr. Smith occupied this church a year or two ago and the community, as well as the congregation of the First M. E. church, will be much gratified to have him return. Rev. Robert Forbes of the Jackson Street M. E. church will be returned to the same church, where he has done such excellent work. His return will be due, in a considerable degree, it is presumed, to the unanimous request of his congregation, where he has labored so earnestly and with such decided success. He has been one of the most energetic and judicious laborers in the field. He has established several missions in this vicinity and in one year under his ministrations the members of his congregation have increased so that there is a net gain of fifty. The finances of his church are now in excellent condition, and the end of the year will see all current bills paid, and a large amount contributed for missions. Under his administration the church has contributed for benevolent purposes, outside of the running expenses of the church, over $7 for every member of the congregation Within the past year a church building has been erected on Marion street and paid for, where there is a flourishing Sunday school, and every Sunday religious services are conducted there by lay preachers. The church will build another chapel this fall or early in the spring.

A pastor will be appointed by the conference for East St. Paul, or Post's Siding, where services have been sustained by Rev. Mr. Fisher and Rev. Mr. Stafford for some time, and where they have a good congregation. A new church will be erected this

It is uncertain whether Rev. Mr. Stafford will be returned or not. He has done good work here, and it is understood that he would prefer a different field, and will secure a new one if possible.

Rev. W. S. Mathews of the Clinton Avenue church will probably be returned. He has hear doing yery excellent work has been doing very excellent work.

Prof. Gale of Hamline will be returned.

The trustees have already employed him as one of the professors.

It is not understood what will be done in regard to Rev, Mr. Pemberton. He has had the St. Paul circuit, which consists of a mission in West St. Paul and a point or two down the river in the country The Methodists of Minneapolis are more interested and curious than anxious over the changes to be made. Nearly every congregation has made up its mind what will be the result in its particular case, and is now quietly biding its time. The fare-well receptions have all been tendered those ministers to whom an "ordre du route" will certainly come, and they are calmly and prayerfully awaiting the conference, with their trust in the Lord and their hope in Bishop Andrews. The last sermons in their present churches will be preached to-day by certainly seven and possibly by eight of the ten Methodist ministers, and no conference year on record will end with as general an upheaval as the present. Of the ten churches, there are only two, the Hennepin Avenue and the Twenty-fourth Street churches, that are more or less agitated. Rev. John L. Pitner, of the former, only came last fall as a "supply" man, and an effort will be made to continue him as such, which will give him four and a half years more; failing that, he will certainly be assigned where he is for the next three years. So that Hennepin avenue church is settled. Dr. Morgan of the Twenty-fourth Street church has not served his time and will be left undisturbed, and the same is true of the new church on Fillmore street. in the extreme northwestern portion of the It is considered reasonably certain that Dr. Van Anda of the Franklin Avenue church and Dr. Wagner of Centenary will exchange churches for the next three years. The Centenary people are practically unanimous in their wish to have Dr. Van Anda returned to them, while it is conceded Dr. Wagner will go to Franklin avenue in the absence werkers of any other value. Still absence, perhaps, of any other place. Still, as one of Dr. Van Anda's flock expressed it yesterday, there "are so many circumstances liable to arise in the conference itself that it is difficult to tell. Bishop Andrews will, however, look at the matter through the spectacles of the people them-Dr. J. M. Bull has preached the faith at Foss church for two years, and his people want Dr. J. H. Gilbert of Duluth to succeed him, in which eyent the soldier preacher will be sent to some other portion of the moral vineyard. Dr. J. G. Teeter of the Simpson church is in much the same position, though no one seems able to name his successor. This appointment will probably devolve on others and little can be known of it. There is a probability that Dr. A. C. Williams of the First church will be sent to the west side of the river, in which case one of the clergymen mentioned above may take his place. Rev. J. B. Starkey of the Thirteenth Avenue church has satisfactorily filled his three years' term and his people will part with him reluctantly, especially as they do not know where he will go or who will succeed him.

This accounts for all of the churches are

This accounts for all of the churches except the missions, and they are largely in the hands of the presiding elder, Rev. Mr. Chaffee. It is the belief, as well as the wish of many, that some new talent should be sent into the Minneapolis city field, and where no specific choice has been made by the quarterly meetings of the churches improbable Between will appear. Between now and next Thursday. Several meetings will be held and much of the present uncertainty will disappear. There is no like-lihood that the bishop will overrule any reasonable wish of the various churches, and though he can make arbitrary appoints ments, it is not customary for him to do so. The situation just at this time is doubtful. as decisions are now pending in at least three of the ten regular churches.
