IN THE DISTRICT COURT. Attempt to Collect an Old Bank Account—Base Ball Reminiscence.

The trial of a very remarkable case was commenced in the district court yesterday before Judge Wilkin. In 1869, about sixteen years ago, William Branch deposited in what was then known as Smith & Dawson's bank, on the south side of Third street, between Robert and Jackson streets, $3,000 in his wife's name. The members of the firm were William Dawson, Robert E. Smith and L. E. Reed. Some time after the money was deposited Mr. Branch died, and in 1880 Mrs. Branch first made a claim for the money. It was at first a claim for the money, but it was continued. The reason she gives for this delay and apparent indifference is that she did not know of it till that time; that she would not have known it then but for the fact that she accidentally found the bank book in a drawer that had been locked all that time. The only way, she said, that she could get the drawer open was to get Charlie Mills, the locksmith, to go to the house and open it. Then it was that she found the bank book with the entry to credit of $3,000 in it and nothing had been drawn out. When she presented the case the bank officers immediately examined their books and found that the $3,000 was drawn out on the 19th of August, 1869, about a month after the entry to credit of $3,000 in it was deposited, and that the account was balanced and closed up. They consequently declined to pay the $3,000 over again, and hence this suit was brought for the purpose of recovering that amount.

BASE BALL. The reminders of this pleasant game are still with us, and, like an agreeable perfume, are very pleasant to come in contact with. Messrs. Taylor & Craig are rather more forcibly reminded of the national game than any one else. These two gentlemen became great baseball players, and three years ago, when St. Paul had a club, and took the contract to build the grand stand and erect the fence. A part of that same contract contemplated that they should be paid for the work they did and the material furnished, but the money was not paid. They accordingly brought suit in the district court to recover for putting up the stand and fence, in which they run in all the stockholders, that is, all the names of persons who subscribed for stock. There are several hundred defendants. The case has been before Judge Brill and yesterday came up anew. As against John C. Graus, T. J. Bowlan, Thomas Brennan, J. D. Eresette and C. E. Keller the case was dismissed. George Reis claimed to have transferred his stock. A hearing was had in regard to Reis's case, and the same was submitted and taken under advisement. As to the others no defense has been made. The regular notice will be given in the morning. Every subscriber is liable for the debts to the extent of the amount of his stock, the creditors are likely to get something some time. Deputy Sheriff Clewett took Charles Miller, P. Kavanagh, John Moran and James Todd over to Stillwater yesterday.

THE SPOGGERS.

Sparling Match Between Brady and Lannan.

Those sparring matches that Manager Hilton is giving at the Olympic prove heavy draw cards, and threaten to fill the coffers of the theater to overflowing. One week ago the match between Brady and Cardiff, in which the former had such a picnic, packed the house, and last night sparring room filled to overflowing. The same was not obtainable. The feature was a four two-minute round contest with soft gloves for points, between James Brady of Buffalo and Joe Lannan of South Boston, Mass. Lannan is the man whom John Brady has brought out, and who whipped McKewen, the heavy-weight champion of Manitoba, in two easy fights, and who stopped Jim Duffy in a two-round contest in Chicago, and who is matched to fight Pat Kilian of Chicago, Parson Davies' man, a week from tomorrow, within a hundred miles of this city, with hard gloves, to a finish. Lannan came out this week in the Police Gazette with a challenge to any New England heavy-weight, bar Sullivan. Last night he was introduced as a challenger to St. Paul audience, and considerable interest was manifested in the exhibition, as Brady had proven himself a good man.

THE MATCH.

At precisely 10:30 the curtain was rung up, and Manager Hilton, stepping out in a few preliminary remarks, introduced Brady, who stepped from the wings with a smile on his face, and dressed in black trunks and white shirt. A moment later Lannan's name was announced, and he tripped lightly to the front neatly dressed in black trunks and white shirt, of the same color. Both men appeared in good condition, Brady showing the most flesh, while Lannan's biceps stood out like knots of iron as he threw his arms in position and turned his attention to the referee. Brady was much the more attractive-looking, but it was easy to see that he did not possess the striking power that slumbered in the muscles of Lannan. The first round opened with a little shy sparring and a right hand square divided between the two men, but Lannan made a quick return on a right hander by Brady, his glove landing squarely on the latter's chin and Brady went clear off his feet and came down on his back; but he was on his feet in a moment, and a second instant, and smilingly came on the front amid the deafening cheers of the audience. Brady gave Lannan a brace of ardent coolers on his cheek with his right, which was followed by a clinch. The men quickly broke away from each other, and Brady ducked a terrible right-hand from Lannan, which was followed by another clinch. The next interesting feature of the round was a rush by Brady, but he failed to reach Lannan, and Lannan attempted the same tactics, but was short, and Brady gave a right-hand on the jaw that seemed to rouse him to a sense of duty. This ended the round.

THE SECOND ROUND.

The second round was opened with a right hand square, which was followed by a clinch. The men quickly broke away from each other, and Brady ducked a terrible right-hand from Lannan, which was followed by another clinch. The next interesting feature of the round was a rush by Brady, but he failed to reach Lannan, and Lannan attempted the same tactics, but was short, and Brady gave a right-hand on the jaw that seemed to rouse him to a sense of duty. This ended the round.

THE THIRD ROUND.

The third round was opened with a right hand square, which was followed by a clinch. The men quickly broke away from each other, and Brady ducked a terrible right-hand from Lannan, which was followed by another clinch. The next interesting feature of the round was a rush by Brady, but he failed to reach Lannan, and Lannan attempted the same tactics, but was short, and Brady gave a right-hand on the jaw that seemed to rouse him to a sense of duty. This ended the round.

following a weak left with a clinch. Brady pounded Lannan on the neck and dropped a array. In very cleverly driving Lannan back with a couple of left-hand taps, followed by a right-handed jamp-unisher, followed by a clinch. Several ineffectual blows were exchanged when Lannan let out a left hander that Brady ducked, and recovering, laid his right glove with a snuffing blow on Lannan's cheek that he went down. He caught on his hand and springing up made a rush for his opponent which was met with a left-handed nose colorer that stopped Lannan, and short-arm fighting followed to the end of the round.

The fourth round was a series of rushes on the part of Lannan, which were prettily stopped by Brady, who was breathing heavily and unable to do any hard hitting. When he went into that contest and succeeded in the first part of the round in bringing blood from Brady's nose. The round was well calculated to satisfy those who had come expecting to witness a slug-fight, as all rules governing scientific pugilism seemed to be laid aside and it was a constant tattoo, first right and then left, with an occasional rush and a clinch. Brady was weak and evidently would like to have thrown down the gloves, but he had a fund of grit, and fought as though he were the witnesses of a hippodrome. The round ended with a clinch, and the men went off followed by thunderous applause.

OLDEST IN ST. PAUL.

The German Society's Thirty-Second Anniversary To-night.

To-night the German society will celebrate the thirty-second anniversary of its organization by a vocal and instrumental concert and a ball at the Athenaeum. This organization is one of the oldest in the city, and has accomplished a vast deal of good in various ways. It was organized in 1853, thirty-two years ago, and during that time it has had twelve presidents, in the following order: Leonard, Julius Georgia, Charles Hoffman, Charles Koch, Gottlieb Betz, Maximilian Frinck, Nicholas Gross, Jacob Maxinger, John C. Brecht, Jacob Mainzer, Frank Werner, Otto Dreher. The following is the present list of officers: President, Otto Dreher; vice president, H. Meyerding; general manager, George Biehlitz; financial manager, William Biehlitz; trustee and manager, Justus Kahler; secretary, Frank Werner; treasurer, Emsig A. Kaemmerer. As above stated, the first organization was completed in 1853. It was then simply a reading society, and as such it continued till 1865, when it was changed to a literary, dramatic and gymnastic society, thus largely increasing its sphere of usefulness. During these early years quite a large and valuable library was gathered together, to which additions have since been made from time to time. This society, besides its literary and dramatic work, has brought out several plays, and when all the circumstances are taken into the account. In the first place all the political questions involved point to such action by the governor. He has nothing to gain from the southern part of the state. Mr. Kindred, I have no reason to believe, and when all the circumstances are taken into the account. In the first place all the political questions involved point to such action by the governor. He has nothing to gain from the southern part of the state. Mr. Kindred, I have no reason to believe, and when all the circumstances are taken into the account.

STREET SAYINGS.

A gentleman, who some weeks ago said to a Globe reporter that he felt confident that Mr. Hubbard would call an extra session of the legislature on the 31st of October, said Paul again yesterday, "I still hold to my original belief," said he, "and I believe that five out of every ten who do not believe in one then have changed their minds by this time. It cannot look otherwise than favorable to the cause, and when all the circumstances are taken into the account. In the first place all the political questions involved point to such action by the governor. He has nothing to gain from the southern part of the state. Mr. Kindred, I have no reason to believe, and when all the circumstances are taken into the account. In the first place all the political questions involved point to such action by the governor. He has nothing to gain from the southern part of the state. Mr. Kindred, I have no reason to believe, and when all the circumstances are taken into the account.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Mikado" drew another good house last night, the audience being as enthusiastic as on the preceding evening. It will be repeated this afternoon and evening. Bartley Campbell's new play opens next week at the Grand, and the sale of seats began yesterday. This morning the sale of reserved seats for Mr. Frank Woods' first testimonial concert will commence at the drug stores of J. P. Allen, Milwaukee, and Chicago. The concert will take place at Market hall next Tuesday evening, it having been impossible to secure the Opera house. Miss Etie Butler of Chicago will appear at this concert, and she is now as the leading soprano of the Northwest. She has received more praise from the press than any home singer for years and will charm this public. The list of local talent, who have kindly accorded their services, will be found in an advertisement. The people appear determined to honor the ten and to show that his kindness in aiding cheerfully, when occasion has presented, is fully appreciated. The hall should be crowded.

THE PRICE OF COAL.

The probability is that those people who have not before this time purchased their coal will very much regret the fact, and as the cold weather increases and becomes more severe the memory of the fact will regard to securing their supply will become more striking. From the list of August still toward the last of October anybody could have purchased all the coal needed at $6.50 and $6.75 per ton. Within the last week or two $10 has been added to the price, making a ton of coal cost now $7.50 and $7.75, and the prospects are that it will go still higher. There has already been an advance of 70 cents at all lake points, such as Duluth, Ashland, Milwaukee, and Chicago, and in connection with this fact comes a declaration that there is a very considerable shortage in the supply at all the lake points. There is evidently a stiffening up in prices, partly owing to the short supply and partly to the fact that railroad business is very heavy and an immense amount of coal is required. Notwithstanding the large quantities of coal that were purchased this month and last there are a good many families in St. Paul that have not supplied themselves even yet. It is feared that all that are without it will have to pay probably $8.75 per ton before many weeks. The dealers say that if it is possible they will hold prices where they are, but their ability to do so is doubtful.

THAT TEACHERS' BLUFF.

The teacher's bluff scored another victim last night. About 9:30, James Gibbons, 19 years old, while wandering on the edge of the bluff, between Wabasha and Cedar streets, missed his footing and fell over a distance of eighty feet. He was taken up by Special Officer Griffin and taken to the city hospital in the patrol wagon. He was perfectly conscious, and so far as Dr. Burke could ascertain, no bones were broken, but he was suffering from internal injuries. His father is the proprietor of a cooper shop in Duluth. He was intoxicated at the time the accident occurred.

NEW CORPORATIONS.

Articles of incorporation were filed of the Woman's Industrial Exchange of Minneapolis. Articles were also filed incorporating the Minnesota Mortgage Loan company of Minneapolis, with a capital stock of $10,000. The incorporators are J. S. Mackey, St. Paul; Thomas H. Hulbert, Chicago; Harry M. McIntosh, Kansas City.

OBITUARIES.

In the health office yesterday one marriage, six births and four deaths were reported. A regular meeting of the board of education will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The aldermen, who intended to leave on their Chicago trip last night, have postponed the excursion one week.

livered by Mr. C. W. Fisher, chief clerk of the auditor's office. Mr. Hyman was taken completely by surprise. His guests were very pleasant evening, and were enjoyably entertained by the charming hostess, Mrs. Hyman. Mr. John Devlin filled the comedy part to the delight of all.

OTHER DANCERS.

Hibernian hall was well filled last evening, the occasion being a ball by the Hibernian rifles. Many of the gentlemen appeared in uniform that added to the appearance of the scene. Dancing was kept up until past midnight and the occasion was enjoyed by all.

About fifteen couples danced in the Sons of Veterans hall in the Drake block last evening to music by Peterson's orchestra. The occasion was a benefit ball given by Mr. John Freese.

The next ball by the Sons of Veterans will be given on Thanksgiving eve at their hall in the Drake block. This evening the Germania society, one of the most interesting organizations in St. Paul, will give a ball at Pfeiffer's hall in aid of the library fund.

A BAD SMASH-UP.

Collision Between a Bugzy and a Hook and Ladder Truck.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning a telephone car was struck by a hook and ladder truck No. 2, causing the car to be overturned. The driver of the hook and ladder truck, Oscar O'Marra, the driver of one of Ryan's drays, seeing the flying team coming stopped his dray to see the fire, and the leader of the truck unable to stop, so great was his impetus, went up to the dray and over while the wheel horses were driven in among the wheels and an almost inextricable tangle was the result. The dray was driven against the bugzy of John Doeren, which was smashed into toothpick material, and Mr. Doeren spent the remainder of the day trying to find out where he was going to collect damages. "Baby," the leading horse of the truck, turned several somersaults and was strained and bruised to an extent that will keep him out of work for a few days. Chief Black lays the trouble at the door of O'Marra, the drayman, who, he said, could have easily gotten out of the way and prevented the collision.

CONTRIBUTORS.

In announcing the list of contributors to the Parnell fund yesterday it was inadvertently stated that the Emmet Light artillery had contributed $35. The amount was all right, but instead of the latter it should have read the Hibernian rifles, who were the real contributors.

The social meeting consisting of music, recitations, etc., will be given at the rooms of the Gospel Temperance Union, 53 East Seventh street, this evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. W. B. Ladd, Messrs. J. W. Blanchard, Orin Cadwell, C. A. Hunt and Master Austin will take part in the exercises.

Yesterday morning at 9:45 o'clock the fire department was called out for a small fire at 145 Washington street, in a two-story frame building, owned by Mrs. J. R. Irvine and occupied by Mrs. Nolan. A bed was found to be ablaze, probably catching from the carelessness of some one sleeping after retiring. It was extinguished without much damage.

James McDonnell filled up with booze yesterday and attempted to cross the Minnesota & Northwestern railroad bridge. He was met by an engineer of the road and told that the bridge was closed. McDonnell thought he could succeed in getting knocked down by the engineer. Andy Call then leaped on him and waltzed him to the cooler on the charge of drunk and disorderly.

The building inspector Johnson condemned the building at 415 and 416 Robert street yesterday. These are the buildings that were gutted by the fire Thursday night. The structures between Sixth street and the Dawson block were regular fire traps, and Mr. Johnson said he would make way for the building, where it was insured for $1,000 on the Cochran & Walsh building.

Officer Hopping did a good stroke of work yesterday. It will be remembered that Frank Lavesky, arrested for robbing Samuel Woolf of $50, was caught near a lumber pile and Jackson street, between Eighth and Ninth. When he was searched no money was found on him, and he stoutly denied having taken any. Yesterday Officer Hopping got some laborers to move the lumber pile and under it he found the money, where it probably had been put by Lavesky. His case was continued until today.
