

MEN OF MINNEAPOLIS.

Some of the Well-Known Characters as They Appear Beneath the Globe's Spectroscope. All of Them Are "E'en as Just Men as Ever Our Conversation Coped Withal."

MEN OF MINNEAPOLIS.

Capt. O. C. Merriman.

The country boy from the wilds of St. Lawrence county, New York, is now the millionaire lumberman and ex-mayor of Minneapolis. He gave to Minneapolis the encouraging spectacle of how nearly a good man can go to congress in an enemy's country and give the expression: "I am a candidate for congress, but if I cannot go without buying a seat, I prefer to stay lumber."

Hon. Loren Fletcher, when he saw the monumental precinct tables at the charity ball, exclaimed vigorously: "Chestnuts!"

Manager Conklin collects about $56,000 each year in rents from the Syndicate block.

Col. Fairman was not nominated a director of the exposition. He says "it is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all."

It is said there are a great many people who have Supt. Tomley "on the list." "He never would be missed."

Doc. Kilvington and A. B. Chamberlain have caused every employe of the Milwaukee road to rise up and call their names blessed. They furnished them enough ducks and geese to last through the winter.

For brevity and point in his dispatches, C. A. Pillsbury rivals Gen. Havelock.

Arch Herbert Conner says he can draw anything but a check.

Jim Anderson, the water-color painter, will never be a soldier until he can learn to forget that his gun is not a maulstick.

C. M. Palmer, in his recent hunting trip, shot what he swears is a pelican.

Ed Atterbury does not, it is noticed, wear the smile of placid joy that should characterize a man who has just struck a good thing.

Dixon, the Associated Press wrestler, will never shine as a billiardist. He has too many nerves.

The ladies say Manager Shepherd of the West wears the look of a "man with a history," which is never without attraction.

It is said C. A. Nimocks made $200,000 in Minneapolis.

A. T. Ankeny says history tells us that the first elections after a change in the administration always lean to the party out of power.

The hunted look occasionally remarked in the fair face of Charley Harris is brought there by his prolonged search for polysyllabic words.

A stranger recently in the city gives E. S. Corser as authority for the statement that $300 a front foot was the highest price paid for Minneapolis realty. Mr. Corser was evidently mistaken.

Prof. Morse, when he read yesterday's Tribune, exclaimed: "Great heavens! Am I dreaming? Or did Miss Stoddard actually give her French rent last night?"

"The Evil Genius," announces Mr. Blethen, and he wants it distinctly understood that it is not personal to himself and has no reference to Fred Driscoll.

Some eight or ten patriots are now struggling for the honor of having held up the arms of the Washburn family in its days of adversity.

Col. C. W. Johnson will soon leave for Washington city. It makes him sad to think of the change in the capital since the opening of the last session.

What changes time and circumstances will work. One of the wealthiest and most respected citizens of Minneapolis was once a weaver of the zebra uniform of an Eastern penitentiary.

W. G. Byron has done more work for the exposition than any one man, and it was the hardest work, too.

Aid. Gibson was quit doing the Alexander and Bucephalus act, and now rides soberly about in a buggy.

"If I didn't know him I would say he was a French count," remarked a gentleman at the charity ball as J. H. Hiland passed by.

Will Stearns will thrill the board of trade to-morrow with a romance in one chapter entitled: The Losses of Rebate Warrants, or How I Was Done Up by a Designing Contractor.

It is said that Maj. Bassett, backed by Judge Atwater, both sturdy Democrats, is laying the foundation of a mayoralty campaign by defaming the poor taxpayers of the city from unjust county road appropriations.

One of the lady speakers at the spiritual convention said she could see spirits hovering over the reporters' table. As she spoke each reporter surreptitiously chewed a clove.

Capt. Jack Tidd narrowly escaped being a Canadian. He was born in Maine, however, thanks to a patriotic mother. His parents lived in Canada, and just previous to his birth his mother removed to the Pine Tree state, and Capt. Jack is a genuine Yankee, a fact of which he is justly proud.

These ticket scalpers are bold, audacious people. Business is reported not the best in the world, yet Charley Kimball will live high. He seems to believe in keeping up appearances," and has come out with $400 seal-skin overcoat. He is ready for a cold day, and says he don't think he'll get left. "Cal" Clark's majority aspirations budded promisingly in the spring under the showers which rattled the high license and patrol limits, blossomed hopefully in the summer of the war with the snorter raids only to be bitten and shriveled up by the cruel frosts of the Pillsbury rule.

"Twas ever thus since childhood's happy hour, I've seen my fondest hopes decay; I never loved nor cherished plant or flower, but it was sure to fade away." [His own version.]

Joe Murch's "little brown jugs" are becoming all the rage. Officer Douglas has joined the army of inspectors. He is looking for holes in side-walks.

J. O. Worrall, although deep and profound in legal lore, and brilliant in forensic science, is not a politician. Yet he enjoys a game of whist and boldly challenges any Minneapolis amateur.

D. B. Johnson, for reasons of his own, will sell the lounge in his office for less than half price. It haunts him like a horrible nightmare.

John W. Johnson wants to relinquish the gavel of the board of education. He will pull the string and recall his resignation.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

An Open Letter. To the Editor of the Globe: In recent communications in your paper over the non de plum "Law," the writer called attention to two acts of the last legislature appropriating out of the state treasury the sum of $10,500.

The first of these acts is entitled, and so provided for an indexed digest of the Minnesota Reports; the second an act to provide for the furnishing of the Minnesota Reports to clerks of the district courts.

It is claimed that these acts are unnecessary and that the appropriations are only unnecessary but intended to benefit private individuals and corporations.

Now in view of chapters 27, general statutes, p. 320, title, Supreme Court Reporter, and the act approved March 4, 1881, session acts 1878-81, page 48, as unrolling matters of still more importance to the people of the state.

Section 2 of the first-mentioned act prescribes the powers and duties of the supreme court reporter. Section 3 requires that he shall and bind to the public at his own expense.

"He shall have and retain the exclusive copyright thereof as his own property." The state, in purchasing from him 200 copies of each edition at $4 per volume. More of this hereafter.

On the 10th day of February, 1881, House File No. 522, bill to amend section of chapter 27, General Statutes, was introduced in the house of representatives, and in proper manner passed both houses and was returned to the senate from the house on March 3, 1881.

On the 24th of February of same year, House File No. 591, a bill to provide for reporting, publishing and selling of Minnesota reports, and received from the judiciary committee and read first and second times, and passed the house March 1, 1881, but seems never to have been reported back to the house, as the rules require.

The original draft of this bill was written in a "fine Italian hand," in some seven or eight sections, the subject matter of which corresponds with the title of the act and reads with distinctive clearness the main point in view, to-wit: the securing of a lucrative scheme for the beneficiaries of the scheme.

The bill was introduced in the original draft is erased by drawing black lines across it, and an addition made, in a different handwriting and ink, of three or four paragraphs, the first of which is on the back of the bill, indicating pretty conclusively whence it came and who was to profit by its passage.

The bill seems to have been prepared and signed by the speakers of the two houses and approved by the governor on March 4, 1881. After a fruitless search for the first-mentioned bill, H. F. No. 522, "A bill to amend section 2 of chapter 27, general statutes," I addressed a letter of inquiry to the honorable secretary of state, and received from him the following reply: "Yours of Oct. 29 in relation to H. F. 522, session 1881, is at hand. I have examined the original record of bills of the house and find that H. F. 522, both houses and was returned to the house from the senate March 3, 1881, but there the record stops; it does not show, as it should, that said bill was turned over to the enrolling clerk."

I also examined the governor's report for 1881 of bills presented to him for approval and no such bill has been presented to him for approval. The bill passed soon after the capital was destroyed by fire and matters got very mixed at the Market House.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery. Capt. Coleman, schooner Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and New York, had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected, and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free trial bottles of this standard remedy at Bethune & Lambie's and J. P. Allen's.

STILLWATER NEWS.

Operations of Chicken Thieves Come to a Stand-Still. The Police Record for the Month—Minor Mention.

Chicken Thieves. The thieves who have been stealing chickens and turkeys by the hundred throughout the county during the past few weeks were again around on Friday night and made another big haul, but did not succeed in getting away with them.

The farm of Fred Curtis, about three miles north of the city, was visited. Here they succeeded in stealing about two hundred chickens and a lot of turkeys. They were not content with these, but entered the stable and stole one of the horses, which was found near the city.

It is supposed that they stole this horse to match the one they had, so that they could continue on their way, but why it was let go and why they left their own horse standing in the stable, the horse stolen from Mr. Curtis is a bally one, and on this account they may have let it go.

They were evidently frightened away and walked home, as no other horses were reported stolen. The animal stolen from Mr. Curtis was found about two miles from its home along the road for miles. The rig left by the thieves was brought to Stillwater by Chief of Police Shortall and placed in Farmers' livery stable.

The Police Record. Thomas of Fairbault. At the Congregational church the pastor, Rev. Ricker, will preach at 10:30. At the German there will be confirmation.

Notes About Town. It is claimed that the recent action of the city council, serving the bridge for the consin farmers, will be reconsidered if the city is not greatly benefited by such a bridge. Said an alderman yesterday, "My dear boy, you can say in the GLOBE that the board of trade must show up the wheat market; they have the following to offer for the last six months or we will reconsider the matter. The bridge was made free simply as an experiment." Yesterday was the first day that Wisconsin farmers have been allowed to cross free. When this becomes general, known many more will come to Stillwater.

Sometime Friday night a fellow whose name is not known entered Pat Hennessy's saloon and filled himself so full of liquor that he could not get out. He had left his boots outside and crawled in through the transom. He was found heavily drunk by the police, and being taken out yesterday morning. He was unable to give an account of himself yesterday afternoon, and will have a hearing to-morrow.

Last Sunday an item appeared in our local saying that on Monday Isaac Staples would send 300 men to the woods, and on that day men of all shapes, sizes and nationalities were seen taking about for a walk, all anxious to go. We should have said he would send them up during the season. During the week he sent a large number, besides a number of teams, and three carloads of supplies.

The forfeited school bonds of Washington county, which were for sale next Friday consist of sixty-three in section 36, town 32 and range 20, and seven forty-five in section 36, town 32 and range 21. Five dollars per acre is the lowest any of these have been appraised at.
