CARNIVAL CHATTER.

Heard Everywhere of Late in the Capital City.

The well-known proprietor of the Nickel Plate circus, Mr. W. L. Harris, is thoroughly imbued with the carnival spirit, and has aided the success of the several processions by voluntarily offering his horses and ponies free of charge. He placed his own hands to the disposal of the Globe toboggan club, and the little horses mounted by juvenile members of the club, who formed an attractive feature in the parade last night.

Yesterday morning Mr. Heard suggested to the presiding judge of the district court the propriety of adjourning the court during the carnival season. Judge Simons stopped a moment or two and thought the matter over, but finally concluded that the duty of the court to the public was such that he would not be justified in suspending the business of the court and, it therefore proceeded.

The favorable weather that has accompanied the ice palace in its growth was furnished by M. N. Kellogg, one of the best known dealers in weather in the Northwest. He is able to bull the weather market as he over it that it is generally understood that he has a string on the elements.

George K. Kuebel left his order with a tailor for a costume. The order stated that the calves, etc., should show up well. The "show up" part the tailor said would cost $3 extra. This Mr. Kuebel refused to pay and it is not yet known whether he will enter into the joys of the carnival in full costume.

When the executive committee of the Carnival association paid their visit to Winnipeg, they wore tall, shiny tins. When they returned, they brought their tins back in a grip sack and wore knit caps worth 75 cents apiece. They had held a conference with a bouncing committee.

Jack Waupler is the pet of the various bouncing committees, and when he sallies out where he is liable to come in contact with them, he loads himself with arnica and corn salve. As Jack is editor-in-chief of a drug store, these little things don't cost him much. He "ain't saying a word."

H. P. Hall, one of St. Paul's oldest and most rapid newspaper men, has tendered his office in the Union block as headquarters for visiting newspaper correspondents. There won't be change on tap constantly, but there will always be a large supply of copy paper, on ice.

Capt. Ed Bean is one of the best disciplinarians in the United States. He knows how to manage a large body of men and do it up brown. When he gives the boys a command there isn't one of them who will say "rats!" which is a fact worthy of note.

Dr. Murphy's toboggan suit was finished yesterday. He will appear on the streets in it to-day. If anybody finds a man about six feet high and four feet and a half in diameter, with a high forehead and long gray beard, wandering around the town clad in red and white flannel, that's him.

One of the prettiest and neatest decorations in the city is on Jackson street, between Third and Fourth. In the center of the festoons and evergreen wreaths are two large shields bearing welcome to the Ice King and visitors to the carnival.

To-morrow Mr. Harris' magnificent band team of eight white horses will be used to draw the Ice King in his royal chariot, the services of the team and his driver, Mr. Weldon, having been placed at the disposal of the carnival association.

L. H. Hutchinson, who built the three ice palaces that Canada has had, is not the cold blooded man that might be expected. In fact he possesses such a warm and genial disposition that it would seem his presence would melt the coldest snow.

W. L. Benson, president of the Carnival Skating club, is neither stalwart nor handsome, which doesn't cut much of a figure inasmuch as he is married. He knows how to preside over a meeting and can repeat Cushing's manual verbatim.

Ammie Eaton, captain of the Carnival Skating club, is the handsomest man in the carnival organizations and he's a dandy skater. He is so graceful on runners that people climb over a barbed wire fence to get a squint at him.

The palace grounds consist of eight acres and if there is such a crowd in the city Grand Army day as is anticipated, it is reasonable to affirm that there will be more than eight "achers" in the grounds when the palace is stormed.

The St. George's Snowshoe club took its first run on the evening of Dec. 12. Dr. MacDonald took the lead and started for Central park, but he was short on wind, and after running about four blocks went broke and retired.

Col. Allen wears his tile back on his head just a little further than usual and talks ice palace to his guests until they order a fire in their room, and thus increase the size of their bills. He says: "There's a method in my madness."

The corner blocks of the palace, one from Stillwater and one from Fargo, were laid on the evening of Jan. 14. Miss Clemmie Finch, daughter of G. R. Finch, president of the Carnival association, performed the ceremonies.

Secretary Hanson says he has become so proficient in answering questions since he has been in the employ of the carnival association, that he will apply for a situation as a hotel clerk immediately after the carnival is over.

General Manager Van Slyke is the hardest worker in the association. He seems to be omnipresent and full of schemes. He is worth about $50,000 per annum for the next thirty years to the city as a boomer.

Seth, the colored conductor of the elevator in the German-American bank building, has caught some of the carnival fever and says the American colors in his up and down car yesterday afternoon.

Capt. Underwood of the Windsor Toboggan club is a member of the English army and fought in the late Riel rebellion. He is American in his manners and dress, but his speech gives him away.

E. W. Durant of Stillwater takes as much interest in the carnival as the oldest St. Paul citizen. He wanted to get a room in the palace in order to keep cool, calm and collected during the excitement.

Dr. Roy, when he gets into his little sleigh, nauffed up in buffalo robes, looks like a Russian priest in his troika going to administer to the spiritual needs of some dying member of his diocese.

Dr. J. H. Murphy appeared for the first time in his uniform last night. He is a large entertainment. He wears his pants long to protect his calves from the inclemency of the weather.

A large number of business men in the city when the scheme of building the ice palace was first conceived, were asked to take stock and refused. Now they're after stock and can't get it.

William H. Dixon, assisted by several of his department, will attempt to ride on a toboggan bare backed. Mr. Dixon tells a remarkable story of a snowshoe escapade he had while in Cuba.

Sheriff Richter is president of the Ice Bear club, which was organized for the purpose of shooting bears carved in ice that might show a disposition to be unruly during the carnival.

A gentleman from Montreal last night said that never since Canada had her first ice palace did so many snowshoes and tobogganers appear in a parade as were in line last night.

Barbed wire was put on the fences around the palace grounds to prevent the small boys from falling off the board fence. There's nothing mean about the owners of the palace.

Col. William Leip of White Bear says he don't own any stock in the ice palace, but he's got a big interest in it just the same, and will stay night and day until the carnival is over.

Several old wagons and back number vehicles are noticed on Minnesota street and the association is anxious that they should be put out of sight and the street cleared.

When it comes to mustache, Dr. Cottrell, secretary of the Wakoutas Toboggan club, can show up as much of an upper lip adornment as any one, and it takes, too, with the ladies.

D. A. Monfort is so enthusiastic over the ice carnival that he says he thinks he will sleep in a refrigerator next summer to preserve the fond recollections of the winter sports.

Dr. Quinn was one of the first men to join the St. George's Snowshoe club, and he is the only man now who can walk up stairs with a pair of snowshoes on his feet.

Raymond Du Pay, it is learned, has challenged Col. Bend to a race on toboggans. The colored has the advantage, as there is not so much running against the wind.

Dr. W. W. Day, secretary of St. George's Snowshoe club, don't look like a man who can pull the stroke out of a boat club, but he did it just the same last year and did it well.

The sale of reserved seats for the carnival masquerade on Friday night at carnival hall, as advertised for sale to-day, is postponed to Wednesday morning at 9 a. m.

On the evening of Jan. 6, St. George's Snowshoe club presented Dr. MacDonald, their president, with an elegant pair of snowshoes. He wears them on his back.

John Clark, at the Ryan refreshment counter last night, opened 600 oysters and put them on half shell, inside of an hour. He'd like to race with somebody.

All club members in uniform, and ladies, will be admitted free to the promenade concert next Tuesday evening at carnival hall. Citizens will be charged 25 cents.

The Norwegian ski is so awfully long and sharp that it is feared ducks will adopt them for wear on full dress occasions after the carnival has melted away.

Secretary Crooks of the Carnival Skating club is an athlete of no mean proportions. He is a winner at ball playing, a clever sparrer and a rattling skater.

It is said that W. S. Alexander would give two years of his life to get Bob Kerr, son of a lord, on the ice, or send him down side-ways on a toboggan.

Jan. 19, 7 o'clock p. m. Windsor Toboggan club attempts to bounce a Montana cowboy. Cowboy draws a revolver. Club bounces somebody else.

Shrewd speculators secured all the windows they could get along the line of march to rent to people who wanted to get a good view of the procession.

Two gentlemen in blanket costume attracted much attention by driving through the city in a toboggan, to which a horse in shafts was attached.

A pamphlet of carnival songs, the words by Maj. T. M. Newson and music by A. M. Doherty, has been issued and is on sale at the music stores.

Twelve car-loads of evergreens have been used in the construction of the arches and fifteen car loads have been used inside the palace grounds.

For over an hour last night the ice tower on Dayton's bluff inclosed a powerful red fire, which was burned inside with a magnificent effect.

The figures were placed on top of the columns of the Third street arch yesterday. There is a trapper, a deer, a buffalo and an Indian.

The first cut of the ice palace as it would appear when completed, was published in the GLOBE, Thursday morning, Dec. 3, 1885.

In lieu of sufficient evidence it is not generally believed that T. W. Teasdale will accept John J. Barnes' snowshoe challenge.

The storming of the ice palace will be the most gorgeous spectacle ever seen in the United States since the battle of Appomattox.

Mr. B. Williams will be special acme painter for the Manitoba road. He served his apprenticeship in Louisville, Kentucky.

The statues put up in the palace grounds by Corlies, Chapman and Drake are very prominent features among the attractions.

The Excelsior Toboggan club will meet at the Merchants at 7:15 p. m. to-day, with aoboggans, to go to the Dayton's bluff slide.

Col. Allen didn't march last night. He said he was too tired, but would prance around with the boys next Wednesday.

Charley Fairchild says the only objection he has to snowshoes, they have a decided tendency to make one bow-legged.

The Merchants hotel has organized a toboggan club with twenty-five members. The president is Col. A. Allen.

Fargo, with her characteristic spirit of enterprise, sent a corner block of Red River of the North ice for the palace.

Stillwater sent a corner block for the ice palace. It was frozen when it arrived here, but it was "still water."

Anybody would think that H. S. Fairchild had become a temperance lecturer to hear him praise the ice palace.

A cork inner sole is the thing to wear inside of your moccasins. They should be worn for the good of the soul.

There are fourteen tepees at the carnival grounds. They all came from the vicinity of Mendota and Shakopee.

The Brammer Toboggan club, 100 strong, with a band of 96 pieces will arrive in St. Paul Wednesday morning.

The ladies wore moccasins. Some of their tracks looked as though they had been imported from Chicago.

H. M. Littell wants to know what will be done with the ice palace after the carnival and other chestnuts.

Canada built her first ice palace in 1883, the United States and St. Paul their first palace of ice in 1886.

A derrick used in building the grand entrance to the palace grounds fell yesterday, but did no damage.

The Preston Comet band will be in the city a week, the guests of the GLOBE Toboggan club.

The St. George's Snowshoe club of Winnipeg will be here Thursday in season for the festivities.

The St. Paul Business College Toboggan club organized yesterday with a membership of forty-five.

Wanny and Evans have joined separate clubs and are awaiting a chance to bounce each other.

The Carnival Skating club will probably clear a rink on the river to use during the carnival.
