THE MIND-CURE CRAZE. How it Operates Successfully--Its

Defect Always Surpressed. With its useful predilection for the won derful and the disposition to take hold of and run wild after the mysterious, Minneapolis has gone draft on the mind cure craze and reports complete cases that rival, the rapidity of wild-fire and gather in their travels, much as a snowball increases in rolling, but always are backed by the the best authority, An Eighth ward lady has been bedridden since winter. Prostrated by troubles incidental to maternity, four physicians abandoned her to die, when a mind-cure doctress was called in. All medicine was flung to the dogs and in a week the lady was able to walk out. A near the lady was able to walk out. A near neighbor had cancer of the stomach and was pronounced helplessly at death's door. In desperation the mind cure was essayed and the cancerous affliction is fast disappearing. A young boy on the East side lost the use of a limb through stiffening of the knee joint. The best surgeons of the city pronounced the stiffness permanent and incurable, but the had in turn exhausted themselves without bringing relief, when mind cure stepped in

These are but a few cases of the marvelous cures reported, and the matter is becoming the talk of the town. For years not appreciated because unnoticed. Minneapolis has been overrun with electric, magnetic and massage physicians, but the results of their practice were never so startlingly successful as the mind cure. Faith cure arose and was indorsed by the minis-East siders, died as quickly again. But this mind cure seems to have taken a per-etc. manent hold, which no amount of scoffing and sneering can shake off. It is ridiculed and jeered unmercifully, but argument ends in the face of bona fide cures. It is safe to say that in a majority of cases, coincidence say that in a majority of cases, coincidence are considered meanwhile, which is not probable. say that in a majority of cases, coincidence is mistaken for causation, and it must be borne in mind that only the successful cases are trumpeted to the world. A thousand efforts at mind cure may be essayed without result and the world be no wiser, but once a sickness is conquered and mind cure enters as an element, whether a fatcor or not, and the entire world is apprised of it.

WORTH INVESTIGATING.

The Incendiary Efforts on Nicollet

Avenue Saturday Night. There is yet no definite clue to the person who endeavored to fire Jacobs' grocery store, opposite the Hotel Albion on Nicollet avenue, Saturday night, although suspicion points to a person who will be watched. Officer Allen, on whose beat it happened, said last evening that about 11:30 or 12 o'clock he was passing the place, when two young men employed in the store came to him and said they thought some one was down stairs. Officer Gussome one was down stairs. Officer Gustafson was called and went down into the cellar. Here he found a small piece of board saturated with kerosene, with a candle burning in the center of it. Surrounding this were several newspagers and a salary of $3,500, and it has been agreed to affer him $4,000. The matter is yet in abeyone and here never been edicially before the ing this were several newspagers and a quantity of kindling wood. DEALINGS IN DIRT.

Prices Screnely Ascending -- Sales and Values Increasing Together. Real estate men are happy, and many, in fact nearly all, of them wear smiles as child-like and bland as that of a youngster when he gets his first pair of copper-toed boots, and goes strutting down the street, at companions. Well may they wear this smile, for none but the real estate man knoweth of the mighty profits to be derived by trading in Minneapolis dirt. It is safe to say that nearly all the men in the eity who have dabbled in real estate at all, safe to say that the ment the city who have dabbled in real estate at all, have made money at it, and not a small amount either. LYING IN THE RIVER. The Body of a Man Found Wedged Between Two Logs.

Yesterday afternoon, while one of the mounted officers was patroling his beat between Lake and Thirty-eighth streets, he discovered the body of a man wedged in was drawn over the head somewhat, but coming in to avoid the rain. the hands were badly decomposed. The body had evidently lodged there during high water, and the river in falling had night water, and the river in failing had left it high and dry. It is thought to be the body of the man who jumped off the short line bridge some time ago. Soon after the body was discovered a messenger was dispatched for Coroner Hill, but he could not be found. This morning at 7:30 the body was removed to Gleason & Byormorgue, where an inquest will be

It is too bad that a Tribune reporter was not present at the lockup yesterday morning when a man was brought in with a bloody nose, caused by accidentally falling down. Yesterday morning the patrol wagon was during the evening, and the proprietor was summoned and ordered to bolt them. The ton, where a man, who had been on a front door is really composed of two doors protracted spree, was making things lively. He was a raving maniac. It took the combined strength of three men to get him in the wagon. Even then he fought like a demon, and nearly succeeded in breaking a thumb for Officer Farouskow. During the melee he fell against the side of the wagon and brought the blood to his nose in a man-ner that surprised him. When at the lockup he made a fierce attack upon one of the officers and was placed in a cell.

If there is anything in this world calculated to raise a man's anger and fill his mind with bitter, unforgiving hate, it is to have a street-car driver stop his car directly over the crossing. He presents to you two methods, from which you can take your choice. First, you can wait until he moves on before you cross, or, second, you can paddle around the car in the mud. The majority of the drivers seem to think a lady likes to have a car stopped where she will be compelled to alight in two or three inches of mud.

THE CROP REPORT, General Unfavorable Showing Ow-

CHICAGO, July 18 .- The following crop report will appear in this week's issue of the Farmers' Review: "While local rains have been experienced in many localities in the West and Northwest, in some cases accompanied by destructive hail and wind. there have been general rains covering large areas and bringing the drouth to an end. The winter wheat has been harvested in all but some extreme northern portiona of the wheat belt. Its condition has kept well up to the promise it made in the early spring. Hay and oats are being cut. Both are below the average on account of drought. Pastures are getting very short, and potatoes and other rain crops need rain very badly. Corn is generally in fine con to be the largest and most destructive of its kind that has ever occurred in this city, needs rain and it reported as already suffering in some localities. The spring wheat continues to run down in condition. It is now too far advanced to be much benefited by rains. So the injury from drought there is added that from chinchbugs and in some localities rust. Harvest alone will show its real condition, but it

Unless we have rain soon a regular epidemic among the stock is feared. A dispatch from Topeka says the present drouth in Kansas is the severest the state has known since 1873. Unless rain falls during the coming week the prospect will be ruined. Corn is just beginning to tassel, and it is in a condition when rain is most needed. The last general rain was in the latter part of June, since the weather has been intensely hot. There have been local showers, but not enough to be of any service. A CHARMING BRIDE. The Turkish Maiden's Gorgeon Wedding Outfit.

To give a description of the attire of the Mohammedan marriages in the North American Review, demands a dainty pen and a nicer sense than belongs to the sterner sex. The writer essays to do it with apprehension. First, she wears wide trousers, not unlike a petticoat, tied up at the end on each leg. The fabric is of red, blue or yellow silk, embroidered with gold. Then there is a robe of silk or velvet and a long train, glittering with gold embroid eries and precious stones, and surrounded with gold trimmings and lace. Her boots or shoes are adorned in the same mode. The dressing of her head is remarkable, and her face is painted in the mos exaggerated manner, in white and red, and her eyes, her eyebrows and eyelashes are delicately pencilled. These elegancies of the toilet rob something of grace from her naturalness by defacing her maiden beauty. Upon her cheeks are stuck two jewels, each as large as half a dollar. In the middle of each cheek there is a big diamond. Over the cheek and on the forehead are affixed small gold stars, mounted with precious stones. This completes the costly disfigurement of the face Over the forehead a tuft is mounted with an extremely large diamond. If the family be well off this gem is as big as a walnut. Another diamond, oblong in shape, is fixed of the head down to the ear, diamonds are scattered over and through the hair. Kid gloves cover her hands, over which a large number of rings are worn. A beautiful fan completes the picture of the bride en toilette. It is disenchanting to know that the tuft, the oblong diamond and the wedding dresses are often hired for the ceremony. This is not unreasonable, because it is economical, for these portions of the regalia cannot be used on any other than a wedding occasion, or by any one else than

The Pension Abuse.

New York Independent (Rep.) The people can have no other feeling than that of sincere gratitude to the president for his frank and manly course in respect to the system of pension jobbery which has so largely become the order of the day with the members of congress, whether Republicans or Democrats. The system has become an intolerable abuse and perversion of the pension idea, and this abuse and perversion spring from political and party motives on the theory of courting what is called "the soldier vote." time has come to call a halt in this business and soberly inquire whether tay-payers have rights which congress is bound to respect. The president's vetoes are calculated to open the eyes of the people to what ongress is doing with the public money. Though courteous in form they are, in fact. a stern and sharp rebuke of congress on this subject, and anyone who takes time enough to examine the facts as they exist will have no difficulty in seeing that the re-buke has been well deserved. It is to be hoped that the president will repeat the re-buke whenever the occasion calls for it.
