

SAINT PAUL MATTERS.

More Brilliant Flights of Rockets and Bursting Bombs Light the Evening Sky.

Some Politicians Were in St. Paul Yesterday and They Spoke on Various Topics.

In the Churches To-Day the Pastors Will be Found, Home From Vacations.

Many Bits of Local News Gathered on a Warm Autumn Day--GLOBULES.

IT SHOWS LIKE THE DAY. The Sky Colored at Night with Thousands of Shooting Stars.

The exhibition of fireworks from Robert street bridge last night was of great variety and brilliance. They were witnessed by more spectators than was the former exhibition. Large numbers of people thronged Third street from St. Peter to Sibley, the crowds being most dense at the corners of Third and Robert, Third and Cedar and Bridge square. Fully 1,000 people witnessed the display from Summit avenue, and many more from Hoffman avenue, on Dayton's bluff. Everywhere in St. Paul people stood in their doorways and indulged in expressions of admiration. The best points from which to witness the fireworks were Summit avenue, Ramsey street, Bluff and Bates avenues on Dayton's bluff, while every place on the West side possessed advantages. Doubtless two-thirds of the population of this city viewed them from some point or other, and the advantage of Robert street bridge was fully demonstrated.

Major Robertson directed the exhibition, firing the first rocket a little after 8 o'clock. Shells of various sizes and styles were sent into the air, forming fountains of color and fire. The explosions of the bombs were terrific. From a distance it seemed as if a grand assault were being made by the spirits of darkness arising from the still and solemn Mississippi. Often the river was enveloped in a spray of fire, while myriads of new-born stars of every hue twinkled in the dark vault of heaven. Hissing serpents darted wickedly through the golden spray, spiral columns of gold shot upward with fearful rapidity, until from their ends burst forth rainbow jets of lurid flame across the leaden sky. The bombs were the most beautiful, bursting high in the air. Every time the wonderful effects were produced the delight of the vast audience demonstrated itself in spontaneous applause. The exhibition lasted forty-five minutes. Third street was brilliantly illuminated and music was discoursed from elevated stands at the corners of Third and Robert streets. The weather was delightful.

The gas illuminations on Third street which P. V. Dwyer & Bro. have put up with considerable expense and charming effect in color and brilliance will be continued two nights longer. Third street was crowded with ladies and gentlemen who promenade under the lights for hours.

HEARD IN THE HOTELS.

Prominent Politicians Who Were in St. Paul Yesterday.

J. N. Castle, Stillwater, was a transient at the Ryan. He is the present state senator from that county, and is prominently mentioned as the Democratic nominee for congress in this, the Fourth district. A varied legislative experience and an extensive law practice fit him for the position of representative in the national congress, and should be the nominee of the Democratic party who would make things very lively for Mr. Gilfillan, the Republican candidate. He is making no efforts to secure the nomination but if tendered him he will not decline the honor.

GILMAN AND SPRAGUE.

Gov. Gilman's friends and followers are trying to create the impression that the recent attack on G. W. Sprague, the president of the Farmers' alliance, by the minority of the executive committee of that organization was the work of McGill, Langdon and Fletcher, because it was known that Sprague was a Gilman man. They say that the minority members have sought to right along, to have the alliance endorse one of the Republican candidates for governor and that Sprague has blocked such games. They claim that Sprague is opposed to the endorsement of any candidate as the alliance's candidate, but his position has been misunderstood and he has been credited with working for Gilman, and trying to shape things so that Gilman could be made the alliance's favorite for governor. The Motley and the Gilman men say, played upon this feeling and got the members, or at least five of the eleven, to believe that Sprague was trying his little game at electing a candidate. The result was that the five not only signed a request for an early meeting of the committee, but got into print with a communication reflecting somewhat on the president for his course in the premises. The Gilman men give it out that Sprague still has six men, or a majority of the committee, on his side, and that the minority will not be able to accomplish much in the direction indicated, but will be outvoted, even if they attempt to wage war on the president.

TO PROTECT TITLES.

Objects of the Real Estate Title and Insurance Company.

Mention was made yesterday in the GLOBE of the St. Paul Real Estate Title and Insurance company, with a capital stock of $500,000. A talk with one of the directors yesterday brought out the object and benefits aimed at by the company. A policy of insurance is issued on the titles upon the payment of a single premium by the company. This affords absolute protection to the purchasers and their heirs and to lenders upon land and mortgages against all loss from defective titles. The company, for its own protection, examines the titles it insures in a thorough manner by experts in its employ, and then guarantees its work. It defends all actions brought against holders of its policies, by reasons of defects in the title insured, at its own expense, and will pay all losses to the extent of the policy issued. If after an examination of the title the company refuses to issue a policy no fee is charged for examination. A solid foundation for business is insured under the law which requires that before it issues a policy the company shall set apart a sum not less than two-thirds of its capital stock as a guarantee fund, to be applied only for the security and payment of losses incurred by guarantees issued. The system affords absolute protection against defective titles, it saves time and also saves money, the purpose being to guarantee the title for a less sum than must now be paid to have the same title searched by a competent attorney. After the title has once been searched and guaranteed, the property may be transferred or a mortgage upon it assigned and a similar guarantee obtained by the purchaser for one-third of the sum paid for the first guarantee.

BEFORE THE FOOTLIGHTS.

Lotta Had a Good Week--The Private Secretary.

The Boston Ideals as They Will Appear the Coming Season.

AT THE GRAND. Lotta has played at the Grand during the entire week, having had large houses at every appearance. The pretty little actress has pleased the people so much that she has been supported by a company that has been meritorious, the many visitors to the city have had a week of good amusements. This week the Private Secretary will be the attraction at the Grand each evening. It is given by the Madison Square company, which includes W. H. Gillette and M. A. Kennedy. The Private Secretary was here last season, and it was generously conceded to be most ludicrous. The sale of seats the past week has been good. For next week, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence and Joseph Jefferson.

THE BOSTON IDEALS.

The first authentic students as to the makeup and movements of the Boston Ideal Opera company will appear this morning in the Boston Herald and Globe, and by the courtesy of Mr. Ed Johnston, the subtitle of Manager Foster's statements are furnished the St. Paul GLOBE, which, in view of the interest that the St. Paul public has in the Ideals, is given. Manager Foster says:

"I shall sing 'Adina,' my version of Donizetti's 'Elizir of Love,' which, with Mlle. Lussan in the title role, created a furor wherever we gave it on our spring tour. I shall also sing 'The Captive,' 'Monsieur de la Relne,' which I call the 'Maid of Honor,' in which Miss Marie Stone made a pronounced hit in the 'Bohemian Girl,' and 'Martha,' all pronounced hits. My company will make an investment, or perhaps I should say revival, will be a version of Donizetti's 'Daughter of the Regiment,' which I have just seen. This I shall follow with 'Mignon,' by Ambrose Thomas, both of these operas being admirably adapted to my company. I have eleven principal artists whose combined abilities ensure the success of my organization as the leading English troupe of the coming season. I had but one contralto capable of singing leading roles, this season I have two; last season I had but one tenor capable of singing leading roles, this season I have two; in addition to this I have in my company a number of my principal artists, I have strengthened my orchestra so that I shall have more than sixty people in my company for the entire season."
