CALLS BACK.

A Would-be Suicide Snatched From the Brink of the Other Side.

A young man who had been creating a disturbance on the streets was arrested and locked up in the South Minneapolis police station last evening about 6 o'clock. Two hours later the jailer found him hanging to the door of the cell by a cord about his neck. Suspecting suicide at once, the door was quickly opened and the body cut down. The man was black in the face and unconscious. The patrol wagon was sent at a break-neck pace for medical attendance and within twenty minutes Dr. Kilvington had been summoned and was applying electricity to the apparently lifeless body. At first the electric current produced a slight contraction of the muscles. When applied to the spinal cord, however, consciousness was gradually restored, and within a few minutes the patient was begging to have the supply of electric fluid that was being pumped into him cut short.

He was firmly held until the circulation of the blood had been completely restored. Examination as to the method he had adopted to take his life showed that he had taken the laces from his shoes and formed a noose. He had then tied the end of the strings firmly to the grate of the door, and sitting down on the bench, allowed his body to drop forward. The strangulation thus produced had the effect of stopping the circulation of the blood, and soon produced unconsciousness, when the body sank to the floor and was only supported by the improvised rope. It is thought he had been hanging about ten minutes when discovered, and only prompt attention saved his life. He gives his name as Frank Halper, and it is thought that he is employed as a barber at the West hotel. He is about 25 years old, is thick set, with black hair and mustache. His neck was badly lacerated by the slender cord, which cut deep into the flesh. Humiliation because of his arrest and imprisonment led him to the attempt upon his life.

THE LOCOMOTIVE FIREMEN.

While They Will Be White in Minneapolis--The Programme.

Delegates to the meeting of the National Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen will arrive here Tuesday night over the Milwaukee road, about 400 strong. They will meet at the West hotel at 8:30 Wednesday morning, and, accompanied by an escort of police, will proceed at once to the Grand opera house, where the following programme will be carried out:

A REAL LIFE CHAPTER.

In an insane asylum near the largest city in Wisconsin is confined a young woman whose face shows traces of former beauty, and from whose mind affliction has not driven all the intelligence. Frequently, when in her most insane moments, she refers to Minneapolis, and in language most bitter curses the day she ever saw the city. Her story is a sad story, and her true name was given would be remembered by many people here. Some years ago there resided in M-- a family of wealth and social position named Hartleigh. Four children possessed a beauty which eventually led her to her ruin. In the city was a young man of handsome address, but decidedly fast and dissipated. For him Mamie formed a strong attachment and but for the interference of her parents, which eventually led her to her ruin. For a number of weeks Mamie was kept in confinement, only her music teacher, a young man, rather good looking, but of no character, being permitted to see her. As soon as the restraint imposed by her parents was removed, Mamie, in a fit of pique, married this music teacher, a man much below her, both mentally and morally. Mr. and Mrs. Hartleigh were nearly heart-broken, but finally made the best of a bad matter and established the young man in business. For a year things ran smoothly, and when a daughter was born to the couple it seemed that all would be well. But this was not to be, and in a few short months Mamie had shocked her friends by being found on the public streets in an intoxicated condition. From this she went to worse, and finally, after being the heroine of several escapades, fled the city with a young gambler, with whom she went to St. Paul. Her devotion to him was something remarkable. When he was arrested for a criminal transaction she pawned all her jewelry to secure his release, and when she was obliged to live on a mere crust, the gambler being unable to provide a decent meal, she never refused or made a complaint. At last the couple came to Minneapolis, where Mamie was deserted by the man for whom she had given up her friends and all. Preferring a life of shame to starvation, she would forsake the life she was leading. Mamie's wandering senses at last returned, and, like a tender child, she sank upon her mother's breast, there to find the first rest she had known for years. That evening's trip upon reaching home it was found that the condition of Mamie rendered it necessary to place her in confinement, from which she will probably never be released. Her husband, when she deserted him, gave way to drink, and after spending two months in the hospital with the delirium tremens, disappeared. The child is being cared for by its grandmother, and every effort will be made to keep from her when she grows up, her mother's sad history.

ODD FELLOWS.

The Excursion to Boston an Assured Success.

The indications are that Minnesota will be pretty well represented at Boston during the sovereign grand lodge sessions, commencing one week from to-day, a condition of things largely due to the efficient work of the committee appointed by the grand master of this jurisdiction. It is expected that at least half a dozen through sleepers will be required from Minneapolis and St. Paul alone, and it may be that a full train will be made up at Elroy, where the lower Minnesota contingent will meet them. The committee by the committee is by way of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railway, thence by the Chicago & Grand Trunk, West Shore and Fitchburg roads to Boston, stopping for three hours at Suspension Bridge, and passing through the famous Hoosac tunnel. The fare is only $23.50 for the round trip, considerably less than the regular fare one way. Tickets are good from Chicago only on the 18th, but parties may leave here as early as Wednesday, if they desire to stop over at that point. The sleepers, unless a special train is made up at Elroy, as stated above, will be through with one of the seven special trains to leave Chicago on the 18th by the route given. The impression that none but Odd Fellows can go is an erroneous one--the excursion is open to their friends, and a number have already secured their tickets and berths.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Fiftieth Session of the Grand Lodge of Minnesota.

The fiftieth session of the Grand Lodge of Minnesota, Knights of Pythias, will be held in the city, convening at Pythian hall at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. Notwithstanding the depression of the times, the order has more than held its own, the increase since last session being about fifteen per cent. It is expected that nearly every subordinate lodge in the jurisdiction will be represented, and the session will last two days. Some of the representatives are already in the city, but most of them will arrive this evening or early to-morrow morning.

THE DRUIDS.

Getting Ready to Work Under Their New Ritual.

At the recent session of the grand order of the United States, a new ritual was adopted, which, it is understood, will carry the order back to some of its ancient landmarks which had been swept away by a desire for innovation. This ritual is now nearly ready for distribution, and the local groves in Minneapolis are getting into shape for the new order of things. A special session of the grand grove of Minnesota will be held at an early date, and in some of the suburbs it is hinted they are more interested in a selected group of delegates than in either of the other state conventions.

A PLEASANT TRIP.

The Harrisburg Millers' Association Visits the Various Lakes.

The Harrisburg Millers' association met at an early hour yesterday morning, and under the escort of the Nicollet club, boarded a special motor train for Minnehaha falls, where an hour or so was spent. Lakes Calhoun and Harriet were next visited, after which the party visited the various city lakes and then went to Lake Minnetonka, where the remainder of the pleasant Sunday afternoon was passed in various ways. The party returned to the city at a late hour and went directly to their special train on the Omaha track, where elegant hotel accommodations had been fitted up. One and all expressed themselves as well pleased with the day's trip, and spoke very highly of the scenery. The Pennsylvania delegation will leave for their homes this morning. The National Miller's convention meets in Minneapolis this morning, and the Harrisburg millers from all over the United States will be present. They will be entertained Tuesday evening, when a banquet will be given at the West hotel. The party will attend the Exposition in a body to-morrow, millers' day.

THE AIMS OF GERMANY.

To Rebound From the Exposition--Prospective Wedding Festivities.

The Exposition is half over and the anticipations of the wisest dreamer have been realized, while the lips of the worst croaker have been silenced. The attendance has been fairly good at all times and upon special occasions has been large. To-day begins the fourth week and finds the big show at its height. As the time progresses additional attractions will be added and the interest maintained at the fullest. To-day is German day and it is expected not one of the nationalities of this country will miss the opportunity of being present. This occasion is set in honor of the Liederkranz society of Milwaukee, which will be a guest at the building. Selections from the eminent composers of Germany will be rendered by the Mexican band and numerous songs of Germany will be sung from the balcony of this famous Liederkranz. The big organ will give the patriotic hymns and national songs of Germany, and the great building will re-echo with the strains of "Die Waecht am Rhein." The directors have a matter of grave importance on their minds. It was announced that if some enterprising couple would be married in the building, the festivities would be great, the directors would offer a prize, the president give away the bride and many exhibitors would swell the list of presents. The prospect is a tempting one, and already two couples have signified their willingness to comply. The applications were made to Supt. Hibbard, and the lady readers will smile to know that in each case the bride is a foreigner. It is reported that the directors will settle the details and prepare for "the biggest card" of the big show.

IN A POLITICAL WAY.

Some of the Gossip in Hennepin County Circles.

Faces at the Ames headquarters in this city were bright smiles yesterday as the utterances from the various county conventions were received. The mayor received dispatches from most of them and "every thing seemed his way." The delegation from Hennepin county has, as yet, selected no chairman or adopted any plan of procedure, nor has it yet decided upon its support of men for the nominations for the various other state offices. It is believed that many of the delegations will stop here this evening, en route to St. Paul, and receive a little attention, besides visiting the Exposition. It is the open boast now of the Gibbs family that they have captured Hennepin county, and will give all or nearly her entire vote to the farmer candidate. In this they are certainly reckoning without their host, for there are many delegates who are unalterably sold for McGitt. It is reported Gibbs was here Saturday morning and had a hasty and secret conference with several leaders, leaving before the convention. That memorandum meeting has left the impression that Gibbs will not be easily healed over, but will break out afresh in the convention to nominate county officers. Citizen Samuel N. Erving was an interested spectator at the convention, and many of the delegations will stop here this evening, en route to St. Paul, and receive a little attention, besides visiting the Exposition. A WELL-SPENT EVENING.

The Harmonia-Liederkrantz Concert a Gratifying Success.

Harmonia had contained a large and fashionable audience on the occasion of the grand concert by the singing section of the Harmonia society and the Milwaukee Liederkranz, some eighty members of which were present. By 8 o'clock nearly every seat and the gallery was filled, and an hour later seats were at a decided premium. The programme of the evening opened with "Ray Blas," from Mendelssohn, by Danz' orchestra, foiled by the following interesting PROGRAMME:

Two songs by Rubenstein, (a) "The Asra," (b) "Lorgin," Mr. J. Benedict; Swedish wedding march, Soederman, Harmonia ladies' chorus; aria from "Martha," Flotow, tenor, Y. Y. Beyer; male chorus, "Latter Centa," Harmonia Singing society; selection, "Lohengrin," R. Wagner, Danz' orchestra; divertissement, "Mosterstinger," R. Wagner, Danz' orchestra; concert waltz, "Rapture," Arditi, soprano solo, Mrs. O. R. Pieper; (a) "The Spinning Wheel," (b) "The Forest Hiss," Milwaukee Liederkranz; duet, "The Wanderers Song," Rubenstein, Mr. J. Y. Beyer and J. Benedict; national air, "Lamontagne," Giesek, mass chorus, Liederkranz-Harmonia. An intermission of ten minutes followed the selection, "Lohengrin," by Danz' orchestra, during which time the audience enjoyed themselves in that manner in which only a company of intelligent, well-bred German's can. As each selection on the programme was rendered it was listened to by the vast audience with noiseless attention, and rapturous applause followed. In most cases these encores were responded to in a fitting manner. At the conclusion of the programme a short time was spent in conversation, and followed by the Harmonia society has a custom that might be followed with good effect at the Grand opera house and other places, and that is to close and lock the doors during the time any one is singing, or when the orchestra is playing a selection. This effectively prevents those persons who seem to delight in entering the house and walking clear down to the front during a song, from carrying out their designs, and it is such a simple remedy that no one can take offense at it.

THE WEEK'S REVIEW.

A Summary of the Business in Real Estate and Building.

The fall business in real estate has opened strong and fair, with a tendency on the part of owners to hold off for increased prices. The sales have been mainly of business property in the city, and considerable land in outlying additions has changed hands. Residence property has also continued in demand, and while no fancy prices have been paid, the sellers are generally well satisfied. Many outsiders have been getting into shape for the past two or three weeks and have, in nearly all cases, purchased more or less real estate. The aggregate amount of transfers for the week has been less than the previous week, but still looked up $230,308. The total number of deeds filed was 256, against 263 the previous week. The following table shows the detailed statement for the week ending Saturday:

Table with 2 columns: Day, Amount. Monday: 41, $71,675; Tuesday: 46, $106,314; Wednesday: 29, $79,779; Thursday: 29, $79,863; Friday: 32, $141,732; Saturday: 49, $99,016; Total: 256, $330,308.

Harvest Home Celebration.

The annual harvest home celebration occurred at the Church of the Redeemer yesterday morning and packed the beautiful edifice from chancel rail to vestibule. The trophies of the harvest were used to dress the pulpit and its surroundings in the most beautiful and elaborate style. Fruits and vegetables were placed in ornate platters, and over the pulpit was a covering of wheat and oats, with the word "Harvest" set in silver in bright red berries. A wheat sheaf and sickle of cariations set of one end and a table of luscious fruit on the other. Above the rail of the organ loft was draped sprigs of ivy, and in a wreath on the organ were the words, "God Giveth the Increase." The service accorded beautifully with the harvest scene and the choir sang "The Harvest Song," an eloquent sermon on the same theme. The choir had prepared a special programme of music for this occasion.

A Sudden Death.

Charles P. Salberg, a prominent business man of La Crosse, Wis., died at the union depot early yesterday afternoon, from an acute attack of heart disease. He had been a sufferer from the ailment for some time, and twelve days ago came to Minneapolis to visit his son George, who is employed by Ingram, Olsen & Co. Yesterday he started to the depot expecting to take the train for home, but he died in the depot in advance of his son and had gone down the stairs to the entrance to the railroad yard when he suddenly fell to the floor. He was carried upstairs again, but expired before the arrival of medical attendance. The deceased was formerly a wholesale merchant, but of late had retired from business on account of poor health. He was quite wealthy, being quoted by the commercial reports as worth $25,000. He leaves a wife, three sons and two daughters. His remains will be sent to La Crosse to-day.

MINNEAPOLIS GLOBULES.

An important meeting of the Plymouth conference is called for Plymouth church this evening. The White Cross society met yesterday and listened to further argument in favor of personal purity. A mass meeting in the interest of the Homeopathic hospital will be held at the West hotel this evening. The prohibition candidate for congress from the Fourth district, will speak Tuesday evening at produce exchange upon "The Republican Anti-Saloon Movement High License Law-trap."

"Did you see my horse?"

"No, I did not." A correspondent writes to know if the answer to the question as given signifies that the man did see the horse, or did not see the horse. The point is, is the answer a double negative. It is not, but a double answer. To say "I did not see no horse" would be to say a double negative.
