A WISCONSIN WOMAN WHO CLAIMS TO HAVE BEEN BASELY DECEIVED.

About a month ago a handsomely dressed young woman, giving her name as Jennie Pierce, from Dorchester, Wis., arrived in this city and swore out a warrant against one George H. Weston, charging him with bastardy. She stated to County Attorney Davis that she was the daughter of a milliner in Dorchester, and made the acquaintance of Weston about six months ago. He proposed marriage, and the ceremony was performed at a neighboring town. After they had lived together for five or six weeks he suddenly disappeared. She searched for him until the acquaintance of Weston was a week one. Finally she heard that he was in Minneapolis, and finding that she was enceinte, swore out the warrant. Yesterday Detective John Hoy recognized Weston from the description given him, and admitted that he has been intimate with the girl, but denies the marriage. He claims that his father is a wealthy citizen of Portage, Wis., and that the arrest is simply a blackmailing scheme to extort money. He alleges that he once offered $10,000 to settle the case, and, being refused, left Wisconsin. He is about 35 years old, has a good address, and for a while worked as a clerk at the Pauly house.

SHE SLEPT WITH A HATCHET.

And Her Husband Asks Divorce--Minor Court Doings.

David Drew has begun divorce proceedings in the district court against Susan Drew, to whom he was married in this city April 3, 1882. He is 40 years of age and she 37. He tells a peculiar story of domestic troubles, and if what he says be true it is a wonder that he did not apply for a divorce long ago. He charges that on the night of Sept. 15, 1886, his wife took a hatchet to bed with her and in the middle of the night attempted to cut his head open. On another occasion she threw a stick of wood at him, knocking him down and several times injuring him. Mr. Drew also charges that she has been guilty of habitual drunkenness and cruel treatment to such a degree that it is unsafe for him to live with her.

POLICE CULLINGS.

They Kissed and Made Up--The Stuhl Disappearance Case. Robert Egelson, drayman, was before the municipal court yesterday morning charged with assaulting Mary Harvey, a woman with whom he has been living while waiting in the ante-room for the case to be called the two kissed and made up freely then left the court room in order to avoid testimony against Egelson. Court Officer Burk, who had made the arrest, said that this method of settling the case, running after the woman, brought her back. She refused to testify, but a badly discolored optic and a bruised face were witnesses against Egelson, who was fined $25.

Capt. Louis Ness, of the Third precinct police station, yesterday arrested August Johnson, the man who stabbed Special Officer Ole Ludin Sept. 5. Johnson was about to leave the city. He was arrested before, but, owing to some misunderstanding, no charges were filed against him. The municipal court yesterday investigated his case.

The case of George Smith, the barber, charged with shaving on Sunday, was yesterday tried in the municipal court. The jury disagreed.

A. Walters, who stole a keg of beer from a farmer, was yesterday sentenced to ten days in the county jail.

CASE OF A BARBER.

Why Good Men and True Could Not Agree. The case of A. W. Christie, of the Barbers' Brotherhood, against George Smith, proprietor of the Pence opera house, charged with shaving on Sunday, was yesterday morning tried in the municipal court. The jury disagreed. The Sunday shaving law, regulating the privileges of barber artists, is somewhat unlimited and grants to the Knights of the Razor the right to ply his avocation whenever necessity or charity demand. It was a notorious fact while the district attorney was citing the law that the full-bearded and bald-headed members of the jury smiled with unfeigned delight and their more fortunate brethren, with well-trimmed mustaches and carefully parted locks, frowned in a manner that pretended to struggle after the case should be submitted to them. For the purpose of ensuring the irrefragable Mr. Smith, two members of the brotherhood provided themselves with a partially-shaved friend who, on Sunday last, entered the barber's shop and, in the presence of the full-bearded and bald-headed members of the jury, submitted himself to the operation of the razor. It was while the tender-hearted and obliging Mr. Smith was engaged in this benevolent work that the two detective amateurs, who had stationed themselves in the ante-room, presented their faces to the man who was being shaved. Mr. Smith, who was engaged in this benevolent work that the two detective amateurs, who had stationed themselves in the ante-room, presented their faces to the man who was being shaved.

The New Postoffice Building. Special to the Globe.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Mr. Randall, on the sundry civil appropriation bill, holds the Minneapolis postoffice appropriation strictly to the limit fixed in the bill passed by Mr. Washburn in the Forty-eighth congress. This was $500,000 independent of the site, which was $92,367. Supervising Architect Bell wanted $167,514 this year. He says there are liabilities under the contract amounting to $144,050. There has been paid and certified for payment on account of construction $90,367 and there is a balance available of $99,167. With the appropriation asked there would be $256,682 to use next year. Mr. Randall will insist on allowing but $75,000. There is very little else in the estimates made by Supervising Architect Bell this year that is of interest in Minnesota. The president, having vetoed the bill, no appropriation, no renewal of legislation for building there will be made. The only Minnesota building to be appropriated for this winter is the Minneapolis postoffice.

NEWSPER AND SMITHS. Their New Home and How They Occupied and Appraised It.

The formal opening of the Newsboys' home occurred yesterday, and all the afternoon and evening there was a throng of callers, most of whom left substantial tokens of their interest in the enterprise. In the shape of clothing, table and bed furnishings and cash. Mr. Quinby, the matron, told us that for several days past her house has been full. The boys seem to appreciate the cozy comforts, and the matron tells affecting incidents of their behavior. The first evening the house was open one lad rushed into the dining-room, seized a piece of bread, thrust his fingers into the butter and, rubbing it over his face, fled as quickly as he came. This, however, was the exception, for all of the others who have thus far come have shown clean hands and faces at the table. They are taught, more by example than precept, to be neat and tidy; to eat with forks instead of knives, and to observe all the minor politenesses of society. The rules are few and there has been no occasion for enforcing them. The boys are expected to wash thoroughly, and to clean their day clothes before going to bed. During the evening Mrs. Quinby reads stories from the Youth's Companion, encourages the youngsters to read for themselves. She assists in their games, and in all ways endeavors to supply a mother's guidance and counsel to the motherless lads. The matron says that there will be some difficulty in keeping boys out of the home who have parents and homes a mile off. The low price of lodgings and meals—5 cents—leads many boys to apply for lodgings whose parents are not only unable to pay for them but would be greatly worried by the absence of their children every night. The home is open to all the newsboys and bootblacks during the day and evening for reading and quiet amusements, but its table and beds are only intended for homeless boys, and it is through the managers' hope to reach and care for.

RACE AND BETS OFF.

Decision and Comment on the Bicycle Race. The conclusion of the Woodside-Morgan one-hundred-mile race on Thursday evening in Minneapolis, was a matter of surprise to nearly everybody, when announced yesterday morning. The referee has withheld his decision, pending an inquiry into the suspected crookedness, the charge having been that Woodside sold out to Morgan. The latter was highly indignant yesterday and denounced the reported fraud as without the slightest foundation in fact. It seems to have been the conclusion that because Woodside won the 50-mile race he would have been easily able to win the 100-mile race. That is a mistake. He is a short-distance and a long-distance rider. If Janlan and Gaudaur were to row a mile-and-a-half race the betting would be on Gaudaur, because they bet on his side; but in a five-mile race of course Hanlan would be the favorite. Always a hard-headed and always can beat Woodside a hundred miles. The race was the most interesting for itself. Woodside was clean plied out, and that was the reason he lost. He was so done up he could not leave the rink until 12 o'clock.

The referee last night declared the race and bets off in the following decision: Sporting Editor of the Globe:

I have made some further inquiries in regard to last night's 100-mile bicycle race, and what I have learned to-day goes to convince me fully that the affair was not devoid of "unpleasant" features, to say the least. I am sure that on this subject I have not been deceived. I would give the race to Morgan and then declare the bets off, but this would be very unsatisfactory so far as the news went. Some would doubtless take advantage of a technicality and claim that if Morgan was given the race they were entitled to the money they bet on his writing it. To provide against this, therefore, the race and bets are declared off. I regret that this course is necessary, especially in a race where men of Woodside's caliber are interested. In justice to myself I wish to say that I did not have a cent wagered on the race and have no personal preferences.

J. P. MANNIX.

It is doubted whether the referee in this decision has not exceeded his prerogatives, though his honesty of intention is not questioned. His real or supposed knowledge of any private agreement between the men would not affect the actual race. Morgan, without faulting, came in ahead, won the race and should have been declared entitled to the stakes, after which the referee was at liberty to express his opinion of the honesty of the race and to declare bets off. It is a matter of regret that it is necessary to question the fairness of the match.

The Stakes Fairly Won. New York, Dec. 10.—The board of review of the National Trotting association decided an interesting case today. A horse named Marvel was trotting recently in Illinois, Michigan and Ohio, and people out West who lost money protested that the horse was the bay gelding, Hector, and had a record of 2:23. To decide the matter, the owner sent the horse to this city, and to-day the board examined him. Ex-Ad. Corrigan, who once owned Hector, was called in, and he said this horse was not Hector. On the other hand, the horse was identified as Marvel, record 2:34. The board decided the horse was rightfully entitled.

CYRIPANS UNDER ARREST. All the houses of prostitution of Minneapolis were "pulled" by the sheriff of Hennepin county, late last night, indictments having been found against the keepers by the grand jury. Among those arrested was Ida Dorsey, who has already served a term in Stillwater for keeping a house of ill-fame. There is intense excitement among the demi-monde, and those not under arrest are leaving the city in hot haste.

ALL SORTS. At the opening of the newsboys' home yesterday Mrs. Farr proudly announced that she was not only a friend of the boys, but was a member of the boot black brigade, having earned $2.25 daily route. At the time of the Old Fellows' national encampment blacking boots. In this worthy enterprise she had the assistance of another lady, who worked at the dirt. Together they worked, and the money earned was the first capital invested in the home. No wonder Mrs. Farr and her boys understand each other.

A Political Revolt. BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The City Democracy is in revolt against what they allege to be the "despotic power of certain men who rule the Democratic city committee." Their action last night in endorsing the Republican nominee for mayor was chiefly intended as a rebuke to that section of the Democracy represented by Mayor O'Brien, and they endorsed the Republican nominee in preference to nominating an independent candidate or to endorsing McNeill, the labor candidate.
