APPROPRIATELY QUIET

The Funeral of the Wife of Anarchist Neebe Not Characterized by Unseemly Demonstrations.

Capt. Black, Dr. Schmidt and Mrs. Parsons Conclude Not to Appear in Person.

Schilling and Grotkau Speak Briefly, But Fail to Break Forth in Their Tisual Strain.

All Red Flags and Banners Furled and Hidden -- But One Band in the Procession.

CHICAGO. March 13.-Extreme quiet marked the burial of Mrs. Neebe to-day. Fully 40,000 people shivered through hours in a bleak wind waiting for the obsequies of the noted anarchist's wife to commence, and were only rewarded by the sight of a procession that, except in size, differed only in a few minor details from any ordinary funeral. Last night the master of ceremonies estimated 2,000 sympathizers would be in line. Whether the absence of the anarchist widower dampened the enthusiasm, or the fact that the police were taking extraordinary precautions to quell disorder had a iike effect, the demonstration fell far short of its promoter's prediction. Including persons in the 177 carriages and buggies, there were probably 5,000 souls in the The funeral ceremoprocession. were held in Miller's hall, which less than twelve hours before had been the scene of a masquerade ball. Every vestige of carnival trappings had, however, been carefully removed. Here and there were placarded printed appeals for contributions to the anarchist defense fund. The stage and gallery railing were tastefully draped in black and white, and ranged be-fore the footlights and around the coffin were floral emblems and potted plants in TOTHING SYMBOLICAL OF RELIGION was ribble, nor in the simple services were there even the most distant allusions to a future life. A well-rendered chorus or two, followed by brief orations from George Schilling and Paul Grotkau, and the corpse | glad was ready for the hearse. Schilling, the Chicago socialist, and Grotkau, the Milwaukee anarchist, failed to break forth in their usual fiery strain. Capt. Black missed a train and was not present. Mrs. Parsons was also absent, and Mr. Schmidt, the onetime candidate for mayor of Chicago, sent a letter as a substitute for the address he was to deliver. In consequence the cere-mony at the cemetery consisted mainly of another speech by Grotkau. None of the uncouth tatterdemalions who formed so prominent an element at the Haymarket meeting could be seen to-day, either in the procession or the multitudes that viewed it. The prohibition of red flags was scrupu-leusly observed. Few banners were carried, and they were furled and totally hidden in black drapery. Not a dozen mourners were in uniform. A single band furrished the only music in the procession, poers were in uniform. licemen were almost wholly kept out of sight, and the entire affair was characterized by an extraordinarily somber aspect.

He had made a slip-knot which, was under his left ear, and the pressure of the rope on the jugular vein may have produced unconciousness, though not until after much pain had been suffered. George was fond of reading, and was recently much in-terested in the newspaper account of the suicide of little Annie Niblick. It seems likely he was led to his rash self-murder by brooding over Annie's death and the mode thereof. He had been dead four or five hours when found.

A REMARKABLE LETTER

Written by Dr. McGlynn in Euology of Mr. Beecher.

Ministers of Many Denominations Speak at Plymouth Church.

NEW YORK, March 13 .- The evening service in Plymouth church were remarkable from the fact that clergymen of almost every denomination was present and spoke in eulogy of the deceased pastor. The building was crowded and the vestibules were utterly impassable, and during the service many people fainted and more than one remained where they swooned or could not be carried out. Rev. Mr. Halliday conducted the services, and read the following letter from Dr. McGlynn, the deposed priest of St. Stephen's church, New York: I regret very much that I cannot be present this evening at the meeting in Plymouth church to honor the memory of the great and to condole for the irreparable loss. I must, therefore, content myself with saying briefly in writing what I should be glad to say more fully in speech. It is a sign of the dawning of the better day for which the world has so long yearned that such a meeting should be possible and that you and yours should so earnestly desire the presence of a clergyman of that church which seems so remote, and too many would say, so antagonistic to ours. Foremost in the work of hastening the coming of the better day was the great man whose death we mourn and for whose work we give thanks. None other so well as he taught the men of his time to exalt the essential of religion. PURE AND UNDEFILED, in which we all agree, and to minimize the differences that seem to separate us. To him was given to see with clearer view to re veal the unequalled genius and with tireless energy to make common among men the meaning of Him who taught of old on the mount and by the seashore, the career of all religion, the brotherhood of man. I cheerfully confess that from Mr. Beecher I learned from the first days of my ministry a new tenderness and fullness of meaning in the "Our Father;" and I am glad to be able here to state that the theology of the old church agrees with his in this, that the essence of religion is in communion with God through the love of Him for His own sake, and in Serious Accident to Passengers of a Philadelphia Street Car.

Stimulated and encouraged by his success, let us take the burden of the peoples' wrongs where his tired shoulders have laid it down and fight anew the battle, if need be, till right it shall the reign of the prince of peace. A Brooklyn Tribute to the Late Henry Ward Beecher.

NEW YORK, March 13 .- The church on Cranberry street, Brooklyn, made famous by the late Henry Ward Beecher, never presented a more joyous and gay appearance than it did to-day. It was decorated more as for a May-day festival instead of the occasion of Plymouth's late pastor's funeral eulogy. The rays of the spring morning sun shone in through the east winquisite effect the beautiful shades of color of the intermingling flowers and ferns. Not a sign of crape could be seen anywhere. The edifice was crowded to its fullest capacity. Rev. S. B. Halliday, Mr. Beecher's assistant, who is at present in charge of the church, assisted Dr. Lyman Abbott in conducting the services. Dr. Abbott spoke for an hour, and the attention of the audience was only broken by the occasional sobbing of some of the church members.

Tips From One Who Knows Regarding Mining Speculation in the Black Hills.

A Prospector Who Sold a Quarter Interest In a Ledge of Rock For Loudly Demanded $50,000 For His Holding.

The Old-Timers in the Hills Inclined to be Jealous of the Newcomers.

Special Correspondence of the Globe. RAPID CITY, Dak., Macrh 12.-In the spring the Black Hills fancy lightly turns to thoughts of "booms;" of the inrush of those heavenly visitors whom "Dutch Fred" calls, "Eastern cobbidalists;" of rapid sales of town lots and mining claims: of all the pride, pomp and circumstance of glorious fortune. It is interesting to hear men and newspapers inflate their hopes. Lifting one's self by the boot straps was some time a chestnut paradox, but the time gives it daily proof in the ease with which men figure themselves to the top of Fort-une's bicycle. Hope deferred does not even make the heart retch in the Hills; and that faith which is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen finds its highest exemplars among the Micawbers and Tapleys of this rarified region. I could fill these letters with particulars, as of accomplished facts, of operations that exist only in the imaginations of the enthusiastic schemers.

DOUBLE RESOURCES.

All this comes of the double phenomena of physical and human nature; of the boundless resources of the country and its people reacting on each other. These Hills are filled with men who come here to make their fortunes, and who see in the country's minerals, ranches, range and timber "potentiality of wealth beyond the dreams of avarice," as Dr. Sam Johnson said of Thrale's beer business. These men came to make their fortunes out of these "potentialities," and they want to make it now, right away; they see the potentialities, and the dreams of avarice inflame imagination and sustain hope. The owners of claims also know that said potentiality is immovably locked up until other acquired wealth nes in to relieve it; there are millions of fish in the sea, but what if a man has no fish-hook? Hence the constant straining of eyes Eastward for the coming of the capitalists like modern wise men from the East. And when they come the prospector con-"dreams" for a standard of values.

The reception accorded to the capitalist when he comes varies according to the relations that exist between the greed and the sagacity of the individual would be seller. If the former predominate in the claimowner, he will demand a price equal to all that he imagines his mine can ever produce. If he have some business sagacity, he will accord co-capital the share it usually can command in a partnership with original invention, to-wit: the lion's; he will concede enough of the potentiality to tempt cap-

Vot is ten tousand dollar! Notings! I shpend him in a veek!" He propably never owned ten thousand cents at one time in his life. WHO GET THE PROCEEDS. These hills abound with men who have for years been sitting on claims waiting for purchasers, a dozen of whom have been driven away by prices based on the "dreams of avarice" rather than the possibilities of develodment; and in many cases the distribution of proceeds of sales has disclosed the fact that the most of the property has come and we, as the burden falls from our shoulders and weapons from our hands, shall have a nearer vision than was given to than the discoverers for trifing consideraions, or no considerations at all. In truth it is the antecedent generosity, impecuniosity and improvidence of the prospector that often impels him to demand large prices. Of the $24,000 paid for the Tin Reef mines only about one-fourth remained to the discoverer. The proceeds of the more unequally distributed, one lawyer in Rapid City get ting $300, another $1,100 of it, while parties who had put up $25 apiece for the locators got over $2,000. Two young men who had refused to bond a mine near Deadwood for $80,000 m a burst of confidence and generosity deeded a third interest in it to a "rustler" who they believed could help

HOW TO "CATCH ON" IN THE HILLS. The man who comes into the Hills with money to invest on short notice is likly to be asked prices based on those dreams of avarice. The man who comes and stays long enough to learn the country and the people; to acquire confidence in the one and gain the confidence of the other, can "get in on the ground floor." Miners like in on the ground floor." square-dealing and open-handedness, and hate in about equal proportion a sharper and a niggard. They are square and lib eral themselves, you see. The moral of this, for the moneyed man, who wants some of this potentiality of wealth, is to deal with some resident agent who is interested in properties and is capable of Intelligent live-and-let-live transactions. Concede that he is to make a good thing for himself and his partners and look sharp that you make a good thing for yourself and your partners.

OLD TIMERS AND NEW-COMERS. I think one reason why some old timer are so jealous of new-comers who come to stay is this very knowledge that the man who settles down here and watches his chances can often work into good things better than the old timer himself. Some times the latter has made a record that interferes with brilliant successes in negotia-tions with miners, and new men have considerable advantage in new connections and new resources outside. Some notable successes of new men in establishing them selves have not tended to lessen the teeling that they were poaching on some one's preserves. Of course, when I speak of this pirit, I attribute it to only a limited class of old residents; men of the same order of intelligence and business sagacity as is the prospector who refuses $10,000 cash and sells for $25 in "grub and gin." majority of old residents in the hills well come all respectable comers and are not afraid to take their chances with them all in a country with the potentiality in sight to support 100,000 population 10,000 opulent. I must say that I do not believe that there is another community in this land that extends as hearty and unself ish a hospitality, in society and business, as do these Hills towns-notably Deadwood > pecial to the Globe WASHINGTON, March 18 .- The vacancy recently created in the District of Columbia judiciary by the resignation of Justice McArthur from the supreme court has not yet been filled, but the Indications are that ex-Representative Bragg, of Wisconsin, will be chosen as the new official, and an official says, who is in a good position to know, that the president has actually promised the appointment to Gen. Bragg, and, aithough the latter, a few weeks ago. declared most emphatically that he would not accept a district judgship if it were offered to him, there is some reason to be-lieve that he might be induced to take a different view of the matter.

This bill is the outgrowth of previous correspondence, wherein it was developed that a higher price was charged for hauling coal to Glenwood than to Council Bluffs, twenty-five miles further. The road readjusted its tariff by raising the Council Bluffs rate.

BRAGG TALKED OF

To Get Mone, For Grub After Having In Connection With a Vacancy in the District Judiciary.

> The depot. Muse had occasion to go out about 3:40 o'clock and came running back and said: "Some one is robbing the cars." Beyond question there is an understanding between the president and Gen. Bragg that the latter shall receive a federal judgeship, and there is good reason to believe that the understanding even specifies a district judgeship. At the time the understanding was reached, after it was known that Gen.
> Bragg would not be a member of the Fiftieth congress, the president was cognizant that the resignation of Judge Mc-Arthur would soon be forthcoming, for the judge had told him so, and he knew that Judge McArthur had been appointed from Wisconsin, Gen. Bragg's state. The only apparent element of doubt is Gen. Bragg's own denial, and that must be regarded as the assertion of a candidate under promise. who is always at liberty to deny the promise to avoid embarrassing the patron.

Charged With Murder.

Special to the Globe FARGO, Dak., March 13.-Conductor Lowry, of the freight which caused the collision with the passenger on the Northern Pacific, near Wheatland, yesterday, and resulting in the death of Engineer Ryan and Fireman Snyder, was arrested in this city this morning on a warrant sworn out by Assistant Supt. Green, charging him with murder. Many friends have visited him in jail to-day, and efforts will be made to-morrow to secure his release on bail, as, while the charge is technically murder, it is believed no more than manslaughter can be made of it. He claims to have not been asleep, but to have done his best to signal the engineer to stop and run back upon the switch at Magnolia, where he had orders to pass the passenger. It is said that before Ryan, the engineer, died, he said it was his fault that the train did not stop.

The New Northwestern League Schedule Believed to be Pretty Satisfactorily Arranged.

St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and Eau Claire to Open the Season Away

Billy Wilson and the Black Diamond Arrange for a Fifteen-Round

From Home.

Contest. Open Question Whether the Daunts less or Coronet is Ahead in the Ocean Race.

As a whole the Northwestern league schedule adopted on Saturday is a good piece of work. Some things in it will doubtless be criticised-for instance, the playing of games in Duluth amid the icetipped zephyrs of Lake Superior in October and increasing the number of games from 80 to 126-but there is nothing so seriously out of place as to call for condemnation. To make up the circuits so that traveling expenses would be equalized and reduced to a minimum it was necessary that the season should begin in the south and end in the north, or vice versa, and the breezes of the grandfather of the great chain of lakes are quite as UNCOMFORTABLY CHILLY the last of April as the 10th of October. the ground that the teams might as well be playing ball as lying idle. The objections to the new arrangement are that it is liable, in a general way, to give the public a surfeit of the sport, and, through the widening of the gap between the teams, to cause many to stay away from the games because of the certainty that their favorites cannot win the pennant. The arguments for and against the change are of about equal weight, so the test of experience will be awaited with interest.

OPENING THE SEASON. On Saturday, April 30, the teams will meet for the first time, St. Paul going to Des Moines, Minneapolis to La Crosse, Eau Claire to Milwaukee and Duluth to Oshkosh. St. Paul will go next to La order named, and open its home grounds on Wednesday, May 18, in a game with Duluth. The first Minneapolis-St. Paul game will On Decoration day these clubs will play in the morning in Minneapolis and in the aft-ernoon in St. Paul. On the Fourth of July each club will play two games, Du-luth in Minneapolis, Eau Claire in St. Paul, La Crosse in Des Moines and Oshkosh in Milwaukee.

Sections Not Discouraging. CHICAGO, March 13 .- The Farmers' Review will print the following crop summary in this week's issue: The weather for the past ten days has been very favorable for the growing wheat, and the reports from the entire wheat belt continue to be of an encouraging tenor. The rains and light snows in Kansas are reported to have caused an improvement for the growing grain in certain portions of that state and improved the general outlook, which was be-coming discouraging. In sections of Michigan and Wisconsin the fields are still protected with snow, and nearly all of the reports from these two states continue to be favorable. In Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri the reports indicate that the is in a very promising condition, and, un-less subjected to freezing weather within the next three weeks, promises to emerge from the winter siege with unusually good prospects. Some reports of injury are re-ported from White county in Illinois, in Clermont and Delaware counties, Ohio, and Butler, Jewell and Rice counties, of Kansas, but these are exceptions to the good reports from fully one-third of the winter wheat states west of Ohio, ending
