SWINEFORD ROASTS THEM.

Alaska's Governor Turns Over Some of the Recent Appointments to His Territory.

Gov. and Mrs. A. P. Swineford, of Alaska, were at the Ryan yesterday. They arrived early in the morning, as the governor intended to take the train for the coast in the evening. He concluded to stay over until to-day, however, as he would be detained a week anyway, which he discovered on glancing at the time card. He will go to Portland and stay there a day, and then take the steamer to Victoria, B. C. The governor looks robust and talks vigorously, notwithstanding he has been on three weeks sick leave at his home, at Marquette, Mich., since leaving Washington. While at Washington he was without rest for the first time, and succeeded in having the educational and Indian appropriations increased, and obtaining better naval service. He has also carried through a measure which was much needed by miners. Now, their mining claims are to be recognized without and trouble. He also succeeded in getting a bill for a territorial government and extension of the land laws favorably reported upon by the committee, but it was never reached. A court-martial for Lieut. Comdr. Nichols was obtained, and the appointment of a new collector of customs was secured. Regarding the appointment of John McCaffery as collector, Gov. Swineford talked without concealing his bitter opposition to the man.

"It is the general talk in the territory--and the newspapers say so too--that he is 'Suspect No. 1' of the Phoenix Park murder," said Swineford. "Why, he is a man who is not to be trusted without any cause whatever, and he is the man who incited the mob to attack the Chinese on Douglas island. I wanted to get Peter French suspended, but I would prefer fifty French to one McCaffery. When we first got news by boat of McCaffery's appointment nobody would believe it. Everybody laughed and said it must be a hoax. I went to Washington and saw President Cleveland and acquainted the president with what the man's character really was. The president laughed and said it was the second mistake he had made respecting Alaska since assuming the administration. I told him I would prefer fifty French to one McCaffery. The president told me to go and look at the papers in Secretary Thompson's possession. I went, and finding a dozen applications McCaffery's was the only one that fled against him. Why the man had indisposed all the way to California, California, California, 100; men like Gen. Pat Collins, congressman of Massachusetts; Congressman Moran, of Virginia, and Henry, of California. I went to Gen. Collins. He said that McCaffery acted twenty years or so ago, and not so casually at that, but he always thought he was a pretty good fellow. He thought he was a right fellow, and he had a lot of men who indorsed him did not have the least idea that he would be appointed, and he wouldn't have signed their name. Well, I went back to Secretary Thompson again, and then you should have seen the letters against him pouring in. There was one from Benja. Brown, of Seattle, W. Va., giving him fits. The president concluded to withdraw his name. When he asked me who I would like to recommend, I said anybody that Postmaster General Vilas would indorse. Gen. Vilas recommended Arthur K. Delaney, of Wisconsin, who was in the Brazil fight. So Delaney was appointed, and is now only waiting for the approval of his board. He is an excellent man. He isn't afraid of anybody and is a good lawyer.

AN INTERESTING RELIC.

A File of a Newspaper Published When George Washington was President. An interesting and valuable relic of the journalism of the last century is in the possession of Chalwell Knox, of St. Paul. It consists of a complete copy of the files of Greenleaf's New York Journal, published in New York city, for the year 1796. The paper was a semi-weekly publication, four pages and contained during the year many numbers of news, that have become a part of the history of this country. There was no telegraphic news, of course, and there were but few paragraphs of local news, the pages being filled with correspondence on political topics for the most part. In the issue of Sept. 23, 1796, appears the farewell address of President George Washington, the document bearing the date of Sept. 17, so that it was but six days from its delivery until it appeared in the newspaper. This address contains about the same amount of reading matter as the full five columns of the Globe set in its ordinary type. Another number contains the treaty negotiated with England by John Jay, which was a trifle older news when it was published, as the treaty bears the date of Sept. 3, 1794, or the year 1795. The complete run of the Austrian army in Italy and the loss of 31,000 Austrians killed and taken, and that peace is at hand.

ONE OF BOARD'S COMMITTEES.

Editor Board of Fort Johnson, and Prof. Henry, of the Wisconsin University, took in the session of the Farmers' institute at Le Sueur, which R. C. Judson superintended. Hoard immediately went and penned a glowing article praising J. B. Powers, manager of the St. Paul stock yards, and J. T. Ames, of Northfield, both of whom presided upon the occasion. Father McKeown, the Grandin manager of the institute, concluding the article, which occupies a conspicuous place in the last number of the Dairyman, Mr. Hoard writes: "Minnesota has the institute business started and it will not be long before her farmers will be abreast of those in any other state in the study and discussion of important farm questions."

Jacob-Burnstein.

J. Jacob was married yesterday to Miss R. Burnstein at the synagogue, corner of College and Wabasha streets, by Rev. A. Rosenthal. A reception followed at Pfeiffer's hall in the evening. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Marcus, Mr. and Mrs. A. Woolf, Mr. and Mrs. I. Kingsberg, Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldstein, and the Messrs. Aron, Herz, Joseph, Herz, Michel, Stronski, Phil Wechsler, Joe Dalinski, Adolph Man, H. Zenoisky, Sig. Rosen, G. Ashinsky, S. Rose, J. Firestone, G. Graf, D. Herberich. Many presents were received as well as telegrams of congratulation.

Fire Commissioners.

The board of fire commissioners will hold its annual meeting this evening. Officers of the department for the ensuing year will be elected. The present incumbents are: Chief, John T. Black; assistant engineer, John R. Jackson, and superintendent of fire alarm telegraph, J. R. Jenkins. It is thought probable that all of these officers will be re-elected.

Amusement Notes.

Lawrence Barrett will begin his engagement at the Grandin theatre on Monday. Advance sale of seats indicates that there will be a large audience. Elaborate preparations have been made by both the Barrett management and the Grandin management to produce the play in all the gorgeous splendor of its first production in Washington.

Mr. Barrett and his company came down from Minneapolis yesterday evening, and were quartered at the Ryan and Windsor hotels.

Don Cameron, the midwest, who is said to be the smallest man ever exhibited, will be at the Grandin theatre on Monday.

FOR THE LAST TIME.

Services were held in the Swedish Church on Market Street--A Church With a History.

The New Jerusalem or Swedenborgian society met for the last time in their church on Market street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, yesterday morning, the lot having been sold recently. Rev. E. C. Mitchell, the pastor, delivered an interesting sermon, giving a brief history of the society's career since its organization, about fourteen years ago. He took for his text Psalm lv.--19: "Because they have no changes, therefore they fear not the Lord."

The pastor spoke substantially as follows: "There are changes of various kinds in life. Change is written on everything human, the Lord alone being perfect and unchangeable. Our whole life is a series of changes in the process of the body's development. The process begins from a mere beginning to full development. Circumstances are always changing and our connection and relation with them constantly change and even the earth on which we stand always changes. Day and night and various seasons follow each other. Mentally we are always changing. We are not utterly ignorant, gradually become acquainted with the world about us by successive changes, till the mind of infant becomes that of a man. We have been ten and a half years worshippers here. Next Sunday we shall move into temporary home in the rooms of the Masonic lodge on Dayton and Western avenues. Then we shall proceed to building our new church on the corner of Third and Selby avenues, which we hope to occupy in the fall. The old building we leave as quite a

HISTORY OF ITS OWN.

It was built thirty-eight years ago for the First Methodist church, and of the first kind of brick made in Minnesota. It was then used as a public hall; then the hall of the St. Paul and Northern Pacific. It was used as a drill room for the militia. We bought it in the summer of 1876 and fitted it up for a church again. We have ourselves many pleasant memories connected with it. Here with us have gone into the other world and some have removed to other places. Many new persons have come among us. It has been with this congregation as with all other human things, a succession of changes. While we have been in this building we have learned many things in life. We have had many experiences. Whatever they may have been of good and true and useful memories let us carry them with us to our new home. Personally I have been very unpleasant in our memory connected with this building, let us leave it behind among the old things that are not worth carrying over. Personally I have been very kind to all of you, and I have had the inexpressible pleasure of knowing that I have been with you in this church. Some of us came in here in comparative youth, and we shall go out somewhat gray. There is scarcely a family that remains as it was when we came here. Some have increased and some have diminished, but we have learned to acknowledge that the Lord is good to us all. He has in every way kept all of His promises. Our experience has confirmed our belief in a divine providence over all things in our life. Though we have been

A SMALL FAMILY.

In the church, we have been more and more convinced that the doctrines of the New Jerusalem church present the grandest, clearest, most rational and comprehensive views of all religious objects. I can not feel any sorrow in leaving this building, and with all its memories, without emphasizing to you the goodness of the Lord and the beauty of holiness. As we go out from this scene of forty years of church life, let us affectionately say: "I have been young and now an old man, yet I have not seen the righteous forsake his way, nor the seer beging bread." "Praise ye the Lord."

The plans and specifications have not yet been made for the new church, and it is not yet known how expensive an edifice will be erected. The old site sold for $10,000, and the new site sold for $10,000. The $20,000 on hand for building purposes, and the society is undecided as to what course to pursue. At any rate the matter will be pushed and the new church ready for occupancy as soon as possible.

one corner of the hall a red curtain partitions off a small sleeping room, and a kitchen and living room is improvised in the opposite corner in a like way by the use of unplanned boards. The three zealous apostles of the cause live right there in the hall. Services are held every week-day evening, and on Sunday there are three meetings, morning, afternoon and evening. The windows are left open so that outsiders will be attracted by the rattling tambourine, the beating drum and the singing of the strong-lunged apostles, and once in a while, it is safe to say, some weary sinner has his attention drawn that way and drifts in to hear the good tidings.

Speaking of the work in St. Paul, Capt. Seray said: "We think we have been very successful here. Of course we can do nothing without God. But we have succeeded ourselves to His divine aid, and bringing more than a hundred souls to a confession of their sins and to see the error of their ways. We are glad to see we can get people to come to our meetings, and the Lord blesses our work. Our audiences are continually increasing."

THE MAYOR WILL MOVE.

Change of His Office From the German-American to the Bank of Minnesota Building to be Made at Once.

The mayor's office is about to be removed again, from its present location in the German-American bank building to more commodious quarters on the first floor of the Bank of Minnesota block, corner of Sixth and Jackson streets. The work of transferring the records and furniture will begin to-day.

Since Mr. Smith was elected mayor it has been a great inconvenience to him to spare sufficient time away from the Bank of Minnesota, of which he is vice president, to the occupancy of the chair. The removal of the mayor's office will simplify matters greatly and provide a better opportunity for the proper discharge of his official duties.

SEIBERT'S CONCERTS.

The Last of the Series Given in Market Hall--A Benefit on Easter Sunday.

The sixth and last concert of the season by the Seibert orchestra, was given at Market hall yesterday afternoon. The audience, though not a large one, appeared to be an appreciative one, and the concert was a thoroughly enjoyable one. Mr. Seibert is now arranging for a benefit concert to be given at Market hall on Easter Sunday. As to the success of the venture Mr. Seibert says, in a published announcement: "The result of concerts this winter have been very scant. It was not for the mission and principle allotted to the orchestra, it would hardly pay to undergo all the labor in bringing out these concert programmes for the little recognition they have received from the music lovers of this city. As fault finding is not our hobby, we will say: Schwannmarch, the 'Christian world' for the future series; we shall catch on to you sooner or later, if we are long winded enough! We may ask a sort of complimentary benefit concert for Easter Sunday, if you will grant it to us. The expenses for these concerts have been largely in excess of those formerly given, and we would welcome liberal assistance to cover our accounts. The time and talents of the members have been freely and cheerfully given all through the winter; any other organization but ours may have succeeded in raising out of the past cold winter in this Market hall, but we are alive yet and kicking and we will continue to give you a good time for many seasons to come. A grand invitation for the finale and benefit concert at Market hall, 3 p. m., Easter Sunday, April 10, 1887."

AN APPEAL FOR IRELAND.

In Which Extreme Measures Are Hinted at Unless Wrongs Are Redressed.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 26.--The executive board of the Irish league of America, to-day issued an address to the American public. The address opened with reference to the appeal by the corporation of Dublin to the 'Christian world' for the protest of humanity against the further oppression of the Irish people by the British government recites the present political situation at length, and closes with an appeal to the American press and people to pass their verdict, and say boldly if the Irish have not displayed all the forbearance that human nature is capable of in their passive resistance to such inhuman laws as those to which the British government would have them submit. The address says nothing liberal respecting the British government but the destruction of the Irish people Ireland will be justified before God and man in selling her life at the heaviest price she can obtain, and in using every weapon the ingenuity of man can place within her grasp. Condemnation of the policy of the British government by the American public is asked in order to help avert such a catastrophe. The address urges reorganization of the disbanded branches of the league and the establishment of new ones. It says that the Irish people living on farms too widely separated from each other to form branches send their names and subscriptions to Rev. Dr. O'Reilly, of Detroit, who will acknowledge the same through the press. The address is signed by John Fitzgerald, president of the league.

Fire in a Prison.

JACKSON, Mich., March 26.--Fire was discovered in a four-story building inside of the prison walls at 10 o'clock. The origin of the fire is supposed to be spontaneous combustion of the straw bedding, which was completely destroyed, with all its contents. The end of the long two-story building on the west side was also nearly destroyed. The fire was under control about 11:30. As soon as the fire things were extinguished, the prisoners inside the cell blocks and every precaution taken to prevent a stampede of the prisoners. They remained quiet, very few moving their bunks. It is impossible to estimate the extent of the damage as yet. The swarms from the prison light in the old cattle and sheep sheds on the fair grounds and all on the north side of the grounds were burned. They were mostly old dilapidated structures and the damage was slight.

A. G. Schuttlinger returned from a business trip to Chicago, and will be in the city on Monday.

P. H. Potts returned from Sault Ste. Marie yesterday, and gives a graphic account of the great real estate boom in the lake region.

Rev. D. E. Wells, of Minneapolis, occupied the pulpit at the First Wesleyan church on Sunday morning, and the children of the Sunday school gave a concert in the evening.

As the date of the city election draws near the question of the person to be selected for the position of mayor and alderman becomes more and more enigmatical. A number of names of prominent citizens have been suggested, and of whom we would not speak. A very strong feeling that politics should be eliminated from the canvass this year is daily gaining ground, and will very likely prove stronger in the future.

The names of Capt. W. G. Bronson, Samuel Mathews, George M. Seymour, E. W. O'Brien, David Tozer, Col. R. F. Hersey and others have been suggested for mayor.
