An Investigation of Grain Inspection Shows There is Considerable Too Much Politics in It.

Refusal of the Council by a Tie Vote to Reconsider the Eight-Hour Resolution.

Trouble at the Twenty-Fourth Street Sewer--The Police Commission at Work.

POLITICS AND GRAIN MIXED. Investigating the Inspection -- Too Much Politics in the Appointment. A rather interesting and amusing scene occurred at the chamber of commerce yesterday, and it was a scene which had a certainly unlooked-for ending. Two members of the state railway and warehouse commission had called the meeting for the purposes of an investigation. They were George L. Becker and John L. Gibbs, and a number of commission men signed a petition for an investigation. The commission as he is responsible for the grading at this alderman. point. Chief Inspector James was also present, but had nothing to say. The Minneapolis elevator and commission men spoke rather freely, and it was soon in evidence that the grading was norribly bungled up. Members of the chamber claimed the grading was not uniform to begin with, and that grades were mixed in such a manner

H. W. Pratt growled about the lack of uniformity. James Marshall said the grading was loosely done and as a conse-printed. The committee on fire departquence Minneapolis was losing her reputation as a market. William Pettit said the grade was falling below that of past years. They agreed that Inspector Clausen was a islature. For the new engine house on grain expert, and the trouble must be with the men under him. Mr. Miller was opposed to any change in the mode of inspection, unless other points changed also. Mr. Marshall drew a paper from his pocket, which, he said, was a petition for the removal of A. C. Clausen, signed by three-lourths of the members of the chamber. This led Mr. Miller to wonder why Mr. Clausen remained, especially as he had said he would never serve as a deputy under Chief Inspector James. Mr. Clausen denied this, and several warm words passed. In his de-fense Mr. Clausen said he had not had the o-operation of the members. It secured inally the decision that while Mr. Clausen was a good man, his men were not compe-ent and he could not handle them. A pause ensued, which was broken by a voice in the rear growling out:

"Too much politics in these appointments."
"That's so," affirmed C. H. Pettit, "If Charlie Pillsbury, Loren Fletcher and George Brackett would keep out of this, things would be different."
"I can vouch for Charlie Pillsbury having bis share in it," said James Marshall.

All of this set everybody to thinking, and some facts dawned on them. In the first place, A. C. Clausen has been in the wheat business for twenty years and is regarded as an expert. He is certainly competent to inspect and grade wheat. But the trouble is that the assistant grain inspectors, of whom there are five in Minneapolis, instead of being appointed by im, with sole regard to their qualifications, and then being held responsible to him, they really receive their appointments as change goes into effect on Monday, and political rewards and look upon themselves be awaited with considerable interest. is subject to the same powers as the head of the department and in a measure independent of him. Of course he has no congrol over them. A prominent commission man said yesterday that under the system of filling up these offices with political friends of three or four leading politicians,

It was suggested by Mr. Pratt at the conference that the deputy inspector should have full control over his men and change meet the assent of a majority of those present. Without arriving at any conclusion the conference was ended, but it is safe to say the suggestions thrown out about politics put a new face on the affair and will (or should) have its effect on the commission in making a decision.

LICENSE FOR TWO MONTHS. Saloonmen May Get the Privilege at Old Rates.

Just after the passage of the high license bill there was considerable discussion as to the license to be charged for the two months intervening between the expiration of the present $500 license and the time the new law goes into effect. The city license year begins on May 1, and the high license law takes effect on July 1, leaving two months of interregnum, the disposition of which had caused considerable doubt. A proposition had been made to permit those who put up their $1,000 in advance to run these two months without license, but that was decided illegal and given up. There has ilso been doubt whether a pro rata license could be issued for these two months, ander the law, but that was set at rest by an opinion given yesterday by City Attor-ney Smith. He has filed an opinion that antipathy to a certain patent heater in licenses may issue for the months of May and June on a $500 basis, by payment of one-sixth of that sum, or hat blank bonds can be obtained at his

Extension to Fiftieth Street Granted -- The Line to Fridley -- General

Council Proceedings. An ordinance was introduced yesterday in the council giving to the street railway company the right to operate a street railin Northwest Minneapolis, using animal, steam or other power. The new line is to commence on Second street northeast and run north to Twenty-seventh avenue, and thence east to Four-and-one-half street and thence northerly to the city The road must be in operation by Sept. 1, 1887, or the ordinance is void. The ordinance received one reading and went over under the rules. This line is the motor line to Fridley, which the GLOBE announced some time ago, but which the street railway authorities so strenuously denied. It will run directly to Fridley, and will be operated by steam above Twelth avenue northeast. At the same meeting an ordinance was adopted, giving to the motor company the right to extend its line to Washburn park. It has been stated that the intention of the motor management was to have run the line out Blaisdell avenue, but the ordinance sets this at rest, as it gives the right out Nicollet avenue, from the present terminus on Thirty-seventh street to Fiftieth street. The line must be completed and in operation by

If the same rule of reduction were made in the cases of foremen, bricklayers, stonemasons and teams, the wages would be as follows: Foremen and teams now getting $3.50 or 35 cents per hour, would receive $3.18 or 39 8-10 cents per hour; bricklayers, from $5 per day or 50 cents per hour, to $4.55 per day, or 56% cents per hour, and so on with all receiving higher wages than laborers. The engineer also asked instructions in regard to the trouble between the union and non-union men at work on the sewers, as he did not feel authorized to discriminate between them of his own motion.

The matter went to a committee. KICK AGAINST SLEEPER. James Fahey, secretary of the Bricklayers' union, protested against further permitting Mr. Sleeper to superintend the laying of sewer brick, claiming he is a machinist and has not had the experience necessary to a good brickmason. #### EIGHT-HOURS STAND. The Council Will Not Reconsider --

Lost by a Tie. Ald. Mills is not altogether satisfied with the eight-hour resolution, for which he voted in council a week ago. He has been thinking and talking it over, and, yesterday, he fired a bomb into the meeting by a motion to reconsider. The others, however, had not undergone the same change of heart. There were thirty-four aldermen present when the vote was taken, and a tie was the result, on which the motion was lost. This ties it up during this council. It is apprehended there may be some trouble when an adjustment of other wages is made, as suggested by Engineer Rinker. The resolution provides for only laborers, while the employes of the city includes day of ten hours. Under the same rule, all of them would work but eight hours, at an increase by the hour, but a radiation between the best hours are being made on the best hours. an increase by the hour, but a reduction by the day. ## UNION MEN IN SEWERS.

There is trouble at the sewer on Twentyfourth street. The parties to it are union and non-union men and they are quarreling over the superintendent, the foremen and the quality of the brick. The first cause of them whenever necessary. This was concurred in by Mr. Becker and seemed to in by the city engineer as inspector; the men say he is a good machinist, but knows nothing of brick laying. Then they object to a Wisconsin Scandinavian named Nelson, who was put in as foreman. They They also object to the size and quality of the Chaska and Wisconsin brick in use, and lastly there is a dispute between the union and non-union men employed. There was quite a warm time in council yesterday when Ald. McArdle proposed to give the committees on sewers, ways and means and salaries full charge of the matter with power to act, but this was refused and the committee will make a report at the next Music is expected, as several meeting. trades and labor assembly men are interested in the outcome and it is proposed to make a fight before council against the present system and also against non-unionists.

The Council Refuses to Investigate Engineer Scatten's Charges.

Aid. Dwyer is determined, if possible, to have an investigation of the fire department muddle, and other aldermen are equally determined against one, unless charges are officially preferred. Chief Stetson took no part in the recent newspaper controversy, but ex-Engineer Scallen and ex-Engineer Young have made quite a merry war. Scallen now maintains that he was dropped because of his which Stetson was interested, and Young says he is a no-such-thing. Ald. Dwyer made an effort in council yesterday to have City Clerk Cornman announces the matter taken up and investigated, but after quite a tempest of words the council office, and the saloon men had better at declined to open the old sore. Chief Stetson was an interested auditor during the discussion, but his impassive face gave no scense has been altogether dropped, but it sign, and when the vote was taken Ald. is agreed this sum will shut up many of the smaller beer saloons and will be gladly paid that said he was not conquered though de-

The Police Commission Arriving at Conclusions --- Detective Quinlan Resigns.

The police commission met yesterday afternoon and resumed the examination of the applications from the policemen for continuance on the force. There were no sounds of strife to be heard from without, but it is understood that the meeting was an exceedingly warm one, the mayor conbers of the force whom other members dethat the resignation of Detective Quinlan was submitted in which he said that he was led to his action by hearing that members of the commission had said publicly that they intended to remove him. The news of this created considerable comment in police circles last night. The detective is one of the most popular and competent of the force and has time and again given abundant evidence of both bravery and ability, besides possessing long experience which qualified him for work which but few could do. The commission is to meet again this even-ing, when the work of remodeling the force to as great an extent as the law will allow will be continued. Thus far those who are to be retained have been passed upon, and those who are objected to by members of the commission or who possess some physical disability reported by the police surgeon remain to undergo dissection.

Another Way to Do It. Another plan to settle the differences between the coopers and the millers, or rather to make arrangement whereby the latter to make arrangement whereby the latter can make living wages, is said to have been hit upon. An established price of 40 cents per barrel will be made, which will then the committees, to per barrel will be made, which will then allow 15 cents for making. ## ALL SORTS.

A great many people are wondering whether that was an intentional or accidental shot Dr. Shutter made at Gov. McGill at the anticoercion meeting Thursday night. The latter appreciated it and blushed considerably. It was very amusing to hear the governor say he was "Something of an Irisaman himself," when he told the Caledonian club, in January, he was "Something of a Scotchman himself."
The increase in the size of the city and of the number of aldermen has largely piled up work on the city officials and especially the city clerk. The committee on salaries might remember this when the time comes around. It is said there is an icy feeling of regard among members of the warehouse commission and that Messrs. Becker and Austin vote one way and Mr. Gibbs the other. There did not seem to be a Christian regard manifest yesterday.

The theory that a man to become a detective or a policeman should bring recommendations from a business college and a minister of the gospel is apparently going to be given a trial by the newly created police commission. It may possibly prove a wise step, but those who possess much knowledge of the character of the people with whom the authorities have to deal are of the opinion that it is a mistake.

The impression that Mayor Ames remained

THOMAS HOOD.

It is recorded that Mr. Hood died while composing a humorous poem. He is said to have remarked that he was dying out of charity to the undertaker, who wished "to win a lively Hood." A very thoughtful customer. That's when the undertaker is ahead. We have no use for that kind. We prefer the living, as then we can get more than one chance at them, besides, they seem to enjoy better health and appreciate the fine points of Ready-Made Clothing. Our Spring Over Garment appears best on a live man, and singularly enough the man himself appears better. We do not intend to neglect the short. stubby, men, but being a trifle under size ourselves, and sensitive, we rarely ever allude to them. Now that we have touched upon it we will say: There is no shape of a human body that we cannot fit.
