GRAND FORKS, Dak., June 16.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon a hurricane of unexampled fury came on the city from the west, accompanied with hail and darkness, leaving in its wake wrecked houses and business blocks, and tearing down the upper stories of the magnificent university of North Dakota. Mrs. James F. Kimball Skips Out With a Farm Hand. Special to the Globe. ROYALTON, Minn., June 16.—James F. Kimball and wife, of Fort Ripley, came to Royalton the first of last week to visit friends and relatives. Wednesday afternoon Mr. Kimball and Robert Muncy went up the Platte to see one of Mr. Muncy's brothers, Mrs. Kimball, and failed to find her. She had said that she would spend the afternoon at the house of friends in Royalton. On their return in the evening Mr. Kimball and Mr. Muncy stopped at Mrs. Kimball's, and failed to find her. In fact, they heard she had gone to St. Cloud on the afternoon train. Upon inquiry they found that she had taken the same train in a suspicious way. It was found that one Peter Rhodes, a farm hand who had been employed for a year by Mr. Kimball, had also taken the same train in a suspicious way. This was along in the evening about 6 or 7 o'clock. Mrs. Kimball failed to return on the evening train, and was being carried off by a man, who would soon return and fall to find their muskets, the other side having carried them off. Col. J. C. Hill and Steve Rhodes, a local hunter, were good spears. Rev. C. W. Lawson, of the M. E. church, spoke to the soldiers on the part of the citizens. His address was given as being near the depot, and started up near the camp and interrupted matters. Several others made short speeches. The soldiers all would have been glad to see the ladies, and making the woods ring. Our leading state officers neglected to even reply to the requests by the committee to have a shooting exercise, and that, too, just after a tedious ride from the Atlantic coast. His presence was very much appreciated. Gorham Park is being prepared for the winter. He could not but speak well of Judge MacDonald, however. It was a poor place to devote to a shooting exercise. The night last night was a good entertainment. Some good horse racing took place yesterday. A grand banquet was given by the citizens today. There was a table for over 300 to eat at once; the soldiers first and then everybody ate their full of the good things provided by the citizens today. The encampment of this regiment will be held at Granite Falls next year. The veterans will depart to-night for their homes, and their families, tired and exceedingly happy and pleased with the reception given them by our citizens.

MONTVÉDÉO, Minn., June 16.—The encampment broke up to-night. It was a grand success throughout. The soldiers present, about 300, seemed only to want to visit and enjoy themselves. Such a hurrah never was in Montevideo. From 4,000 to 5,000 were in attendance. The program consisted of a series of less round of amusement. Sham battles and skirmishes were frequent. The cannon was captured over a dozen times, and men being carried off by the hand, who would soon return and fall to find their muskets, the other side having carried them off. Col. J. C. Hill and Steve Rhodes, a local hunter, were good spears. Rev. C. W. Lawson, of the M. E. church, spoke to the soldiers on the part of the citizens.
