THE WORST ON RECORD. A Divorce Complaint That Exhibits Depravity Unspeakable. The papers in what promises to be one of the most sensational cases ever heard in Hennepin county were filed yesterday, and if the allegations set forth in the complaint be true there is int in the companies the the the the third in the material in it for one of the most thrilling dramas ever written. But whether the moral tone would suit the public is another matter. The case is an action in divorce brought by John action in divorce prought by John Krebs, a young man of twenty-three, against Laura-Krebs, aged eighteen. Young Krebs is employed at the glass works, his father having an inter-est in the business, and is con-sidered by his friends as a fortunate in-dividual, as his father is worth consid-erable money and other property. The dividual, as his father is worth considerable money and other property. The story he tells in his complaint is horrible and wonderful, and portrays in glowing colors to what depths human depravity can descend. He says that he married Laura in this city Dec. 20, 1886, and lived with her until April 19, 1887, when a peculiar colored child was been to her. After this statement the born to her. After this statement the born to her. After this statement the complaint grows decidedly interesting, and in substance is as follows. He first met the girl who is now Mrs. Krebs during the summer of 1886, and the two became very much attached to each other. At least Krebs became infatuated with the girl and the two gray decidedly inthe girl, and the two grew decidedly in-timate. The morning of Dec. 20, when Krebs was visiting the girl, she sent for one O'Ganne to come to the house. He came and after a consultation with Laura called John aside and informed him that the girl was in a delicate con dition, and demanded that he pay her a sum of money or marry Laura then came to him corroborated O'Ganne's statement that she was in trouble, and told John that the best thing he could do would be to marry her or else give her a large amount of money. ne could do would be to marry her or else give her a large amount of money. Later in the day a man named Homer approached him, and after a short talk said that he (John) must either marry the girl, pay her $5,000, or be arrested for bastardy. Krebs refused to do any of these things, and asked for time in which to consider the matter. This was denied him, and in the evening he was taken by Homer and a man whom he was taken by Homer and a man whom he did not know to the office of George S. Grimes, a justice of the peace. Here Homer produced a marriage license which he claimed Laura had procured. After threats of arrest and exposure Kribs, who says he was inexperienced Kribs, who says he was inexperienced in the ways of women and the world, consented to have the ceremony performed, as he supposed he had really wronged the girl and wanted to make amends to the best of his ability. He now alleges that before reaching Grimes' office, being nearly crazy from trouble, he took several big drinks of liquor, which made him drunk and increasing of energing in a marriage.

pable of entering into a marriage atract. He admits that some sort of ceremony was performed at office, but denies that he the office, but denies that he knew it was the marriage ceremony. Up to April 19, when the baby was born, he supposed that he was the father of it, as he had been intimate with her on Oct. 10, 1886, and Laura had assured him time and time again that she had never done wrong with any one except him. But when the child, a well-develated the product of the product of the product of the marriage of oped, ten-pound infant, was born he knew that its paternity could not be laid at his door. So, after a stormy scene, he left his wife and her child. Soon after Krebs married Laura she said she wanted to board, and he let her pick out her own place. He came home but once or twice a week, as he was working at the glass works, a long distance from the boarding house his wife had selected. After one or two visits to the house he found that the place was really a resort for lewd women—a house of prostitution. Thinking that his wife had simply made a mistake in regard to had simply made a mistake in regard to the character of the place, he took her to the home of his sister, where she re-mained until her baby was born. As soon as Krebs found that he was not the father of the child his wife had given birth to and left her, she placed the baby in the foundlings' home and went so Stillwater, where, he alleges, she has been living in adulterous intercourse with Homer, O'Ganne, one Fitzgerald and a half-breed Indian. He also charges that prior to her marriage she was a common prostitute. In closing his complaint Krebs charges that O'Ganne and Homer entered into a conspiracy to compel him to marry the girl or else bleed him for several thousand dollars, as they knew his father was rich and would spend a

A Special Committee Will Report Whether the Company or Council is On Top.

Under the New Regime, the Saloons Pay High and Can Run All Night Long.

The Fight Over Lighting the City---Building Inspector's Report---General Council Matters.

Ald. Mills offered two sets of resolutions in council yesterday referring to the street railway company that created quite a breeze. The first one declares that the council is master of the situation and has the authority to regulate the street car service. proceeds to say that as the company has declared the council has no right to insist on one fare for a ride, except on a continuous line, that the following be declared continuous lines: From the suspension bridge along Hennepin ave nue to Washington, thence to First ave nue south, thence to Thirteenth street thence to Nicollet avenue, thence to Lake Harriet or Minnehaha Falls; suspension bridge along Hennepin to Washington, to First avenue south, to Sixth street, to Fourth avenue south, to Washington avenue, to Eighth avenue south, to Seventh street, and thence down Seventh or out Eighth av thence down Seventh or out Eighth avenue as the passenger may elect; or, any line along said railway track by which a passenger can go to any portion of the city, so long as the same line is not used twice, any two points on the motor line, not distant over three miles. And the fare is to be 5 cents for a single ride over any of the continuous lines so designated. The resolution concludes with a request to the public to deposit no fares in xes or inclined planes and if the company does not furnish transfer tickets, to transfer themselves and let the company bear the brunt.

The other resolution calls for the appointment of a special committee of five to ascertain the rights of the city at the hands of the street railway company, in so far as they are not subordinate to the power of said company; and the compittee is expecially increased.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Council got into its first snarl, yesterday, over the proposition to pay $21.96 to Dr. Horan, as sidewalk inspector, for keeping a horse. Practical experience taught Aid. Downs one-half that sum was all that was necessary, but his mowas all that was necessary, but his mo-tion to reduce one-half was defeated and the full amount allowed. The regular budget of bills, aggregating $234,412.47, was allowed and ordered paid.

was allowed and ordered paid.

It was hoped the council would escape the impending gas light war, but the first thing under unfinished business brought it up and the fun began. Ald. Gibson had several burners on hand and explained their merits and demerits in a plea for the pattern of the Sun Vapor company. Other aldermen were for the Wheeler reflector and still others for the Globe light. After a half hour's wrangle, it was partially agreed to divide favors and the Wheeler company was cut down from 1,000 to 500. But before any further progress could be made fore any further progress could be made the affair became so snarled that it was referred to the committee to be straightened out and council adjourned.

THE H. & D. TRACKS.

Two Propositions to Lower Them-What it Would Cost,

Negotiations are still pending looking to the lowering of the tracks of the Hastings & Dakota road and bridging at the several street crossings. The at the several street crossings. The Milwaukee company has submitted a proposition, to which the railroad committee of the council has submitted an amendment, where the matter rests. The railway company proposes to devide the total expense with the city in such way that the city's proportion shall be to the company's portion as 21 to 19: and the committee proposes the company shall pay all of the grading and shall reduce the cut so as to leave about eighteen feet of head room between the surface of the rails and the bottom of the bridges. It is estimated that to make the cut for the ordinary thirty-foot-roadway will require the removal of 400,000 cubic yards of foot-roadway will require the removal of 400,000 cubic yards of earth, and will cost about $100,000. To earth, and will cost about $100,000. To make the cuts for side-tracks, etc., will cost some $30,000. Under the proposition, the city's share of this cost will be about $50,000. About forty bridges will be required, and City Engineer Rinker is of the opinion they could be suitably constructed for an average of $9,000. This would make the total cost of the proposed improvement, from Fort avenue to a point 1,600 feet west of Hennepin avenue, about $500,000.

nue to a point 1,600 feet west of Henne-pin avenue, about $500,000.

There is a decided public sentiment in favor of this improvement, which, however expensive it may be, is sure to come at some time. St. Paul has paid nearly that sum for a bridge, and this is of universally greater importance than a of universally greater importance than a single bridge. The bulk of the Eighth ward and all of the Twelfth and Thirteenth wards lie outside of these tracks, and there is an urgent demand for the lowering of the grade.

THE LICENSE ORDINANCE. A Claim of Illegality---Changes It Will Make.

Council yesterday tackled the license ordinance, the machinery putting in operation the high license law. The ordinance follows the prescribed form. and went slowly through until the amount was reached. Ald. Cloutier wanted the sum of $1,000 stricken out, wanted the sum of $1,000 stricken out, and the words "minimum amount allowed by law" inserted. Ald. Dwyer moved to insert $10,000, and accompanied it with a speech. He was opposed to high license, he said, and as $10,000 would be practical prohibition, he preferred it to high license. The latter was designed to shut out the poor men and give the rich a monopoly; $10,000 license would shut them all out and treat them all alike. Both amendments were lost, and the ordinance was read through. About the only change from the old ordinance is the change of hours. Here-tofore the saloons were required to close at midnight, but now may remain open all night. When the ordinance was put all night. When the ordinance was put upon its passage, to the surprise of many, it was lost by a vote of 14 to 18. Ald. Mills moved a reconsideration and it was carried by a vote of 16 to 15, but Ald. Downs raised the point that as a less number was present, a reconsidera-tion could not be had, Ald. Coolley hav-ing left the chamber in the meantime. The chair ruled that at the same meeting, when a member leaves without permission, his absence should not affect the result, and the reconsideration was carried. The ordinence was then passed by the following vote:

Aye—Barrows, Clough, Cloutier. Ezwing Garrey, Gibson, Gleason, Hanscom, L'Herault, Morse, Muldoon, Noerenberg, Oswald, Phillips, Staft, Tingley, Vogt and Mr. President—18. dent—18.

Nay—Clark, Downs, Dwyer, Gilman, Johnsson, J. L. Lawrence, McArdle, Mills. Nichtsolls, Nichols, Parker, Reeves and Stoneman—13.

Ald. Lawrence gave notice that he would protest the legality of the vote by which the ordinance was reconsidered.

WILL HAVE THE HOSPITAL. The Council, After a Sharp Fight, Establishes It.

The matter of establishing a city hospital at the house of the Sisters of Mercy caused a long-winded argument in council. The special committee reported in its favor and offered a resolu tion directing the committees on health and hospitals to at once prepare it. Ald. Downs did not believe in haste in this Downs did not believe in laste in this question and questioned the sufficient size of the proposed building; in response to which Ald. Gibson submitted figures to show the contrary. Ald. Coolley wanted the Northwestern hospital designated as an annex, to be used exclusively for women and children. Ald. McArdle wanted the proviso inserted that no were then regular rates. Ald. McArdle wanted the proviso inserted that no more than regular rates should be charged. An acrimonious discussion ensued, in which Ald. Clark charged the pro-hospital members with getting up a scheme for their personal benefit and Ald. L'Herault retorted the opposition was in a scheme to prevent the cheap service of a hospital for some personal end. The amendments were voted down and the discussion resumed, Ald. Clough favored the plan as something this city had long needed. When the final vote was had there were but three yeas. The parliamentary clinch was put on by tabling a motion to reconsider, and the matter was definitely settled.

TIDINGS.

"How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings." The beauty of the messenger depends on the character of his message. Sheridan upon his foaming steed riding from Winchester was great in the mighty tidings he bore to the tide of battle, and now rider, horse and victory are inseparable in memory and history. Lincoln's calm face becomes resplendent with tidings as emancipated millions clasp his honored feet. How beautiful were the feet of the Frost King as he came noiselessly down from the North with tidings of health to the scourge-stricken city of Memphis. Every morning from across the azure depths upon flying feet a myriad of sunny messengers are sent to tint the waiting meadows and wake the woodland melodies. The UTK bears good tidings to you, good friend. We give you your choice out of six different styles of Suits at
