

WILL ALL TURN OUT.

The League Proclamation Debate Will Call Out All Liberals and Tories.

Mr. Gladstone Expected to Speak Briefly, But Pointedly on the Move.

Considerable Curiosity Over the Position Mr. Chamberlain Will Take.

The Conservative Government Will Probably Be Sustained by Usual Majority.

By Cable to the Globe.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Not only will all the Tories be on hand for Thursday's debate on the league proclamation, but the Liberals will turn out in full force also.

Urgent whips have been issued by both parties. There is an eager interest shown in the expected proceedings, and already most of the available room for members and spectators has been secured.

Mr. Gladstone is expected to make an interesting, if not important speech, and there is some curiosity to hear what Mr. Chamberlain will say.

His speech last night at Birmingham is not regarded as committing him to support the Tories, though he left no doubt that he voted against them on the whole, and would certainly not go over to the Gladstonian ranks.

It is suspected that he will assume an independent position in the debate and give the government some hard knocks. He is now in about the same position as when he branched off from the Liberals originally.

He is a party ally by himself, a minority of Tories, and, except for his remarkable faculty for making bitter speeches, is not a very formidable quality in political affairs. He is of the fate which attended the opportunity of the government cannot probably count on the full support of the Tories, and, except for his remarkable faculty for making bitter speeches, is not a very formidable quality in political affairs. He is

CHAMBERLAIN AN ENIGMA.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The news says: "Mr. Chamberlain must now choose whether he will become a Liberal or join the ranks of the coercionists. We will rejoice to see him moving in the right direction." The Post, however, says that Chamberlain's views and those of the government as possessing an academic and not a practical character.

"His late speech," says the Post, "is a masterpiece of the kind which sets the ridiculous supposition that he intends to secede from the Unionists."

The Times says: "Mr. Chamberlain's speech in regard to the league proclamation is a masterpiece of the kind which sets the ridiculous supposition that he intends to secede from the Unionists."

NOT SERIOUS.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The proposal of Russia to Turkey to jointly occupy Eastern Bulgaria and Roumelia is not regarded here as meant to be taken seriously. It is believed to be a feeler thrown out for the purpose of testing the consensus of opinion among the advisers of the cabinet upon paying no heed to the suggestion.

No action of the kind suggested would be taken until all other means of ousting Ferdinand had been exhausted. English views are not expected to be of any great weight, and there is already a feeling of resentment noticeable among English commentators on the subject.

HAD A PRETTY NAME.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 21.—The proposal of Russia to Turkey to jointly occupy Eastern Bulgaria and Roumelia is not regarded here as meant to be taken seriously. It is believed to be a feeler thrown out for the purpose of testing the consensus of opinion among the advisers of the cabinet upon paying no heed to the suggestion.

AN UNFORTUNATE REMARK.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Mr. Healey's language at Hawick last night, to the effect that the league will be more dangerous now than before, has been severely criticized by the friends of the Liberal cause. Mr. Healey went distinctly beyond Mr. Parnell's sufficiently defiant ground, and, besides being imprudent, his remark was unnecessary, as everybody recognizes now that coercion is sure to be a thing of short life, not worth getting revolutionary about.

LIPSKI CONFESSES.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Lipski, the Hebrew who was sentenced to death for murdering a woman and was reprieved, has confessed his guilt. His motive was robbery.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA SHAKE.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 21.—At a banquet given by the merchants of Nizhny Novgorod to M. Deroude, ex-president of the French Patriotic League, the governor proposed the health of the French Patriotic League and numerous speeches
