

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

How Prices for Grain and Provisions Ranged Yesterday.

Special to the Globe. Chicago, Nov. 5.—Wheat opened dull and steady at about yesterday's closing prices. Corn for near-by delivery was a shade easier, but the deferred futures were firm. Provisions were selling at somewhat better figures. Foreign news was unexciting, and local features at the start were the same as yesterday. The wheat market was practically at a stand still to-day, and changes in prices were insignificant and business light. Very light; it was, in fact, a phenomenally dull day. The members, as a rule, were too busy discussing the proposition to reduce commissions to talk about any other branch of business. Public cables indicated no change in the foreign situation, but private cables were generally weak, and one leading exporter received a cabled opinion from the English house that business hereafter would be done on a basis of lower values. Receipts in the Northwest continue to be liberal and beyond the anticipations of the most bearish. Minneapolis parties who enjoy first rate reputations for truthfulness are advising their Chicago correspondents on change that agents of the Chicago elevator clique are buying large quantities of wheat in the Northwest that will grade No. 2 on a basis of 7 1/2% on track here. That cannot be construed as a bull point and may be accepted as corroborative of the claim that there is more wheat in that country than shown by estimates. Nevertheless the situation cannot be described as weak. Strong parties are looking favorably on wheat as an investment at current prices. The light stocks render the local market peculiarly liable to sudden flurries on the long side. Fluctuations to-day were within 1/2% of 1/4c limits, and the closing range is not widely different from yesterday. Corn ruled dull and heavy. It was even weaker. Hutchinson was reported to be a moderate seller and the market dropped. The loss on the day was 1/2c. Provisions displayed some life. Trading was quite up to the average and was for both local and outside account. Estimated receipts Monday are 185 cars of wheat, 285 cars of corn, 21 cars of oats and 30,000 hogs. Lake engagements were reported to-day for 94,000 bushels of wheat, 83,000 bushels of corn and 28,000 bushels of oats. Rates 2 1/2c, 3 1/2c.

New York Quarantine. New York, Nov. 5.—Mayor Hewitt has written to Dr. W. M. Smith, health officer of this port, calling his attention to the criticisms made by the committee of the College of Physicians, of Philadelphia, on the management and arrangement of the quarantine station here, and suggesting that the defects be remedied. The mayor says that if a lack of money stands in the way of making needed changes and improvements he will undertake, by an appeal to his fellow-citizens, to raise any reasonable sum by voluntary subscriptions for the purpose of protecting the city from the danger of an invasion from the cholera.

Not Enough to Eat. NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Sig. Raffae, Italian consul general, has written to President Bayles, of the health board, asking him to relieve the Italian emigrants now at quarantine from the neglect of the attendants. He declares that the passengers of the Alesia and Britannia have not sufficient to eat nor enough bed clothing to keep them warm at night. The communication was referred to the quarantine commissioners.

She Pooled Him. BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Miss Fannie Stevens, an actress playing here in a comedy company, has been sued by Edmond J. Levy, a young man belonging in New York, for breach of promise of marriage.

LOCAL MENTION. Furniture. Carpets, stoves, etc., at lowest prices, either cash or on the installment plan, at Benedict's, 176 West Seventh street.

A Change. There is perhaps no better known maker of men's garments in St. Paul than Jacob Mathes, who moved the other day from the corner of Sixth and Jackson to the elegant new building adjoining the Bank of Minnesota. The new quarters are light and pleasant, and the large, fresh stock of pieces goods on the table, comprising the latest and most fashionable patterns, show to good advantage. Mr. Mathes was formerly at the head of the old house of Mathes, Good & Schurmeier, which gained a wide reputation throughout the North-west. Mr. Mathes is assisted by his son, a popular young man of considerable experience in the mercantile tailoring business.

In Years Gone By. People would have been glad to pay five times the present prices for canned fruit, could it have been obtained as it is put up now. But they could not get it at any price, for no one knew the art of canning by the perfect process employed to-day. It is possible now to keep in store throughout the winter fruits and vegetables, that when opened are in every respect in as good condition as when first canned. Get your supply now, of Michael Bros., wholesale and retail grocers, Seventh and Wabasha.
