

FOR THE COLORED FOLKS.

After a Hard Struggle the St. James A. M. E. Church Is Completed.

TO BE DEDICATED TO-DAY.

Church Members Who Were Compelled to Leave in the Midst of a Prayer.

The members of the St. James A. M. E. church, after a hard struggle for twelve years, have now a handsome new church, which will be dedicated to-day. In 1875 Rev. Mr. Nease organized a class of three persons besides himself, Daniel Harding, Hamilton Giles and Anna Moffat, and called it a society. Mr. Nease was succeeded by Revs. Marley, Lee, Simons, Brown and Asbury. The congregation steadily increased, but no effort was made to buy property until Rev. Knight came, and he resolved at once to build a church. Though greatly hindered he succeeded in purchasing a lot, corner of Jay and Fuller streets, on which was moved an old Jewish synagogue at a cost of $600, which was then known as the Methodist church. Rev. Jacobs, who came next, increased the congregation to such an extent that this building became too small for their needs and a plan was proposed to remodel and enlarge it. An architect was employed and $3,500 was raised. About this time Rev. J. M. Henderson was appointed here and took charge of the matter on a larger scale. $5,000 was needed and $3,000 was secured on a loan for five years. Soon $1,700 of the balance had been raised, and with the exception of $200, this was collected from individuals whose gifts would average about 55 cents, showing the great labor and energy required. Only $500 are now needed, and the pastor and people fully expected to raise it yesterday.

ST. JAMES' A. M. E. CHURCH.

The church is a handsome frame, 75x38, being in the form of a cross. The architecture is of Gothic design. The auditorium is finished in natural wood and open timbered roof. The building is heated by a furnace and has three exits. The walls are prettily decorated and frescoed in stenciled work. The same style of architecture is carried out in the seating and pulpit. It is thought that a tower or a spire will be added at no distant day.

FROM SLANDER BEGINS.

The first colored church in America was founded in Philadelphia in 1786, by Rt. Rev. Richard Allen, Rev. Absalom Jones, William White and Dorus Ginnel, after great opposition from the elders stationed in the city, and several of his colleagues. The four above mentioned, during this time, were attending St. Andrew's church on Fourth street, and were soon followed by many of their brethren. When they began to get numerous they were moved from their seats in the church to a room across the walls, and on the Sabbath following were told to go into the gallery. The meeting had begun, and just as they reached their seats the congregation fell on their knees to pray. Their colored brethren in the gallery did likewise, but were immediately told by the trustees that they must not kneel there, if they didn't get up peacefully he would call assistance and force them to do so. They never attended the church again, but hired a store room in which to worship. They were pursued with threats of being disowned, but paid no attention to them. Getting out subscription papers they waited first on Dr. Rash and Robert Ralston, who gave liberally, and also instructed them how to proceed. They were the first gentlemen to resign the cause of the oppressed and aided in building the house for the poor Africans to worship in. Here was the beginning and rise of the first African church in America. The members of the Methodist church still pursued them. They were told to ERASE THEIR NAMES from the subscription paper or they would be publicly turned out of meeting. It was the charge of the congregation, but they refused because they contended that they had violated the law of discipline of the Methodist church. Again they were called upon by this rabble, and every conceivable argument used to convince them that they were wrong in building a church. Arguments were useless, and the subscription paper met with great success. They at once decided upon lot and purchased it, on Fifth street. The day was appointed to dig the cellar, and Rev. Allen and a son of Capt. Daniels, being a thorough Methodist, refused to become minister and, refitting an old building, founded a Methodist church, but owing to the opposition of the elder they were obliged to pay $200 for five sermons a year. Declining to pay this money any longer, they were disowned by the Methodists in a circular letter sent out by John Emory, the elder. They tried in every way to take charge of Allen's pulpit, but it was no use, and the new church was organized, and writ of mandamus to see why the pulpit was denied him. The suit ended in Allen's favor. A short time after this all the churches became one under the name of the African Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. Allen and his friends were delivered from a long and distressing battle.

The Postal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—According to the report of Daniel McConville, auditor of the postoffice department, the aggregate receipts were $18,837,650, the chief sources of which were: Postage stamps, stamped envelopes, wrappers and postal cards, $45,670,983; box rents and branch offices, $2,158,499; revenue from money order business, $719,353. The aggregate expenditures were $22,321,677, the principal items of which are the following: Compensation of postmasters, $11,929,481; compensation of clerks for postoffices, $8,285,312; compensation of letter carriers and incidentals, $1,618,882; inland mail railroad transportation, $14,707,251; inland mail, star routes, $3,118,649; transportation of postal cars, $1,715,391; compensation of railway postoffice clerks, $1,606,381; excess of expenditures over all receipts, $3,483,927. The excess of expenditures over all revenues in 1886 was $6,679,130. The same for the year 1885 was $6,776,744. The total number of money orders issued during the fiscal year was 9,232,177, aggregating $117,462,600. The number of postal notes issued was 6,797,552, amounting to $17,708,324. The number of foreign money orders issued was 615,405, amounting to $9,063,750. The number of domestic money orders paid was 2,133,562, amounting to $116,463,234. The number of postal notes paid was 6,294,453, amounting to $11,572,081. The number of foreign orders paid was 222,122, amounting to $4,018,703.

ROSECRANS' REPORT.

What the Register of the Treasury Has to Say.—WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Register Roscerans submitted his annual report to the secretary of the treasury to-day. He presents a number of tables showing the financial operations of the treasury, and suggests several changes in the present methods of bookkeeping in the department. The total amount of registered bonds outstanding is stated at $88,493,312, of which $22,454,450 are held by the treasurer in trust for national banks; $670,076,062 are in the hands of domestic holders, and $1,001,882 or 1.25 per cent of the entire amount are held by foreigners. The register recommends the establishment of a division of balances for the purpose of keeping a record of balances in final accounts with all persons having financial dealings with the government. He calls attention to the fact that the absence of individual accounts with distributing officers of the army and navy very largely increases the possibility of such losses as these by Paymaster Hodge and Capt. Howgate, etc., and recommends that personal accounts be required to be opened and kept on the books of the register's office. He also calls attention to the immense and increasing receipts and expenditures of the postoffice department and the fact that the supervision of the receipts and expenditures of $100,000,000 is laid upon a single auditor, and says that of all the fifty odd millions of dollars collected for postage and paid out to defray the expenses of the postal service, there is no warrant in history. The report suggests that this department from the general receipts and expenditures be separated into and paid out of the treasury to be warranted, is anomalous and ought to be remedied.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

Caused by the Shocking Depredations of Mexican Bandits.—BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 5.—A reign of terror exists in the up-river border counties between Edinburg and Roma, the result of the shocking depredations of Mexican bandits. Since the abduction of Santa Barbara, whose friends had to pay $1,500 ransom, almost every merchant has received threatening letters ordering payment of heavy sums on penalty of abduction and torture. The wealthy never travel without a heavy guard. The border sheriffs, who are poorly paid, are doing what they can with their deputies to hunt the robbers down, and a small force of rangers has been sent by Gov. Ross to Rio Grande City, but it is feared that the whole force is not strong enough to round the bandits up in such a long extent of wild bottom country. District Judge J. C. Russell, who is a large ranch owner in Starr county, acknowledged that the civil authorities were unable to cope with the matter. In the meantime the bandits are continuing their work. On Monday at high noon they entered the Hidalgo county, a place of about 500 inhabitants, surrounded the store of Magdelino Flores, drove the occupants out, and robbed the place of every cent of money they could get. They then tore off the doors, smashed the windows, and threatened to return and sack and burn every house in the place. The band numbered twenty-one men, and was accompanied by a large number of mules and pack animals. They sacked the place, abusing and outraging the people. They were pursued by Mexican cavalry, under Capt. Lamadrid, and Piasuelas, a leader, and another bandit was captured. Piasuelas was executed at Camargo yesterday morning, and the other bandits fled. The first colored church in America has at his command all the men that he wants, and gets a step in the ranks for every bandit that President Diaz has ordered the severest measures be used to put down banditage on the border, and Gen. Velain, in command of this military district, is anxious to cooperate with the American authorities and drive out and eliminate these pests.

Only a Flesh Wound.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—A special from Brazil, Ind., says a highly sensational shooting affair occurred there about 7 o'clock this morning, but fortunately without serious results. The parties were Hon. George A. Knight and David Kahn. The latter, a young man, had been paying attention to the daughter of one of Mr. Knight's daughters. This morning he was in the store room in which to worship. They were pursued with threats of being disowned, but paid no attention to them. Getting out subscription papers they waited first on Dr. Rash and Robert Ralston, who gave liberally, and also instructed them how to proceed. They were the first gentlemen to resign the cause of the oppressed and aided in building the house for the poor Africans to worship in. Here was the beginning and rise of the first African church in America. The members of the Methodist church still pursued them. They were told to ERASE THEIR NAMES from the subscription paper or they would be publicly turned out of meeting. It was the charge of the congregation, but they refused because they contended that they had violated the law of discipline of the Methodist church. Again they were called upon by this rabble, and every conceivable argument used to convince them that they were wrong in building a church. Arguments were useless, and the subscription paper met with great success. They at once decided upon lot and purchased it, on Fifth street. The day was appointed to dig the cellar, and Rev. The suit ended in Allen's favor. A short time after this all the churches became one under the name of the African Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. Allen and his friends were delivered from a long and distressing battle.

Had Presence of Mind.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. ELMIRA, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Gov. Hill addressed a large mass meeting of Democrats in the Opera house to-night. Just as he began speaking there was a loud crash in the building, as a portion of the gallery gave way. The people all jumped to their feet and started into a wild panic. Ladies fainted, and men commenced fighting for a chance to escape from the upper gallery. From 100 to 200 men were piled up in front of the main exit, and for a moment or two a wild panic prevailed. For one brief second the governor seemed appalled at the danger which threatened the audience, but he stepped quickly to the front of the stage and attempted to reassure the frightened people. He could not make himself heard, and seeing this he made a signal to the band to play. This had the desired effect and the audience was soon quieted.

Twelve Lives Lost.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 5.—A distressing accident, by which twelve or more persons lost their lives, happened in Pasquotank sound, North Carolina, Thursday night. The schooner Ocean Bird, capt. Daniel, with passengers from Nag's Head and Manteo, N. C., was latter port for Elizabeth. The vessel failed to reach her destination yesterday, and searching parties were directed, one of which found an upturned boat of the schooner adrift in the sound. From the condition of the boat it is thought the schooner was captured by squall and immediately sank, and that all on board perished. Besides Capt. Daniels and the crew there are known to have been on the vessel as passengers E. C. Howe, a school teacher of Elizabeth City; H. A. Hendricks, a painter of Nag's Head; Walter Midgett, capt. of the schooner; and a son of Capt. Daniels. Relief parties are out searching for the missing vessel and any survivors.

No Danger Feared.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 5.—Comptroller White, of the mounted police, stated this afternoon that the authorities feel no alarm at the movements of the Crow Indians in Montana and the force of mounted police on the Dominion side in the states, and there was not the slightest occasion to fear that there would be any corresponding warlike movement on the part of the former.

The New York Printers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Typothetae and Typographical Union No. 6 have locked horns on the question of "rating" one of the offices in which the men recently struck. The Typothetae having taken issue on the question, the union may again order all hands and precipitate a bigger strike than the recent one. A meeting will be held in Grand Central hall to-morrow, when the matter will be discussed and some action taken.

COUNTERFEIT COINS.

The Country About Duluth Flooded With Bogus Money.

CONFIDING INDIANS VICTIMS.

The Washburn Elevator Trouble—The Linsseed Oil Trust—General Duluth News.

Special to the Globe. DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 5.—Deputy United States Marshal Brackett was in the city to-day upon a rather different errand than usual. The pine men, iron men and blind pig men can rest easy. These are not wanted this trip. The fact is that for some time past a gang of counterfeiters have been operating in the northern part of the state, and by the time the readers of the Globe read Sunday's edition for breakfast some of the offenders will be caged. The gang which have been operating here are shrewd and are not counterfeiters themselves, but a set of dangerous villains, who put money into circulation. The base coins are so well made that bank officials have been deceived, and they have been received as legal tender by bankers and gamblers, churches and saloons. The only pronounced difference between the counterfeit and genuine dollar is a difference in weight, the spurious being somewhat lighter. The lighter of the two is the millimeter perfect. This is not the first time that counterfeiters have selected St. Louis as the scene of operations. One gang operated successfully some time ago, and escaped immediate detection and arrest. Their scheme was well worked, and a crucial moment. The facts are as follows: When the Vermilion country first sprang into prominence in the spring of 1883, just before the ice broke up, a gang of these villains went up to Tower, where they pretended that they were land hunters, and they were very guarded in their actions while in the village, but during the summer the secret of their visit became known to nearly every settler from Tower to Lake of the Woods. These men traveled among the Indians by way of Fort Francis to Hat Point, and bought up all the fur that they could find, paying the highest prices for it, and always in silver money. The story is that all spurious and counterfeit money was well concealed and boldly carried out. The Indians in many cases were not losers, as they passed the money to other traders, but to-day many a lead dollar can be seen hung around an Indian's neck by a string, and worn simply as an ornament.

NEW YORK ELECTION.

All the Contestants Hoping for a Victory. Special to the Globe. NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—All the political parties applied the closing touches to the campaign in this county to-night. Meetings of all political parties were held and addresses made by prominent local operators at different points throughout the city. There was no lack of enthusiasm apparent at any of the meetings, and all parties are apparently anxious to elect their candidates on Tuesday. Among the more conservative, however, the opinion is generally that the Republican state ticket will be successful in the election. There is a very little interest being taken in the state election. The local contest has been a hot one as far as the district attorney is concerned. Capt. Fellows is sanguine of election, as are all his adherents, and his sympathizers are fully as sanguine of carrying the election. The betting late to-night was in favor of the Democrats. The story was readily taken by the Nicollet men.

THIS IS A DANDY.

A United States War Vessel Knocked Out By a Schooner. Special to the Globe. NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—It is now learned that the United States sloop of war Portsmouth received her injuries by having been run into by a schooner. The Portsmouth, while sailing down the lower bay in ship channel yesterday afternoon, close hauled on the windward tack, was run into by the schooner on the port side and raked clean to the stern. Three of the boats of the Portsmouth, the main topmast and the foremast, were carried away. The vessel also received other injuries. The schooner is supposed to be the Loring of New York, owned by the New York Bedford. She kept right on her way. Her fore topmast was carried away.

Fatal Horse Play.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Last night Charles Boulden and William Dunson, both colored, met in a saloon and engaged in a friendly scuffle over a revolver. The revolver was loaded, and Boulden had thrust the weapon between his knees to prevent his antagonist from getting it from him. Caught in the Gate.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., Nov. 5.—The United States school ship Portsmouth passed in at 7:30 o'clock this morning between the Mark Lane Coal exchange and a heavy wheat importer, Messrs. Chantvoit and Maurel, who are wealthy young Frenchmen traveling for information and pleasure. Mr. Rey said business was dull upon the other side. He was making a tour of the principal primary wheat points with a view of arranging for direct purchases, and also the necessity of dealing with New York middle men. Mr. Rey went from here to Minneapolis and thence to Milwaukee, St. Louis and Chicago.

The French Scandal.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The report of the committee appointed to inquire into the Cafare scandal was discussed in the chamber of deputies to-day. M. Baudry d'Asson declared that it was not a demand for an inquiry but for the prosecution of M. Wilson, which should be submitted to the chamber, the abuses in connection with seals and stamps being punishable by from six months to three years' imprisonment. He asked M. Rouvier, the prime minister, to explain the case of M. Wilson. M. Rouvier in reply said that all the documents had been placed in the hands of the minister of justice. The discussion was general, and closed amid great excitement. M. Colfavru moved that the inquiry be general, and that it extend back as far as May, 1887, so as to include the time of the arrest of the De Broglie ministry. M. Rouvier answering M. d'Ornano, denied that the politicians had leveled the scandals against President Grevy. Applause from the center and murmurs from the extreme left. Nobody thought of accusing the cabinet of interfering with the freedom of the judicial power. The magistracy was almost suspicious. He was not possessed of the details regarding the sale of decorations. Other facts were undeniable, but they did not prove the necessity for an inquiry. (Continued.) The president's acts were always indorsed by a minister; therefore the ministers were responsible for all such matters. Interpellations could be addressed to them on matters for which they were responsible, but questions beyond the province of parliament are retained for the consideration of the judicial power. On these grounds he was opposed to an inquiry. He admitted the justice of the feeling which inspired the chamber, but thought it was better to let matters take their natural course. A great uproar followed the conclusion of M. Rouvier's speech. When ordered to stand, M. Colfavru spoke in opposition. The motion was carried by a vote of 294 to 257. M. Jollibois explained that the right, though in favor of an inquiry, opposed M. Colfavru's motion because they considered it was directed against the accusers rather than against the guilty. He moved to give the commission the widest powers. M. Colfavru spoke in opposition. The motion was finally carried by a vote of 315 to 184. The committee's report was then adopted, 445 to 84.

Stanley Heard From.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Advices from St. Paul de Loanda states that news has been received there from Henry M. Stanley, under date of Sept. 8, to the effect that the expedition had left the camp that he established about eight days' journey from the Maboli country, and was advancing toward the western shore of Albert Nyanza. The men were greatly fatigued and struggled with difficulty over a distance of several kilometers. The most important of the country which he reached, which Stanley had traveled richly, complied with Stanley's request for food. Stanley halted for a few days to reorganize the expedition, and then leaving thirty men to guard his new camp, proceeded towards Albert Nyanza. He intended to form a camp on the fertile slopes of the country to the southward of Albert Nyanza, and to dispatch a small advance guard towards Wadala in a steel whale boat, under command of Lieut. Staers, and to send a party of men, under Enin Bey. Stanley says he had learned that Enin Bey was in good health and that the country to the southward of Albert Nyanza was much more fertile than he had written a letter to Yambunga camp requesting provisions to enable him to reach Enin Bey. The expedition is now at Stanley Falls and the state of the country there was a difficulty in finding porters who were willing to penetrate into the unknown country beyond Yambunga unless Stanley accompanied them. Stanley hoped to be able to communicate directly with Enin Bey by Sept. 15. The expedition says he found Maboli a populous and hospitable country. He was compelled to abandon his route along the Aruwihimi river, owing to its southern course. He discovered streams which he believed to be tributaries of the Quella.
