TO-DAY'S WEATHER. Signal Office, War Department, St. Paul, Dec. 14, 12:15 P. M.—Indications for the twenty-four hours commencing at 7 A. M.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS. St. Paul, Dec. 13.—The following observations were made at 8:48 P. M., local time.

Table with columns: Direction, Force, State of Sky, Temperature, etc. Rows include observations for various directions and times.

BY WAY OF ST. PAUL. Thousands of tourists are now wending their way to the sunny land of California, where, under the balmy skies of the American Italy, they can forget the existence of winter and enjoy a perpetual summer.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION. While in an interview with the Globe this morning, Sir Charles Tupper does not feel justified in making public the details of what has been accomplished by the commission that has had in charge the settlement of the fisheries question, he does convey the gratifying intelligence that a compromise has been reached which will be alike honorable and satisfactory to both nations.

STRAY SUNBEAMS. The Evening News is the name of the new twilight competitor in the St. Paul field of journalism. It is a marvelously healthy looking infant, with a bright, clean face, and dressed in uncommonly handsome clothes.

MAILING CHRISTMAS GIFTS. The season of purchasing Christmas gifts is again at hand. It is not so much evoked by the crowded shops and seductive advertisements it would be made known by a recently published statement of the postoffice department.

THE WEATHER seems to be in a conspiracy to break the coal pool. The appa- rently a storm of cold winds is now blowing, and while it is money out of the pockets of the coal barons, who are able to lose it, it is money into the pockets of the poor multitude who need every penny that is saved.

THE HUMAN COMET. P. Donan, the human comet of unknown periodicity, is now visible in the sky. He is a bright, shining object, appearing in great splendor before the winter is over.

A MODEL STATE PAPER. President Cleveland's annual message is short, crisp, concise, and in every way a model state document. It is patriotic in its spirit, and in its treatment of the various subjects.

NO MORE DODGING. President Cleveland's message to congress deals entirely with the tariff question. It is a courageous message, and will compel the politicians of both parties to get out of the fence and quit dodging the greatest and most vital issue now before the American people.

THAT V. I'm as happy a fellow as you ever met. And the swells, there are lots of them now. Whether they see me they stop me and say: "Will you pay me that V that you owe me?"

THE PRIVATE BANKERS do not seem to be in love with Bank Examiner Knox and propose to test his right to pry into their business affairs. If banking is a business of sufficient public importance to be brought under legal restraint and regulation, it is difficult to see why any distinction should be made between individuals and corporations engaged in that business.

fact should not only make them more guarded in their business movements, but it should also teach the public the necessity of hedging them about with instructive lessons of the dangers of departing from the straight and narrow path of personal credit. The bank depositor doesn't put his money in the bank for the purpose of having somebody else speculate on it. He puts it there for safe keeping, so that he can lay his hands on it whenever he needs it. He selects a certain bank as his depository because of his confidence in the absolute honesty of the managers of that institution. If the bank officer commits the double crime of betraying his confidence and of stealing his money, then the offending bank official should receive not only double punishment, but even a little more should be added for the sake of making an example of him. Considering the gravity of the crime and the protection due to business interests, it is not asking too much that bank defalcations and offenses of a kindred nature should be punished by life imprisonment.

MRS. ASTOR'S EXAMPLE. MRS. JACOB ASTOR, who died the day before yesterday, was one of the wealthiest and most charitable women in New York, and yet with her daily munificence in the cause of charity she united a personal thrift that was a fitting rebuke to the ostentatious display of others possessing wealth not so great as hers. It is related that at one time she purchased a wealthy neighbor who was buying a doll at a price that would have sufficed for the maintenance of a poor family for a month by ordering a new head put on a common doll which one of her children owned, and which had, after a year's possession, become scarcely recognizable. It was this predominant trait of thriftiness that enabled the elder Astor to build up his immense fortune, and it is this characteristic as much as industry that lies at the foundation of every fortune. The saving of trifles, small in themselves, may seem a little enough, but it is the aggregate that counts. It would be more frequently followed by others possessing abundant wealth, if it were not, at least, the absence of extravagance in personal expenditure could be joined to liberality in ministering to the needs of suffering humanity; but experience has taught that, except in rare cases, this is too much to expect.

MINNESOTA DAIRYMEN.

They Hold Their Tenth Annual Session in Minneapolis.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR AMES.

President Potter's Address, Which Refers to the Unprecedented Growth of Dairying.

The tenth annual convention of the Minnesota State Dairymen's association convened yesterday afternoon at Windom hall.

The session was opened by Mayor Ames in a short, neat speech before the delegates welcome to a city that he could assure them was glad for their presence, and would treat them in a more hospitable manner than any other place in the country.

The response was made by Hon. C. E. Marvin, of St. Paul, in an address that was replete with information about dairying. In his answer to the Mayor, he said that the delegates welcome to a city that he could assure them was glad for their presence, and would treat them in a more hospitable manner than any other place in the country.

The system of a full paid fire department is being encouraged by recent movements of the city council. Chief Hathaway and for a force are now employed full time.

It is reported that J. J. Hill, of the Manitoba, has purchased forty acres of land's point property, to be used as a coal dock. The price paid for the land was $130,000.

People with money to invest will do well to turn their attention to Duluth and Superior. The harbor and the exchange blue ribbons at fairs. The cheese business is growing apace, and now we can make all our own cheese and ship a credit to the country.

Productions will be 40,000,000 pounds, worth $7,200,000; cheese, 6,500,000 pounds, worth $650,000—a large increase over last year. The quality of the dairy products, and the inspection of the dairy commissioner is being improved.

The dairy men feel that their cows are being benefited by the prosecution of the frauds. Col. R. M. Litter is highly commended for his efforts in this regard. A motion was put and unanimously carried that a committee of ways and means be formed of C. E. Marvin, J. H. Burt, and J. W. Stevens, O. C. Gregg, E. A. Rice.

Dairy products—C. L. Smith, Col. Curtis, R. H. Sibley, W. M. Emery, W. J. Ives, C. E. Morris.

Officers—H. E. Howard, N. J. Leavitt, J. T. Ames.

The addresses to-day will be very interesting. The following are the names of the best posted people in this business. Among those noticed in attendance were E. A. Rice, Pipestone; John P. Hoek, M.
