Mellette Still Has the Lead for the Governorship of Dakota.

The Chairmen of the Chief Senate Committees Announced.

Death of Congressman Townshend, of Illinois--The Departments.

Special to the Globe. WASHINGTON, March 9 .-- President Harrison had an easy time of it to-day by reason of the departure of the parties who sought no office, but nevertheless shook his hand and absorbed his time. Two delegations, however, presented the names of favorite sons for office. The Iowa delegation, headed by Senator Allison, called and had a long conference. They presented three names for the consideration of the president: Gen. Tuttle for commissioner of pensions; ex-Gov. Stone, for commissioner of the general land office; and ex-Congressman Hepburn for commissioner of nateuts. The burn, for commissioner of patents. The claims of the gentlemen named were also fully presented, and the president was given to understand that the Republican party in Iowa stood ready to indorse these nominations unanimously. Iowa is always modest, and in asking for three of the lost places at his dis-posal, has undoubtedly excited Har-risou's warm admiration and respect for her unobtrusiveness.

is rushed almost to death. He never had so many friends before in his life. They come in such numbers that he has been obliged to play Dick Swiveler on them, and dodge around side streets and dark corridors. To-night he delegated his first assistant secretary to act for him, while he hid in the assistant's room; but even there he was corraled by Vice President Morton, who had im-portant matters to present. Ex-Regis-ter Luce, of the land office at Dead-wood, S. D., who is an old Indianian and Chicago editor, is here seeking ap-pointment to his old position. pointment to his old position.

A WEDDING.

James A. Frear, of Hudson, Wis., and Miss Hattie E. Wood, of this city, were married at the Waugh M. E. chapel this evening by Rev. Price. John E. Lowrey, of St. Cloud, Minn., acted as groomsman, and Miss Lulu McCreery. of Washington, as bridesmaid. The ushers were Messrs. J. B. Gross, of Hudsov; J. G. Morrison and J. A. Gross, of Washington, and Mr. Cole, of New York. A brief informal bridal reception was held in a class room of the church and resumed at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Frear, 223 Eighth street northeast. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Frear left for their future home in Wisconsin. Asa H. Frear, father of the groom, has held an important position groom, has held an important position in the adjutant general's office for the past ten years and is regarded highly here for his efficiency.

He is regarded at the department of

I have not seen it, but a reliable Dakota man states that W. C. Mellette's Friends Think He Is Sure of the Dakota Governorship.

Special to the Globe. WASHINGTON, March 9.-Jud La Moure will go home to-mo row. He thinks Pembina should have one of the North Dakota senatorships. The appointment of Mellette for governor of Dakota seems so sare that his backers Dakota seems so sure that his backers are quietly stealing homeward. Judges Moody and Edgerton left to-day. Gov. Pierce quietly awaits developments and may yet be made governor of Dakota in spite of himself. He is calling upon and receiving visits from old friends here, especially the newspaper boys, with whom he retains his old-time popularity. It looks as though Hansbrough has a sure thing on the Devil's Lake land office. Gen. Harrison Allen says he is an avowed candidate for the senatorship, and believes no one can measure swords with him. E. S. Neal, of Bismarck, will arrive here to-morrow to see if with him. E. S. Neal, of Bismarck, will arrive here to-morrow to see if there is anything left for him. J. B. Leahy and E. H. Wilson, of Butte, Mont., and W. E. Steele, of Minneapolis, are at Chamberlain's. Prof. Tousley, formerly superintendent of the Minneapolis public schools, is here ready to take a consulship again. Prospective Secretary Richardson, of Fargo, will leave on Monday. Maj. Davis, late Washington correspondent of the Minneapolis Tribune, will be public printer, if James G. Blaine can get him there, and he says he thinks he can. A. J. Blethen says it is a certainty.

DEATH OF MR. TOWNSHEND Pneumonia Carries Away Congressman R. W. Townshend, of

Illinois. WASHINGTON, March 9 .- Congress man R. W. Townshend, for many years representative of the Eighteenth Illinois (Shawneetown) district, died at the Riggs house in this city, at about noon to-day. The disease which caused his death was pneumonia, contracted during the closing hours of the last congress. In his last illness, Mr. Townshend was attended by his brother, who is health officer of the District of Columbia. Mrs. Townshend and the two children of the deceased were in attendance at the death bed. The details of the funeral have not yst been decided upon, but it though that the remains will be interred in the congressional cemetery, where his mother is buried. The news of the death of Representative Townshend reached the resentative Townshend reached the capitol shortly after his demise, and the sergeant at arms immediately proceeded to the Riggs house to assist in making arrangements for the funeral. The flags on the senate and house wings were displayed at half-mast out of respect to the memory of the deceased. The death of Mr. Townshend caused The death of Mr. Townshend caused a general feeling of sorrow among those members-elect of the next house, who have been associated with him during his long service in the house, and among the officials and others who knew him well. A TEMPORARY LULL. Officeseekers Not So Numerous as

For the past two or three days the ante-rooms of the cabinet officers in the various departments have been pretty well there was a noticeable falling off, and by noon in the interior department and the postoffice department, all the visitors who wished to see the heads of the departments had accomplished their object and had left. One explanation is that notice has been given by the heads of nearly all the departments that no changes would be made for the present, and until there was an opportunity for examining the papers. Postmaster General Wanamaker proposes first to consider the presidential postoffices for which nominations were sent in, but failed of confirmation. THE SENATE COMMITTEES. Here Are the Chairmanships as

They Will Be Reported Monday. WASHINGTON, March 9.- The work of arranging the senate-committees, or at least the majority membership, was completed this afternoon by the Republican caucus committee. Their report will be made to a caucus at 12:30 p.m. next Monday. It is understood that in filling the vacant chairmanships precedent has been followed. If this has been done without variation. which might arise because of the willingness of some senator to be transferred, or his of some senator to be transferred, or his desire to serve on some other committee, the chairmanships will be as follows: On Agriculture—Algernon S. Paddock, of Nebraska; On railroads, John H. Mitchell, of Oregon; on manufactures, Matthew S. Quay, of Pennsylvania;; on engrossed bills, Wilkinson Call, of Florida. The committee on enrolled bills lost both reports and members by the retirement of Senators Bowen and Sabin, and Senator Farwell gets the chairmanship. ator Farwell gets the chairmanship, which gives him a most eligible commit-tee room. The Democrats are given a majority on but two or three commit-tees instead of nine, as at present, with one equally divided between the two parties. The Democrats are said to be satisfied with the arrangement and division of membership, but they evidently find it more difficult to place their men, as they have not yet completed the work. They will not hood their cancus until after the Republicans, probably not before Tuesday.

CLAYPOOL'S RESIGNATION. Solomon Has an Unpleasant Time

Down in Indiana. WASHINGTON, March 9 .- When it became apparent that the senate would not confirm the nomination of Solomon Claypool to be district attorney for Indiana, Justice Harlan appointed Claypool temporarily to fill the vacancy. During the winter the grand jury at Indian apolis found a number of in-dictments based on alleged violations of the election laws. These indictments Mr. Claypool announced a few days ago, he would not prosecute, and to-day Justice Harlan informed Attorney General Miller that he had received Claypool's formal resignation. pecial Cable to the Globe.

LONDON, March 9.—The jubilant feeling aroused by the abdication of King Milan has not only not yet subsided in Belgrade, but is spreading throughout Servia. No one who has not traveled through Servia within the last two through Servia within the last two years can estimate the measure of detestation in which Milan was held by the masses, and consequently the secret joy at his virtual overthrow cannot be conceived. The fact that it would be as impossible for him to return to the throne, except by the force of some great power, as it would be for him to usurp the throne of Austria or Russia, is growing plainer every day, and, in spite of his retention of the chief command of the Servian army, his military power and prestige is fast fading into nothingness. Since King Milan was ignominously thrashed by Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, his influence over the army, except that which he exerthe army, except that which he exercised as sovereign, has steadily declined until he has finally become the laughing stock of an army which, though small in numbers, is too brave to be led by a paltroon. It is predicted in the continental capitals, and here as well, that although Milan is recognized as the commander-in-chief of the Servian army, he will never be permitted to lead the Servian soldiers into battle, and indeed, it is well understood that it would not be safe for him to do so. Four-fifths of the Servian soldiery are pro-Russian, and not one of them has forgotten the outrageous treat-ment which Milan visited upon his wife, a Russian lady. M. Ristis, the head of the Servian board of regents, hates Milan as he does a snake, and at the same time he is credited with having a greater love for Queen Natalie than one man should have for another man's wife. It has been Natalie's ambition to dication of King Milan, Russian agents have been very active in Bucharest, Already threats have been made to blow up the chamber of deputies with dyna-mite, and, it is said, that several high officials of the government have been approached by Russian emissaries with a view of securing a definite Russian domination of the councils. THE OVERTHROW OF KING MILAN, For such the situation real such the situation really regarded in diplomatic a severe blow to circles a severe blow to Austrian associations in the Balkans and may possible lead to a war between Russia and Austria. Turning them over, King Milan under-took the revision of the constitution. Many important changes were effected in the constitution. Individual liberty and freedom of the press were guaran-ted and produced to the constitution. and freeding of the press were glaranteed; all religious sects were placed on a footing of equality; the suffrage was extended to all men paying 15 francs a year in taxes, and all classes of the community were made eligible for the position of deputes, only a fourth of the chamber to consist of exofficion members. The king bowers. officio members. The king, however, still retained the right of declaring peace and war and the power of propeace and war and the power of proroguing and summoning the skuptschina. Milan's Austrian views did not suit the Radicals and they demanded a further amendment of the constitution permitting the chamber to meet independently of the royal pleasure, and vesting the representatives of the people with the power of declaring peace and war. There was not the least chance of the revision committee advising such a sudden and revolutionary change, but, unfortunately for Austria. change, but, unfortunately for Austria, Milan's difficulties with his wife caused him to be regarded by his subjects with a sentiment of very ill-disguised and very well deserved contempt. Consequently at the recent election the Radicals were returned with a fair working cals were returned with a fair working majority. Milan would have abdicated then but for the want of sufficient means to support something approaching royal state in private life. But the king was poor and dare not ask the Servian people for a substantial retiring allowance, so he chose the only alternative and knocked under to the Radicals. The revised constitution was then subjected to a further register. then subjected to a further revision on Radical lines and the situation temporarily patched up. Finally this week Mm. Gruitch and Ristics concluded to Mm. Grutch and Risties concluded to grant Milan an allowance out of the state treasury, so that he might leave the country, as a longer stay would provoke disturbances throughout Servia and precipitate action on the part of both Russia and Austria by compelling both powers to support their party in Servia.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK IN BULGARIA is also about as black as possible. The relations between M. Stambouloff, the prime minister, and Prince Ferdinand. have become so strained that either the one or the other must go, and either event would be favorable to Russian interests in the Balkans. Both M. Stambouloff and the prince are pro-Austrian politically, but the estrangement lies in the fact that Ferdinand desires the minister of war, Ccl. Mutkuroff, removed. The latter however, is M. Stambouloff's brother-in-law, of whose vote he is always certain. Prince Ferdinand complains that he is a nonentity, and main plains that he is a nonentity, and maintains that he ought to be the actual head of the army, instead of being, as he is, only the nominal one. M. Stambouloff's party has a large majority in the Sobranje and the prime minister declines to accede to the prince's request. However, the persecution to which M. Stambouloff, the "king maker," subjected Maj. Papoff, one of the best Bulgarian officers and one of the heroes of the Servian war, has engendered feelings of deep irritation throughout the country against the premier which may result in his overthrow. If some means of exin his everthrow. If some means of extrication are not speedily devised for a way out of the difficulty between the prince and his minister, the consequences will be very important. The present situation in Roumania is similar to that of Servia Pro-Russian and lar to that of Servia. Pro-Russian and anti-Russian lines are so sharply drawn that the pro-Russians, who are in the majority, may at any moment compel King Charles to abdicate, while the state of politics in Hungaria only invites Russian ascenancy and assures the weakness of the Triple Alliance. Neither Mme. Adam in the Nouvelle Revue, nor the writer in the Contemporary Review gave the origin of the bad feeling which sprang up between the Prince of Wales and Count Herbert Bismarck, at the time of the late Emperor Frederick's funeral. WALES CALLED DOWN. He Is Not Permitted To Meet Gen. Boulanger.

Special to the Globe London, March 9.—The Prince of Wales had intended to dine with Gen. Galliffet last evening, at whose table he was invited to meet Gen. Boulanger. Did you know that a special Dress Goods sale is now in progress? Are you still pay ing full prices for dress goods when they are going for so much less here?

This big tumble in Dress Stuffs and other goods is not accident. Somebody knocked the props from under prices and down they came.

Our fortune in buying has been peculiar. Sometimes we wonder if prices haven't reached bottom, and then here comes a car load of stuff to us bought cheaper than ever.

While you are reading the next columns pay attention to how much less we are going to sell them for than they are worth.

Isn't it better to buy while prices are running so low? Most of you think so.

Of course we are going to draw upon ourselves some criticism for putting prices down, but we can't please merchants and people, too. Our object is to please you, so here go the prices.
