SAINT PAUL.

THE GOSSIPER.

The younger element of the Republican party over in the Flour City is in a sad frame of mind, brought about by the contemplation of the present municipal government. They got what they wanted, and now they want to get rid of it. A certain young politician who is quite a mogul in the Minneapo-lis Republican faction, was over here yesterday, and to a crowd of Saintly vesterday, and to a crowd of Saintly City sympathizers was recounting the woes of his metropolis. "The town is deader than a door nail," said he, lugubriously, "and it will remain so for another year, until after the next election. Mayor Babb is away out of bis element where he is at present. He can run an ice business and play "mumble-the-peg" with children, but he can't run a city government. Most of his time is taken up with the blessed police commission, and there he does nothing but indulge in petty quarrels with the other members. The council is not much better, and, taking it altogether, the town is in a pretty mess. gether, the town is in a pretty mess. At 9 o'clock the sheriff stalks about and tocks the whole town up, and after that hour everything is as dead as the grave. nour everything is as dead as the grave. I am sorry to say that it is the best thing that could have happened for the Democrats, because they will have a full sweep at the next election."

full sweep at the next contact the state of thousands of dollars every week. The immense crowd of disgruntled Minne appolitans that are waiting for the short line trains to take them home every line trains to take them home every night testify to that. They come over here to enjoy the sights of a city just the same as the people who live in Podunk and other "up kentry" resorts. Nobody can blame them for that. There is nothing like a little recreation once in a while, especially in a place where there is no danger of their being arrested for being on the streets after the sun has gone down. So they come over here in droves every day and bring their sisters and their cousins and their aunts sisters and their cousins and their aunts with them, while the St. Paul business man rubs his hands together gleefully.

There is a move on foot among the focal sporting fraternity to organize an athletic club, similar to those in San Francisco. Something of that description onght to pay here, as there is absolutely no place for lovers of the athletic terra and exercise outside of the Gerto go and exercise, outside of the German turner societies and Y. To make an athletic club a success, however, it will be necessary for the young men to do something besides talking. They have got to put for the young men to do something besides talking. They have got to put

The council may meet, and the people may kick, but Tom Lowry goes on forever. At least, it seems so. Yesterday his workmen were busily engaged in tearing up Sixth street above Wabasha, and laying down rails as fact as rossible. There were perhaps fast as possible. There were, perhaps, two thousand eitizens who stopped and indignantly watched the proceedings during the day, but that made no difference. Mr. Lowry's foreman knew his business, and only smiled as he worked. "Who is this Mr. Lowry that worked. "Who is this Mr. Lowrybody is kicking about?" asked a stranger in passing. "Who is Mr. Lowry?" echoed a bystander. "why stranger in passing. "Who is Mr. Lowry?" echoed a bystander. "why he is the owner of St. Paul and Minneapolis. That's who he is.'

THE WORLD REVOLVES league pienicked yesterday at Lake Johanna.

And With Each Decade There Is a New Generation of Hustlers.

That Is Why a St. Paul Worthy Gets Swallowed in the Vortex.

Count Philip de Rochebrune Is a Well-Known Character of Awayback.

Now He Languishes, and Will End His Days at the Poor Farm.

J. P. Wright, of the board of control, yesterday removed to the county poor farm an old St. Paul landmark in the person of the Count Philip de Rochebrune. For many years the count has been growing poorer and poorer financially; and, although he held a notary public's commission, his physical infirmities militated against his keeping up with the new generation of hustlers, and he decided to rusticate. The count is famous for his legal battles, some of which are alluded to as unique.

He once picked up a $1) bill which some laborer had dropped in the city treasurer's office, and, when compelled treasurer's office, and, when compelled to give it up, threatened to sue the City Treasurer Reis for damages.

In olden times it cost money to cross the Wabasha street bridge. The count, wishing to economize, jumped upon a farmer's wagon, but was required to pay toll. He sued the toll-taker for the sure of 10 cents, and carried the case to pay toll. He sued the toll-taker for the sur of 10 cents, and carried the case to the supreme court, where he triumphed. Another remarkable piece of legal warfare was the case of the count against Dr. Robinson, to recover a meerschaum pipe on a verbal contract. The deater had promised to present the count scham pipe on a versal contract. The doctor had promised to present the count with a fine meerschaum pipe if his lordship would abstain from the use of to-bacco in any form for a whole year. At the end of the trial the pipe was claimed and the suit brought, but this time De Rochebrune was defeated, Dr. Behinsen contriving to prove that the

Another historical contest was that between the count and a prominent College avenue tady, since married, the count claiming $50,000 damages for breach of promise. The promise was implied rather than expressed, the count alleging that the lady had smiled on him and thereby encouraged. smiled on him, and thereby encouraged him to believe that she wanted to marry him. He was given the choice of withdrawing his suit or defending himself against a charge of insanity.

Count de Rochebrume came within an ace of being elected mayor of St. Paul, under peculiar circumstances.
John S. Prince had received the nomination of both Republicans and Democrats, and a number of old citizens said: "Look here, the Prince has both nominations. Let some of us run the count." So, just to relieve the mocount." So, just to relieve the monotony, people began to deposit their ballots for De Rochebrune, and he had polled several hundred votes when the day in the Curtiss-St. Peter hospital charges. Secretary Hart is still waiting for documents.

AND YET PEOPLE TALK. There were no developments yester-

This is a most preposterous way of conducting state business.

Nearly a week ago grave charges were publicly alleged against the conduct of St. Peter asylum authorities—charges which, if true, demand the most searching investigation on the part of the chief executive of the state. To-day the report is made that nothing definite has been done to fathom the truth of the alleged outrage.

The people of the state require that its public institutions shogld be above suspicion, and they will certainly protest against the delay in investigating the grave story accredited to St. Peter's hospital. The duty of Secretary Hart, as the representative of Gov. Merriam, is not to wait for documents. Ho should personally visit the father of the girl and at once obtain the data upon which he bases the serious complaints filed against prominent state officials.

THE DEMISE OF DOGS.

How It Operates. Since the burning last spring of the rendering works at the Milwaukee short line bridge, all dead animals hauled away from St. Paul have been buried in a trench upon the levee on opposite side of the river, a few miles below the city. This burial ground for dumb animals is located near the old Mainzer farm, and receives during the summer an average receives during the summer an average of thirty-five carcasses of horses and cattle per month. The number of dogs interred is about twenty-five per month. But the dogs do not all arrive in the shape of corpses. Many of them are converted into burying material after arriving on the field. Last night witnessed the execution of a kennel of twenty dogs at one swoop. night witnessed the execution of a kennel of twenty dogs at one swoop. They were placed in a large crate and swung outward with a crane over the river. The crate was then lowered into the water, and as it sank beneath the surface there were a few bubbles and all was over, or rather, under. Experiments have shown that it requires six minutes to drown a puppy, while the vital spark can be extinguished in an old dog in four minutes. The dogs are kept twenty-four hours before being exterminated, to give their fond owners a chance to redeem them; but it often happens that fine-bred dogs have to be drowned because of not being claimed. Sometime in October the Mertz system will go into operation, and the fourwill go into operation, and the four-footed unfortunates will be worked up by an odorless process into a palatable grade of salad oil.

Attorney C. E. Otis Selected to Fill the Vacant Judgeship.

NON - PARTISAN MAN.

Judge Vilas' Successor Has the Good Will and Confidence of All Public Men.

Attorney Charles E. Otis was yesterday selected to fill the vacancy created on the Ramsey county bench by the death of Judge Vilas. The appointment is an excellent one. In making the selection thus early, Gov. Merriam was solely influenced by the congested state of the courts and the fact that they will open Monday first. He has acted from a non-partisan standpoint, and there has not been the least action brought to bear upon his excellency in Mr. Otis' behalf. The appointment was a spontaneous one by the governor, and it is one which will com-mend itself to the attorneys and the W. H. "The same may be said of the iron trade the world over," continued Mr. Thompson. "Belgian, French and especially English trade is lively, yet does not seem to interfere with the demand here. The Belgian rail rolling mills are pretty well employed, although they have found difficulty in accepting orders for prompt delivery, and several large contracts leaked through their hands to ours. We received an order last week for 12,000 received an order last week for 12,000 tons of steel rails for the French Hanoverian Railway company last week, on account of our ability to turn out the work in short order. Talking about turning out steel rails, the order our works turned out for the Pennsylvania Railway company, immediately after the Johnstown disaster, was, I suppose, as fast a thing as has ever been done anywhere. The order was a per-emptory one, for 1,000 tons of steel rails to be delivered at Johnstown the next to be delivered at Johnstown the next day. The rails were to replace those washed away by the floods and there was the most urgent necessity for rapid delivery. The order had to be begun from raw material, the rolls had to be changed, but just the same the rails were made, loaded and shipped in twenty-four hours, and in thirty-six hours from the receipt of the order the rails were on the side track at their destination seventy miles away.

Capt. H. J. May, who has been for many years and still is acting British consul at Suakin, was in the city for a few hours yesterday. Capt. The party have spent the past two months in New York and the East, and will visit points of interest, including the Yellowstone, on the way to the coast. The captain talks interestingly of the island city in which he has made his home for many years past, and says that although no very decided improvement in the trade of the country can be chronicled for the past year, owing to the wars which have been going on continually, the extinction of Osman chronicled for the past year, owing to the wars which have been going on continually, the extinction of Osman Digna's power would improve matters, provided that no local sheik undertook to succeed the intrepid Arab leader. The exports from Suakin declined imports. The exports from Suakin declined imports. There is, "says the captain, "a regrettable revival in the slave trade where the coast is temporarily under Italian surveillance south of Ras Kassor, and the collisions between the slaving parties and dervishes keep the country in a continual state of turmoil. There is hope, however, that the influx of American and English merchants, which has been large during the past year, will have the effect of settling trade, and that the once thriving town will regain its former prosperity. Nothing would have a greater tendency to extinguish the slave trade than the ining would have a greater tendency to extinguish the slave trade than the in-crease of legitimate trade conducted by the Banians with such minor ports as Halail, Rowezzah and Agig, and to this end the European and American mer-chants are striving."

ORGANIZED AT LAST.

The Grain Inspector's Department Is Now Fully Equipped With Officers.

The Railroad and warehouse commissioners yesterday agreed that the Minnesota wheat grades, as established in 1886, should continue in force, with the addition of "No grade grain," to cover all grain unfit for store.

Four grades of northern white wheat are also added. These were suggested by Chief Grain Inspector Clausen, and are:

No. 1 northern white wheat shall be sound, well cleaned, plump and composed of the northern varieties of white wheat.

No. 2 northern white shall be sound, reasonably clean and composed of the northern varieties of white wheat.

No. 3 northern white shall comprise all northern white wheat fit for warehousing, weighing not less than fifty-four pounds to the measured bushel, and not sound enough or otherwise unit for higher grades.
