MARSHAL DAGGETT'S BED.

Marj. Daggett, the United States deputy marshal, formerly made his bed and butler while most people slept. He was one of the vast army of men who work nights in this Northwestern metropolis. In those days the major lived in a furnished rooming house on Broadway about 8 o'clock, as he entered his apartment he found it in splendid condition. He lived contentedly until one cold morning he went home unusually early and found his bed occupied. The intrusion somewhat exasperated the major. He was in a hurry to go to bed, but didn't like the idea of "doubling up" with a stranger. He gave the man up in a sharp pinch in the ribs which awakened him.

"What are you doing in my bed?" demanded the major. "In reply the stranger simply dejectedly stated at Daggett.

"Get out of that. You've got lots o' nerve come in a fellow's room and go to bed. Get up," shouted the major.

But not a word came from the stranger. Both seemed just as if they were asleep. Finally the man got out of bed, took a pad of paper and a pencil from his coat pocket and wrote the following message to Daggett:

"I'm deaf and dumb. Be merciful and don't send me to jail. You can have what money I've got if you'll get out of my room."

Daggett read the message, shouted a few words which would have been of the type, and wrote as follows to the man: "You are mistaken—it is not my room. I've slept in this room for six months and paid the rent."

Quite a correspondence followed between the two. Both were obstinate. Both claimed to have paid for the room, and both "kicked" for possession. Finally the landlady was called in to settle the dispute.

"Why, Mr. Daggett," she said, "it's just this way. Your man never in your room night and I didn't think you would care if he did this and sleep here at night. We have had the bed made up before you come in. But, of course, if you don't want to pay for it, you can make up your mind to move out of room," murmured Daggett as he started out to look for new quarters.

THIRD STREET ON SATURDAY.

Saturday morning on Third street is always a busy period. All the ton of the Hill district turn out on their weekly shopping tour, and keep the pretty girls in the various millinery and dry goods stores busily occupied in catering to their fancies and fancies. The outlook as regards the weather was decidedly favorable one yesterday, but the two inches or more of slush on the walks and beneath the wheels of fashion's chariots made the going very disagreeable. The turn-out of the shoppers were there just the same. The coachmen sat with the same stolid indifference to the behavior of the elements which which for coachmen is considered the correct thing. The pretty girls from the Heights of St. Anthony held their skirts well clear of the slough, perhaps unaware of or indifferent to the fact that there were enthusiasts who would admire a neatly turned ankle in spite of the sleet which drove damply in the face of the pedestrian. Girls in gossamer veils—every girl, even the ones who look fairly well in possession of their looks—went through the mud and made the best of it. Suddenly there was a change. The sun burst through the mist and shone with even greater brilliance than it is wont to shine. Gossamers were discarded, pretty ankles became once more matters of conjecture, and even the coachman, stoic as he is, managed to relax the rigid lines of his countenance just long enough to smile a welcome to the king of day.

LOCAL LAONICS.

If McCleary is a bar well say Chris is a saint, but if McCleary is truthful, then Christopher ain't.

And if the doctor is right, as possibly may be, we want to no more of 365.

There is a story told in St. Paul is said to be a popular air with Landlady Caphart these days.

"Any man who would not state his views in fifteen minutes should set work and break up his kidneys," Dr. J. H. Hunt, president of the recent Episcopal general convention. There is an opening for Dr. Huntington in the St. Paul city council.

Menstrues are said to have built their houses unusually high, corn-husks are very thick, and Mayor Smith, while out on his recent hunting trip, discovered that the grouse birds are as thick as sheep. All these signs are of a Siberian winter. The grouse weather prophet, however, looking upon the apparently unnecessary delay of the winter court attorneys in getting their winter coats out of sock, is willing to go on record as predicting a backward winter and mild one.

ST. PAUL GAME BAG.

Wild geese, $1 each. Teal, $1.75 per dozen. Squirrel, $1 per dozen. Mallard, $3.50 per dozen. Turkey, 12 per dozen. Pheasant, $5.50 per dozen. Prairie chicken, $1 per dozen. Common duck, $1.75 per dozen. Domestic geese, 12 per pound. Venison costs a fine lot of impalement. Domestic chicken, 90¢ per pound.

Electric Ordinances Accepted.

The North St. Paul Electric Railway company, represented by Lane K. Stone and Walter S. Morton, accepted the franchise yesterday that was recently granted by the city council for the construction of a motor line on North St. Paul. The franchise is a bond in the sum of $50,000 as a guarantee of good faith. Archbishop Ireland and Thomas Cochran, the city engineer, accepting the ordinance granting them the privilege of experimenting with an electric line on Broadway street and Grand avenue.

The Dakota Relief.

The first shipment of relief for the Dakota sufferers was forwarded yesterday in the form of two carloads of provisions for four carloads of coal. The subscription lists totals $28,525, and additional clothing has been received from the following: Mrs. C. F. Kemp, T. F. Nichol, E. T. Abbott, Mrs. G. J. Romp, R. J. Brown, Maj. John Hays and the St. Paul knitting women. Latest cash donations are A. B. Alexander, $20; J. May, $10; Col. C. H. Alden, $20; A. Teicher, $25.

Stoves Repaired.

At 186 and 188 West Seventh.

Get There, Eli!

The modest announcement by "The Burlington" of an established fact has stirred up a hornet's nest, as it were. When the famous Editorial train, Oct. 21, 1886, started, it had as distinguished passengers the representatives of the other lines, and to the query by the Associated Press Agent the unqualified answer by said agents was that eleven hours and ten minutes, made that day, was the best on record.

National Silver Convention.

At St. Louis Nov. 25. "The Burlington" is making up a party for this occasion. Applications for space in sleeping berths should be addressed to Mr. Charles Thompson, St. Paul, or Mr. J. F. McIntyre, Minneapolis.

Jeweler's Who Do a Thriving Trade in Renting Out Finery.

"What lovely diamonds, and what a number of them," exclaimed a very simply though charmingly dressed young lady to her elderly chambermaid as the twain were ushered into the Ryan reception rooms, on the occasion of the event recently given in honor of the visiting South Americans. The remark was called forth by the dazzling appearance of a certain St. Paul lady, whose hands, throat and corsage literally glittered with jewels; jewels that must have been worth at the lowest estimate $10,000.

"She must be the wife of one of your merchant princes," continued the late arrival, who had heard some one say in Chicago that Pat Kelly, Tom Lowry, and a few other fellows owned St. Paul diamonds who live in the rest of the population. The elderly chambermaid smiled a gentle smile as she informed her fair charge that the wearer of the diamonds was the wife of a man whose salary did not exceed $2,000 a year, and who had worn the same ulster for four seasons.

"Oh, you are making up too much money out of rooms," murmured Daggett as he started out to look for new quarters.

TO ABATE THE SMOKE NUISANCE.

Building Inspector Johnson issued sixty notices yesterday to the makers of blocks and manufacturers that are making too much smoke, calling attention to the nuisance, and ordering their abatement. It has been demonstrated that the smoke converter is a practical invention, and the building inspector is determined to enforce its general adoption, as was almost universal in St. Paul and but little less popular among the bon ton, that is said to be the case in New York, Boston and the effete East generally.

AT SUNDAY BREAKFAST.

The Carnival City Debating society met at Curtis hall last night.

The funeral of Ferdinand Anschitz, the man who suicided near Pig's Eye last Tuesday, took place yesterday afternoon from his late home, 392 Campbell street, West side. The police have been unable to account for the two hats found with the body.

Mary Klem, fifty-one years of age, wants a divorce from her husband, Henry, who is about fifty-five years old. They were married at St. Paul in 1859, and lived together until 1882. Mrs. Klem alleges cruel and inhuman treatment and habitual drunkenness. Moritz Dienstag, for the time past employed as a reporter on an evening paper, resigned his position yesterday to accept a position as state agent of a local insurance company. His friends at the court house took the opportunity to present him with an elegant gold-headed cane.

fine china of all kinds for sale. Still another party on a similar business in zealous saques, and so it goes clear along the line; you can rent anything nowadays. How many of the young bloods, who go to swell receptions and full-dress parties during the season, do you suppose own the full dress gowns in which they appear? Well, the fact is that not 20 per cent of them do. There is a dealer in this city who will furnish you with a complete outfit from patent leather pumps to a crush hat for the reasonable figure of $5 per night. A visit to several of the accommodating dealers mentioned fully corroborated the statements of the loquacious jewelry man, and proved conclusively that the renting system was almost as universal in St. Paul and but little less popular among the bon ton, that is said to be the case in New York, Boston and the effete East generally.

P. Nelson, a young Swede who came down from the upper country to see the sights, was arrested at the central police station, charged with drunkenness. Bertha Taylor, a Bostonian, is also detained on suspicion of having committed larceny. Nelson went out with the woman in a hack, when he claims to have lost $72.

Reports of diphtheria were received at the health office yesterday from 508 Bowers street, 235 Edmund street, 420 Latond street and 399 Ashland avenue. Scarlet fever prevails at 425 Broadway, and membranous croup at 286 Silson street, 245 Edmund street and 285 Silson street.

The portrait of the late Hon. Edmund Rice, which mysteriously disappeared from the council chamber, has been returned to the mayor's office. An agent of the Horton Journal company had taken it to his store to clean it before the arrival of Mrs. A. A. Marshall, American delegate, and through an oversight neglected to return it.

Miss A. Beals will conduct services for the Spiritual Alliance society in Wacouta street chapel, between Eighth and Ninth streets, this evening at 7:30, commencing with the spiritual ceremony of christening a child, after which inspiring answers to questions will be given by the audience, psychometric reading and evidence of spirit presence will be given by the guide of Mr. Beal. Inquirers and investigators meeting will be conducted by Mr. Beal, assisted by Mr. Helm. Price of admittance at 223 East Eighth street, 7:30.

H. Ganselhoff, John S. Rowell and J. D. Jennings, stockholders in the Northwest iron implement company, have petitioned the district court to appoint a receiver for that institution. About eighteen months ago the stockholders of the concern decided to wind up the business, and instructed W. R. Marshall, the general manager, to collect all bills and settle up the matters. Since that time Mr. Marshall has refused to furnish the stockholders with an accounting, and hence the petition for a receiver.

AN APOLOGY!

"FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED" In a very truthful expression, and should have taught us a useful lesson. For the second time in our career are we applicants to the St. Paul public, and once more must crave their kind indulgence. But it was not wholly our fault. If people will crowd into a store already packed to the doors, they must necessarily suffer the slight inconvenience, subject to their own indiscretion. Still we, as public purveyors, are responsible for the good treatment and comfort of our customers, and assure them that such an emergency will not occur again, as we have increased our facilities, and are now in shape to meet the great rush that is bound to attend our

THE FIGURE "9" in our dates is with us and has come to stay. No man or woman now living will ever date a document without using the figure 9. It now stands on the extreme right—1889. Next year it will be in the third place, where it will remain ten years. It will then move up to the second place—1900—and then it will rest one hundred years.

There is another "9" which has also come to stay; it is called the "No. 9." It is not like the figure "9" in our dates in the respect that it will have to wait until next year for third place, or ten years for second place, as it has this year stood in front place, and it will not move from there; it is the new "No. 9" High Arm Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

The "No. 9" is not an old style of machine having some slight change made in it and then called "new improved," but it is an entirely new machine. It was invented by the best mechanical experts of the age. What better proof is wanted of that fact than the following cablegram direct from the Paris Exposition, which was published in all the Chicago newspapers of October 2d?

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, Paris, October 1. (Special.)—The highest possible premium and the only grand prize for sewing machines was awarded to the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company.

The "No. 9" has taken the first premium this year at the State fairs of Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, and the first premium at every county fair where it has been exhibited.

No woman, if she desires to be happy, should be without a "No. 9." No man should be happy until he has purchased the lightest-running, lock-stitch machine in the world, the "No. 9" for his home. No agent is happy unless he sells the "No. 9." No dealer will be happy and prosperous in this age of progress unless he furnishes his customers with the only perfect sewing machine mechanism for family use, the "No. 9." We are happy, for the birth of the "No. 9."
