Gratitude. It was a day of thanksgiving among thankful people. There were ungrate-ful souls in St. Paul, however, who had not souls in St. Paul, however, who had no idea of giving thanks to anybody for any thing. They were found in force at the police court, where everyone scened to think that the best he could get would be 'the worst of it.' and that that would come without any effort on his part, Judge Burr held a short but interesting session.

SOME RADICAL VIEWS

Expressed by Lev. w. C. Pope in a

Rev. W. C. Pope, of the Church of the Rev. W. C. Pope, of the Church of the hold Shep herd, preached a sermon yesay in an ing on civil service reform om the text: "Render anto Cæsar the hings that are Cæsar's." He sumed up as follows: Compliance the this test requires that a divide of the United States must be a dily, intelligent lover of his country, bothing short of godly will answer the impose. The distinction between rich de poor is becoming greater. The bear contentedly his poverty. The poor had must be more good in order to bear contentedly his poverty. The rich must be godly in order to be liberal and use his power aright; otherwise there will be rebellion among the poor, and tyranny will be exercised by the

Among the Romans was often heard the cry, "Panem et ercreuses"—bread and the circus. The Roman populace cemanded food and amusement. In European countries it has been the cus-European countries it has been the custom for the rulers to go to war in order to distract the attention of the peop e from the government itself. By this means have the turbulent been cut off and food and amusement afforded the people. It is not thus with our own populace, nor will they be turned aside from examining the affairs of government.

Low, degraded men, possessing the Low, degraded men, possessing the power of the ballot, will wield it to their own and their country's destruction unless they are trained in ways of godliness. Allow me then, to plead for our own parish school. The Manual Traingus school lately introduced into this own parish school. The Manual Training school, lately introduced into this city, is oased on right principles. As one of the instructors informs me—the whole boy—physical and intellectual, is to be educated. But, do the physical and intellectual parts make up the whole boy? Does not the Apostle tell us that he consists of body, soul and spirit?

What shall we say of an education which teaches the young, besides the various school branches, the arts of man, a training school which teaches them the science which would organize them into a military brigade and yet leave out the training of the spiritual nature? It is education which is based upon the right principle of education—the whole nature—and is yet deficient in the principal part in the education of the spiritual nature. The proper education of an American citizen should be such as we give in our parish school. hat shall we say of an education be such as we give in our parish school. or parism school. The American citizen must thoroughly understand the principles of American government and his duties as a citizen. It is obligatory on judges of courts, granting naturalization papers, to see that applicants for citizenship shall be persons of this description. As a matter of fact we know many are made citizens who are unworthy. The law is defective in that persons are allowed citizenship after oo brief a sojourn in this country.

The Emperor Napoleon said he would willingly grant more liberty to the French if they were fitted for its enjoyent. It is seen since his dethronement that he was correct in his estimation of the French people. Various changes in the French government have manifested the fact that her people had not been fitted for the privileges and duties of citizenship.

Emigrants of the lower type than the French are continually flocking to our shores-men incapable of understand-ing the principles of our government, or appreciating the privileges which citizenship confers. It behoves the American government to see that citi-zenship in the United States is not degraded by being unworthily conferred. Relative to the well-being of our country is the advancement of civil ser-vice reform. When Washington was about to enter upon the duties of presi-dent he received many applications for office. He declined, entertaining the applications, saying he would enter upon the duties untrammeled. When upon the duties untrammeted. When he becams president two persons applied for office—one a friend, the other a political opponent. To the astonishment of the people his political opponent received the office. In explanation he said: "My friend I receive to my home and heart, but he is not a husiness man, my opponent is fitted for business man; my opponent is fitted for the office. I am president of the Urited States and not George Washington." This principles governed the presidents ntil the time of Andrew Jackson: then to the chagrin and indignation of right-minded people, capable men were turned out of positions to make place for political favorites. The nation now laments the death of Hon. George B. Pendleton, the author of the civil service bill. What corporation, society or business firm could expect to be successful if every four years it turned out its capable employes and filled the vacantic than those of cies on other grounds than those of business? The American government has no reason to expect that it shall be carried on successfully and honorably carried on successfully and honorably while acting on any other principles than a business firm would. In foreign countries a boy will go into a diplomatic corps in tending to make diplomacy the business of his life; when at mature years he will have arrived at an honorable position in a diplomatic corps, and will be therefore conversant with the duties of his profession. In this way the employes of a government do credit to themselves and the government which ployes of a government do credit to themselves and the government which they serve. From what has been said it will be concluded that "Render unto Cæsar the things which be Cæsar's" has a far more reaching intention as applied to a citizen of the United States than when applied to a Roman of the first century. The sole duty of a Christ-ian of the first century was to be sub-

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.-Up in West Eighty-fourth street, a block from the park, lives a handsome blonde woman, and yesterday she had with her to spend Thanksgiving her two sunny-haired little boys. But it will probably not be a very happy holiday with the occupants very happy holiday with the occupants of the second flat in the big new Agnes apartment house, No. 25 West Eightyfourth street. The filing of certain legal papers in court yesterday has brought gloom to that little household, and the handsome mother of two pretty boys views with dismay the emblazonment of the peculiar life she is leading. A young man, said to be the son of a famous novelist, poet and representative of this country abroad, will also probably neglect to render thanks today, but will doubtless enjoy himself in denunciations of another man, whose day, but will doubtless enjoy himself in denunciations of another man, whose wife he has won. Mrs. Aline B. Smith, wife of J. Jay Smith, is the woman, and Francis K. In the meantime other young men had come upon the scene, and Mrs. Smith concluded that she would prefer to remain away from the husband, who had been ill and was left a comparative invalid. She was not dependent upon him, as her father had died and left her an income ample enough for comfort. Lawyers have been consulted time and again by both parties, but no reconciliation could be affected.

Mrs. Mead, whose room was on the ground floor, was awakened in the night by a noise in the sitting room, and when she opened the door between the chamber and the sitting room, she discovered a man rifling the secretary, where Mead kept his money, and another standing by the stair door, with his ear close to it, as if on guard. She advanced into the room and said: "Who are you and what are you doing there?" The man at the desk turned and made a grab for her throat, but the woman was strong and quick as well as brave, and she siezed him and called loudly for help. When assistance came the burglars had fled and Mead was found on the floor of fied and Mead was found on the floor of the sitting room, near the stairway door, unconscious. The room gave evidence of a terrible struggle. The furniture was smashed and walls bespattered with blood from wounds inflicted on the heroic woman's head with a club, wielded by one of the burglars. Mrs. Mead recognized the man who dealt the blows as John Use, a man who had lately been employed upon the place, and a posse was at once organized to capture him. When they reached his house, his wife said he was not at home, but he was, and his porsuers went up, stairs after him. They were behind Fredericksen, furnished the capital, knew all about the business and reaped the benefits. Fredericksen did an immense business. In one year he sold between 90,000 and 100,000 acres at $9 per acre, that he had bought for $5. At the end of my first month's connection with Fredericksen I told him I did not like his business methods and would stay no longer. But I had got John Johnston, of Milwaukee, a nephew of Alexander Mitchell, involved to a larce Alexander Mitchell, involved to a larce amount and had to stay two years to get him out, which 1 did. I insisted that where Fredericksen sold any of the lands to which Johnston held the original title, it should only be as attorney for Johnston. Hence, those who bought the Johnston lands from Fredericksen have a good title. Johnston charged Fredericksen only 7 per cent interest, while others charged 25 percent bonus and an interest in the profits besides."

RESULT OF A CONSPIRACY.

The Hurley Bank Robery Planned Months Before It Was . xecuted. MILWAUKEE, Nov 28 .- Dr. J.C. Keynolds, president of the Bank of Hurley, where the $40,000-robbery took place, said to a reporter that the most astonishing feature of the new developments in the case is the claim made by the detectives that the robbery is the work of a conspiracy, which was going on for at least' eight months. For two years it has been a matter of common knowl-edge on the range that a large amount of money was sent to the bank once a month to pay off miners. The officers claim to have information from one of a gang who came to Hurley last March fully equipped to rob the bank, and knowing the combination of the sale. This fellow claims to have hung around several days and to have seen the money arrive and go to the bank. That night, he and his con-federates were ready, but the cashier did not go down town. They watched him prepare for bed, and then decided to abandon an attempt at robbery. The leader said he knew that with the cashier in the bank robbery would probably include murder, and he drew the line at the latter crime. The officers say that this gang did not finally commit robbery, and the leader does not know who did, but he will tell who furnished him with the combination of the safe when he expected to crack it. The officers have given me various other important pieces of information which show a deep laid plot, and I shudder when I think of the danger that my brother, the cashier has been in for nearly a year. Unoer some circumstances the robbery might did not go down town. They watched some circumstances the robbery might have meant ruin to the bank.

Our Overcoat Department is on our second floor, the largest and best-lighted salesroom in the Northwest. We show over Four Thousand Coats in this department, including Fur, Fur-Trimmed, Storm, Cape and Plain Overcoats.

Our early purchases were nearly closed out sometime ago, as we were very careful in buying, expecting that late in the season goods would be very cheap. Mr. J. L. Hudson is known as one of the largest cash buyers in America, and when he was in New York last week manufacturers were eager to unload at less than cost of manufacture.

He bought Fifty Thousand Dollars' worth of Overcoats, a great many of them being Storm Coats, and sent us an immense line, every one of them this season's goods.

It places us in a position to show you such an assortment of Fine Storm, Cape and Plain Overcoats as the Northwest has never before seen, at exceedingly low prices, and it surely is to your interest to examine them.

We're doing an immense business with the line of Fur-Trimmed Overcoats that Mr. Hudson closed out of B. Kuppenheimer & Co., of Chicago. They were bought at twenty-five per cent below market value, and we're selling them the same way; hence the immense trade. Prices, $12 to $50.

Must you buy a Cheap Overcoat? We're selling a good, warm, durable, Plain Overcoat or Ulster at $5; better ones at $6, $7. $8 and $10. In fact, whether you leave $5 or $50, in this department you get full value.

We've started a great boom in our Children's Department. There's no money in it for us, as every garment is marked at exact cost. 'Tis the best-assorted stock of Fine and Medium-Priced Boys' and Children's Suits, Overcoats, Boys' Long 314 Jackson Street, - - -Pants, Knee Pants and Flannel Waists in the city. Sale continues just Ten Days. Mothers, take advantage of it!

Any Garment bought during this sale may be returned any time before Jan. 1, 1890, and money refunded.

We predict that TO-MORROW will be the busiest day ever known in our store. Come early, if possible. Extra salesmen in every department.
