It stated that while there was now no absolute suffering, there would be before the winter was over, and that help would be needed. The letter urged that Minneapolis would come to their assist-ance as St. Paul, Duluth, Fargo and other cities had done. The sentiment of the board seemed to be that despite the contradictory report Dakota did need aid. There was even mention of money lenders and land sharks as being connected with some of the reports of no aid being needed.

President Wyman took the floor to state that he thought the board were all of one mind regarding the unfortunate sufferers from Saturday night's fatal fire, and suggested that a committee be appointed to investigate whether there was any need of help among them. If there was he was sure the gentlemen of the board would be very ready to give the aid.

STANDING ROOM ONLY. Murderer Revoir Is Playing the

He Will Go to Stillwater Unless the Supreme Court Intervenes.

W. H. Adamson's only hope of escaping the penitentiary now lies with the supreme court, and unless this seat of justice see fit to reverse Judge Hooker's decision.

The argument for a new trial of the case of Adamson, convicted at the last term of court for forgery in the second degree, was the only case on trial at the district court yesterday, and his attorneys, Merrick & Merrick, tried hard to convince the court that they were entitled to a new trial, but to no purpose. Armed with the usual pile of affidavits, they were, in the motion for a new trial it was alleged that Adamson was convicted on insufficient evidence; that the indictment on which he was brought to trial was faulty; that the jurors, or some of them, particularly Thomas Wing, were prejudiced against him, and had expressed opinions prejudicial to his case before the matter came to trial, and that County Attorney Jamison was guilty of misconduct in attacking tho private character of Adamson.

Adamson, in his affidavit, alleges that A. J. Finnegan and one other juror had been heard to say that it was a pity they prove the faisity of the charge, and that a conspiracy existed for the killing of James McDonaid. The evidence offered was ruled out under defendant's objection. The first branch of the case will be finished by Tuesday or Wednesday, and the issue of insanity will be decided before the main issue will be tried. If the jury find Revoir insane at the time of the shooting, the case will be the time of the shooting, the case will be tried on its merits in order to determine the aegree of the crime, and in that would have nothing to do with Wing. Tommy Newlon's affidavit affirms that he had heard certain jurors assert that Norris' evidence "cut no figure," and event it will probably last for anothe week.

Thomas Wing is said to have remarked, as detailed in the affidavit of E. H. Hall, while the trial was in progress, that Adamson's chances for escape were very slim.
