There are times when it is a good thing to have been an acrobat or an athlete student in one's youth, and it may have occurred so to him as he ran panting along Third street and yelled in a fog-horn voice at the motor that had just started and was about to align the fog-horn voice at the motor that had just started and was about to climb the hill. He was making fair speed, and might have succeeded in catching it had not a bonneted damsel rushed in front of him with a War Cry held aloft and bagged him War Cry held aloft and begged him to purchase. Only a moment did he paused, and brushing her aside, he rushed on and yelled frantically after the now disappearing train; and the conductor, who was flirting with a young lady in a window of the postoffice, saw him not, and he followed the

It has just dawned upon the minds of some people that when the police cou-mission made a sweeping reduction of $5 from the monthly salaries of the po-licemen the city was not benefited. Two new detectives at $95 per month each, and a court interpreter whose services will probably not be required more than once in a year, more than eat up the amount supposed to have been saved. This is the kind of retrenchment that the people of Minneapolis are accustomed to have thrust upon them by the only retrenchment and reform administration in the business.

Building Trades Will Make a Determined Fight for Eight Hours.

A. J. Blethen Will Not Compromise on the City Printing.

Rev. Sample Expounds the Single Tax Theory to a Great Crowd.

Judge Emery Imposes the Usual Penalties on the Prostitutes.

It is more than likely that May 1 will see a most determined effort made in Minneapolis, on the part of building trades especially, to establish eight hours as a day's work. Three years ago a half-hearted attempt was made by labor organizations, and, although the carpenters struck, and were encouraged to a greater or less extent by other trade organizations, nothing was accomplished besides causing a vexations delay to contractors, and considerable privation to the men who voluntarily deprived The show bill printer is not usually a poet, but he certainly, in his treatment of men and things, enjoys the license which is supposed to be the exclusive property of the wooer of the muses. As an example of overworked poetic license, take the big posters which reveal to the vulgar throng the exciting scenes of the thrilling war drama now being presented at a local theater. On the gaily decorated billboards a supposed daughter of the South, in a crimson daughter of the South, in a crimson dress, is saving a fallen Union officer from the fury of the Confederates. An Irish captain and a Dutch lieutenant in the federal uniform are rushing to the rescue, while a fac-simile of the traditional Uncle Tom, with bared head, Prince Albert eoat and patent-leather boots, is at the head of a band of slaves armed with pitchforks, bowie-knives and convict shirts, evidently bent on the same errand as the European feder the Republicans carried almost their entire city ticket, and put in men as aldermen who quickly rescinded the eight-hour law, although the day's work system has been practically allowed to stand.

The labor organizations, since they received their back-set, bave been determined not only to regain lost ground, but to take a very dealines they for termined not only to regain lost ground, but to take a very decisive step forward. This time they have gone to work systematically, and contractors and others who employ building trades will find they must this time do battle with an organized army instead of scattered detachment. The eight-hour league has been formed, and has been steadily growing to stalwart proportions. Besides taking in members from the various trades, it has been raising funds in anticipation of the support that will be needed for the movement when the time comes. The 22d of this month there is to be a mass meeting under the auspices of the meeting under the auspices of the league, to be followed by weekly open meetings, at which the desirability of meetings, at which the desirability of curtailing the day of labor, and making it uniformly eight hours, will be discussed, and the agitation in this and other ways will be continued. Further still, many of the Minneapolis building trades have affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, which is now estimated to have a membership of 750,000, and has raised by assessment over $1,000,000 to be expended in supporting those who are compelled to porting those who are compelled to strike.

The work of organizing among the building trades, too, has been pushed very energetically. The Stonecutters' union boasts that every good workman in the city can be found in its ranks. This union is the strongest in the city, and has already secured the coveted concession. The stonemasons have the large majority of the craft in their union. The plasterers claim to have 300 men in their organization, and, if this is true, there are very few penters are the weakest, as usual, but extraordinary efforts will be put forth this time to have them as thoroughly or-ganized as is possible, and to back them ganized as is possible, and to back them up.

The demand will not be made that ten hours' pay shall be given for eight hours work. The men will consent to be paid by the hour at the same wages they have been receiving and will at first only insist upon not working over eight hours, although a raise of wages is, doubtless, to be contended for ultimately. Stonecutters are at present getting 50 cents cutters are at present getting 50 cents an hour, and are working eight hours. Stonemasons are making from $2.75 to $3.25 a day, and are working nine hours generally. Bricklayers are getting 40 cents an hour; plumbers, 30 to 40 cents; painters, 30 to 40 cents, and are working nine hours. The carpenters and plaster-ers are working ten hours, the former receiving from $2 to $2.75 and the latter $2.75 as the rule.

WILL NOT COMPROMISE.

A, J. Blethen Will Stick Up for His Rights.

A. J. Blethen says he will not accept City Attorney Russell's "compromise" for the city printing. Mr. Blethen claimed that he was simply the trustee of the city, without pay, and as such had the custody of the printed copies of had the custody of the printed copies of the proceedings of the council which were destroyed in the Tribune fire. City Attorney Russelt, however, decided that Mr. Blethen's contract called for a certain number of bound copies of the proceedings, and that he will have to furnish them, but he suggested to the committee on printing that, inasmuch as it would cost about $1,200 to reproduce the work destroyed, the city might it would cost about $1,200 to reproduce the work destroyed, the city might "compromise," and allow Mr. Blethen $300 for the work. Now, Mr. Blethen says that he is either responsible for the entire loss or not any. He emphatically declares that he is not asking charity at the hands of the city attorney or the city council, and he says he will not accept the money, but that he will go ahead and do the work over again. When the fact is known that the work had already been delivered and will go ahead and do the work over again. When the fact is known that the work had already been delivered and the city had paid for it, but the sheets were left in the vaults in the Tribune building by the city clerk as a matter of convenience, the stand taken by Mr. Blethen when the compromise was proposed will strike most men as both manly and business-like. In support of the stand he has taken Mr. Blethen asserts that when the late Selah Matthews was the city clerk the Tribune did the city printing. Mr. Matthews had the sheets taken as fast as they were printed and paid for to the city hall and placed in the vaults. City Clerk Haney, like most people, supposed the Tribune building to be perfectly safe and as a matter of convenience had the sheets stored there, but Mr. Blethen had presented his bill and received his money before the fire.

REV. SAMPLE TALKS.

He Expounds the Single Tax Theory to a Large Audience.

Rev. S. W. Sample, of the All Souls' church, addressed a large and enthusi-astic meeting of the single-tax theorists at the West hotel last evenin g. chosing for his theme: "The Moral Aspect o the Single Tax Theory." During the antagonistic to all capital. He looked upon the single tax idea as the only correct way of raising money by taxation, but at the same time he did not wish to be understood as representing any political party, or any one set of men. He simply represented himself and his own convictions, which, after considerable study, he was able to prove, to the satisfaction of himself, were right. He looked upon the single tax as a panacea for almost all the evils of the day, and asserted that if all the ideals could be materialized the millenium would be just around the corner. The single tax was the first step in the right direction of reform, and while changes had to be made in the present system of taxation there was but one way to bring them about. The first was by education, and after the people had been educated, the necessary legislation would naturally follow. He was of the opinion that if the single tax was adopted in Minnesota the people would be better both morally, socially and financially.

The cost of the building and machinery will exceed $10,000, but this is only a starter for the amount of money to be expended, as it is Mr. Bousfield's intention to built homes about the factory for the accommodation of the workmen, and this will necessitate the outlay of many more thousands of dollars.

THEY VIOLATED THE LAW,

And Judge Emery Imposed the Usual Penalties. The system of illegally licensing the houses of prostitution which was inaugurated some time ago by the present God-like retrenchment and reform Republican administration has not yet been abandoned, although the ministers have preached against it, and fairminded men and cranks have joined hands in condemning a system which is not only illegal, but which has brought odium upon the fair name of Minneapolis. Yesterday the regular monthly installment of the license was due and Minneapolis. Yesterday the regular monthly installment of the license was due, and Minnie O'Dell paid a "fine" of $60; Bertie Berts, $75; Hattie Brush, $75; Joste Emerson, $65, and Nettie Connolly, $75, for the privilege of carrying on their business without police interference for the next thirty days. William Bock, the young man who was shot by William Bosse in North Minneapolis on New Year's night, was one of the trio who were arrested by Sergeant Norman and Officers Smith and Yost at Shingle creek on Monday night for the alleged larceny of two tons of iron bridge bolts and stays which belonged to the "Soo" road. For some reason the police kept the fact that Bock was the "other man" a secret, and they informed the reporters that Albert Ryan and William Bowen had stolen the iron, and that the "other man"

ers that Albert Ryan and William Bowen had stolen the iron, and that the "other man" didn't have anything to do with it, but was simply sent by his employer, who was said to be a liveryman on Twenty-third avenue north, to get the sleigh when the other two had abandoned it at Shingle creek. When Bock was shot it was claimed that he was a very exemplary young man, and the police tried to discredit the story told by Bosse that he had been robbed by Bock and thal Bock was about to assault him with a slingshot when he fired the shot in self-defense. The three defendants were arraigned on the charge of grand larceny and their examination was set for this afternoon. Frank Delany was before the court on the charge of yagrancy. this afternoon. Frank Delany was before the court on the charge of vagrancy. Frank is a poor specimen of the Sioux tribe who has several times been employed at the city rockpile. He is the son of the woman who is known as "Indian Kennedy," who is now serving a term at Shingle creek. Frank was sent up for sixty days, and advised to keep away from Minneapolis when he gets out. The case of Mary Laing, of 107 First avenue south, who is charged with keeping a house of ill fame, was called up for trial yesterday, and after part of the testimony had been heard it was continued until to-morrow.

FATHER AND SON.

Their Tributations Aired in Judge Lochren's Court,

William Myers, a gray-haired Milesian, appeared in Judge Lochren's court yesterday as plaintiff in a suit against his son, William Myers Jr., and his son's wife. In 1884 the old gentleman deeded a house and lot in East Minneapolis to a nouse and lot in East Minneapolis to the son. Part of the agreement was that the old man should be supported by young William. He now alleges that his son has failed to provide suffi-cient food for him and his blind daugh-ter, and that he has frequently been ill-treated by the same son. For these rea-sons he asks that the deed be vacated and that he he declared the owner of and that he be declared the owner of the property.

Young William admits the transfer of consations made by his aged father. He asserts that the old gentleman pos-sesses a vicious and quarrelsome dis-position, and furthermore is wont to dally with the flowing bowl more than is conducive to sobriety, temperance and geniality. He says that William, Sr., was accustomed to abuse the mother of the defendant and all other members of the family. On the stand, he related that once the old man came home, not intoxicated, but fairly well illuminated from the use of firewater, and that, after calling his son's domicile a place of ill-repute, he damanded in a loud trenchant voice why the core loud, trenchant voice. why the aforesaid son did not put him out. When the son stated that no one wanted to put him out, the old man vigorously asserted that he wanted to be put out. William, Jr., further alleges that his two brothers, who have slothful and intemperate habits, while he himself has always been sober and industrious, have always been sober and industrious, have been quartered upon him much against his will through the influence of the old man. The case was not finished. During the recital of the foregoing testimony, the plaintiff rubbed his partially bald head, and occasionally gave vent to sounds which seemed to indicate that the son's disclosure of a father's little folbles in the presence of strangers was not his idea of filial duty.

Second avenue south. When it was exhibited in New York some months ago, just after its arrival from Paris, the New York Graphic said of it:

"The temptation of man by woman has always been a favorable subject with the artists of the world. The charms of women are so all-powerful that it has been conceded for all ages that man can face nothing more seductive than the batteries of her lips and eyes and the embrace of her yielding arms. This thought forms the subject of a remarkable French work of art now on private exhibition work of art now on private exhibition in this city. It is nothing more nor less than a superb scene in which a priest, out of the phantasmagoria of his visions and dreams, sees rising before his astonished sight a woman with tender placed up from the trade. astonished sight a woman with tender, pleading face, eyes that melt to love and lips hungering for kisses. Soft arms beckon to him and bid him yield to present happiness. Like nearly all of the modern classical French paintings, in the treatment of the female form it is unsurpassable. Woman never received greater tribute than she does to-day from the brush of French artists, and 'Le Renoncement' is a remarkable instance in proof of it."

ANOTHER FOR MINNEAPOLIS. A Large Wooden Ware Factory to be Built.

E. J. Bousfield, a manufacturer of wooden ware, who has extensive works in Cleveland, O., and Bay City, Mich., has made all the preliminary arange-ments for establishing a factory in Minneapolis. The site has been purchased on Marshall avenue, near Twenty-ninth on Marshall avenue, near Twenty-ninth avenue northeast, and the plans for a large brick factory are well on toward completion. The plans are for a structure 64x200 feet, two stories high and practically fireproof. The new yenture will employ in the neighborhood of 800 men from the start, and the capacity will be increased as fast as the business warrants it. In addition to the many more thousands of dollars.

The new concern has come to Minneapolis of its own accord, selecting its site from among many cities, as the best field for manufactures of its kind. No aid was asked from the city in the way of bonds, and the land was purchased outright, with no hint as to the use it was to be put to. It is hoped that the goods turned out by the new factory will be used entensively in the Northwest, and Mr. Bousfield even expects to ship to Chicago and the South, as he is certain that from the advantages given by Minneapolis, he can be able to furnish the goods at a price and quality to compete with the goods of any factory of its kind in the country.

THEIR NEW ORGAN.

The Inaugural Concert at the Park Avenue Congregational. The inaugural concert at the Park Avenue Congregational church last evening was as much of a success as even the most interested parties could have desired. The large organ, but recently completed, gave forth stirring melody under the skillful touch of Frederic Archer, and the congregation have cause to feel proud over the acquisition of their elegant musical instrument. Mr. Archer is a brilliant musician, and knows how to bring out the slightest notes with a clearness that shows his familiarity with the instrument. In the solo which he had himself improvised from popular hymn tunes, he was especially appreciated, probably from the fact that the audience was more familiar with them than with Wagner's overture to Tannhauser, which he played with grand expression. Miss Nettle Dunn's solo, "With Verdure Clad," was given in a pleasing manner, and her duet, "Graceful Conceit," with G. W. Ferguson, was well received. Miss Archer's recitation, "The Legend of the Organ Builder," was appropriate to the occasion and was well rendered. The second concert occurs this evening with a more elaborate and entire change of programme. cently completed, gave forth stirring elaborate and entire change of pro-

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

The commissioners appointed to assess the damages from the proposed vacatting of a small strip of ground, necessitated by the extension of Terith street to Hennepin avenue, met yesterday. They also had under consideration the proposed opening of Humboldt avenue from Plymouth to Sixth avenue morth. A HORSE WHO CAN TALK!

Everybody has heard of a "horse laugh," but who has ever seen an equine gifted with the power of speech? Such an animal would be pronounced a miracle; but so would the telegraph and the telephone a hundred years ago. Why, even very recently a cure for consumption, which is universally a cknowledged to be scrotula affecting the lungs, would have been looked upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it, if taken in time and given a fair trial. This world-renowned remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have fail. Thousands gratefully testify to this. It is the most potent tonic, or strength-restorer, alterative, or blood-cleauser and nutritive, or fiesh-builder, known to medical science. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh in the Head, and all Lingering Coughs, it is an unequaled remedy. In derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels, as Indigestion, or Dyspepsia, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Chronic Diarrhea, and kindred aliments, it is a sovereign remedy.
