A GREAT QUARTETTE.

The New Additions to the Minneapolis Base Ball Team of 1890.

Four Players Who Are Expected to Do Wonderful Diamond Work.

Minneapolis Cranks Feel That They Have a Pennant Winner Sure.

How the Flyers Ran Yesterday and Tips for the Morrow.

The additions recently made to the personnel of the Minneapolis base ball team have caused the heart of the average local crank to swell within his bosom, and when he glances over the make-up of the team, he has visions of a pennant at last for the Flour City. Nor is his pride in the team entirely without foundation. Everybody that knows anything about base ball is aware how well the team played toward the latter part of last season, and how nobly the men pulled the fortunes of the nobly the men pulled the fortunes of the club out of the mire into which a wretched beginning had plunged it, into a position well toward the front. Even with the team with which Minneapolis finished last season, local patrons would be satisfied that they had cause to expect much in the way of victories, but with the improvements that have lately been made, there can be no causs for further doubt but what Minneapolis will start out with one of the best teams in the Western league for the struggle of 1890.

One of the most notable additions to the team, and one that helps it out in at least two ways, is the accession of John E. Carroll, formerly of the St. Paul team. He was first seen by Northwestern audiences in 1884, when he was secured by the St. Paul management from the Union Pacifics, where he had been deline approximately and the part of the the Union Pacifics, where he had been doing phenomenal work. In St. Paul he made a great hit, and as his fine work, both at the bat and on the bases, pulled many a victory from the grasp of the opposing team, he was at once dubbed Mascot Carroll by the bleachers which pame churg to him until he ers, which name clung to him until he went with Buffalo in 1885. Later in the same season he played with Cleveland. In 1886 he played with Utica, and was again signed by Cleveland in '87. Early in the season he fractured two of his ribs in sliding to a base and was released. in sliding to a base, and was released, the management thinking his useful days were over. In this they were mistaking, for he became perfectly fit again, and was signed by St. Paul again in '88, where he also maished the search search will contain the again, and was signed by St. Paul again in '88, where he also indished the season of '89. Carroll will captain the team, and in that capacity he is acknowledged to be the most heady man in the association. He is one of the most tricky and showy base runners in the country, and an excellent coacher.

One of the most valuable additions to all the men in his position hustling to keep abreast with him, is Catcher George Meyers, who played with Indianapolis last season. He began his base ball career with Port Huron, in '83, one of the most formidable independent teams in the country. In '84 and '85 he played with Buffalo. In 1886 he caught for the St. Louis team, the year it was a memwith Buffalo. In 1886 he caught for the St. Louis team, the year it was a member of the National league. When the team disbanded, he was transferred to Indianapolis, where he played until the latter part of 1889. He has always been a steady man behind the bat, and while with Indianapolis caught Boyle's speedy delivery. It is likely that he will pair off with Duke, and together they should form an almost invincible battery. He is a fair batsman, obtaining an average of 194 in the National league last season.

last season.

Harry O'Day, in the opinion of as good a judge of ball players as Comiskey, was the star player of the California league. He played the position of second base, and covered a wide amount of territory, making but thirty-five errors the entire season, and leading the league in his position. He is an excellent batsman. He is also an excellent base runner and uses good judg-ment, making sixty-five runs in seventy-five games last season. He will play at short or third base for the local team. short or third base for the local team.

John Ryn played a few games with the local team at the close of last season, where he demonstrated the fact that he is a sure batsman, and a stalwart guardian of the initial bag. In '84 Ryn first came into prominence as a catcher in the Ohio state league, where mute battery of Dundon and Ryn. In 25 Ryn retired from base ball, but in 26 the fever took him again and he joined the Sandusky team, as a first baseman, with which team he remained one through '87. In '88 he played with Lima, O., and last season with Canton, O., where he was second in batting, being led only by O'Connor, of Springfield. That he is a good base ranner is shown by the fact that in 102 games played he made 116 runs for his team. In his position at first base, he was only beaten by eight points from leading the tristate league in fielding.

With the addition of this valuable playing talent to the men of well known worth who have been signed from the team of last season. Minneapolis ball patrons have cause to feel that they may be allowed to take a certain amount of pride in the body of men who will step into the diamond on April 17, and endeavor to wipe up a small section of the earth with the representatives of Beertown, who will meet them there in the first regular game of the season.

GROWING ON HUMAN CLAY.

Evergreens Sprouting From the Body of Abolitionist Brown. FORT ATKINSON, Wis., March 28.-A burial casket turned into an herbage pot and scores of evergreens growing from the human clay contained in it. Phis is what was four ere vesterd when the grave of Thurlow Weed Brown, the noted abolitionist and temperance leader of twenty years ago, was opened. For some time Mrs. Brown, widow of the temperance editor, has endeavored to dispose of the old homestead, a place of rare natural beauty, stead, a place of rare natural beauty, and possessing a magnificent lawn, shaded by tall evergreens and other trees planted by Mr. Brown himself nearly a half century ago in a beautiful oak opening. Owing to the beauty of the home and the intense bitterness against him outside of it, by reason of his advacery of prohibition he son of his advocacy of prohibition, he chose the grove as his burial spot and with him were buried three children. with him were buried three children. But through an uncanny superstition, the presence of the bodies has thus far prevented any sale of the property, and yesterday the four were exhumed for burial in one of the cemeteries. The bodies were found to be in a remarkably good state of preservation, and many people gathered to look at them. After twenty-two years of burial the face of Brown was in nearly its natural condition. The hair showed its parting, the clothes were intact, but more curious than all, the little evergreens he loyed so well had pushed through the lid of his coffin, and for four years had ladened the air with sweetness transformed from his inert clay. In fact, the body of the famous agitator had become largly a mass of rootlets.

The Alton Gives Notice of a Proposed Reduction. CHICAGO, March 28 .- The Chicago & Alton road has given notice of a proposed reduction in the rate on lumber to 10 cents a hundred pounds to Kansas City. The present rate is 13 cents. The Alton's notice will be considered at the meeting of the Western Freight association next week.

FOR NINETY-NINE YEARS.

The Wisconsin Central Leased by the Northern Pacific. NEW YORK, March 28.-David H. Wegg, of Milwaukee, attorney for the Wisconsin Central Railroad company, has been here several days completing arrangements for the transfer of the Wisconsin Central to the Northern Wisconsin Central to the Northern Pacific. The papers have been prepared and submitted to representatives of both companies, and have been approved by them. On Tuesday of next week the board of trustees of the Northern Pacific will meet and ratify the agreement, and the Wisconsin lines will immediately thereafter be turned over to the Villard people. While it has been known for a long time that a combination was being arranged between the two roads, and a union of interests to a certain extent had been brought about, the full extent of the deal contemplated has not been made public until this time. A gentleman who says he received his information from Mr. Wegg, states that the Wisconsin Central has practically been leased by the Northern Pacific rail way company for a term of ninety-nine was imparted. company for a term of ninety-nine years. This information was imparted years. This information was imparted by Mr. Wegg, it is said, during a re-cent conversation at the Murray Hill hotel, where the Milwaukee attorney is stopping, and coming from the source it does, Can Be Relied Upon. The recent changes in the Wisconsin Central management and directory were made in the direction of the absorption of the Central by the Northern Pacific of the Central by the Northern Pacific. The Wisconsin Central was incorporated under the laws of the state of Wisconsin, in 1887. This corporation was organized to acquire full posession of the lines known as the Wisconsin Central associated lines. This association constituted a continuous system of railroad, connecting St. Paul and Ashland, via Abbottsford and Doty's island, with Milwaukee and Chicago and occupied the Chicago & Great cago, and occupied the Chicago & Great Western terminals in Chicago. The dif-ferent railroads which composed it had been gradually constructed during the past twenty years, and together formed the natural trunk line for the Northern Pacific railroad from its termini at Ash-land and St. Paul to Chicago. Their possession and control of these terminals in Chicago enabled them to offer the Northern Pacific Railroad company such terminal accommodation in Chicago that Northern Pacific Railroad company such terminal accommodation in Chicago that the Northern Pacific company could deal first-hand on advantageous terms with all Eastern and Southern railroads. The Wisconsin Central associated lines, how-ever, consisted of 'eight independent corporations, running into four states, to arrange satisfactorily with the Northern Pacific, until they had themselves been absorbed into one corporation. To unite these lines, and accomplish this result, the Wisconsin Central company was organized in the summer of 1887. Prior to July, 1888, it had either consolidated into itself, or had become the assignce of permanent had either consolidated into itself, or had become the assignee of permanent leases, or had acquired ownership of all the constituent corporations, excepting the Wisconsin Central railroad proper, which is operated by John A. Stewart and Edwin H. Abbott, trustees in pos-session, and the Milwaukee & Lake Winnebago railroad, which is leased to breast bone, and lodged at the shoulder blade.
